Rent Controls Validity Hearing Set for January 30

Ottawa, Dec. 1.—(CP)—Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret today set Jan. 30 for the Supreme Court of Canada hearing on the validity of federal government rent controls.

The date was fixed at an informal meeting among the chief justice, counsel for three provinces —Quebec, New Brunswick and Manitoba — and property owners and the Attorney-General of Canada. No other provinces were represented.

Chief Justice Rinfret said he believes that a judgment in the case could be handed down before the controls expire March 31.

J. J. MacLeod, an official of the justice department, representing the Attorney-General of Canada, said there may be a change in the wording of the appealing request by Saskatchewan. He obtained leave to file the change before Dec. 15.

Mr. MacLeod said the reference may include the question of whether Saskatchewan's entry into the Dominion field next April was within the jurisdiction of the province.

Ruling is Asked

Question on which the court will be asked for a ruling:

"Are the Wartime Leasehold Regulations, or any one either in whole or in part and if so in what particular, ultra vires Parliament?"

If the court decides they are intra vires, the government will be unable to renew them when they expire March 31, unless each of the provinces still can take them over, or appeal the court decision to the judicial committee of the Privy Council.

Justice Minister Garson already has stated in the Commons that the government will not appeal if the court rules against validity.

FOURTH CLOSING OF YEAR STARTED BY U.S. MINERS

Diggers, Wives and Children Face Bleak Christmas

Pittsburgh, Dec. 1.—(AP)—John L. Lewis' back-to-work orders for idle striking United Mine Workers (Ind.) today threw quick cheers from his hard-pressed diggers.

Lewis' order, backed up by his 500-man policy committee, restated the three-day work week in hard and soft coal mines across the United States starting Monday.

Lewis' order came less than 11 hours after the diggers quit the pits.

The unpredictable mine chieftain initiated the three-day work week last June 30 after the U.M. W. contract was out. The shortened week marked an abrupt departure from the traditional U.M. W. policy of "no contract, no work."

The miners worked a regular five-day week during the truce.

Today's shutdown was complete, throughout the producing states indicated only scattered absenteeism. Some 400,000 soft coal and 16,000 progressive mine workers in Illinois were at work.

The week-end truce official at one minute after midnight. Hundreds of miners in West Virginia, Kentucky, Virginia and Illinois didn't report for the overnight tricks.

While the soft-coal truce expired, there was an indication a sympathy walkout would spread to the U.M.W.'s 80,000 anthracite miners in eastern Pennsylvania. Negotiations for a new anthracite agreement are scheduled to resume in New York Dec. 8.

Lewis has had full soft-coal wage policy committee in New York all week. He's postponed meetings of that group but latest was set for 1^0 a.m. EST today.

Children Sob, Beg Denial on Radio Lewis Shot Santa

Chicago, Dec. 1 (AP)—"Say it isn't true," a dozen crushed children begged the Chicago Sun-Times over the phone Wednesday night.

They had heard NBC commentator Paul Leong reporting on the coal strike picture in Pittsburgh, say:

"John L. Lewis shot Santa Claus. That's what one miner told me today in connection with the coming coal strike."

The newspaper reported them the July gent will be around as hale and hearty as ever Dec. 25.

YUGOSLAV TRIAL OF ACCUSED RUSS SPY RING OPENS

One Suspect Reported To Have Ended Life

By ALEX SINGLETON

Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, Dec. 1 (AP)—Yugoslavia today began the trial of an accused Russian spy ring with the announcement that one of the suspects had committed suicid to escape prosecution.

Ten "white guardists"—Russians who fled to Yugoslavia after the 1918 revolution but took up Soviet citizenship after the last war—were lined up in the dock in front of pistol-toting militiamen.

The defendants are charged with funnelling information to Russia from the Soviet embassy in Belgrade.

The court announced that of the 12 originally scheduled to appear, two were absent. Ladislav Nechibinsky, 70, died in Belgrade's jail cell, the court said, leaving a note denying his guilt and saying all of his activities had been carried out as a Soviet citizen. Another defendant is said to have taken off from Yerzion Air Station.

Clergy of men, huge bulldozers, giant earth-moving machines, a dozen graders and rollers and probably all of the other known earth filling and moving devices are now speeding up the construction of the task of putting this piece of the earth and concrete through the swamp and bush east of the airport.

Obstructions Removed

Land on each side of the runway will be cleared for a distance of 500 feet while obstructions are specified as those 50 feet at either end of the line, strip will be reduced to 300 feet.

One of World's Largest Runways Under Construction At Trenton R.C.A.F. Station

Trenton, Dec. 1 — (Special) — Face of a whole countryside is being transformed by mammoth machines and scores of men pushing to completion what will eventually be one of the largest runways for planes in the world at a cost of approximately $2,000,000.

One year and a half from now work should be finished on the first part of the proposed 10,000-foot runway, covering the Trenton Air Station in a northeasterly, southerly direction and extending another mile or so toward the city of Belleville. The first section of the mammoth runway will measure 6,000 feet in length and 300 feet in width.

Whole Swamps

Whole swamps are being drained and gilled in, knolls are being pushed into the lower areas as workmen push down large wooded areas that dot the new runway site.

Concrete and Asphalt

It will be of asphalt construction, the concrete portion at both ends providing suitable warming-up slabs capable of withstanding the withering heat of jet engines sometimes creating temperatures of 1,000 degrees in 10-minute warm ups. It has been learned that the concentrated blasts from the jets cause ordinary pitch, (asphalt) airstrips to deteriorate in a very short time.

The new airstrip will accommodate the largest commercial aircraft in service in Canada today and in its entirety will handle the biggest engine-driven craft now built. Such craft as the B-36 and fourengined jet bombers will take off from Trenton Air Station.

Procedure in building a flying field runway of similar proportion goes like this: Clear off the top soil and establish a hard rock foundation. Lay 12 inches of asphalt over the solid base for the runway, involving 1,800,000 square feet. This job will take 20 months at the minimum.

Site, Being Graded

At the present time the McFarland Construction Company of Picton is laying the sewers and grading the site for the runway. It will be put down. A storm sewer system, lighting and a service road just east of the station will carry away the drainage from the field and empty into the Bay of Quinte.

It is also estimated that the amount of asphalt and concrete going into the first part of the runway will be sufficient to build another highway the width of Dundas Street, which runs between Trenton and Belleville.

In one huge chunk the amount of cement, gravel and pitch making up the newest airstrip would measure in a pillar 1,000 feet high, 30 feet long and 30 feet wide.

Rest of the Job

Work on the next section of the runway will equal those at Canadian Forces Base, which is also such an important part in the Allies winning of the last war.

CHRISTMAS RUSH HITS COMMONS, 9 BILLS PASSED

Prorogation Before Dec. 10 Not Likely

Ottawa, Dec. 1—(CP)— The Christmas rush is on in parliament.

Speeding the drive to early prorogation, the Commons whipped through nine separate pieces of legislation Wednesday.

The government has set next Saturday as the date on which it hopes to finish the first session of the 21st parliament.

But with 17 items remaining on the order paper, the possibilities of prorogation before Dec. 10—a week later—appear remote.

Having a busy eight hours the Commons passed bills which:

1. Increase the salary of Canada's Chief Justice from $20,000 to $25,000 a year and the salaries of other supreme court justices from $15,000 to $20,000.

2. Reduce from a whole township to a half-township the area in which drought conditions must be general in order to qualify for assistance.

3. Authorize the government to order Canadian ships off the water utilization of forest products in the pulp and paper industry with the provinces for protection, development or reforestation of forest lands, including protection from forest fires, insects and diseases.

4. Provide for federal inspection of fish and marine plants.

Money Refunded

5. Authorize refunds to some half dozen R.C.M.P. members who paid too much into pension funds when they were members of provincial police forces.

6. Grant the government authority to cover deficits of the wholly-owned Canadian National Railways and Trans-Canada Air Lines.

7. Give formal approval to the various excise tax changes announced in the 1949-50 Budget. The changes already are in effect.

8. Increase the over-all amount of money for use by the government — including $10,000,000 development bank to $25,000,000.

9. Incorporate pure-bred livestock record associations in Canada.

Three-Day Week In Hard, Soft Coal Mines Reinstated

Work Days to be First Three Days of Week, Lewis Rules

New York, Dec. 1 — (AP) — John L. Lewis today reinstated the three-day week in hard and soft coal mines across the United States beginning Monday Dec. 5.

The week-week will be Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, as it was all summer.

Lewis announced the making of separate contracts with each contractor.

The policy was approved by the 200-man United Mine Workers Committee which has been standing by here all week and which already a truce to expire at midnight without moving to stop a new walkout.

Final Mandate Next Year Ago

Lewis first mentioned the possibility of invoking a three-day week week at the U. M. W. convention a year ago. At that time the management in the industry should be stabilized "and if there is three days work, there's a three days pay."

"If we are going to starve, we will all starve together," he told 3,000 delegates to that convention in Cleveland.

Last July 1, Lewis dropped his three-day mandate, now in policy by putting the three - day week into operation and extended the old contract.

On Sept. 19 the miners walked out saying they were starting a "no-day work week." Lewis authorized anthracite miners, chiefly in Eastern Pennsylvania, and soft coal miners west of the Mississippi, to return to work but the 320,000 other soft coal miners stayed on strike until Lewis and his policy committee called a truce Nov. 9.

Lewis' strategy is in the form of a compromise because it keeps the coal miners at work before Christmas, reducing the threat of a revolt among the coal diggers who have been working for several states to be grumbling about meagre earnings this year.

Unused Living Quarters Will be Provided Free

Brockville, Dec. 1 (CP)—Unused living quarters in the city's tarry camp here will be provided free for some of the 100 families burned out in the $1,000,000 fire last Sunday, city council decided Wednesday at a two-hour session.

A number of apartments above the destroyed stores were made uninhabitable but 40 residents were quartered in private homes on the day after the fire. For the rest of the winter the army camp will be provided. Cost of water and electricity will be met out of the mayor's fire relief fund.

The relief fund total Wednesday stood at $9,833. Mayor Fred Reynolds said it will have to be been set at $12,000.

Official of the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department arrived Wednesday to begin their inspection of the fire.

Iron Cross May Be Relic of Days Of Champlain

Toronto, Dec. 1 (CP)— Archaeologists on the north end of Penetanguishene Bay and its inlet may be nearer to solving the cross apparently buried for many years under three or five feet of earth, 1½ miles north of Penetanguishene, Simcoe county.

Discovered by Father Jean Marie at Midland, it bears a kinship to one of the explorations by Samuel de Champlain in 1615 and 1616 who have been left there when their peninsula was settled after the war of 1812.

COLONIAL MAY LOSE RIGHT TO FLY IN CANADA

Air Transport Board Orders Company to Appear for Hearing

Ottawa, Dec. 1.—(CP)—Colonial Air Lines of New York, striving to keep Canadian competition from its Montreal-New York air route may have its licence suspended.

The Air Transport Board said Canada today ordered Colonial which has had a 20-year monopoly over the route to appear before a public hearing to be held h next Dec. 12 and to "show cause why the licence should not be cancelled.

The order came as a result of a complaint by Trans-Canada federal court Wednesday allowing a continuance of an injunction restraining the Civil Aeronautics Board of the United States from proceeding with a Trans-Canada Air Lines application.

The application, placed by TCA last September, requests that a licence to compete with Colonial over the New York-Montreal line.

Meanwhile, the matter broke into plain talk to the floor of the Commons. Ross Thatcher (CCF Moose Jaw) charged the United States was trying to "interfere with the friendship of a very friendly country" by failing to carry out the terms of the recent air agreement with Canada.

Surprise Suggestions

He suggested that not only should Colonial's licence be suspended, but that Canada cancel the rights of other American lines at Gander, Nfld.

Must Not Bite Finger of Cop Hunting for Drugs

Toronto, Dec. 1.—(CP)—An appeal court justice ruled Wednesday that a man is not permitted to bite a policeman's finger even if the officer sticks his finger in the man's mouth.

Chief Justice R. S. Robertson dismissed an appeal by Stanley Bowles of Hamilton, convicted Aug. 5 of assaulting ex R.C.M.P. constable Ernest Bailey by biting his finger while the policeman was searching Bowles' mouth for drugs. Constable James Macauley did not find any drugs in the search.

Falls Asleep Reading, Finds House Afire

Windsor, Ont., Dec. 1 — (AP) — A mother awakened from a sleep in her living room Wednesday night to see flames shooting from a coal stove and rushed her six children to safety across the snow in their night clothes.

Mrs. John Wood said she fell asleep while reading. She was awakened by a crackling noise and found the house in a mass of flames.

Firemen brought the blaze under control quickly and the damage was only slight.

MOTHER COMPLAINS SON BEATEN UP BY LARGER BOY

That there is intense rivalry among newsboys in the Canniton Road district, was indicated to police last evening with a complaint from a mother in that area who stated her small son had been beaten up by a larger boy. Then just to make matters worse the larger boy is stated to have stolen ten newspapers from the unfortunate young paper carrier.

An error in price occurred in the Empire Groceteria advertisement last evening when lean minced beef was quoted as 29 cents when the correct price should have been 45 cents.

CORBYVILLE MAN SUFFERS EYE CUT IN CAR ACCIDENT

Mr. George Moorman, 62, of Corbyville who Tuesday morning suffered a nasty cut above his eye when car in which he was riding was in collision with another vehicle, has been discharged from the hospital.

Mr. Moorman was riding in an auto being driven by Miss Rose Roe, when at the corner of Donald and North Park Streets, the car was in collision with a southbound vehicle driven by Chas. W. Tite, 66 North Park Street.

Provincial police who investigated the accident took the injured man to the hospital.

Fireman Will Attend All Christmas Parties

With the rapid approach of the Christmas season when many organizations in the city will be holding Christmas tree concerts for the children, Fire Chief Gerald Vance today urged that the local fire department be notified of all such concerts in order that the danger of fires may be lessened.

The fire chief urged that each organization holding a Christmas tree notify the fire department in advance and a fireman be detailed to attend the concert to see that all safety regulations have been complied with and to guard against possible fire.

This protection will not cost anything to the sponsors of the Christmas concerts it was stated by Fire Chief Vance.

Fall of Lumber Frightens Intruder Away From Home

Neglect of Leslie Lennox, 159 Bleecker Ave., in putting lumber down in the basement with which he had been effecting renovations in the kitchen saved the Lennox house from being entered last night.

During the night Mr. and Mrs. Lennox were awakened by a loud rattling and a few seconds later they looked out the window to see a man running down the street. They later came into the kitchen to find the door had been jimmied.

Mr. Lennox told police that he had been doing some carpenter work in his kitchen the day before and had left some lumber across the doorway. When the would-be intruder opened the door he shoved the lumber to the floor and was apparently frightened away by the noise.

Interest Grows In Murray Twp. Election

Trenton, (Special.) — Interest is mounting in the battle for deputy-reeve of Murray township, as the voters prepare to head for the polls this coming Monday. The fight will be between Art Hayes of Trenton, R.R. 4, and Norman Flindall, of Trenton, R.R. 4, both considered strong men among their own supporters. Hayes has served Murray township as deputy-reeve for the last four years in succession, having been elected by acclamation once and voted to office with sweeping majorities the other times.

Bruce Jandrew was elected by acclamation as reeve of Murray township and will be in the race for the membership of Northumberland and Durham Counties when the office is contested.

Six candidates have entered the field in the councillors contest in Murray and included the incumbent Charlie McCall, Douglas Fox, Hilliard Morrow, Gerald Nichols and Charlie Brown.

Ice Conditions Improve

Skating and iceboat enthusiasts were happy yesterday when they saw rinks being prepared and their snow-covered winter playground into smooth water-covered surfaces.

Up until yesterday the ice on the river and bay had been under a good thickness of snow and winter sport lovers were beginning to wonder if they would have any outdoor pastime in natural surroundings this year.

The local shanty-fishermen were eyeing the thickness of the ice with hopes that they could soon start catching the big ones.

Out at Colonna was another story. Fisherman Leonard Phillips had a number of whitefish nets frozen in and with three men spent most of yesterday chopping them out. Thirteen of the ice at the point on Consecon Bay measured between three and four inches and seemed quite safe for the fishermen recovering the nets.

ART INSTITUTE OF ONTARIO PROPOSED

Toronto, Dec. 1 — (CP)—Establishment of a new organization to be called the Art Institute of Ontario was urged Wednesday by H. C. Child Tries To Swallow Light Bulb

One-year-old Bobby Semark son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Semark, 48 Station Street, is wondering what all the excitement at his house is about. What he doesn't know possibly is that he almost choked to death when he tried to swallow a Christmas tree light bulb.

Bobby's mother had given the baby the light bulb to play with when he tried out his new teeth and bit the end off the bulb which became lodged in his throat.

"He certainly gave me an awful scare," stated Mrs. Semark this morning. "Bobby was blue in the face when I noticed him. I turned him upside down and shook him and carried him to my mother's two doors away. Then my mother shook him and the glass fell out on the floor. I don't want to go through it again."

The youngster was taken to Belleville General Hospital where an X-ray showed a piece of glass still in his stomach. To date, however, the baby seems none the worse for his experience except for a small cut in his mouth. Doctors said he was in no danger.

Sacos on Top Of Major "B" Bowling League

Sacos took over first place in the Major "B" Bowling League at the regular Tuesday night session in the Recreation Alleys when they defeated the Pigeons by five points. They are now several points ahead of the second-place Ontario Intelligencer "Inkspots".

Assault Case Enlarged, Accused Held in Custody

An assault stated to have taken place on the Trenton Air Station late last Saturday night had its sequel in county magistrate's court when two brothers appeared on a charge of assault causing bodily harm. The case was enlarged with the brothers being retained in custody.

According to reports LAC Florian Gagne and his civilian brother, Eddie Gagne, both of Montreal, had brutally assaulted LAC Burnett at the air station the latter suffering loss of an eye and a broken jaw. He was admitted to the air station hospital.

Provincial Police from Belleville later arrested the two Gagne brothers and charged them with assault.

Douglas Rosebush, John Street, South, paid $25 fine and $3 costs in police court during the whirlwind in the Bay of Quinte. Game Inspector Fred McKenzie stated the offence had taken place during the latter part of October.

Two residents, both of Thurlow township, paid $4.50 each for failing to register their dogs.

Balance of the court before Magistrate T. Y. Wills was composed of traffic cases.

9th Anti Tank Defeats ANAF In Darts League

The 9th Anti Tank Regiment RCA took the measure of their cousins, the ANAF Belleville Service Darts League in the weekly matches, defeating the Army, Air Force Veterans by the score of 5-3. The ANAF Vets, however, are still perched on top of the league ladder.

The Brewer's Warehouse team won their first game in a number of starts, turning back the R.C.A.F. Railway Veterans, also by a 7-4 count. In the other match the Pollard Supply Company crew defeated the "Hasty Pees" 7-4.

The ANAF Veterans were hosts to the Kingston branch club and the visitors showed their appreciation of the local club's hospitality by defeating its players 13-7. The local team, however, got their revenge in a post-game exhibition match.

Two teams from Hamilton, Ont., branch of the Army, Navy Veterans in Canada will be the guests of Belleville Branch, No. 201 on Saturday. They will meet two teams from the local club in matches for the ANAF Centralizing Trophy at present held by the Kingston club.

Three players hold the top score in the league of 140. These include Ken Edgecombe, Stan Melbourne and Joe Samain who have performed the feat twice.

THIS OWN NEGLIGENCE BLAMED FOR DEATH

Toronto, Dec. 1 — (CP)—Robert Hardy, 31, electrician, died Nov. 10 at the Toronto Humane Society, "died due to his own negligence," a coroner's jury ruled Wednesday night. Harry was employed by the society to destroy injured and stray dogs. He failed to turn off a switch controlling 1,100 volts when removing a dead animal from the chamber, and when the safety switch failed to work, was electrocuted.

City and District News

MOTHER COMPLAINS SON BEATEN UP BY LARGER BOY

That there is intense rivalry among newsboys in the Cannifton Road district, was indicated to police last evening with a complaint from a mother in that area who stated her small son had been beaten up by a larger boy. When just to make matters worse the larger boy is stated to have stolen ten newspapers from the unfortunate young paper carrier.

NO ELECTION IN WELLINGTON

There will be no municipal election in the village of Wellington this year, Reeve James Clemenson and his entire village council were given acclamations at the nomination meeting held recently.

ERROR IN PRICE

An error in price occurred in the Empire Grocerteria advertisement last evening when lean minced beef was quoted as 29 cents when the correct price should have been 43 cents.

CORBYVILLE MAN SUFFERS EYE CUT IN CAR ACCIDENT

Mr. George Moorman, 63, of Corbyville who Tuesday morning suffered a nasty cut above his eye when the car in which he was riding was in collision with another vehicle, has been discharged from the hospital.

Mr. Moorman was riding in an auto being driven by his son Rose, 206, when at the corner of Donald and North Park Streets, the car was in collision with a southbound vehicle driven by Chas. W. Tice, 68 North Park Street.

Provincial department is investigated the accident took the injured man to the hospital.

Fireman Will Attend All Christmas Parties

With the rapid approach of the Christmas season when many organizations in the city will be holding Christmas tree concerts for the children, Fire Chief Gerald Vance today urged that no special fire department be notified of all such concerts in order that the danger of fires may be lessened.

The fire chief urged that each organization holding a Christmas tree notify the fire department in advance and a fireman attend each of the concerts to see that all safety regulations have been complied with and to guard against possible fire.

This protection will not cost anything to the sponsors of the Christmas concerts it was stated by Fire Chief Vance.

Fall of Lumber Frightens Intruder Away From Home

Neglect of Leslie Lennox, 159 Bleecker Ave., in putting lumber down in the basement with which to build a fence, resulted in excitement in the kitchen eyed the Lennox house from being entered last night.

During the night Mr. and Mrs. Lennox were awakened by a loud rattling and a few seconds later they looked out the window to see a man running down the street. They later came into the kitchen to find the door had been tampered.

Mr. Lennox told police that he had been doing some carpenter work in his kitchen the day before and had left some lumber across the doorway. When the would-be intruder opened the door he shoved the lumber to the floor and was apparently frightened away by the noise.

TRENTON

Interest Grows In Murray Twp. Election

Trenton, (Special) — Interest is mounting in the battle for deputy-reeve of Murray township, as voters prepare to head for the polls this coming Monday. The fight will be between Art Hayes of Trenton, R.R. 4, and Norman Flindall, of Trenton, R.R. 4, both considered strong men among their own supporters. Hayes has served Murray township as deputy-reeve for the last four years in succession, having been elected by acclamation once and voted to office with sweeping majorities the other times.

Bruce Jandrew was elected by acclamation as reeve of Murray township and will be in the race for the wardenship of Northumberland and Durham Counties when the offices is contested.

His acclamation has entered the field in the councillors contest in which seven candidates and include: Charlie McCall, Douglas Fox, Hilliard Morrow, Gerald Nichols and Charlie Brown.

Ice Conditions Improve

Skating and iceboat enthusiasts were happy yesterday when they saw rising temperatures turn their snow-covered winter playground into smooth water-covered surfaces.

Up until yesterday the ice on the river and bay had been under a good thickness of snow and winter sport lovers were beginning to wonder if they would have any outdoor pastime in natural surroundings this year.

The local shanty-fishermen were eyeing the thickness of the ice with hopes that they could soon start catching the big ones.

Out at Consecon it was another story. Fisherman Leonard Phillips had a number of whitefish nets frozen in and with three men spent most of yesterday chopping them out. Thickness of the ice at this point on Consecon Bay measured between three and four inches and was rated quite safe for the fishermen recovering the nets.

ART INSTITUTE OF ONTARIO PROPOSED

Toronto, Dec. 1 — (CP)—Establishment of a new organization to be called the Art Institute of Ontario was urged Wednesday by H. C. Walker, president of the Art Gallery of Toronto, addressing the gallery's annual meeting. Mr. Walker said numerous institutions in Canada, from the Royal Military College at Kingston and large educational institutions down to small village groups, had already expressed enthusiasm for a provincial gallery.

Child Tries To Swallow Light Bulb

One-year-old Bobby Semark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Semark, 28 Station Street, is wondering what all the excitement at his house is about. What he doesn't know possibly is that he almost choked to death when he tried to swallow a Christmas tree light bulb.

Bobby's mother had given the baby the light bulb to play with when he tried out his new teeth and bit the end off the bulb which became lodged in his throat.

"He certainly gave me an awful scare," s'ated Mrs. Semark this morning. "Bobby was blue in the face when I noticed him. I turned him upside down and shook him and carried him to my mother's two doors away. Then my mother shook him and the glass fell out on the floor. I don't want to go through it again."

The youngster was taken to Belleville General Hospital where an X-ray showed a piece of glass still in the stomach. From there, however, the baby seems none the worse for his experience except for a small cut in his mouth. Doctors said he was in no danger.

Sacos on Top Of Major "B" Bowling League

Obituary

MRS. ANNE GRACE DIXON

Following a lengthy illness, Mrs. Anne Grace Dixon, died at her home, 78 Cannifton Road, early this Thursday morning. She was born in Cannifton township in Prince Edward County, 81 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Waldron. Her husband, the late Rev. S. F. Dixon, was a well known minister and she resided in many parts of the immediate district but for the past thirteen years she had resided in this city, where she was well and favorably known and her death will bring regret to a wide circle of friends and immediate relatives.

The late Mrs. Dixon was a member of Bridge Street United Church and took an active interest in all branches when health permitted. Surviving are two sons, J. N. S. Dixon and S. C. Dixon of Toronto, William J. Dixon of this city, two daughters, Mrs. William Wallace of Barrie, Mrs. H. H. Wallace of Iswa and one sister, Mrs. Rollin Wallace of Toronto. Her late husband predeceased her 13 years ago.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, the funeral arrangements will be announced later.

WILLIAM McGREGORY

Funeral for William McGregor-mon of 25 Wilkins Street, Belleville, took place Saturday afternoon with the Rev. Charles A. Perkins of Holloway St. United Church officiating. Burial was in the funeral home and the Belleville Burial Company. Pallbearers were Robert Telford, Frederick Telford, Wilfred Regan, Vincent Liddle, William Liddle and James MacDonald.

SARAH E. MARRIOTT

From the residence of her niece Miss Annie Loomer at 323 Charles Street, Toronto, funeral services of the late Sarah Elizabeth McDermott, widow of John Marriott, took place on Sunday last to St. Mary's Cemetery at Kingston with Father Sullivan officiating graveside. Solemn requiem high mass was sung at St. Michael's Church. Pallbearers were Messrs. Leo Callaghan, Tony Scanlon, Wilfred McDermott and James Lorimer.

ISABEL M. BOOTH (Trenton)

Mrs. Isabel Mabel Booth, 13 South Charles Street, Trenton died in Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday morning after an illness of eight days. She was in her 72rd year.

Born in Trenton, the late Mrs. Booth resided in that town all her life. She was a member of St. George's Anglican Church. Her husband, John W. Booth, one son Gerald, Trenton, two brothers Gordon and Grant Meyers, Trenton and one granddaughter, Mrs. Jack Farrar, Trenton survive.

The funeral was held from the Weaver Funeral Home, Trenton on Saturday December 1st with the Rev. A. S. McConnell, rector of St. George's Church, conducting the service. Bearers were Robert Cretney, Gerald Farrar, Bill Meyers, Harold Meyers, Ernest Almey and James Tait. Interment was made in St. George's Cemetery.

GWENDOLYN MAY RICHARDSON (Trenton)

Following an illness of two weeks duration, Miss Gwendolyn May Richardson, 95 Flim Street, Trenton, died in the East General Hospital, Toronto, on Monday November 28th. She was in her 36th year.

The late Miss Richardson resided in Trenton for the past 15 years and prior to that lived in Belleville. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Richardson of Trenton.

She was employed in Toronto for some time and was a member of King Street United Church.

Surviving are her parents and five brothers, Haig, Douglas, Percy, Ross of Trenton and Gerald of Frankford.

The funeral took place from the Weaver Funeral Home, Trenton, on Thursday, Dec. 1st. The bearers were Alden Richardson, Attie Richardson, Hadley Richardson, Keith Casement, Howard Cooney, Lloyd Cooney and George Arnold. Interment was made in Frankford Cemetery.

DONALD H. VANDERVOORT (Trenton)

The death occurred in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto on Sunday November 27th., of Donald H. Vandervoort, 165 Lorne Avenue, Trenton. He was in his 35th year.

Born in Trenton, the late Mr. Vandervoort resided all his life there. He had been ill a month prior to his death. He was employed with the C.N.R. as an excursionist for the past six years and was a member of King Street United Church.

Surviving are his wife, former Evelyn Fromm, and two sons, David and Douglas and one daughter Patricia. One sister, Mrs. J. McCormack survives.

The funeral took place from the Weaver Funeral Home on Wednesday November 30th with the Rev. C. J. Wilson officiating. The bearers were Messrs. Clinton Jeffery, Boyd Willis, Ernest Longden and Walter Lester. Interment was in Trenton Memorial Cemetery.

MRS. FRANCES EDITH BLUTE

Mrs. Frances Edith Blute of 96 Berkeley Avenue, Toronto, died on Monday at St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, following a lengthy illness. She was born in Belleville, daughter of the late Dr. Deacon and his wife, Margaret Green and before moving to Toronto 12 years ago lived in Frankford. Her husband, Reginald Blute predeceased her 15 years ago.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Stanley Moules and Margaret Blute of Toronto, Helen of Ottawa and Betty of Toronto, and three sons, Edmund Blute of Kingston, Bernard of Toronto-ing and Jack of Toronto. Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. E. D. O'Connor of Marmora and Miss Annie Hogan and brothers Leo and James of Millbridge and Thomas Deacon of Belleville and a member of Corpus Christi Church, Toronto.

The funeral was held on Thursday morning to St. Peter's Cathedral, where requiem high mass was celebrated.

Assault Case Enlarged, Accused Held in Custody

An assault stated to have taken place on the Trenton Air Station late last Saturday night had its sequel in the magistrate's court when two brothers appeared on a charge of assault causing bodily harm. The case was enlarged with the brothers being retained in custody.

According to reports LAC Adrian Gagne and his civilian brother, Eddie Gagne, both of Montreal, had brutally assaulted LAC Barrett at the air station the latter suffering loss of an eye and a broken jaw as a result attended to the air station hospital.

Provincial Police from Belleville interviewed the two Gagne brothers and charged them with assault.

Douglas Rosebush, John Street, South, was fined $25 and costs on a charge of illegally fishing for whitefish in the Bay of Quinte. Game inspector Fred McDonald stated the offence had taken place during the latter part of October.

Two motorists, both of Thurlow township, paid $4.50 each for failing to register their dogs.

Balance of the court before Magistrate F. V. Wills was composed of traffic cases.

NEW YORK

U.S. Steel 24 1-2

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Dec. 1. (CP)—Prices marked up their first gains of the week on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Selected industrials pushed slowly upwards on small advances.

Golds and Base Metals also brightened although trading was very dull. Western Oils were in moderate demand early in the session but soon some downward pressure appeared in mid-session.

Volume for the first three hours was 396,000 shares.

In Industrials International Paper climbed to a new high at 72 1-2 before settling at 72 1-4 up 3-4. Units also featured. Utilities, gaining 3-8 at 15 1-8 in brisk dealings. Steels were brighter and refining oils covered early declines.

Calgary and Edmonton gained 40 cents at $8.10 in a stronger Western Oil list. Anglo-Canadian was well ahead early in the day but lost the advantage as the session continued. Royalite dropped five cents at $9.10.

United Keno Hill, East Sullivan, Golden Manitou, and Quemont brightened in base metals. Upper Canada spotlighted a firmer Junior Gold group, advancing 15 cents at $3.30.

Municipal Candidates Attend Bun Feed at Wharf St. Club; Heckling Enlivens Meeting

Ham-packed with a typical representative citizenry the Wharf Street Debating Club was again the mecca for members, visitors and candidates for municipal offices at the annual "Bun Feed" last night, when a capacity crowd was served out throughout the meeting. There was a considerable combining with straight from the shoulder heckling that can only be found at the Wharf Street Club.

Ex-Mayor George Tice was the first speaker. It was his 20th appearance as a speaker and he appealed to the voters to elect men instead for their high office. He reminisced of the old days and mentioned that the late Jim Jenkins of the Hotel Quinte entertained a civil committee, which included the late Hon. R. B. Bennett and Hon. F. B. Mackin, after the then council had turned down an application for a mere $35 for the Wharf Street.

Alderman J. Allin then addressed the crowd with the theme that he will fight for new industries to be established in Belleville to enable every man to have steady employment. He also stressed the need for a bus service to the lake in Foster Ward. An English pilot formed a flying circle in the city, as the fame of Belleville has spread across the ocean—thanks to the C.P.R.

Jack Trudeau, the other mayoralty candidate, was the next speaker who opened with "an old dog for a hard run". He had much experience as an alderman and his sole reason for putting himself forward for election was the desire to be of service. His whole platform is set out in his printed pamphlet. He thanked the large meeting for the keen interest in municipal affairs.

Bd. of Education Candidates

Then the candidates for the Board of Education took the floor. Mrs. Luther was the first speaker and mentioned that he had three kiddies attending school and the question of education and all that it entails was of vital interest to him. If elected —O.K.—If unlucky this year will come back again next year.

Stuart Robb said it was his first experience at Wharf Street Club, being a newcomer to Belleville. He had no particular platform except that being an engineer, a technical representation would be of utmost value to the Board of Education.

H. L. Sexton asked for re-election as he had four years on the Board and his experience will help.

Fred Symons stated that he was born in Belleville as his father before him and if elected will give of his best.

J. M. Wood mentioned that it was the first time he had appealed to the electorate for office. His background for the Board was that his father was headmaster in an English school for 35 years. He had two sisters in the scholastic profession and he married a school teacher. His abiding interest is the welfare of the children—Canada's greatest asset.

H. C. Wilkin has 40 years in educational work. He has no axe to grind and ill feeling against no one.

George Stokes then briefly addressed the meeting emphasizing the fact that the fame of Belleville had extended beyond the seven seas.

Aldermanic Candidates

W. A. Argue stated his platform if elected would be for increased recreation facilities for the young people and outdoor skating rinks for the kiddies.

Ald. E. O. Butler said he came to the Wharf Street Club for the first time in 1938, has had eight years' experience in council and that he wanted to see something of value for the money spent.

C. (Rusty) Clark said that he had graduated in the school of hard knocks as he worked on construction projects. He promised a good job if elected.

"Count' W. C. Mikel was on his feet spreading his usual witticisms good naturedly countering asides from a heckler "thirty days and ten and two".

Jack Carter is a working man and if elected will represent the working man.

Fred Deacon was born in Belleville and recollected when the Wharf Street Club was formed. He appealed for support although a stranger to municipal work.

R Goodfellow offered himself as a business man, and business methods will be applied if elected.

Fred Graham, President of the flourishing Persimlet Club of Belleville is a young and enthusiastic aspirant for municipal honors. His pet schemes are the Bay front, the Victoria Park and the harbor. If this work is accomplished many more years of stay over in Belleville instead of going on to other places. He thanked the meeting with "cut out and vote—every mother's son of you".

Alderman Charlie Hyde has lived in Belleville all through the war with the boys and has a little family. He attacked the small committee' idea which now obtains in council, and if reelected will attempt to have this system abolished.

McLean Haig said it was 10 years since he had the pleasure of addressing the Wharf Street Club. He had run several times for aldermanic honors in the past and he invited support on his past record.

John Howe's chief plank would be a sewage disposal plant which would clean up the mess in the bay. He would bring his business experience to bear with council if elected.

Sandy Lummiss was brief—"As Foster ward votes—Belleville will vote", was his statement.

Max Mathews obtained rapt attention with the first part of his speech of the evening. He said he had been for years on the Parks Board but he would bring his business ambition to get inside and get things moving for a better Belleville.

Jack McNish said he had but little to say. He was a native of Belleville and appealed for support as a son.

Dr. R. T. Potter stated that if elected he will attempt to serve the people of Belleville where their money goes for municipal affairs.

Bryson Reid said he got a "tiffin" last year—this year he hoped for more "tiffin" in. If elected he will advocate a sane economy in civic affairs.

D. Swan—a new arrival in the city stated that if elected he would do his best—and if unsuccessful he will still like Belleville.

Dr. Scott stressed the point 'no matter how you vote—get out and vote'.

Christophe Leggatt made no mention of the fact that he is a veteran of the African campaign 1914-18 possibly one of the youngest soldiers in First World War. He has business experience in the city and he is known for his activities before coming to Belleville as a result of his experimental duties during the past 15 years he would bring to Belleville a wider outlook on civic affairs.

R. Smith appealed for fair play for all — and all he could say if elected would be 'thanks'.

Robert Smith, a graduate of electrical engineering stated that Belleville was a good place in which to live and to work. His engineering experience would be of much value to the city if elected to council.

Alderman Claude Tice gave an account of his stewardship, and asked for continued support, stating he was in favor of an incinerator saving the credit for installing the question of council but believed it was being kicked around as sewage disposal could be reached on the location of this vital necessity and for which the voters had given their consent. He explained his position on the veterans' housing by stating that these men should have decent homes to live in. He spoke in favor of snow plowing and would be agreeable to the purchase of more equipment for the snow job for all the citizens. The aldermen all in the chairmanship of the Memorial Arena Committee last year, in which nearly $10,800 profit was obtained which was used to decrease the indebtedness of the commission to the corporation. As chairman in charge of the Queen's camp the past two seasons, he showed that it had paid its way and made a profit which was also injected into the general account. Alderman Tice stated that he had little chance of cleaning up the harbor unless a sewage disposal system was installed but that he was not in favor of that unless Foster Ward was also given a sewer system.

The mayor of Foster Ward, Arthur Keegan, gave the club of his best. He was forced to his feet when saying that although a city planning had accomplished much, city planning is the big job for many years to come. In his part, the industrial planning would be of the greatest will be felt on that matter after all claims are in.

Says Teacher's Strapping Caused Welts on Arms

Aurora, Dec. 1 (CP)—A 13-year-old grade eight schoolboy here on Wednesday that a strapping received at school for eating candy caused the black and blue welts on his arms. Dr. Crawford Ross said blood vessels in the boy's arms had been broken.

Frank Bezzer, father of the boy, said he had complained to the school and consulted his lawyer about the alleged strapping.

The boy said he was hit with a strap about two feet long, half an inch wide and made of rubber.

Mr. Bezzer said he has been unable to contact the teacher or the school principal.

Blackmailer Fails To Shake Man's Faith in Justice

San Francisco, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A former labor union racketeer and blackmailers and faith in justice have paid off.

Warned for a 1919 slaying in Detroit, Thomas Karakatsianis came here 33 years ago. He changed his name, married, raised a family, and started what proved to be a successful business.

Everything went well with him until a stranger came and demanded $1,500 to keep quiet about the 33-year-old killing.

Karakatsianis decided he would rather face the music than submit to a blackmailer.

He turned himself over to police. They checked with Detroit. Karakatsianis was wanted all right—for shooting and killing one Mike Hadjopoppulos in a brawl in Detroit.

But Detroit police reported everybody connected with the case—detectives, witnesses and other officials—all are dead.

Consequently the officials declined to bring Karakatsianis back for trial.

Municipal Candidates Attend Bun Feed at Wharf St. Club; Heckling Enlivens Meeting

Ham-packed with a typical representative citizenry the Wharf Street Debating Club was again the mecca for members, visitors and candidates for municipal offices at the annual "Bun Feed" last night, when a capacity crowd was served out throughout the meeting. There was a considerable combining with straight from the shoulder heckling that can only be found at the Wharf Street Club.

Ex-Mayor George Tice was the first speaker. It was his 20th appearance as a speaker and he appealed to the voters to elect men instead for their high office. He reminisced of the old days and mentioned that the late Jim Jenkins of the Hotel Quinte entertained a civil committee, which included the late Hon. R. B. Bennett and Hon. F. B. Mackin, after the then council had turned down an application for a mere $35 for the Wharf Street.

Alderman J. Allin then addressed the crowd with the theme that he will fight for new industries to be established in Belleville to enable every man to have steady employment. He also stressed the need for a bus service to the lake in Foster Ward. An English pilot formed a flying circle in the city, as the fame of Belleville has spread across the ocean—thanks to the C.P.R.

Jack Trudeau, the other mayoralty candidate, was the next speaker who opened with "an old dog for a hard run". He had much experience as an alderman and his sole reason for putting himself forward for election was the desire to be of service. His whole platform is set out in his printed pamphlet. He thanked the large meeting for the keen interest in municipal affairs.

Bd. of Education Candidates

Then the candidates for the Board of Education took the floor. Mrs. Luther was the first speaker and mentioned that he had three kiddies attending school and the question of education and all that it entails was of vital interest to him. If elected —O.K.—If unlucky this year will come back again next year.

Stuart Robb said it was his first experience at Wharf Street Club, being a newcomer to Belleville. He had no particular platform except that being an engineer, a technical representation would be of utmost value to the Board of Education.

H. L. Sexton asked for re-election as he had four years on the Board and his experience will help.

Fred Symons stated that he was born in Belleville as his father before him and if elected will give of his best.

J. M. Wood mentioned that it was the first time he had appealed to the electorate for office. His background for the Board was that his father was headmaster in an English school for 35 years. He had two sisters in the scholastic profession and he married a school teacher. His abiding interest is the welfare of the children—Canada's greatest asset.

H. C. Wilkin has 40 years in educational work. He has no axe to grind and ill feeling against no one.

George Stokes then briefly addressed the meeting emphasizing the fact that the fame of Belleville had extended beyond the seven seas.

Aldermanic Candidates

W. A. Argue stated his platform if elected would be for increased recreation facilities for the young people and outdoor skating rinks for the kiddies.

Ald. E. O. Butler said he came to the Wharf Street Club for the first time in 1938, has had eight years' experience in council and that he wanted to see something of value for the money spent.

C. (Rusty) Clark said that he had graduated in the school of hard knocks as he worked on construction projects. He promised a good job if elected.

"Count' W. C. Mikel was on his feet spreading his usual witticisms good naturedly countering asides from a heckler "thirty days and ten and two".

Jack Carter is a working man and if elected will represent the working man.

Fred Deacon was born in Belleville and recollected when the Wharf Street Club was formed. He appealed for support although a stranger to municipal work.

R Goodfellow offered himself as a business man, and business methods will be applied if elected.

Fred Graham, President of the flourishing Persimlet Club of Belleville is a young and enthusiastic aspirant for municipal honors. His pet schemes are the Bay front, the Victoria Park and the harbor. If this work is accomplished many more years of stay over in Belleville instead of going on to other places. He thanked the meeting with "cut out and vote—every mother's son of you".

Alderman Charlie Hyde has lived in Belleville all through the war with the boys and has a little family. He attacked the small committee' idea which now obtains in council, and if reelected will attempt to have this system abolished.

McLean Haig said it was 10 years since he had the pleasure of addressing the Wharf Street Club. He had run several times for aldermanic honors in the past and he invited support on his past record.

John Howe's chief plank would be a sewage disposal plant which would clean up the mess in the bay. He would bring his business experience to bear with council if elected.

Sandy Lummiss was brief—"As Foster ward votes—Belleville will vote", was his statement.

Max Mathews obtained rapt attention with the first part of his speech of the evening. He said he had been for years on the Parks Board but he would bring his business ambition to get inside and get things moving for a better Belleville.

Jack McNish said he had but little to say. He was a native of Belleville and appealed for support as a son.

Dr. R. T. Potter stated that if elected he will attempt to serve the people of Belleville where their money goes for municipal affairs.

Bryson Reid said he got a "tiffin" last year—this year he hoped for more "tiffin" in. If elected he will advocate a sane economy in civic affairs.

D. Swan—a new arrival in the city stated that if elected he would do his best—and if unsuccessful he will still like Belleville.

Dr. Scott stressed the point 'no matter how you vote—get out and vote'.

Christophe Leggatt made no mention of the fact that he is a veteran of the African campaign 1914-18 possibly one of the youngest soldiers in First World War. He has business experience in the city and he is known for his activities before coming to Belleville as a result of his experimental duties during the past 15 years he would bring to Belleville a wider outlook on civic affairs.

R. Smith appealed for fair play for all — and all he could say if elected would be 'thanks'.

Reds in Italy Fail in Strike To Paralyze State

Rome, Dec. 1 — (AP)—Italy's communists suffered a humiliating defeat today in their attempt to paralyze this country in a 24-hour general strike.

Seven hours after the strike started at 9 A.M. (midnight EST) its effects were scarcely felt. It was much more of a failure than a similar one-day general strike in France last Friday, and the second in a month for the communist-led General Confederation of Labor.

Government spokesmen said the walkout was a failure except in Italy's industrial north, where the chief centres of Italian communist strength.

Even in the communists laid little claim to success. A spokesman for the Confederation admitted that transportation was nearly normal in most cities.

Wednesday the Confederation had appealed to all workers in Italy to join the strike in protest against the death of two farmhands in a clash with police in the south.

The government had denounced the strike call as a "purely political" demonstration staged by the communists.

Observers in Rome said the communist-led unions now claiming some 2,500,000 members. The Confederation once claimed 6,000,000 members, but the membership now is estimated at 1,400,000 less.

Claimants Have Until April 3 To File Suit

Cleveland, Dec. 1. (AP)—Families claiming title to the estates of the owners of the fire-wrecked Ohio Noronle, have until April 3 to file their claims.

Federal Judge Paul Jones, making this ruling today, set April 3 as the date all suits by claimants in other United States Courts. Those claims, along with all future petitions, must be filed in his court.

The Noronic, steamed in the Canada Steamship Lines, Limited, burned Sept. 17 at Toronto, leaving 118 dead.

Last week, the ship's owners asked the court to fix a limit to which the company's liability in the fire to $446,409. A hearing will be held on that matter after all claims are in.

Rare Indian Carving Goes to B.C. Museum

Victoria, B.C. — (CP) —A rare example of Indian carving, the head of Chief James Douglas done in black slate has been turned over to the provincial museum here.

The carving is unusual since it is of a European subject said Dr. Clifford Carl, director of the museum. James Douglas was the first governor of British Columbia.

The statuette is made of Queen Charlotte Islands black slate and was found by a native. But exactly remains a secret of the old carver who is believed to involve the use of fish oil.

TRENTON

Recreation Centre Popular With Growing Number of Residents

Trenton, Dec. 1 (Special) — There will be no fat hockey players or any other persons as far as that is concerned if athletic director Jack Dean and his assistants have occasion to help them.

Director Dean since May 1948 has been telling Trenton men and women alike how to keep their bodies in tip-top condition and at the same time discourage middle age spread, among the over 20 business men and women who make up a portion of his ever-growing school. Three classes of the Trenton police force have been paying careful attention to their figures lately through Mr. Dean's instructions but most of their time is spent learning new holds and brushing up on "Judo" the art of self-defence.

Essex Teuton

Most of Mr. Dean's pupils find that a few hours of exercise a week gives them the break they need from the tension and fever of every day living. Many of them have made new friends and acquaintances by attending the regular weekly sessions.

The young boys' gym classes are held between 7 and 8.30 p.m. Wednesday night each week while the men's athletic activities gather at 8.30 p.m. the same night for organized tumbling, volley-ball and boxing classes. The older learners are usually instructed in "Judo" after the competitions.

Business and married women have their sessions too with emphasis placed on rhythmic exercises and games of volleyball. They meet every Thursday night between 7 and 8.30 p.m.

Swimming Pool Available

Headquarters of the Trenton Recreational Centre is on Dundas Street on the east side of the river where Mr. Dean maintains an office with a room in the back for dry changing. The gymnasium at the high and public schools are used by the calesthenic and games classes while facilities at R.C.A.F. station (Trenton) Camp Borden and all others who want to take swimming privileges on Saturdays.

Director Dean has five assistants, three men and two young women. Constable Bill Westfall is in charge of the boys' gym classes Wednesday night; Bob Constable helps handle swimming classes and Guy Pannetti assists in the gym. Misses June Day and Jean Robertson assist the sport director on ladies' night.

MR. CHURCHILL'S BIRTHDAY

Mr. Winston Churchill's seventy-fifth birthday has not gone unobserved. Millions of people of many races have given thought to the anniversary of the birth of one of the great men of history. He has been called the greatest living Englishman and to that the democratic world agrees. His great range of gifts which have packed his life full of activity in many realms of interest cannot be rivalled by any other figure now before the world. He is one of Britain's great men and one of the world's greatest public men and has created a reputation which will stand the test of ages yet to be as one of the most important figures and leaders in history who came at the crucial time to save democracy.

The democratic world owes him a debt that can never be paid for the services so great a man has been privileged to render are for all time and all ages and will be remembered for centuries. Some men's fame is timeless and others fleeting but there can be no doubt that the great leader who arose at the crucial time in history to be at the helm of affairs in Britain will have an eternal fame which time cannot destroy for it is founded on public service and the richest political blessing which has ever been enjoyed by free people in history, the democratic way of life.

Mr. Churchill reached the fulfilment of the destiny of being one of the great leaders of mankind in his late sixties and seventies and is an example to all men of the age leadership which a man of a lifetime of experience can give in the time of need and danger. For his early life was the preparation which reached such brilliant fulfilment in the leadership he gave the free nations when tyranny, the greatest threat which had faced the world, sought to overcome liberty and the races of mankind.

His tireless labors for the British people and the democracies secure him a place in history as a great free man. The supreme guarantees as well as their elders can have no finer example of the citizen of a democracy than Mr. Churchill whose courage, rare gifts in diplomacy, wide range of accomplishments, his striking oratory and high leadership were destined for one purpose, to give the lead which saved the world in danger's hour. His independence of spirit and his tireless efforts to render service to freedom's cause make him freedom's ideal.

The free world and that world formerly under the dictation of Nazism and then freed by the United Nations owes this great man who is prominent in so many spheres a debt they never can fully pay. Mr. Churchill however is not the man who expects to be paid, for what he achieved in his leadership has brought to him its own great reward in the knowledge that he has given mankind the best that he has been able to summon his great talents to the service of mankind to a very high degree.

As he enters his seventy-sixth year he has the good will and the praise of all free peoples.

ROUND THE WORLD IN A BOAT-CAR

Five men are leaving London, England, on a 32,000 mile sailing-driving cruise, meeting every hazard on land and sea literally "from China to Peru." The name of their craft — a "Duck" (wartime amphibian land-sea craft) — is "Spirit of Churchill." Its leader will be fifty-one-year old Dallas Brierley, and with him will go Nicholas Pagel son of Lady Victor Paget, Michael Harrison the writer, Michael Hobbs, 32, and Douglas Campbell, 19, of Aberdeen who has served in the Navy.

The party plan to drive to Dover, cross the Channel, continue by road to Gibraltar, then over the Straits to North Africa. They will later cross Asia eastwards to China, Japan and the Aleutian Islands whence they will cross to Canada and make their way down to South America.

The longest sea journey will be the 1,100-mile crossing of the South Atlantic, from Natal to Freetown. The "Duck," however, carries enough petrol for about double this journey. It is 32 feet by 8, has a 6-cylinder 20-h.p. engine, but no sails.

In the course of the cruise, expected to last two years, the party hope to meet many world figures, including His Holiness the Pope. The spirit of the great war leader will go with them, for the craft bears a crest representing Churchill's "V" sign and two crossed cigars with a latin motto which means, "Smoke disappears but fame remains."

Ideal beauty is a fugitive which is never located.—Mad. Devigne.

MIDDLE-AGE LOVERS

For years a bachelor he'd stayed,
Seeming of womenfolk afraid,
Whether a matron or a maid.

"It could not be," he'd often said,
"That I'm a man some girl would wed, Prepare my meals and make my bed."

"Although I'm sure it must be bliss,
The joy of marriage I must miss,

To show that he is growing fat
Has lost the hair beneath his hat—

He met a most entrancing lady,
Who knew the art of Cupid well,
And for her lovely charms, he fell.

Though handsome looks and hair have gone,
In love with her, he carries on
As he'd have done at twenty-

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

There is a tremendous lot of construction going on in Canada right now. Steam shovels and bulldozers are on the rampage. The sidewalk superintendents in the country are now number tens of thousands.

I was a sidewalk superintendent yesterday, watching human termites tearing the heart of Toronto out. They are building a subway in an effort to solve the traffic problems. They think if they hide it, the problem will vanish.

A colossal steam shovel was the star performer on Yonge Street. One man ran it, a good-looking man in his early thirties. The cab he got it was mounted on a heavy tractor-treaded base. four large levers stuck up before him, and two pedals by his feet.

How many tons the machine he operated weighed, it would be idle to guess, or even to state. A massive steel arm, with an elbow in it, projected from his cab. On the end of the arm was a fingered steel hand, about a man's width. The hand could pick up a ton of earth, rock or trees in one grab.

It was more like ballet to watch than industry. It was nearer surgery in its precision than construction. That solitary man with his attention fixed on the levers his levers and pedals like an organist. The massive hand swung, elbowed, dipped, as deliberately and effortlessly as you or I might reach for a cube of sugar and drop it into our tea cup. The steel hand extended, opened its massive fingers and sank the talons into the solid earth and rock. The fist closed. The arm lifted. The elbow flexed and swung.

Then the fistful was laid—not dropped—in a truck, without violence, precisely into the waiting truck.

How wonderful the industry that devised such a machine! How remarkable the technical revolution that lies behind so efficient a labor-saving device!

Yes; but the biggest thing of all, bigger than the industry, bigger than the machine, in my views, the conceivers, was that human being sitting at the levers and making it go. He could be you; you would still have the machine. But you would have to go and get another man as good. . . !

Whitehall Notebook:

Miner Values Time Above Money Reason of Absenteeism in Mines

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Dec. 1.—(CP)— Why does a miner stay away from the pit? Is he lazy, like other city people, or is the work so hard he feels justified in acting the part of odd man out?

For generations, private enterprise tried to find the answer. Now, after three years of coal nationalization, Britain's Labor government has put a finger on what it thinks is the biggest reason for absenteeism in the mines.

It's as simple as this: the miner values time above money.

"They used to say the miners had nothing to buy." Fuel Minister Hugh Gaitskell told House of Commons. "What is much more likely is that leisure is regarded by many miners as more valuable than the things they can buy with money."

Beautiful Hovels

Gaitskell linked the question of leisure with a shortage of housing in mining areas.

"You can't expect the miner to want to live in a hovel with a lot of beautiful things," he said. "If he had a new house and all the amenities that go with it, the position would be different."

Gaitskell was speaking in the first full-dress debate on the coal industry since nationalization. He pleaded for a moderate approach to absenteeism, a subject which he said had generated bitterness inside and outside the industry.

In the first place, he said, miners are tired of being singled out for criticism when other people because there is so much statistical information about them. Everything was known about the miners, but everything "is known about other people."

In the second place, absenteeism was common among miners everywhere. It was just as bad in hyperically ally the mining industries of Europe as it was in Britain.

Taking everything into consideration, voluntary absenteeism in British mines wasn't particularly alarming. It was 7.1 per cent in 1945, 8.4 in 1946, 6.4 in 1947, 6.0 in 1948 and 5.5 so far in 1949, Gaitskell Gambles

Gaitskell then took a long gamble. He didn't want to be accused of complacency, however, he said, but it must be remembered that miners had only 10 days' holiday with pay.

"It will not be surprising—I will not put it higher than that—if the industry decides it were time to take a few days more off."

Having made this remarkable statement, there remained about four per cent of voluntary absenteeism which could be justified.

That is the real gap, and that is what we must try to reduce."

Peace Receives Jolt as Result Cominform's Call

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

World peace has received another jolt as the result of the Cominform's call to Communists in 11 countries to step up the sale effort to unseat rebellious Premier Tito of Yugoslavia.

The Cominform — successor to the Comintern, or general staff of world revolution — has already disclosed details of its program. However, foreign diplomatic observers in New York say they have received reports that an "underground" railroad exists sometime between Christmas and Easter.

This scheme is said to call for a revolt in Yugoslavia. That would be followed up by a call from the leaders of the rebellion to help them from diplomatic posts in neighboring Hungary and Romania.

The crossing of guerrilla troops from a foreign country into Yugoslavia obviously would create a terribly explosive situation.

Hector McNeil, British minister of state, discussed in the United Nations Assembly the Cominform's recent Soviet peace-speeches and remarked that the Cominform attack was a "most unusual form of a peace campaign, adding:

"It is more like a war manifesto than a peace manifesto."

Be that as it may, Moscow's anxiety over Tito's defiance is understable. It is a great threat against orthodox Communism which provides that all Red countries surrender their sovereignty to Moscow. That is the basic principal (like scientific, I say this because there are many rugged individualists who were brought up in this school of torture who look askance at the phrase) behind the pooh-pooh of that malarkey and who stop around until they get a physician from a practical enough to let them have what they want.

Now, dear you, I have been talking about skin disease or disorder generally caused by "pollons" absorbed from the bowel because of constipation. I am not talking about skin eruptions caused by the ingestion of drugs. There is no antidote for the latter. Bromide, for instance, if taken internally for some time, will cause a pimply rash which is very distinctive. Other drugs may cause various type of skin disorders.

Then there is the type of skin disorder which is based upon allergy or unusual sensitiveness to certain foods or drugs. In these instances. There can be no dispute that strawberries, or shell-fish or practically any food substance may produce "hives" in individuals sensitive to them. But I am not talking about these with undersized disorders, I am talking about the utter foolishness of the notion that constipation causes skin disorders because of the absorption of "poisons" from the bowel and is "eliminated" through the skin.

As a matter of practicality, to avoid a scientific discussion which would probably bore you, if constipation had anything to do with skin disease nearly everybody in town would be sporting an endless crop of pimples, ulcers and scabs. Now, if you are a glutton for punishment and willing to Sacrifice All in order to dumbfound the world of science and if you have been sporting a persistent skin disease for some time, there is nothing I can do to stop you from embarking on a course of the latest and advertised physics, other than to advise against it. But if you do, I can tell you this in advance. All you will get out of it is—older. Much older.

The treatment of a skin disease is a matter that should be conducted by a physician—not by a bartender. When you read the advertisements and testimonials regarding "Knocks-Scabs," "Pimple-Off" or "Ulcer-Gone" products, which portend to rout the evil by "clearing the poisons from the bowels at the root of the blood," just laugh it off. Remember that the fellow who wrote the ad doesn't know what he's talking about. Qualified physicians do not go for this form of sport. The actualities of life are such that the Rockefeller Foundation for romancing in the field of medical phantasmagoria.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Brushing the Hair

Is it wise-to massage the scalp and thoroughly brush and comb the hair each evening before retiring? (Miss G. W.)

Answer—No. Brush the hair plenty, and massage the scalp too if you like, but the less handling the better. Send three-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope for booklet The Hair and Scalp. It deals with care of the hair, failing hair and hair and scalp disorders. Premature graying of the hair.

Pure Blood and Pimples

Please tell me what impurity is the cause of pimples on the face? (E. W.)

Answer—Purity of the blood or impurities in the system have nothing to do with pimples. Send a stamped self addressed envelope for booklet written for pamphlet Acne—Blackheads and Pimples.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HUCKLEBERRY FINN

My comments about worthwhile books, in these daily talks, have extended over a period of thirty-two years. How much work I am going to write one of these talks about some book or books that may have given me great joy. It may have been years without fifty, a thousand, or more years ago, or just come off the press. I am not a book critic—I am no book critic—just a lover of books.

Now I have read a book by Mark Twain—a world famous one at that—"Huckleberry Finn." The finest tribute to this book ever written, so far as I know, recently appeared in the "Saturday Review of Literature" published by Knopf, New York. It is called "Creed", and this is what Mencken says: "I believe that 'Huckleberry Finn' is one of the supreme masterpieces of the world, that it is the full equal of 'Don Quixote' and 'Robinson Crusoe,' that it is vastly better than 'Tom Sawyer,' 'Treasure Island,' 'Nicholas Nickleby' or 'Tom Jones', I believe that [illegible] (Twain) was the true father of our national literature, the first genuine American writer to draw blood royal."

No higher tribute could be paid to this book. And justly so. I have just read it again, and in fifty minutes, or about that time, I read, Written over fifty years ago, it is as fresh as a morning breeze. It has everything — style romance, adventure, pathos, tragedy, comedy, a touching, and human appeal.

I read five "first sellers", but by a great many best sellers. "Huckleberry Finn" is in the first class. I have read it so long as there is adventure in the veins of a boy. I have read it twice in this book, as well as in so many others that I have lost count. I have read elementals and wrote honestly, discarding falsities. That is why "Huckleberry Finn" will live.

Reading Huckleberry Finn in late life, as I did (I was not almost half-way through my fourth month) makes one take not of youth, renewing its memories, sympathizing with its dreams and enthusiasms, and overlooking all its faults. It's the kind of reading that lights up the soul!

INTERNAL "POISON" NOT THE CAUSE OF SKIN DISEASE

The main theme of the self-anointed experts in that "poison" forms somewhere in the body and is "eliminated" by the skin by a variety of reactions ranging from pimples to the scales of psoriasis The "poison," according to the homespun seers, has its source in the "bowel" where it forms because of fermentation and decomposition of the bowel contents.

There is one fatal flaw in this line of alleged science and that is that the idea is pure hokum. The hokum is fantastic as well. In the first place, the notion that "poison" is absorbed from the bowel, from intestinal contents and distributed to various parts of the body, is merely a notion, nothing else. The second phase of the notion is the idea that the poison gets into the skin and creates pimples, boils, ulcers, eczema and what have you is merely a further build-up of the original hokum.

The idea of "self-poisoning," "autointoxication" or "autointestinal toxemia" due to constipation, is it should be noted, merely

"It is not be surprising—I will not put it higher than that—if the industry decides it were time to take a few days more off."

WEDDINGS

ATKINSON—ADAMSON

Yellow and white chrysanthemums made a lovely background for the wedding of Mary Alma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Adamson, Belleville, and Murray Douglas Atkinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Atkinson, of Bloomfield, which was solemnized in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Saturday, Nov. 26, at 10 a.m., by the Rev. Father Baker.

Sister Mary Bibiana rendered the wedding music and the soloist, Miss Carolyn Forban, sang before the ceremony, "Ave Maria", and during the signing of the register, "Because", and "Panis Angelicus".

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Albert Adamson, wore a charming bridal gown of white satin featuring a bodice of Chantilly lace with matching cap sleeves, and satin, with the lace-panelled skirt ending in a long train. A Dutch cap of lace held in place the French illusion fingertip veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of red American Beauty roses.

Miss Barbara Forban, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Mrs. A. Adamson, was bridesmaid. Both wore similar styles of mauve taffeta with matching bonnets, and carried nosegays of yellow and violet. Emima were deep, mauve velvet streamers.

Mr. Gerald Flurey, of Belleville, was groomsman, and Mr. William Fulton, and Mr. Harry Fry, both of Belleville, were ushers.

At the reception, which was held at the Golden Acres Inn, the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a gown of regal blue crepe, with black accessories, and corsage of peach colored roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in grey crepe, with black accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

For travelling to Montreal by motor, the bride chose a becoming suit of navy gabardine with blue accessories, and topcoat of muskrat. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Peterborough, Kingston and Marmora.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was honored by a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Dorothy Cook, 302, high up and under, a shower tendered by Miss Barbara Forban.

The bride's co-workers of the Hydro Electric presented her with a beautiful bedspread of fine chenille, at the Golden Acres.

Ladies Auxiliary Can. Legion Branch 99 Nominates Officers

Nomination was held in the Green Cross Room last Tuesday for officers for 1950 of the Ladies' Auxiliary Canadian Legion Branch 99, with a good number of members present. Mrs. Jeffs, the president, is retiring for a well earned rest. The officers were returned by acclamation. Mrs. Bradford, re-elected treasurer, Dolder, Standard bearer, and Mrs. Amy Gulliver as chaplain.

The nomination was closed, plans were then made to hold a Christmas tree party for the auxiliary members' children, followed by a dance and buffet luncheon in the evening. Date to be announced later as soon as the arrangements can be made for the hall.

St. Andrew's Guild Sponsors Delightful Bazaar and Tea

St. Andrew's day was most propitious for the bazaar and tea held yesterday afternoon in the basement of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, under the auspices of St. Andrew's Guild for the mild, and springlike weather brought a great concourse of guild members to the enticing booths, and later to the dainty tea.

Mrs. W. M. Barlow, president of the Guild, and Mrs. J. G. Hornyer received the guests and welcomed them into a scene of Venetian loveliness. From the tall ceiling railing above, streamers of white and shaded green flowed down to the booths below, which followed the wall in a gentle curve. Over the doors and on spectacular points, bouqts of evergreens were entwined together and tied with bright red bows.

The booths themselves were gaily decorated, some in red and green, others in white and green with arcs entwined with cedar boughs, interspersed with deep red poinsettias, while one booth, that of the baby wear, was done entirely in softest pink. Across the top of the booth ran a rectangular arch from the centre of which hung a lovely, little pink ballerina doll, there were tiny pink dolls and underneath were waves of the daintiest baby things imaginable.

Little white lambs in white, deep yellow, pink and brown; little white fox fur bonnet and muffs with the matching booties; white stocking cuddley dolls; another brown stocking doll, with a navel button for a nose; a beautiful white silk crepe de chine quilt with intricate smocking done by hand in pink—a dainty dress for some little two-year-old. Baby's gay stocking cats were placidly sitting, looking as if they had just enjoyed a saucer of cream, and watching a pink-eared bunny nibble a quite unconcerned at their unsolicited attention. Above all this animal life, the fancy work booth was Mrs. W. J. MacDonald and her assistants in charge.

Crescent of Evergreens

Over the candy booth ran a crescent of evergreens and red poinsettias, while the valances were loosely swagged in graceful folds meeting in the centre with a huge white bow. Here also was seen a little water-lily baskets in mauve, green, yellow, and pink, filled with all manner of delicious fudge, cocoanut chocolates, and delectable sugar candies; also cakes in fancy shapes with handles, and filled to over-flowing with delicious "goodies", as well as boxes and boxes of various shapes and sizes. In charge of this was Mrs. Ralph Ketcheson, and her assistants who had no idle moments.

Close by and adjoining the candy booth was the apron booth. This booth had for its chief decoration, a pretty Christmas tree, from the arms of which hung two silver, blue and red metallic crepe sweeping down in graceful loops to the corners, and from whose branches, little red teddy bears, pink cradles, and pink babies hung by invisible threads. There were dolls of all kinds, and dressed in different aprapets. While behind on a line, displayed for sale were little coats in blue velvet with matching bonnets; little dressing gown suits in red with black velvet collars and cuffs, and many accessories, and the whole formed a most attractive doll could need. Among the dolls was Wee MacGregor, all in kilts in his tartan, and doubtet, and looking rather peeved because he wouldna get oars' the coat—another reminder that this was St. Andrew's Day. Mrs. C. Burrough's, and her assistants convened this booth, and like the beautiful as the neighboring booths, had no idle moments.

Lovely Linens

The linen booth was a picture in its green and white decorations, with the little Christmas tree at the end. Over the centre of the booth hung an inverted pink umbrella with ruffled edges, from whose tips were suspended little handkerchief umbrellas, and not to be forgotten was the knotted red polkadot handkerchief worn by the Lone Ranger. Beautiful linens were there in abundance; embroidered guest towels with drawn thrill white turkish towels with blue lace edges, and appliqued with deep blue morning glory flowers; lace edged hand crocheted pillow slips; glorified match boxes; warm, cosy green, and red bedroom slippers; tea cosies; tea cloths with cluters of red apples in the corners; pretty green curtain pulls, crocheted wash cloths, and many kinds of tea dish cloths. In charge of this was Mrs. E. Z. Templer and her group of helpers.

Apron Booth Active

The apron booth was aglow with lovely aprons of every design, shape and colour. Some were flowered, and some were done in that of the baby wear, and some were aprons with blue, and aprons without blue; aprons for afternoon teas, and fancy, cheery aprons to start the day off with a smile. Over this corner Mrs. R. Arnott with her assistants, an exceedingly busy group of ladies.

Down still further from the plant booth, the white elephant booth, the home cooking and the confectionery room. The plant booth and white elephant booth were conveened by Mrs. A. Bell, assisted by her group of ladies. All kinds of tiny plants, and others not so tiny, might be purchased here; from the shy little purple and white Africian violets to the sword fern, baby's tears, the floating ivy and leaf, foliage; pink geraniums, pepper plant galore with tiny red peppers; ornate begonias, (Rex and Cleveleyi) Chinese jars; hot pads; Yorkshire individual pudding dishes; and even heather from Bonnie Scotland—lest one might forget the latter. Behind the table piled the iticed baskets of carrots, beets and onions while the ever ready purchasers, and across the piano paraded a troop of white elephants bound for some distant scene.

Hive of Activity

The home cooking booth, convened by Mrs. Ross Bird, and group of assistants was a hive of activity. The cakes and pies, homemade bread, buns, tea biscuits, hermits, tarts, gems, jelly rolls, shortbread, chocolate cakes cakes deep buried in shredded cocoanut... cocoanut loaf cocoanut; angel cakes; loaf cakes, date bread and cookies, no sooner made than they disappear than they were a thing of the past. It was by the way, fortunate one's away with what you had wanted, and only good rearing kept one from reaching over through the mass and taking sight unseen, anything that looked good, for all was so tempting good. The male population of this city should be greatly proud of their culinary helpmates. If not, let them visit just once a home-cooking booth at any bazaar, and not only their eyes, but their mouths will be opened.

The tea room with its tall, white pillars, arched with red bows, and grape-like festoons of silver, red, blue, and gold balls; the gaily dressed waitresses; the mess treas at one end; the windows with their Christmas bags, and red candles; the little quartet tables interspersed throughout; with the tables all in readiness for batting snowman; and the two lovely tea tables, one at the front, and the other at the rear with their tri-lighted white candles in silver holders flanking the gorgeous bowls of white 'mums and red carnations, the silver services and beautiful tea cloths, made a most effective and fitting finale to an attractive bazaar.

Conveners

The convener of the tea room was Mrs. J. Goodfellow, assisted by Mrs. M. Ward; and Mrs. N. Smith. Those who poured for the first half of the afternoon were: Mrs. W. N. Ponton; Mrs. H. Arnott, Mrs. B. Michaud, and Mrs. W. Mantle. Those who presided during the last half were Mrs. C. Templer, Mrs. D. Kane; Mrs. C. Ryan, and Mrs. A. Bell.

Those who served: Mrs. J. Irvine, Mrs. Lloyd, Mrs. C. Taylor, Mrs. A. Perry, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. G. Blue, Mrs. D. Locke, Mrs. F. H. Kelly, Mrs. G. Robertson, Mrs. F. B. Shatfield, Mrs. L. Murphy, Mrs. N. Hallam, Miss Beverley Goodfellow, Mrs. P. G. Townsley, Miss Barlow, Miss Potts, Mrs. Murray, Mrs. G. Trill, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. R. W. Smith.

Those who replenished: Mrs. Maybee, Mrs. McCreary, Mrs. McLean, Mrs. H. Elridge, Mrs. F. McKeown, Mrs. V. Weir and Mrs. A. Hill.

Those assisting in the kitchen: Mrs. D. L. Fleming, Mrs. L. Huddleston, and Mrs. J. Browning.

A lovely bazaar and tea thoughtfully conversed, artistically arranged, and a credit to all who assisted in making it so.

Shapely Town Tweed Suit

By FRUNELLA WOOD

There must be almost as many new tweed suits on hand as there are sheep in Scotland to provide their wool. Most of them are attractive, too, with accent on slim, good lines.

We picked this one to show you, however, because we like especially the shapely sheit of it, the rolling rise of the collar . . . and the fact that its slim skirt is taffeta lined . . . fine for defeating sitting-out bulges. The fabric is dark grey, the buttons are silver.

Christmas Early as Gifts Pile Up For Much Year Children

By MARIENNE IZSAK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York—(CP) — It was a Christmas, partly for children but the others were over 5,000 miles away.

It was the idea of Mrs. Edna Blue, international chairman of the Foster Parents' Plan for War Children, Inc., who gave the party and asked that each guests bring one toy for the children of Europe.

"I never dreamed we'd get this response," said Mrs. Blue. "We sent out only 300 invitations and there are over 800 gifts."

The gifts were piled under a six-foot painting by the young American artist, Robert Lee, depicting the rejuvenation of maimed and crippled children.

Only one thing was there and she was 12-year-old Barbara Nikoli, who, at eight years of age, had witnessed the death of her parents and three years later, during the civil war in Greece, had been hit in the cheek by a mortar shell. The sight of one eye had been lost completely and vision in the other greatly impaired.

Barbara bears little resemblance to the sad orphan, her face scarred and disfigured, who was brought from Greece only a few months ago. Although the shell still covers over one eye and the sight in the other has not been completely restored, she is a normal happy little girl.

Barbara's 'In Love'

With a hair-ribbon in her hair she shows a joyfully beside the piano, swinging one leg and singing: "I'm in love, I'm in love, I'm in love, I'm in love, I'm in love, I'm in love with a wonderful guy".

The foster Parents' Plan for War Children has recently received permission to raise funds in Canada for child relief work in war-stricken areas all over the world.

This plan does not do mass relief but arranges for the "adoption" of an individual child by a person or group, who agrees to contribute $15 a month for at least a year towards the child's support and to correspond with him regularly.

A photograph and case history of the child is sent to the foster parent and the need for personal contact through letter is emphasized, as it is felt sometimes these mean more than food and clothing.

Foster Parents' Plan for War Children was founded in 1937 during the Spanish Civil War to care for children of both sides. It is a non-political, non-sectarian and non-profit organization. Its foundr was Major Langdon-Davies, a British correspondent, who saw the terrible suffering war brought to the children.

Mrs. Edna Blue has been associated with the organization since shortly after its inception in the United States in 1939.

MARIO ... In his distinctive feature about Food... What's Cooking?

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

A bad law created a good dish —roast lamb with mint jelly.

The combination was invented in the 1300's when the English meat supply was abnormally low. In order to conserve the dwindling flocks of lamb, the government decreed that every housewife who served lamb must douse it with bitter vinegar and mint leaves.

The penalty was so good that it has been served continuously for 600 years. The bitter vinegar gave way to pure distilled vinegar. All sorts of combinations were invented. Mint stuffing for lamb stuffing, mint jelly with roast lamb or mutton, mint butter brushed on thick loin lamb chops, dried chopped mint leaves in lamb broth are a few of the evolutions.

You can make your own mint sauce by chopping fresh mint leaves and marinating them in vinegar for several days, or you can buy a bottle of mint sauce.

Chopped fresh mint leaves or mint sauce are both good when served with red currant jelly as a relish for lamb. Merely combine ¼ parts jelly with 1 part mint sauce ,beat slightly and serve cold. Serve it with roast shoulder of lamb, one of the better lamb buys at the present time.

Roast Shoulder of Lamb,
Currant Mint Jelly.

Have the butcher bone and tie a shoulder of lamb for roasting. Remember the meat should be light pink in color, the fat should be white not yellowish.

Mix 1-2 cup flour with 2 teaspoons salt and 1-4 teaspoon black pepper. Rub flour mixture over lamb. Place four pieces in side of meat and insert 4 cut cloves of garlic.

Place meat in a slow oven, 325 degrees, and roast at 40 minutes per pound. If a meat thermometer is used, it should show an internal temperature of 180 degrees when meat is done.

When lamb is half cooked add 1 —cup of water or stock to pan and baste meat several times. Cook lamb until tender. Remove meat from pan, skim off fat, add enough water or stock to make 1 1-2 cups, stir brown drippings in pan and bring to a boil. Season to taste with salt and pepper; add 1 teaspoon butter. This is a thin pan gravy. If a thick gravy is desired, mix 1 tablespoons cornstarch with 4 tablespoons cold water and gradually add to boiling liquid.

To make currant mint jelly, heat together 1 cup currant jelly with 1-2 cup mint sauce.

Do you want a particular recipe, or have you a cooking problem? Write Mario, care this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped, envelope for his reply—Ed.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Home Substitutes for Cosmetics

"So little time!" That seems to be the common cry these days. The oldsters remember when life wasn't a panicky rush. There were delightful hours of leisure. Half days spent at the pulchritudes works, going right through the beauty hopper—facial; body massage, scalp treatment, shampoo, hair-do; manicure. No need of hurrying. The maid would have dinner ready. Not like these days when nothing gets done in the house unless you do it.

You may discover that your beauty supply lacks a few household items.

You are likely to discover, almost any time, that your supply of beautifiers is lacking a few important items. Skin feels rough, and it looks red, and you find that you can't scrape as much as a thimbleful of the fragrant cold cream from the jar. You've got again to get some. Don't worry. Go to the refrigerator, dip out some of the thick rich top cream. It is a perfect substitute. Not as convenient to apply, of course, but it will serve. Or, perhaps there is a tube of toilet vaseline in the medicine cabinet. Nearly all creams contain some of this soothing oil. It has a comforting effect upon a skin that is chapped.

A rough skin cries out for a lubricant, and if it can't have a sweetly fragrant one, will come from a swell-elegant jar, it will be grateful for anything that takes its place.

If you have discolorations on your hands and face, bleaching cream has done a vanishing act, wash them in buttermilk. The acid content will have a pleasing effect. Lemon juice has never outlived its usefulness as an agent for giving clearness to the flesh. In case you have mislaid your nail white pencil, plunge your nails in a cut lemon. The eaves will come out white as snow, no matter how much paring the vegetables, or doing heavy work around the house, has discolored them.

An excellent substitute for a cosmetic astringent is witch hazel. No doubt you'll find a bottle of this refreshing fluid among Pop's toilet treasures and shaving accessories. Apply it with cotton pledgets on a cold skin surface if you are bothered with an oily complexion or enlarged pores.

Egg white serves as an astringent when tissues have softened. Beat to a stiff froth, spread over your face, let it dry. When your face begins to feel as if it were starched, remove the mask with cold water, dry gently, leave with witch hazel. This forms an excellent refreshing treatment after a busy day and when the merry evening looms ahead.

Don't fail to have a hand lotion in the kitchen and bathrooms. Nothing quite takes the place of these semi-liquid, milky preparations. When hands are neglected they may suddenly take on an aged appearance that cannot be overcome in a hurry.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Invitation From Boyfriend's Mother

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My boy friend has invited me to spend Christmas Day with his family who live in a far-off town near here, and he told me that his mother (I have never met her) would write me soon inviting me personally. When I answer her invitation, should I sign my note "Sincerely"? And should I sign only my first name or, my first and last names?

Florance

"Sincerely" is the best complimentary close to use in this circumstance. And sign both your first and last names.

Christening Expenses

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. We have asked two very dear friends of ours, a husband and wife, to be godparents for our baby. We have been told that the godparents give the fee to the pastor after the christening. Should we take this for granted?

2. After the christening we would like to have a party at our house, serving simple refreshments. Please tell me who pays for the food and drinks for this party.

Sue L.

1. No . . . you should certainly not take this for granted, for this fee is not at all the responsibility of the godparents. It is your husband who gives this fee to the pastor, after the christening.

2. And it is you and your husband who are the hosts of the party after the christening, and, as hosts, you pay for all items of the party.

Recalling a Previous Introduction

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I never know what to say when I am introduced to someone whom I distinctly remember having been introduced to before (and even remember the occasion), but the person being introduced does not appear to remember me at all. Should I recall the previous introduction and mention the occasion?

Beth

If the person being introduced seems not to remember you, it's generally the best social technique just to say, "How do you do" . . . and let it go at that. However, if you think there's any point in recalling the previous introduction and the occasion, and if this seems a gracious, not an awkward, thing to do, it's quite correct to do it.

Golden Wedding Dinner

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are giving a dinner to celebrate my parents' Golden Wedding. Should Mother sit at the head of the table, as usual, with Dad opposite her? Where should the priest, who is to be guest of honor, sit? And what about the seating of my sisters and brother (my elder sister and my brother are married)?

J. C.

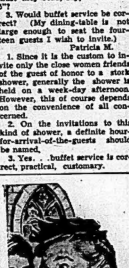
At the wedding anniversary dinner, "the bride and groom" should sit next to each other, as they sat at the original wedding reception . . . and the bride should sit at the right of the "bridegroom". The priest, the guest of honor, should be given the place of honor at your mother's right. The other seating arrangements would be according to your choice . . . but remember that, except for your mother and father, it is not correct to seat husband and wife next to each other.

Stork Shower Plans

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am planning to give a stork shower for a mother-to-be. Would a Sunday afternoon be a proper time?

2. On the invitations can a definite hour be set . . . such as 2 o'clock or 3 o'clock? . . . or must they read, say, "from 2 to 5"?



3. Would buffet service be correct? (My dining-table is not large enough to seat the fourteen guests I wish to invite.)

Patricia M.

1. Since it is the custom to invite only the close women friends of the mother to honor to a stork shower, generally the shower is held on a week-day afternoon. However, this of course depends on the convenience of all concerned.

2. On the invitations to this kind of shower, a definite hour-for-arrival-of-the-guests should be named.

3. Yes . . . buffet service is correct, practical, customary.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She Has an Inferiority Complex.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 15 years-old and have an inferiority complex. I wear glasses, but none of my girl friends does, and this bothers me. When I'm with my friends and we meet boys I make excuses to get away from them. When introduced to a boy, I get tongue-tied and don't know how to make conversation. I don't know many boys, but those I do know never even talk to me after the second meeting.

My parents are planning a party for me for my sixteenth birthday, but I don't want any. We have a finished basement, and I was told I could entertain all my friends down there whenever I wanted to.

Will you please help me, because I would like to meet some boys but am afraid.

B. G.

Dear B.G.:

There are very best ways to become at ease with boys and girls is to have a party, and you would make a great mistake if you passed up this chance your parents are offering to have one on your sixteenth birthday.

You are probably afraid the party will be a flop because you are so self-conscious. You think you are not a good hostess. The way to keep the party from being dull, and to make you forget your self-consciousness, is to have everything so worked out beforehand that there won't be an idle moment. Go to your local library and ask the librarian to pick you out some good books on planning parties. Take them home and study them. Select if she will help you select some good games that will be fun to play. Plan everything out in advance, refreshments and all, and you'll be surprised to find what a load it will take off your mind.

You might also ask two or three of your friends who will be invited to the party to help you help them feel more at home, and suggest some nice boys who might be invited also. They will enjoy doing this and you'll all have more fun.

A party usually goes better, too, if you let the guests help do things that keep it going, particularly when it's time to set out the refreshments. When people help, they feel more at home, and they really enjoy a party more.

Having a party of your own ought to give you a new start toward making and keeping friends. And since you have this basement playroom that you are free to use any time you want to, let the boys and girls know that they are welcome here whenever they want to come. Any girl with such a place at her disposal should be popular in no time.

A Suggestion for the Lad Who Bites His Nails

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I noticed your letter from the boy who bites his nails.

When I was a young man I cured this habit by carrying a nail file in my pocket. Everytime the urge to bite my nails came on, I would file them instead. I soon got over biting them.

J. H. C.

Dear J. H. C.:

Thank you very much for your interest in the lad who was trying to get over this bad nervous habit. It is always very pleasant when a reader takes the trouble to make a suggestion to someone who may be helped by hearing about another's experience.

I hope the boy who was in need of help will see this letter of yours and try out your method of breaking the habit.

CHRISTMAS RUSH

The measure to promote provincial-municipal co-operation on forestry protection received unanimous support and was described by several members as one of the most important bills of legislation considered this session.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, urged that a country - wide air - commando force be established under the measure to enable early action against fires wherever they may break out.

Mr. Drew offered a plan in which the R.C.A.F. would man aircraft from strategically-located bases to patrol forests and to fly the commandoes into forest-fire areas with pumps and other fire-fighting equipment.

Recognizes Obligation

Resources Minister Gibson, sponsor of the bill, said the Federal Government which gained "considerable revenues" from Canada's forest resources recognized an obligation to take a part in conservation.

H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West) suggested an investigation into more efficient types of sawmill equipment to prevent waste. He said about 20 per cent of useable timber is left in the forests every year.

In reply to this suggestion, Mr. Gibson said a study of equipment for small mills will be undertaken next spring.

J. L. Gibson (Ind—Comox-Alberni) urged that penalties be provided under the criminal code for failure to reforest areas where wood was being cut.

Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton) suggested a program of education among the people in forest conservation and protection. Mr. Herridge said such education should be given in public schools to make Canadians conservation conscious.

During T.C.A. and C.N.R. deficit discussion, the House was told that the government does not charge interest on money advanced to the two government-owned companies.

James Sinclair, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, said that if interest was charged on the deficits of C.N.R. and T.C.A., the interest would only fall back on the taxpayers who had to foot the bill in the long run.

Interest Charged

Interest was charged, however, on advances made to the railway and T.C.A. for capital expenditures.

Provisions for the excise tax will include the repeal of tax on cable, telegraph and telephone messages, transportation tickets, seats, berths and other sleeping accommodation. The tax on soft drinks, chocolate bars, candy and chewing gum also was repealed. These and other taxes have been in effect since the budget was first brought down last March.

In discussion of the increases for Supreme Court justices, John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) advocated that "political fitness" should not be one of the qualifications.

The C.C.F. objected to the bill, but did not force it to a vote.

Angus MacInnis (CCF—Vancouver East) said "it is nothing short of scandalous to be raising the Supreme Court justice salaries when the meagre incomes of hundreds of thousands of our people are failing every day.

Provides for Salaries

In addition to salary increases, the bill provides money for salaries for two Ontario appeal judges as a result of recent increase in their number from 14 to 16, and provides for residence of two judges in Moncton, N.B., instead of one as formerly.

The bill providing for federal inspection of fish and marine plants applies only to fish for interprovincial or export shipment, it was explained by J. W. MacNaught, parliamentary assistant to Fisheries Minister Mayhew.

Amendments to the Prairie Farm Assistance Act ran into criticism from all three opposition groups. Hazen Argue (CCF-Assiniboia), Victor Quelch (SC-Acadia) and Mr. Diefenbaker wanted the assistance to be paid on a sectional basis so that all farmers hit hard by drought would be assured of the aid.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner said payment on individual sections would not be in keeping with the idea of the act.

FOURTH CLOSING

It was the wage policy committee that met with Lewis Nov. 9 in Chicago and decided to send the $30,000 and-coal miners east of the Mississippi back to work for three weeks. They had been idle 53 days. Earlier, Lewis directed 20,000 western soft-coal and 80,000 anthracite diggers to go back to work.

President Truman is keeping a close watch on the situation from his vacation retreat in Key West, Fla.

No Time Limit

But even the President's closest advisers can't say how long he may wait before invoking the emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act. Under the act he could obtain an 80-day cooling off period through an injunction, provided a state of national emergency exists.

As of Oct. 1 the U.S. Bureau of Mines said there was a 51-day supply of coal. The long strike ate into that stockpile. Now Lewis appears better prepared to apply pressure on the operators than he has been at any time since last spring.

For months, Lewis has been trying to get a new contract to enforce the demands he's never publicity announced. He's merely said they would add 30 to 35 cents a ton to the cost of coal.

The miners' basic wage is $14.05 for an eight-hour day.

Through a 25-cent-a-ton royalty they finance entirely the cost of $100-a-month pension for retired miners and a health-and-welfare fund.

Some miners say they don't like the idea of quitting work so close to Christmas.

But the diggers especially the veterans, seem to be backing Lewis to the limit.

"Sure, some guys are griping about the strike but mostly they are the younger ones," said Mike Semanick. "Us oldermers know what Lewis has done for us. We still are behind him 100 per cent."

COLONIAL MAY

The U.S., he added, in failing to carry out her end of the agreement, was acting "like the nation she most criticizes, I think we are being kicked around and I don't like it."

If the Air Transport Board approves Colonial's licence, non-stop commercial air flying between Montreal and New York may be halted temporarily.

Northeast Air Lines, however, which has a license to fly from Montreal to Boston and then to New York, is expected to provide a continuing service.

The restraining order, allowed by a Washington federal court Wednesday, is to run until Colonial's appeal against a district court ruling has been heard before the supreme court of the United States. That may take many months.

Tossed Out By Court

Colonial's agreement, tossed out by a district court, is that the T.C.A. application should not be granted on the grounds it was initiated under an unconstitutional agreement.

Colonial referred to the Canada-U.S. bilateral air agreement, signed in Ottawa June 4, which generally provided for expansion of air business by both countries.

Although Colonial's court actions blocked implementation of one part of the agreement, it had no effect on other parts.

The agreement provided for the extension of U.S. air-line rights to use the Gander air port in Newfoundland on trans-Atlantic hops; to open new routes in Western Canada and new Canadian routes across U.S. territory.

Woman at 105 Takes Plane Ride

Montreal, Dec. 1. (CP)—Mrs. Clara Edelstone, 105, arrived at Montreal airport by plane Wednesday night and was met by her 76-year-old daughter, Mrs. Frank Brannon, who was "too old-fashioned" and travelled by train from Chicago to Montreal.

Warmly wrapped in her fur coat and wearing a snappy black hat, the centenarian also was swelcomed by her granddaughter, Mrs. Joseph M. Bernstein of Montreal, and her great-granddaughter, Marlene.

Leaving Chicago at noon Wednesday, where her departure was televised Mrs. Edelstone said she preferred travelling by air "to keep out of smoke."

It was her fifth plane trip here. She came to attend the wedding next Sunday of her great-granddaughter, Marlene, to Jack W. Cohen of Vancouver.

Shortly before she left Chicago her daughter said she did not care to travel by air and would rather go by train. She left in advance and met her mother when her plane landed here.

A Trans-Canada Airlines spokesman said Mrs. Edelstone was probably the oldest passenger carried by T.C.A.

WILL HOLD HONG KONG

Washington, Dec. 1. — (CP) — Field Marshal Sir William Slim, Chief of the Imperial British Staff said Tuesday night that Britain will hold Hong Kong if the Chinese Communists are "foolish enough to attack it." He told a press conference that he does not expect such an attack.

History of Publow Memorial Trophy

The story behind the story behind the Publow Memorial Trophy awarded annually to the cheesemaker having the highest average score for cheese graded in the province of Ontario and his workmanship record came to light lately in an article issued by the Dairy Branch of the Department of Agriculture and reads as follows:

The G. G. Publow Memorial Trophy, donated by his son, Dr. C. A. Publow, Picton, a former cheesemaker and dairy instructor, and for several years assistant Professor of Dairy Industry at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., is to commemorate the memory of his late father, G. G. Publow, who for some 54 years as cheesemaker and chief dairy instructor for eastern Ontario, so devotedly gave of his time and skill in assisting all those under his instruction to improve the quality of cheese.

Born at Clayton, Ontario, 1858, George Graham Publow at an early age worked as a helper in a nearby cheese factory and later managed factories at Benson's Corners and Dondella, Dundas County, Keay's, Bathurst, Scotch Line Union and Riverside factory, Perth.

Instructor 40 Years

After 14 years of factory experience, he spent the next 40 years in instruction work, 1888 to 1903 with the Dairymen's Association of Eastern Ontario and from 1902 with the Ontario Department of Agriculture. He was for some years, during the winter months cheese inspector at the Eastern Dairy School, Kingston. In 1910 he was made superintendent of the Dairy School, but resigned this position after one year, as the duties greatly interfered with his regular instruction work.

At one time he had as high as 1,100 cheese factories under his control. He was a tireless, painstaking and efficient instructor, in Canada and the British Isles. Better factory conditions came into being where he had charge and he guided the industry through its trying times.

Mr. Publow was in charge of making the giant cheese at Perth, which weighed 13 tons, and was shipped to Chicago on a flat car for the World's Fair in the 90's. For this he received a medal from the Chicago World's Fair.

Died in 81st Year

Mr. G. G. Publow died April 28th, 1938, in Kingston General Hospital, after a short illness, in his 81st year, but he will always be affectionately remembered as the loyal friend and teacher, who did much to improve the dairy industry in Canada, especially that of Eastern Ontario.

The above mentioned trophy is open for competition in the Province of Ontario and will be awarded to the cheesemaker obtaining the highest aggregate score as determined by the average score of cheese graded from May 1st to October 31st, inclusive, and workmanship score points as determined by the workmanship reports of the local instructor for the same period, and other qualified judges who may be duly appointed.

To be eligible each contestant must have cheese graded each of the months mentioned.

All cheese made to be graded by government graders during the period of competition.

Presentation of the trophy will be made at the cheesemaker's annual convention of the district in which the winner resides. All contestants must be members of their respective associations.

Trophy to be returned by the winner to the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association by November 1st each year.

The trophy now on display in a store window on Front Street will be presented to the winner at the coming British Empire Dairy Show here on Tuesday night December 6.

MANY SCOTSMEN IN CANADA

Toronto, Dec. 1 — (CP)—After extolling the virtues of Scotsmen at the annual St. Andrew's Society banquet Wednesday night Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways, said "in this happy land of Canada we have found our natural home." Native of Aberdeenshire, Mr. Gordon said many men of Scottish origin had found their place in Canada.

New UEW Union Ready to Function

Philadelphia, Dec. 1. (AP)—In perfect harmony, the 600 delegates to the founding convention of the CIO's United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Union Wednesday began adopting a provisional constitution and pushed toward adjournment.

Absence of discord, almost complete by-passing of social activities and a glued-to-the-seat attention to business have made it possible for the delegates to get their jobs done sooner than expected.

It seems almost certain the session will end today, originally it had been thought the convention might last through Friday.

There was one unavoidable disappointment Wednesday. Navy Secretary Francis P. Matthews had been scheduled to talk, but foggy weather made it impossible for him to fly here from Washington.

But still on the program were addresses by Labor Secretary Maurice Tobin and the Secretary of the Air Force, W. Stuart Symington.

Tobin, in his prepared address, congratulated the union for its anti-communist stand.

The new union came into being early this month when the CIO expelled the United Electrical Workers on charges of Communist domination.

Among chief sections of the provisional constitution yet to be adopted are those dealing with the time for the first election of officers and with their salaries.

Because of legal and other hindrances which the U.E.W. has placed in the path of the new group, the administrative committee has recommended the first selection of officers be postponed until Labor Board elections determine an actual membership.

At the moment, the new union claims to represent approximately a quarter of a million workers. But this is hotly disputed by the U.E.W. which contends, among other things, that many actions taken thus far by the new union are illegal.

Western Europe Must be Protected Says Montgomery

New York, Dec. 1 — (AP) — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery said Tuesday night that, if Western Europe is over-run again by invaders, "that is the end of the people who live there."

"The point that is fundamental is that, to promise to rescue the west in due course after a successful invasion, from the east is quite useless," the British army hero added.

His speech was prepared for a dinner meeting sponsored by the English-speaking Union of the United States.

"The peoples of Western Europe must be protected against invasion," continued Lord Montgomery, "and not just told they will be rescued after it."

Such protection is under way in the form of the economic recovery program and the defence organization of Western Europe, he added.

MOUNTAIN VIEW

Miss Grace Lee Entertains 16 Friends At Birthday Party

Mt. View—On Friday evening Miss Grace Lee entertained a number of her friends in honor of her 16th birthday at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lee.

Games, contests and dancing formed the entertainment for the evening. At midnight delicious refreshments were served.

Those attending from Mountain View were: Pauline Sprague; Eleanor Sprague; Pearl Neal; Nellie Sprague; Yvonne Foster, Arnold Wessels; Bob Wessels; Roger Sprague. Guests were also present from Belleville.

OXBORO

Foxboro—A pleasant afternoon was spent on Saturday at the home of Mrs. Leon Wilson, when her daughter, Gwen, celebrated her sixth birthday. A number of young friends were nicely entertained and lunch served. Thanks were extended by Gwen for some pretty gifts which she received.

A heavy fall of snow came on Thursday which necessitated the use of snow plows.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brouskie have moved in an apartment belonging to Mr. Harold Stewart.

A number attended the dance in Wallbridge Hall on Friday evening under the auspices of the Tennis Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stoughton attended the wedding of the latter's brother, Mr. William Crozier, and Miss Josephine Petrick, at Fremont, on Saturday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Boonhour, and family, of Belleville, were home of Mr. William Hodgen.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. William Covell on the arrival of a young son, on Sunday morning, at the hospital.

SHANNONVILLE

Orange Lodge Entertains Wives, Friends at Oyster Supper

Shannonville—The Shannonville Orange Lodge entertained their wives and friends to their annual oyster supper in their local hall last Friday evening.

In charge of the cooking the delicious oysters were Messrs. Earl Whiteman; George Goodfellow, William McMechan, Percy Moore, Edward Lazier and William McFarlane. These men proved excellent chefs judging by the number of oysters "stowed away."

The efficient waiters at the four tables were: Messrs. Ted Breadman; Harold Osborne, Lorne Weese; Raymond Clarke, Murney Whiteman, Eugene Pascoe, Max Lazier, Claude Clarke, Delmer Breadman, Kenneth McMechan, Jack Sherman, Elliott Zenbury, Bruce Sherman and Russell MacFarlane.

Splendid Musical Program

After the sumptuous repast, the Orangemen and their guests enjoyed a splendid musical program presented by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Snider and Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Snider, of Napanee. The former couple were no strangers to the gathering having formerly resided in this district. Selections were played on the piano, violin, and two guitars. Miss Marilyn Snider sang a delightful solo "Powder Your Face With Sunshine," and ended with a tap dance number.

Master Jackie Weese sang "The Hop-Scotch Polka" which was much enjoyed. His brother, Mrs. Lorne Weese, accompanied him on the piano.

Mr. Arnold Mitchell introduced the guest speaker of the evening, the Rev. C. A. Perkins, of Holloway Street United Church Belleville, who delivered an inspiring address.

The Rev. L. W. Scott, of Shannonville United Church acted in the capacity of chairman, for the very enjoyable program.

Police Cruiser Hit, Two Arrested

Toronto, Dec. 1—(CP)—Two men were arrested and a third escaped early Wed., after they rammed a truck into a police cruiser in the east end of the city.

Carl Lownie, 19, and John McMullen, 21, were charged with theft of the truck.

Police said they chased the truck, reported stolen earlier, but the three men jumped out of the truck as it was being overtaken. The driverless truck crashed into the cruiser, damaging it. The officers gave chase on foot and captured the two men at gunpoint.

SKI PARADISE

Coquitlam, B.C. (CP)—A 20-acre ski village at Burke Mountain near here, only 23 minutes from Vancouver, is being planned by Coquitlam. Ten feet of snow covered the mountain at 2,500 feet last May, and a straight 2 1-2-mile run will descend from the proposed village.

Elect ALLIN Mayor
Hold the Tax Rate

On September 30th., 1949, the City of Belleville had Bank Loans at the bank amounting to $142,000.

This was largely due to borrowings by the City, approved by the Ontario Municipal Board, but without prior approval by the citizens.

I am on record as having opposed the expenditure of many thousands of dollars, and as being opposed to borrowing by the City Council without the prior approval of the voters of Belleville — those citizens who, in the end, have to foot the bill.

We don't want Belleville governed by Control Boards outside of the city.

Elect Me Mayor and I Will Change the System

NO LARGE COMMITMENTS WILL BE MADE BY THE CITY, AND NO LARGE SUMS WILL BE BORROWED BY THE CITY WITHOUT BELLEVILLE VOTERS' APPROVAL.

The City has Obligations Which Must be Met!

Whoever is elected Mayor of Belleville, our bills must be paid. And they must be paid out of taxes.

Anyone who tells you that the tax rate can be reduced, while these bills have yet to be paid, is making a misleading statement.

New industries, through the taxes they pay, help share the cost of civic government and thus help hold the tax rate. With Voter-control of expenditure they can finish the job of holding the tax rate and rents.

REMEMBER THIS — these new industries, which were brought to Belleville during my chairmanship of Industries, have already invested over $11 million in the city and district. They employ 1,200 citizens and have a payroll of more than $2 million annually.

We must keep faith with all our industries. We would be very foolish if, by continued uncontrolled expenditure, WE DISCOURAGED OTHER industries from coming to Belleville.

You Elect Me Mayor—and What Will I Do!

I won't pull any rabbits out of a hat —I am, however, experienced in the Three Fields of Business — MUNICIPAL, PRIVATE — CORPORATION — and in all of these I HAVE LEARNED THAT CAREFUL ECONOMY PAYS OFF.

Our present tax is 47 mills, of which 17½ mills are allotted to education.

I would not cut a dime off the appropriation for Education, but in all Departments I would practise good old fashioned thrift and economy. I would set out to MAKE THE CITY LIVE WITHIN ITS MEANS by keeping the Voters in control of the City's expenditures.

We Will Not Borrow Money, Make Large Expenditures, Without the Express Approval of the People

In their desire for office, candidates sometimes claim that taxes can be reduced while expenditures continue without restraint. It doesn't make much sense, does it? My plan is that the way to save money is to save money by careful examination of all the facts—avoid the pitfalls — before making expenditures. That is not very spectacular. But saving money never is spectacular. Believe me, folks, there's no other way to hold our tax rate and rents but to keep expenditures down. Bring in voter-control.

I Solicit Your Vote For

James Coyne at 39 Becomes Deputy Gov. Bank of Canada

BY HAROLD MORRISON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Dec. 1 (CP)—The story of Jim Coyne's rise to banking stardom is one of chance combined with a dogged determination to get ahead.

At 39, he has become deputy-governor of the Bank of Canada, an influential factor in the economic and financial structure of the country. He succeeds Donald Gordon, chosen President of the Canadian National Railways.

Somehow, though it all, Jim Coyne has managed to remain a bachelor—one of the most eligible bachelors in Canada with a salary between $20,000 and $30,000 a year.

Art Collector, Golfer

Somehow, too, he has managed to keep alive an interest in a great many things besides banking. He is a collector of Canadian art, an enthusiastic golfer, a powerful swimmer, a prodigious reader and a dabbler in popular mechanics.

The other day, a reporter asked why he had not married.

"Just never met the right girl," he said with a smile, "or maybe the right girl hasn't met me."

There is more than likely as he has been studying and working hard during the last 10 years.

About a decade ago, he took top honors in arts at the University of Manitoba in Rhodes Scholarship and studied law at Oxford.

Since then, he's swept through a career that has touched on almost every phase of war and post-war government banking activity, soloed with a short hitch as pilot in the R.C.A.F.

He lighted on his civilian career by chance. Eldest son of Mr. Justice J. B. Coyne of the Manitoba Court of Appeals, young Jim came back from Oxford and called up a lawyer's shingle in his hometown, Winnipeg.

He was assistant counsel on the Turgeon Royal Commission investigating the grain industry in 1936. The inquiry evolved principally around economic issues, rather than points of law.

The young barrister was fascinated with the way in which a single product touched on the nation's economy at so many points. He decided to move from the legal field to the fiscal and financial field. He was offered, and accepted, a position in the research department of the bank.

Problem of Name

During his year with the bank Mr. Coyne has found one big persistent problem—his name.

In all seriousness, he's apt to pick up the telephone and say politely:

"Coyne of the Bank of Canada."

And the other party is likely to answer:

"Oh, yah! Now I'll tell one."

Jim's father had the same trouble. Mr. Justice Coyne was known as J. Bowes Coyne. Some of his friends began calling him J. "Bogus" Coyne. The name stuck.

Baited Trap With Dead Skunk, Catch Condemned

Boston, Dec. 1.—(AP)— The entire catch of a lobsterman who baited one of his traps with a dead skunk was condemned Wednesday.

State Fish Inspector Frank H. Harrington said he took the action after noting an offensive odor while inspecting lobsters being processed for marketing.

Harrington also condemned all the lobsterman's equipment after he admitted using skunk bait.

CONSERVATIVES HEARTENED BY SOCIALIST DEFEAT

Others Adopt "Wait and See" Attitude Before Expressing Opinion

Sydney, Australia, Dec. 1.—(AP) —Some of Australia's Conservatives were heartened today by the defeat of New Zealand's Labor government after nine years in office. Others adopted a "wait and see" attitude.

The question was: Would Australia's voters follow the lead of their island neighbors and end the Labor government's program of government controls and Socialism when they elect a new parliament Dec. 10.

In Britain, where the Commonwealth's third and youngest Labor government also faces a general election before next July, mixed reactions were reported.

The Conservative Daily Mail said New Zealanders had been "weary of Socialist regulations and restrictions" and added, "what New Zealand does today, Great Britain may do tomorrow."

The Independent Times of London and the Liberal News Chronicle thought Labor's defeat in New Zealand resulted chiefly from what the Times called the "long, slow swing" of the "pendulum of party politics."

Not So Certain

Leaders of Australia's opposition were not so certain.

Liberal chief Robert Gordon Menzies, a former Australian prime minister, commented in Melbourne: "The Socialists were brought to power in New Zealand, Australia and Great Britain in that order. This dramatic (New Zealand) result seems a happy omen that they will go out in the same order."

Arthur Fadden, leader of Australian Labor's other big opponent, the Country Party, termed the New Zealand result "the collapse of the first leg of the Socialist tripod—New Zealand, the United Kingdom and Australia.

Tired of Rules

But other observers pointed out that New Zealand unseated Labor after 14 years in office. Labor has led Australia only since 1941, and British only since 1945.

New Zealand's voters, Australian political observers believed, removed Labor from power because they were tired of rules and regulations on what they bought and sold, how much they paid, and what they could import or export.

These sources said New Zealanders were tired, too, of government spending, high taxes and increased living costs. And they wanted to see less, not more, business run by a government which in New Zealand already has nationalized transport, radio, coal, electricity, communications, hospitals and some housing.

The issue in Australia's current general election campaign are much the same as in New Zealand. Labor is standing on a past record of full employment, prosperity and social benefits.

Turned Down By Court

Labor has said little about nationalization. Its major project along that line, the taking over of private commercial banks, was turned down by the Commonwealth High Court and the Privy Council.

Like their counterparts in New Zealand, the opposition here has campaigned for private enterprise, reduction of government controls and lower taxes and less government spending to cut high living costs.

New Zealand's voters Wednesday awarded 46 of the 80 seats in the lower parliamentary house to the National Party. The Labor Party captured 34 seats.

At dissolution the Labor Party in Australia held 45 of the 74 seats in the last parliament. In the coming election 121 representatives will be elected. An increase in parliament was voted last year.

ONE TO FIFTY YEARS TERM

Los Angeles, Dec. 1 — (AP)— Leslie Jahn, 41, tennis professional, convicted of incest involving his 16-year-old daughter, tennis star Laura Lou, was sentenced Wednesday to from one to 50 years in prison. There was no formal plea for leniency from his daughter, although she had told a probation officer from Miami, Fla., by telephone yesterday that she didn't want him to go to jail.

Chiang is Back In Command Of Nationalists

(By SPENCER MOOSA)

Chengtu, China, Dec. 1—(AP) —Chiang Kai-Shek was back today in command of Nationalist China's fight against the Communists. He took over shortly after arriving in this new refugee capital from fallen Chungking.

The confused, travel-weary Nationalist government still was trying to set up shop in the provincial this city where the Generalissimo announced he was resuming direction of operations against the Reds.

A statement said he had no intention—at the moment—of resuming the presidency he gave up last January. But high sources predicted he would do that, too, before long.

One of the Generalissimo's first moves was to call in other Nationalist leaders to discuss measures for checking the Reddie flooding into northwestern China.

The Nationalist government was gauging its way by the business of running what is left of its country. Many key officials weren't around. There was confusion at every hand.

Already people were wondering how long Chengtu would last as the seat of government. One month was an optimistic estimate. In that time, many said, the Reds would have covered the 170 miles that separate Chengtu from Chungking.

(Tong Kong press reports said the fast-moving Communist troops of Gen. Liu Po-Cheng already were streaking out from Chungking to take Hochwan, 35 miles northwest toward Chengtu.

Christmas Trees Destined For Alaska Folk

Seattle, Dec. 1—(AP)—Coals to Newcastle, ice boxes to Eskimos and now it's Christmas trees to Alaska.

Longshoremen were unruled today as they loaded 130 bales of fir Christmas trees.

They are going from Orin Farr of Rexford, Mont., to Sidney Hyde of Wrangell, near Sitka, Alaska, aboard the steamship Denali.

"The boys thought there must be some mistake. They nearly threw 'em off the pier," Emil Hanson, stevedoring company superintendent said.

Alaskans customarily use spruce and other native evergreens for Christmas trees.

Several Forms Cancer Curable But Early Detection Important

Montreal, Dec. 1 (CP)—Several forms of cancer are curable but early detection is of prime importance for successful treatment, Dr. Jonathan C. Meakins, National President of the Canadian Cancer Society, said Wednesday night. Addressing a public meeting in suburban Notre Dame de Grace, he said great advances in cancer treatment could be made if early detection were made and treatment started. Most forms of cancer are curable through surgery by cutting out the malignant tumor or by the proper use of X-rays or radium.

Long Dry Spell Causes Shortage of Water in New York

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—New York City Hotel and Restaurant Associations today asked their member establishments not to serve water in their dining rooms unless patrons ask for it. The new move to reduce the drain on dwindling water supplies came as New Yorkers were warned that pressure may have to be reduced this month unless use in homes is cut by nearly one-third. The city consumes 1,100,000,000 gallons a day. The long summer and autumn dry spell has been blamed for the water shortage.

Fate of British Steel Industry Hangs on Decision in Elections

London, Dec. 1 (CP)— Labor's decision to reverse its field on steel nationalization is regarded as an outstanding political irony.

By softening the terms of its bill to nationalize iron and steel, the government in effect agreed with the Conservative House of Lords that the industry should be left alone until after the next election.

This represents a new approach. For two years, Labor argued vigorously that nothing should be allowed to interfere with the proposed legislation. Come what may, Socialists said, iron and steel would be brought under state control.

Any suggestion that the Conservative majority in the Lords might delay the take over until after the election was ridiculed. To Socialist supporters, it was unthinkable that a hereditary body of Peers could thwart the wishes of the elected House of Commons, with its large Labor majority.

Viscount Addison, Government Leader in the Lords, put the Socialist case this way:

"We have taken the view and stand unalterably upon it that we will not accept that this unreplenerative House . . . shall be able to demand a second mandate from the people (before nationalization). We refuse absolutely to accept that position, and we say to the noble Lords opposite that the Labor party never will accept that position."

Decided to Compromise

But it happened. The government finally decided to compromise with the Lords. Instead of a Lords proposal postponing the steel take-over until Oct. 1, 1950, the government substituted one saying that the corporation which would run the nationalized industry should not be appointed until that date.

The wording was different, but the meaning was the same.

Thus the Lords had triumphed, and Conservatives in the Commons enjoyed a satisfactory interlude when government spokesmen sought to explain the change in heart.

Now the fate of steel hinges on the election, which must come before next summer. If Labor is returned, nationalization will be just a formality; if the Conservatives win, the bill will be scrapped.

These are the facts which prompted Opposition Leader Winston Churchill to contend that the election will in fact be equivalent to a referendum on iron and steel. Labor is not likely to agree. There are indications the party would rather fight it on almost any other issue, feeling as it does that the average man doesn't care much about steel nationalization, one way or the other.

Hunter Gets Deer, Shoots From Wheel Chair

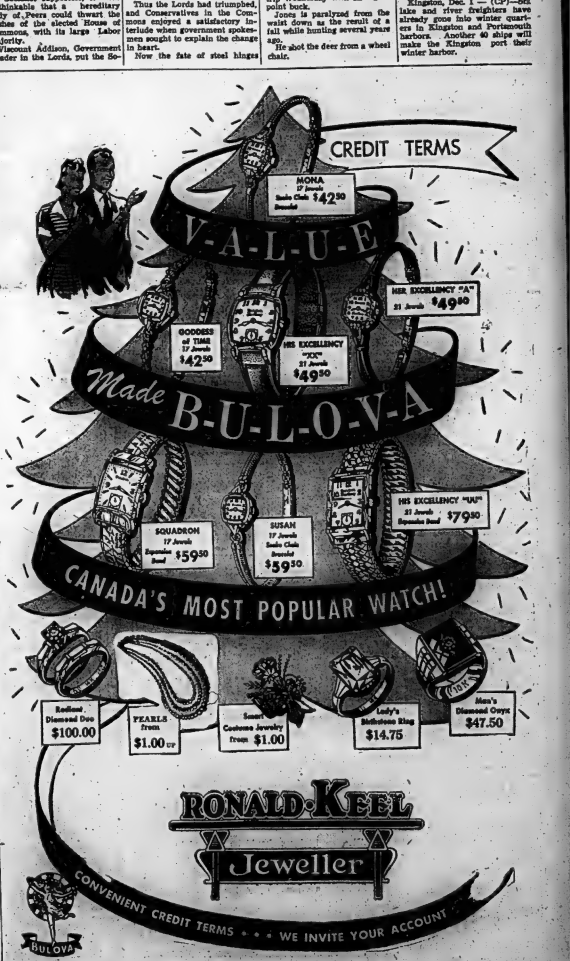
Jacksonville, Tex. Dec. 1.— (AP) — Edwin (Bashful) Jones, 24, came home from a hunting trip Wednesday with an eight-point buck.

Jones is paralyzed from the waist down as the result of a fall while hunting several years ago.

He shot the deer from a wheel chair.

Steam-Electric Generating Plant Will be Opened

Thorold, Dec. 1 — —(CP) — Providing additional relief for Ontario's power shortage, the Niagara district's first steam-electric power generating plant will be opened Friday in Thorold township by Hydro Chairman Robert H. Saunders.



The 30,000 h.p. plant is owned by the Ontario Hydro Commission and will be operated by the Ontario Paper Company, Ltd., which will supply the steam.

The plant will develop 60 2/3 cycle power which will be fed into the Decew Falls plant for transmission and distribution in the Hamilton and Niagara areas. The new plant is located on the Welland ship canal bank directly opposite the Ontario Paper Company.

VESSELS IN WINTER QUARTERS

Kingston, Dec. 1 — (CP)—Ebb tides and river freighters have already gone into winter quarters in Kingston and Portsmouth harbors. Another 40 ships will make the Kingston port their winter harbor.

Martin's Summer

By Vicki Baum

The dinner at the Seespitz consisted that night of Italian salad, roast beef, compote, fruit tart, and cheese. The odd thing was that Martin had no appetite; and he felt on the way home that he would have to throw himself into the lake as the only means of ending his troubles.

"You must learn to swim. Perfect, too, must have lessons in the crawl and so shut !" Frau Mayreder said her husband peremptorily that very evening to his profound dismay. "Have been talking it Herr Hiell, and he is in a very bad way. He is starving though he won't admit. He won't accept presents, but if we all take swimming lessons, then it's not charity from the Seespitz private beach, then you can pay him a little extra and he can have his meals with us. He looks the picture of agony, the poor, pale, sons' young fellow."

"But why should I also suffer agony by learning to swim? Invite him as often as you like and leave swimming out of it," said Dr. Mayreder detectedly.

"He won't accept invitations unless he can pay lessons," answered, and so Frau Mayreder's tactful and Spartan decision was on the day.

Next evening Martin went to the Seespitz to give a private lesson.

The weather was no longer wet, but it was cold. Fresh falls of snow whitened the mountains, and their peaks were capped with clouds, Martin undressed in one cabin, and the Mayreders in the other. There were only two cabins.

Herr Mayreder had a stomach like a Chinese wrestler, and his fear of the water was all too obvious. He almost wept at the thought of venturing in, and when he came out he looked very like the corpse of a drowned man. Little Pamperl was plucky but after a minute the icy water turned him blue, and Martin had to pull him out and massage him. Then Martin himself dived in and supporting Frau Mayreder with his hound arm made an earnest attempt to teach her the crawl, and so honestly earn his dinner.

It was not until Herr Mayreder —with his teeth chattering — handed him three schillings in an envelope that Martin had his first suspicion of the heroism which sheer good nature was exacting. This corpulent family was obstinately taking swimming lessons merely to bring him in a little money. At once his pride—all the more sensitive when things went badly—came up in arms.

"How can I take your money, doctor?" he said. "You ask me in to meals with you—I am your guest. How can I charge you anything?"

Afterward as he sat in the dining room—now nearly empty—he shivered and chattered with cold like a pot of custard. Pamperl had gone to bed with a hot water bottle. Frau Mayreder wearing her woollen jersey was a tremulous and excited ball of wool.

"On the next evening he turned up with a swollen arm as huge and black as a darky's.

"What on earth's that?" asked Dr. Mayreder, dumbfounded.

"Today I add Martin, cautiously touching his arm. "I bought some bath salts. I got a scratch and it swelled up a bit ..."

"It looks very nasty. You must bandage it with acetic acid and aluminum sulphate. Don't play any tricks with it," said Dr. Mayreder. Martin harnessed him silently to the rope and departed immediately after the lesson. He had no appetite, he said; and Frau Mayreder was left to her disappointment. When he came again the following evening his eyes were like one of a boiled fish, and his arm was clumsily bandaged.

"Can you swim with your arm like that?" asked Frau Mayreder.

"Well—not in a race or anything of that kind. But I can splash about and enjoy a little bath." Martin assured her hopefully. Dr. Mayreder panted and groaned at the end of the line as if his life were at stake and Martin quickly hauled him in. Frau Mayreder next flopped about in the water beside Martin. When she swallowed excessive quantities of water, Martin supported her with his sound, injured arm. He declined dinner, with tardy thanks. He asked only for some hot milk.

"Are you fond of dancing?" asked Frau Mayreder, who had walked out with Martin onto the terrace.

"Passionately, dear lady. Are you! Shall we turn on the gramophone?" Martin asked as suitably as his wretched plight allowed.

"I don't dance any more. I'm too old," said Frau Mayreder.

"Oh, I can't allow that," said Martin, with a great effort.

"No, no. Don't ask me. I'm too old. I've only realized it clearly lately—quite lately I feel. That's the way with us women. We struggle to the last, trying to join in and hoping that everything is not over. But suddenly it is all over. We don't count any longer. The others come to the front—the younger generation—the Lyssechops ...."

Martin gave a start. The name struck him full like a blow in the chest. Frau Mayreder kept back the tears that came into her eyes. She was very sad, and the music from the Peterman inn streamed over them. She felt the foolish exaggerated sadness of a girl. But she had decided to say something final, and she pulled herself together and said it.

"I want you to think nicely of me, Herr Hiell," she said. "You must have had very strange experiences with women ...."

"Well, yes..." said Martin, very much embarrassed.

"Then, please leave me out of them. I want you only to tell me if you are in any trouble and to come to me as Pamperl does. Perhaps a woman like me could be of some help. And besides—I have, I admit, been through a great deal this summer. But I have reached the age when such experiences are best got through alone without dragging in anybody else. I want to think of you nicely and I want you to think nicely of me. That is all."

Martin went home, and the first thing he did was to put a fresh bandage round his inflamed arm. It had been painful the whole evening, for during the Mayreders' swimming lesson the bandage had become sodden with water and pressed painfully on the throbbing flesh. He felt sick when he even thought of the elbow. "A nice business," he said with severity as he looked at the wound which though healed had an unhealthy bluish red and swollen appearance. His right hand was hot and numbed. He was taken with such a violent shuddering fit that for a moment or two he gave way to it like a tree before a storm. He let things take their course. It was all a matter of indifference. Everything remote and strange.

He crept into bed. The bedclothes were always a little damp, for the sea-water soaked the floor boards. Martin could not get as far as putting out the lamp. It seemed to him that like the sides of the but were malicious snarls and all the knots in the wood were eyes. Then he was surprised to find that he was two people in the dark closet and that he must now assuredly be in a ferry-boat. After this he found himself in an engine room where the heat was terrific. The ferry-boat was in a flow with the Rhine. He could feel how their backs and shoulders burned, and he took off his shirt. One of the men got his arms caught in the driving belt. It was horrible. The man was agony.

"If it's all up with the chief engineer, May will have to marry Herr Wuchererfeld," said Herr Lyssechop. They dragged Martin out of the shed, for it was his arm that had been caught in the machine body picked from out of the sawdust and came running after him with it. The whole bed was full of sawdust, and Martin tossed restlessly in dry rustling heaps of it. I've had enough of this, thought Martin. It's time to wake up, and he did so.

He felt gingerly about on the table for water, but could find none. So he went into the kitchen to his mother. His mother sat on the coal scuttle grinding pepper in the pepper mill. It was very hot in the kitchen too, and the pepper made him smart. Martin got on his bicycle that his mother had brought down from the pawnshop and rode upon it into the Dolomites. The Dolomites were pepper but made of a kind of papier-mache that constantly grew and grew. Soon—too—hundred meters up in these Dolomites May might stand long enough with the tape-watch and beckon him on. The pestle and mortar, too, made him nervous and he thought: No record today. He fell off his bicycle into a slag heap and a shiny given was left sticking to his elbow. He tried to dig it against but it was all set and went straight through the laboratory floor to his mother. Boom—boo—boo went the pestle and mortar.

A machine that was constructed all wrong produced non-inflammable film. The strips rolled themselves up and got mixed up and one another in great heaps. The laboratory was full of them, and his mother did no good pounding on the mortar. Suddenly there was a rending sound, and the non-inflammable film caught fire. It burnt bright and hot and glowing, and Martin was buried to the ground by the explosion. He opened his eyes suddenly and felt his head convulsed and stared senselessly at the paraffin lamp on which he had not put out. It was still alight flaring with a blackened wick and smelling horribly.

Martin assembled the various selves into whole delirium had split him up and sat a few minutes with his head hanging heavily forward over his tumbled bed. Look out, he said to himself. Where am I? What's up with me? I scratched myself on a rusty nail and my arm is giving me trouble. I am not right. Tomorrow, I'll go to Dr. Mayreder.

There was a knock. Martin pulled himself together with a great effort.

"Yes? What is it? Who's there? he shouted.

"It's me, Puck. Open the door," came the answer.

This seemed very surprising in his dazed state he could not understand it. He put his feet to the floor and crawled out of bed. It seemed to him for a few seconds went completely black and then the scene came again in the light of the smoking lamp. He pulled on his bold of his coat and chair and gave a curse at the pain this caused him. Then he said: "Come in. The door's open."

The door opened and in came Puck. She looked just as she had the first time he saw her; even were the same rough coat and a hood, the cotton dress, and rough boots and she was wet through. A rush of cold air and moisture came in with her. Rain pattered, too, on the roof.

"Oh, so it's you. And what do you want. You haven't come over for a bath in the middle of the night" said Martin. He steadied himself on his bare feet and confronted Puck quite calmly in the pyjamas he had mended himself. Puck did not look well. She looked as if she too was in a fever—pale, tremulous, and with bright, sunken eyes.

"I've rowed over. It's not one o'clock yet. We have a lot of people—theatrical people whom mama invited. I bolted," said Puck. She pointed vaguely out into the rain and darkness behind her. "Tiger is here too—in the boat—" she added. She sounded helpless and as if seeking protection. Shutting the door, she leaned up against it in an exhausted and resolute air that penetrated Martin's consciousness through a veil of fever.

"I see. And what do you want me to do?"

"I simply couldn't stand it any longer. They're so happy. I couldn't stand it any longer, Martin, Martin, I thought all the time. And now I'm with you, Martin—"

"Look here—listen, Puck. You shouldn't go paying visits in the night," Martin remarked sadly. "Probably no one has even told you that."

"No. And I don't let people tell me anything. I had to come to you. I can't bear it. You don't come over to see us any more. Papa says you don't love me. I'm sixteen and perhaps I shall live to be eighty. Was I never to see you again, Martin? Never, Martin? So I came."

"Yes, Puck, that was sweet of you. But what am I to do with you?" Martin let go of the back of the chair and walked unsteadily up to her. "You dear little silly girl—" he said, stroking her wet hair with his left hand. The right one was possessed by ten thousand devils. "Listen, Puck be a good girl and go home to papa and talk to the dayline. Row across tomorrow. I want to sleep now."

"Yes, you want to sleep. I want to sleep, too—oh, how I want to sleep!" Puck replied very softly. "But the night is so frightful, Martin. I feel as if I'd like to run away, run away from myself. I don't know where—up in the top of the Iron Tooth or down into the lake. Lenitschen made me a brew of herbs but I know that no one can help but you."

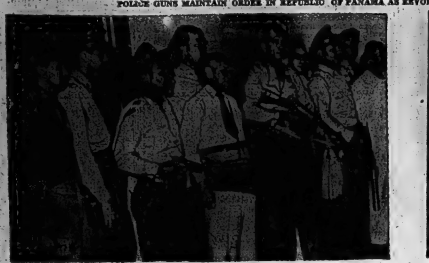
"You mustn't be so highly strung, Puck. It isn't healthy." Martin said severely. His arm throbbed madly and he laid it on the table as if it were an object alien to himself.

"Are you singly going to send me away? Well? you help me!" Puck answered in a low voice.

"Of course I will, Puck. You are my little friend from the other side, you see."

Martin was thrown back into darkness for a moment or two, a darkness throbbing mercilessly with pulsing pain. He felt his way to the bed and sat down. Puck followed, sat beside him and laid her head on his arm. Martin felt a pain pass in a spasm from under his shoulder into his brain when she touched him. He thrust his arm out and gave a low groan.

"Don't touch me," he shouted.



"Why can't you all leave me in peace? I have had enough of it. You all hang around my neck like lead. You crowd round me and give me no peace. You all from after me. You force yourselves on me in the privacy of my but. Always this eternal business with women, this howling and weeping. What have I done to deserve it? Why do you all do it? What do you take me for? I am not one of the attractions for a summer season. I have other things to think about. I am a man to be reckoned with as I shall soon show you. Let me alone. There's only one girl I am fond of, and there will never be another. All the rest are nothing to me, and I'll have nothing to do with them. Here am I—ill, with enough to do and ready to drop in front of your very eyes and you think of nothing but your drivelling love affairs. But now I've done with it. I've had enough. Enough, enough!"

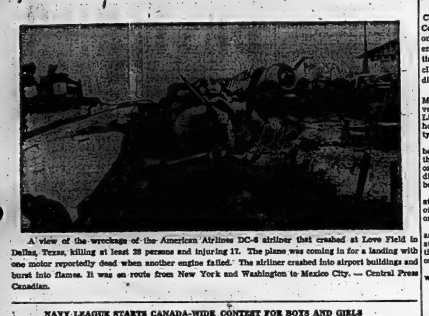
POLICE GUNS MAINTAIN ORDER IN REPUBLIC OF PANAMA AS REVOLUTION THREATENS



Members of Panama's presidential guard are shown with drawn weapons at the main entrance to the presidential palace, Panama City, on Nov. 23 when they turned back a march of thousands, as Daniel Chanis, who resigned as president of Panama under police pressure, made an attempt to re-his resignation before the National Assembly, Nov. 22. Chanis, assert claims to the office. Gunfire resulted in the death of a child and wounding of 11 persons. More many assemblymen and thousands of sympathisers then made their rioting occurred a day later when students attempted to organize a protest against what they called march on the presidential palace after the assembly refused to accept the "police state" of the new president, Roberto Chiari. — Central Press Canadian.

NAVY LEAGUE STARTS CANADA-WIDE CONTEST FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Young Canada is invited to enter the National Essay Contest of the Navy League and the Royal Canadian Navy. "Our Canadian Navy" is the subject for the essay and the contest is open to all boys and girls in Canada whether attending school or not. It is divided into two age groups, namely, Junior, 10 to 13 years inclusive, and Senior group, 14 to 18 years inclusive. Prizes in each group consist of gold, silver and bronze medals for first, second and third prizes and certificates of merit for fourth to tenth prizes. Winner of the gold medal in the senior group, in each province, which includes Newfoundland, will also be given a free trip to the naval base at Halifax or Esquimalt and if he or she is attending a school, the principal of that school will be invited to go along as escort, as the guest of the Navy League. To the writer of the essay judged to be the best from all Canada, regardless of age, will be awarded the grand prize which is the Navy League's diamond medal, and will be invited to accompany the senior gold medalists on their free visit to the fleet. A similar invitation will be extended to the principal of the winner's school. Winners of the gold medals in the junior group will receive a handsome wrist watch in addition to the medal. In this photo boys and girls of the Hospital for Sick Children at Thistletown, Ont., are already at work on their essays with their teacher, Miss M. McGully, standing at right. — Central Press Canadian.

Rid of Backache, Pain in Limbs; Praises Syntona

MRS. WILLIAM GIBBIN

'Brought Grand Relief,' Says This Woman. Free of Headaches, Digestion Improved, Nerves Relaxed, Sleep More Restful.

"After the good results I got by taking Dr. Peters Herbal Concentrate I cannot praise it too highly," said Mrs. William Gibbin, Stoney Creek, Ont., in a recent report.

"When I first began using Syntona I had very bad rheumatic pains in my arms, limbs, joints and muscles. My back was lame and sore and was subject to throbbing, backaches. After only a few doses of Syntona, my aches and pains, and indigestion, my nerves were so on edge I couldn't get to sleep at night and I constantly felt tired and worn out.

"Syntona has made such a wonderful difference that I urge everyone troubled with pains, aches and nerves like this complaint as soon as possible to get Syntona. Now I am able to eat my meals without distress after I eat, my nerves are calmed down so I get more sound, restful sleep. As a result I no not feel overtired as I did before.

And, as mentioned, to help you as it has so many other local men and women. Made from 11 of Nature's finest medicinal herbs, roots, barks and berries, including Blood Root, Golden Seal, aids assimilation of food, and drives poisons, impurities and uric acids from the system.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

Miami, Fla. — William M. Wolfforth, Miami's new mayor, has come up with a neat solution for the mother-in-law problem.

He picked his wife's mother to be his secretary at city hall.

Chicago—A wife seeking a divorce says her husband, Ralph Desort Tuesday to pay $5 weekly for temporary support of her husband.

She is Mrs. La Verne Wahler, 34, a bank teller. Her husband, George R. Wahler, 40, an uncensored salesman, is a partially disabled army veteran.

Mrs. Wahler, in her suit, seeks temporary support, the judge said, their apartment and lawyers fees.

Wahler's counsel countered with the demand that she pay him temporary alimony. They told the court Mrs. Wahler earns $225 to $250 a month and Wahler's only income is $37 monthly he receives from the federal government.

Hillsboro, Tex. — The latest catch of John Byars, 73, a fisherman for 60 years, is a catfish.

He had the big fish and two witnesses to prove it.

Byars was fishing at an undisclosed spot with Ross Cockrell and Brooks Hord Saturday when the pelican dropped down to investigate.

Byars threw a top-water plug at the bird. The pelican gobbled the plug and took off for the end of 150 feet of line. The big bird circled like a model airplane on a wire as Byars tried to reel it in.

Finally the bird's wing tangled with the line and it fell. Byars quickly tied it up. He took it home and is awaiting inquiries from zoos.

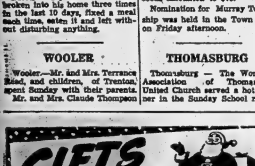
The pastor Rev. L. W. Scott, chose his scripture lesson from John 14 and based his sermon on the text "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life", no one cometh unto the Father but by Me."



Sermon Thought "Bridges"

He introduced his sermon thought "Bridges" by going back through the ages when mother nature built the first bridges, clinging vines and tree trunks. These bridges were improved through the years by man, who built bridges of stone and then the Romans, with their arch bridges, wrought and steel bridges, were perfected later.

"A bridge saves time, expense, labor and human lives. It is the access to a new area of activity and interest. The English language is a bridge over which people in the world can understand each other", stated the speaker. The Christian religion, the Lord's Prayer, and the Bible, are also bridges which bind Christian people together. The results in the increasing knowledge and understanding of others in the community in this land and other lands.

Mr. Scott stated that some other bridges of today were "writing" and the "radio". The knowledge of others is a bridge to understanding and co-operation. Man-built bridges can be destroyed, but there is one indestructible bridge, the one from the world to the far distant terminus—Heaven.

In his summing-up remarks, the pastor asked if people were heading in the direction of this bridge; that Jesus Christ was the only bridge to Heaven. When the disciples inquired as to where Jesus was going, he replied, "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life."

CONSECON

Hillier Christ Church Ladies' Guild Holds Charming Tea, Bazaar

Consecon.— The ladies of Christ Church Guild, Hillier, held a delightful bazaar and tea in Hillier Town Hall on Friday, November 18. The booths were attractively decorated in Christmas shades of red and green. In each window was a miniature Christmas tree trimmed with pretty lights. The tea table was charming with it lace tablecloth. Forming the centrepiece, was a silver candelabra with tall pink tapers, surrounded by pink mums in dainty crystal vases.

Pouring tea from the lovely tea services were Mrs. Thompson. Small tables were arranged around the room, where the ladies enjoyed dainty refreshments, served by the following, Mrs. E. Lott, Mrs. M. Hardy, Mrs. W. Wright, Mrs. D. Boyle, Misses Helen Smith, and Eleanor Lunn. Convener for the afternoon tea was Mrs. Stanley Thompson.

Home-cooking well patronized

The home-cooking table, with Mrs. L. Leavens and Mrs. A. Weir as conveners was well patronized. Here one found delicious cakes, cookies, buns, bread, pies, tarts, etc.

On the fancy-work table everything one could desire for Christmas' gift was . to be found, such as doilies, crocheted articles, knitted wear, children's clothing. This was capably supervised by Mrs. Leslie Jones with Mrs. C. F. Heaven assisting.

The fish pond and touch-and-take was in charge of Mrs. C. Benway. The children found this booth very interesting.

Selling the numerous pretty aprons were Mrs. H. Wesse and Mrs. S. Weir. Aprons of all styles and various hues were on display.

Mrs. W. Dalzard as convenor of the candy table was kept busy with many customers desiring the dainty confectionery.

The country store with Mrs. M. McPaul, and Mrs. C. Panting, as conveners was well patronized. Here you could buy dressed fowl, eggs, vegetables, pickles, fruit, and foliages of different varieties.

Lucky Ticket Holders

Miss Shelia Terry was in charge of the selling of tickets for the following: a quilt, which was won by Mrs. Harold Johnston of Bowman's; articles for a hope chest in a large basket, won by Mrs. Fred Way of Hillier and a 5 o'clock tea cloth, won by Miss Clara Friar of Hillier.

Treasurer of the afternoon was Mrs. Fred Merton. The guests were welcomed at the door by the president of the Guild, Mrs. Warner McPaul, assisted by the rector, Rev. C. P. Heaven.

Ladies from Hillier, Wellington, Ameliasburg, Bowerman's, Burr's Consecon, Trenton, Frankford, Springbrook were present.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It happened way back when Boadicea, queen of the Britons was cavorting with the ancient Druids, at the annual gathering of the Ancient Order of Pinksters at Stonehenge, in old Wales.

The Queen, a skittish sort of lass, watched the Druidian monks at play and was "taken" with the manly sport of plinking.

This phase of athletics did not call for any great amount of manual labor on the part of the participants. In short, a Druid, chosen from his fellows and being the broadest of beam, leaned over in a toe-touching effort.

Drawn to his monkian fancy was a large circle. He took his position roughly about forty feet from a roughly drawn line. The "Pinkster", armed with short arrows made of stone, took their turn at plinking the monk. Unknown to them, the "target" was well upholstered with layers of grass.

And right well did Boadicea, quaffing a Roman sherry, within the confines of her chariot, enjoy the sport. With every "plink" as the stone arrows struck home, and the fatish monkian target leaped with assimilated pain. Boadicea smote her henchman, Lord D'Arr of the Royal Antediluvian Order of Stone Masons, right broadly on his stonecensored cuspids.

"Ezad" she snaia, "a right lusty sport, m'lad."

"Ay, yuh majesty," drawled Lord D'Arr, a fugitive from a pipe and shovel gang. "Rich well, should we take this plinking back 'ome" (After all the gay came from Limehouse, or perhaps Billingsgate).

Given a life membership in the Druidian Order, Boadicea put into effect this strange sport, to her armies named the Roman Canoes. Her side-de-camp, Lord D'Arr dreaged his a captive through Rome, saved her life by drawing his membership ticket, a rough stone medallion-shaped dagger, and heaving it into the optic of an onrushing lion in the amphitheatre of Rome.

The carnivorous, lionine favorite of Emperor Calvert, a man of extinction, blinked, twice, thrice. He turned his head to Magric, his agent, and chuckled "This guy is good. Give him a triple twenty" meaning thirty miles of slugging mose to the pyramidic sphinx.

Thence was born the game of darts. Lord D'Art, Boadicea's sidekick, a Roman captive, coupled his name to throwing stone slivers at imaginary Roman Emperors. From that date on England developed the grand game of darts, named after the ill-fated side-de-camp of the British queen, Boadicea. Old sweats and young sweats of the recent war, grey thatched balding vets of the wilds of South Africa, and they are few now, react to this ancient game.

The Canadian troops overseas in both wars took the game in the same stride as their lot of rum (S. P. D.) and that is sufficient.

They went to the pubs (natch) — They drank their arf and arf or a pint of mild and bitter, perhaps a Scotch (if they had the money) and watched, sturdy Britishers, darts by place hangings of a dangerous sash with dubbin-patched chins, have these miniature harpoons at a circular target. The idea clicked. Canadians, yup, and Americans, took up the game.

These "invaders" of the tight little island, later developed into darts of the first degree. In fact, Canadian troops, towards the end of the war, challenged and met the best Britain produced.

But the game did not end with Canadians with the cessation of hostilities. They brought it here with their kit bags and war brides. Here in Canada, in messes, war-service organizations, yes, and in private homes, the good old game of darts is flourishing.

Here in Belleville, the game was given its birth when two men, war veterans, met in the sergeants' mess at the Hasty Camp on Church Street. One was Sgt. Major Art. Hobbs. That was three years ago.

From that meeting mushroomed a six-team league which now embraces upwards of 100 players.

In the loop which officially is termed the Belleville Service Darts League are the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans, Branch 261, "Hasty Pees", CNR Veterans, Brewers Warehouse, Fellowell Supply and the 9th Anti Tank Regiment.

But the game has gone farther than that. Canadian veterans, as was said before, brought "darts" with them from overseas. Today the game is flourishing in over Canada and don't be surprised if, in the near future, you hear of a provincial and dominion championship.

Don Newcombe And Roy Sievers Best Rookies

(By The Canadian Press)

Pitcher Don Newcombe of Brooklyn Dodgers and outfielder Roy Sievers of St. Louis Browns Wednesday were named the outstanding rookies of the 1949 baseball season by the Baseball Writers' Association of America in New York.

Two 24-man committees took part in the voting. Each committee member was allowed to name only one man. The National League Writers picked Newcombe almost unanimously, giving him 21 of the 24 votes.

Sievers received the support of 10 of the American League writers to double the total of Philadelphia Athletics' Alex Kellner, his nearest pursuer.

Naming the No. 1 rookies of each league represented a change in the annual balloting. Previously only one rookie was chosen for both circuits. Alvin Dark, Boston Braves' shortstop, won it last year, and Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn's second-base star, was chosen in 1947.

Although he wasn't brought up from their Montreal Royals farm club until May 26, the 23-year-old Newcombe won 17 and lost eight for the Dodgers to rank as their best pitcher.

The heavy-hitting Sievers earned the award by clubbing out a batting average of .306 in 140 games. He drove in 91 runs, included 23 doubles, one triple and 16 home runs.

Ike Williams was suspended Wednesday by the National Boxing Association, but the lightweight champion said he's too busy preparing for his title bout with Chicago's Freddy Dawson Monday night to worry about it.

Williams took time out at Philadelphia from the increasingly-tough problem of making the weight for the Dawson fight to say the announcement from Washington by the N.B.A. that he was suspended was "quite a surprise."

He was suspended at the request of the California State Athletic Commission, The state commission said it would not reinstate the champion until he honors a contract for a fight with Bernard Docusen or reimburses the Los Angeles Olympic Club for $2,000 spent on the proposed contest.

While the suspension means that Williams will not be able to box anywhere in America, it won't have any effect on the title fight next week. The N.B.A. covers every state except New York.

Williams brushed the whole thing off as a storm in a teacup that he had to call off the Docusen bout because of an injured hand and is willing to meet the New Orleans fighter any time. Los Angeles promoter Babe McCoy offers a date.

Tom Casey, starry halfback with Hamilton Wildcats of the Big Four Football Union, is probably the most wanted man in the country these days.

Not only is almost every football club reported to be after the United States import, but already he's been approached by executives of Brantford Red Sox who want him to line up with them in the Intercounty Senior Baseball League next summer.

It is likely "if he is around then," that he will do just that to get in shape for next grid season. He plays in the outfield.

Asked about reports that he had decided to go to Montreal and play for Alouettes the popular Negro said at Hamilton: "I've heard everything, but this is the first I've heard that—definitely not."

Bill Veeck will be back in major league baseball within six months—and maybe as owner of the Washington Senators, the Milwaukee Journal said Wednesday.

Baseball writer Sam Levy, a close personal friend of Veeck, talked with him Tuesday night.

"Since I sold the Cleveland club last week, at least six men have approached me to go into business," Levy quoted Veeck as saying.

Asked about Washington, Levy said Veeck laughed.

"You're dodging the question!" Levy inquired.

"You know of Will," Veeck countered. "I'd rather not answer. You know me well enough to know why'."

In Washington, Senator officials denied such a deal is contemplated.

Probably never in Canada's history has a defeated football team been given the thunderous ovation which greeted Calgary Stampeders on their return to Calgary Wednesday.

A crowd estimated as high as 30,000 persons, lined both sides of Calgary's main thoroughfares and plugged the station area long before the Stampeder's train arrived.

The team, which lost 36-15 to Montreal Alouettes in Saturday's Grey Cup final, was welcomed by cheering thousands, by planes roaring overhead, by honking autos horns, blasting train whistles and four bands.

Calgary declared a half-holiday as the team toured the city in open automobiles and then returned to the station for an hour-long "welcome home" demonstration.

Tommy Manastersky, rugged 21 year old hockey and football star, has signed with Montreal Royals of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, the team announced at Montreal Wednesday.

Manastersky was a member of last year's Memorial Cup champion Montreal Royals and played halfback this fall with the Grey Cup champion Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football League.

BIG SEVEN

(By The Canadian Press)

Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings today retains a five-point lead over teammate Sid Abel of the National Hockey League's individual-scoring list.

Lindsay counted another goal last night to boost his point-total to 28 for 13 goals and 16 assists. Doug Bentley of Chicago holds down third scoring spot with 22 points, one behind Abel. The league's top goal-getter, Maurice Richard, slid back a notch into a fourth place tie with Gordie Howe, each with 20 points. John Peirson, Boston, and Roy Conacher, Chicago are training Richard and Howe by two points.

The leaders:

	G.	A.	Pts.
Lingsay, Detroit	12	16	28
Abel, Detroit	9	14	23
D. Bentley, Chicago	6	16	22
Richard, Montreal	15	5	20
Howe, Detroit	9	11	20
Peirson, Boston	9	9	18
R. Conacher, Chicago	7	11	18

Windsor Squad Make it Tough For Marlboros

(By The Canadian Press)

Talk of potential Ontario Hockey Association junior 'A' champions so far this season has been concerned mostly with the probability of Toronto Marlboros walking away with the honors.

But eight another team came in for consideration. Windsor Spitfires came through with their second victory in two nights over Galt Black Hawks to draw to within five points of the topping Marlboro Club. The Spitfires parted Galt 9-3, following up a 13-3 decision Tuesday night. Both Spitfires and Marlboros have played 18 games and the next game between the two clubs should give some inkling of what is at the end of the OHA junior 'A' trail.

In the only other game last night, Barrie Flyers consolidated their hold on fifth place by trouncing the hapless Stratford Kroehlers 6-1.

Al Windsor, Glen Skov practically settled the issue himself, rapping in four counters. Martin Marlow opened the scoring early in the initial frame. Joe Godfrey evened it up for Galt and the first period ended at a 1-1 deadlock. Player Scores Four Jack Bailey and Vic Howe counted two more in the Windsor cause in the middle session without a Galt reply. Pete Conacher finally flashed the light for Black Hawks early in the final period. Windsor took over then and pumped home six tallies. Skov collecting four of them. Erwin Grosse and Earl Reibel netted the others.

In the game at Barrie, the Flyers and Stratford Kroehlers battled through a scoreless first period. Barrie clicked for two in the middle frame and held Stratford to a single, Rich Hogg tallied his first of two and John Bobenich rapped in the other. Earle Clements clicked for the Kroehlers.

Barrie opened up in the final stanza popping in four light flashers. Real Cherrella was the sniper for two of them. Hogg picked up the second, and Enzo Zanatta notched the other.

All teams have a holiday tonight, but five games are carded for Friday.

In the junior wars, St. Catharines play host to St. Michael's, Oshawa make the hop to Guelph and Barrie play at Stratford. The senior circuit has a full schedule Kitchener-Waterloo are guests of Toronto Marlboros and Owen Sound play at Hamilton.

Wings Blank Boston, Rangers Defeat Montreal as Canadiens' Drive to Top Rung Stopped

By HARRY ECCLES
Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal Canadiens' drive towards the top rung of the National Hockey League suffered a sad setback Wednesday night. The Canadiens lost 5-2 to the lowly New York Rangers, while the League-leading Detroit Red Wings got back on the victory trail with a 3-0 victory over Boston Bruins.

That leaves Detroit with seven-point lead over the Canadiens. Chicago and Toronto, tied for third, were idle, while Rangers took over fifth place again by a single point over the rail-end Bruins.

Tonight the Wings play at Toronto, where the Leafs have been paying more attention to the weighing-scales than the scoring percentages since managing director Conn Smythe put the blast on over-weight players. Another game has the Bruins at Chicago against Charlie Conacher's hot-shot Black Hawks.

It was rookie Jean Paul Lemieux's opening game for Rangers, who led the Rangers to victory over the Canadiens at New York. The 26-year-old defenseman scored in the second and third periods.

Centre Don Raleigh also notched Freddie Shero's shot for another goal, and Eddie Slowinski and Alex Kaleta scored the others. Cal Mackay and Kenny Mosdell were the Canadien goal-getters.

Third Shutout

At Detroit the Wings' goalie Harry Lumley scored his third shut-out of the season. It was Detroit's first win after two successive losses last week-end, but it was a hard defensive fight all the way as the Bruins showed plenty of fight. Ted Lindsay scored the first goal after 12 minutes of the second period, and Jimmy Peters scored the second shortly after. Sid Abel scored the last in the final period. The Bruins opened up wide in the last frame but could not beat Lumley.

Gil Mayer, late of the Pittsburg Hornets, will be in goal for Toronto Sunday against Detroit. Mayer is the "short one" of a famous three Toronto goalies—a short one, a fat one and a tall, skinny one.

Those were the descriptions applied Wednesday by Smythe as he surveyed the situation following his relief of Tuesday. The "short one", Mayer, native of Ottawa, stands five foot six and weighs only 128 pounds stripped.

"The tall, skinny one," is Al Rollins, six feet two, weight 185, purchased by Leafs Wednesday from Cleveland Barons of the A.H.L. Rollins arrives today at Toronto.

In return Cleveland gets "cash in five figures," plus centreman Bobby Dawes immediately and three more players, including a goalie, next Spring.

And the "fat one" is the fabulous Turk Broda from Brandon, Man., who was benched until he cuts his 197 pounds down to 190. For the first time in his long and brilliant N.H.L. career, starting in the 1937-38 season, Turk is sitting on the sidelines. He was absent with the Canadian Army overseas but apart from his military service never missed a Leaf game. Making Progress

Sweating it out at the YMCA with the four other Leaf players who came under Smythe's axe, Broda is making progress. Broda was 197 pounds and told to get down to 190 by Saturday noon. Last check showed he was down to 193.

Sid Smith has already reached his objective, down from 183 to 180. Harry Watson has come from 205 to 201, and has to make 200. Garth Boesch has reduced from 195 to 193, and needs to take off another pound.

Vic Lynn has shrunk from 189 to 184 and has to make 182.

While Meyer definitely starts in the Leaf goal tonight, either Mayer, Rollins or Broda will get the call Saturday night. That depends on developments.

Springfield Ends Unbeaten Strng Of the Barons

(By the Canadian Press)

Springfield Indians ended the American Hockey League's longest unbeaten streak of the season Wednesday night when they defeated Cleveland Barons 4-3.

The Barons previously had gone unbeaten in their last 13 starts. They have dropped only three games this year and head the league's western division by seven points.

Meanwhile New Haven Ramblers replaced Providence Reds atop the eastern section with a 2-1 decision over Buffalo Bisons while the Reds were beaten 5-1 by the lowly Hershey Bears.

Indianapolis Capitals drubbed Cincinnati Mohawks 6-3 in the final game of the night.

Springfield stopped the Barons with two-last period counters only 11 seconds apart. Ed Prokop scored the first at 8:31 and Harry Pidhirny the second at 8:32.

Pidhirny led the Springfield attack with a pair of goals while Prokop, Bill Gooden, Garey Gordon and Les Rersan fired the others.

Hy Buller, Steve Wochy, Harry Taylor, Pete Leswick and Joe Conn counted for Cleveland.

Jean Paul Denis' goal at 10:31 of the final frame gave New Haven their narrow verdict over the Bisons.

Ray Manson made it 1-0 for the Ramblers in the opening period. Tommy Cooper fired the lone Bison tally early in the last period.

Herbie Cain was high scorer for Hershey in their upset victory against the Reds. He tallied twice while Ross Lowe, Johnny Mahaffy and Roly McClenahan scored singles.

Carl Liscombe was the only Providence player able to beat Gordon Henry in the Hershey nets.

Doug McKay, Nels Podolsky, Lyle Wiseman, Rod Morrison, Fred Glover and Enio Sclisizzi hit the scoring column for the Cores while Jacques Locas and Andy Hebenton were the Cincinnati marksmen.

Football Team Calls off Strike, Will Play Game

San Francisco, Dec. 1 — (AP)— The San Francisco 49ers professional football squad today called off a threatened strike.

A team spokesman said the 32 players decided their obligation to fans who want to see them play New York Yankees here Sunday was more important than their demand for a $500 bonus a player for the game. Sunday's affair is a semi-final playoff in the All-America Conference.

Earlier, team captain Norman Standlee, 245-pound fullback and one-time Stanford great, and halfback Len Eshmont, former Fordham flash, speaking as "elder spokesmen," said the men would not show up for the game unless they were promised the bonus.

Tony Morabito, one of the club owners, said nothing doing. He told the 49ers to turn out for practice this morning or the season would be over as far as they were concerned.

The squad of 33 went into a huddle Wednesday night. They came out of it at midnight with the announcement there would be no strike. Their spokesman handed out a statement saying:

"It is the unanimous decision of the team that our first and most important loyalty is to the fans who have supported us so loyally. We feel the same obligation to the coaching staff.

"The . . . business principle which brought about the difference . . . is secondary in the hearts of the team as compared to our obligation to our fans."

The 49ers won second place last Sunday in final All-America Conference standings by beating the Yankees 35-14 in a bruising game. The Yankees wound up third and the two teams are scheduled to open the playoff here.

Cancellation of Sunday's game would have meant refunding an estimated $75,000 in advance ticket sales.

BOTTLES FOR BEIGES

Elsted, Sussex, England (CP) —Bottles of liquor and jars of preserves were sent to the rector here, who is holding a "bottle party" in aid of the church rebuilding fund. The bottles will be sold at Christmas to raise the equivalent in bricks for the church.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Dec. 1 (AP) — A report from Chicago says Frank Lane's prize project for the White Sox at the December baseball meetings is to pry third baseman Majeski away from Philadelphia Athletics. Roland Lastarza, Los Bronx heavyweight who takes on Argentina's Cesar Brion tomorrow, still works in his father's butcher shop between fights, that doesn't mean he's willing to meet all comers . . . or that he's a clever boxer.

Nice Guys

When Ted Williams reached Chicago he other day for his first public appearance after winning the American League most valuable player award, one of the first persons he encountered was pitcher Allie Reynolds . . . Allie made a gesture of mock despair and groaned: I thought I wouldn't see you again for another four months." . . Ted just grinned and replied: "It's funny how friendly pitchers get in winter. They're not like that during the season.

Cleaning the Cuff

Leo Durocher is due in town today to start things moving for New York Giants before the winter meetings, in California he's been telling folks he never did want to get rid of Eddie Stanky.

GETTING THINGS DONE

Wildwood, Alta., (CP)—Wildwood residents, stymied in several attempts to get a 30-mile-long road built to Mayerthorpe, got together and built it themselves. They collected $2,000 to add to $3,000 given by the province and built the road with their own men and equipment.

Vancouver, Dec. 1—(CP)— A trend toward American football still is growing in Vancouver.

The University of British Columbia dropped the Canadian game several years ago and various city high schools and colleges have virtually abandoned it despite the fact that Vancouver's junior league continues to supply each year a number of talented players to senior and collegiate conference east and west.

Speaking for U.B.C., Eric (Vancouver Province) Whitehead is sympathetic to student concern over the worse-than-fair showing their Thunderbird teams have made in the Evergreen Football loop, of the Pacific Northwest's small colleges.

"They (the students) are merely echoing what has been often said from this side of the fence; that if U.B.C. teams are to compete in a United States College conference, U.S.A. qualities regarding recruit on sport should be amended to jibe with the common U.S. attitude; definite emphasis on sport, with regulated, controlling subsidy through scholarships."

That Man Pratt

Andy (Vancouver Sun) Lytle visited amiable Walter (Babe) Pratt, playing-coach of the New Westminster Royals Pacific coast hockey club after Pratt was fined $200 for an altercation with a referee.

Pratt, describing his enemy as "a bum in spades," gave his account of the affair in his usual limpid prose.

But, says Lytle, it's indicated Pratt is a pretty happy man since coming here from travels started when Toronto Maple Leafs sold him to Boston.

"While we talked his little boy came in and, shaking water off his clothes, complained: "I think I prefer snow and ice to this rain, rain, rain, Mummy."

"Shut his heart," said Mrs. P. looking up at large Mr. P.

"Pa his backside," said pipe Pratt loyally, "that ain't rain. It's a form of California mist."

The changes that come in your bridge, tra la, have nothing to do with Horse Sense. A system that needs changes has something wrong with it. Laws need revising to better them.. But Horse Sense needs no changes.

Letters keep saying: The laws of bridge were just modified. The Culbertson system was changed last month. What will be the changes in your Horse Sense system?

The answer is: None. Let me tell you why. My system is based on true requirements. Since the pack is unchangeable, what is correct to start with should be correct to the end of time.

Before a player starts to play bridge he is aware of one obvious fact. It is that each player is entitled to one fourth of what the pack contains. This average is what he knows in advance.

Knowing this, all he has to do is tell his partner what he holds in excess of these expected averages. How does he speak of them? With the bidding words permitted under the laws of bridge.

He uses the numerals to tell what he has in excess of expected averages. He uses the suits to tell what he has in suit in excess of expected averages. This is what the bidding words are for.

Start with the correct averages and the basis of a system is true. Add to such a foundation the few practical needs for safety and it is sound. Such a combination is Horse Sense.

When a player opens the bidding he says he has better than his average in all important departments. To this he adds a trick for safety. Why? In case partner is short of average.

South has an opening of one heart with this hand:

♠K 6 4
♥A Q 8 6 3
♣A 5 8

He says he has better than average in sure tricks, high cards, hearts, and tricks. Also one extra trick in case partner has only two.

Safety has charm in doing less harm.

LAST NIGHT'S STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Harry Lumley of Detroit Red Wings who blanked Boston for his third shutout of the season while his teammates tallied three times for a 3-0 victory.

New York's Jean Lasalanda who paced Rangers to a 5-2 victory over Montreal Canadiens by scoring two goals, one of them the tying counter in the second period.

Scotty Mair, Veteran Winger, Is Top Scorer

Toronto, Dec. 1—(CP)—Scotty Mair, veteran winger of Toronto Marlboros, still heads the Ontario Hockey Association senior A scorers. In five games, Scotty has sniped 15 goals and clicked for 10 assists for his 25 point total.

Teammate Johnny McCormack, Chuck Blair and Al Buchanan take up the next three positions, Mike Dmitre of Kitchener-Waterloo occupies fifth position. Statistics include games of Nov. 26.

Marlboros' Junior 'A' edition only have one player in the first five. George Armstrong heads the parade with a 39-point total. Windsor Spitfires follows Army strong with 37 points. Odie O'Brien, St. Catharines, Conn Switzer, St. Catharines, and Erwin Grosse, Windsor, make up the others in the first five.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 1—(AP)—Step right up, ladies and gentlemen, for some lesson in sex appeal. The teacher: Lauren Bacall.

In an unusually frank discourse, Professor Bacall declared "you don't have to be uncovered to be sexy."

"Showing your legs or your bosom isn't necessarily sexy. It's a fallacy to think just because you're wearing a low-cut gown or a tight sweater that you look sexy.

"Sex should be subtly suggested. You do it with a look or an expression or with your voice." (She said this in her famed "If you need me, just whistle" tones. I was beginning to get the idea.)

"An actress should be good enough to put across the idea of sex without undraping herself."

"I have never posed for cheese cake," she remarked. "I just don't like it and I consider myself lucky that I haven't had to be subjected to it. I'm not the type."

Topsy Reading

Some of [illegible]spicist reading these days [illegible] in the books banned in [illegible]n, but in the movie ads. [illegible]me cite a few examples of [illegible]tchlines from recent pictures:

"Heedless, shameless woman, trained in an art as old as time" —"I Married a Communist."

"You need a friend, strong man, and I'm friendly"—"Thieves' Highway."

"Whatever it is that French women have, Madame Bovary has more of it."

"You are the most corrupt woman I ever met"—"The Great Sinner."

"Men would do anything for Anna Lucasta."

"Hot stacks"—"with lovin' in every line" — "Everybody Does It."

But the raciest reading was in the ads for "I Was a Male War Bride." Excerpts: "This is how Sheridan took Grant. . . who ever dreamed that day in Dusseldorf that I was her target for tonight? . . . with 50 million Frenchmen, she has to pick me. How lonesome can a WAC get? . . . She wouldn't give in—so I gave up—unconditional surrender! terms accepted!"

In view of the well-known censorship of the screen, aren't the film companies promising more than they can deliver?

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

Little Benny's Note Book

I was looking in the window of Stern's Hardware and Sporting Goods watching 2 big fat wrestlers sitting on each others faces and things on the television set, and the next thing I knew it was dark as anything, proving what time it probably was, and I hurry up started for home, thinking. Oh boy this is the latest I've ever been for a long while, I'll catch all kinds of heck.

Which just then who did I see crossing the street but pop, and I said, Jimminies, pop, you're walking the wrong way, I mean aint you on your way home?

Why yes, sy golmin, my mind must of been wandering, pop said.

And he started in walk home with me, and I said, Anyways, pop, I'm sure glad you're here because that proves I aint the only one that's late.

I'm glad to be of some elite service to you, pop said. But as far as I'm concerned, I've got a good excuse. I hope you can say the same, he said, and I said No sir, G, I wish I could. I was looking at the window in Stern's window, and ma claimed that was a lum excuse the last time I used it, and this time I'm still later so she'll think it's a extra boonday excuse. What's your excuse, pop? I said.

I came out to look for you at your mother's special request, pop said, and I said Then G-rooseflem, I'm the only one really late.

So you are, pop said. And now your only ray of hope is that your mother will be so relieved to find you were neither run over nor kidnapped, she'll be calm and collected again before she remembers she was provoked and worried, he said, and I said, I doubt it.

So do I, pop said.

Both of us being rite.

PLANS TO TIGHTEN UP SECURITY IN EAST AFRICA

Colonial Officials Have Been Worried at Rising State of Tension

London, Dec. 1 — (AP) — Britain's Secret Service Chief, Sir Percy Sillitoe, has flown to East Africa to tighten up security in one of the Commonwealth's most vital strategic regions.

British officials disclosed this hush-hush move Tuesday.

Colonial officials long have been worried at a rising state of anti-European tension among the peoples of East and Central Africa —in territories like Uganda, Kenya, Tanganyika, Nyasaland, and Northern and Southern Rhodesia.

This tension has flared up in Nigeria, on Africa's west coast, in the last 13 days, and already has cost 21 African lives and 36 casualties. It seemed from a strike of African coal miners.

The informants stressed that Sir Percy's mission mainly concerns organization of political security in an area which is assuming an increasingly important military role. They added there is no evidence of any effective Communist activity in East or Central Africa.

New Nerve Centre

Britain's military planners have chosen Kenya and Tanganyika as the new nerve centre for the Imperial defence set up.

Since the war the two territories have been intensively developed militarily. A network of strategic, all-weather roads has been built. Railroads have been developed.

A vast military store-holding depot has been set up at Mackinnon Road, Kenya, where all the war stores evacuated from Palestine, Egypt, India have been cached.

Both Mombasa, Kenya, and Mikindani, Tanganyika, are being developed as naval bases.

Experts at the Colonial office have stressed repeatedly that unless commercial and industrial progress in these territories is matched by social advancement the African people may easily turn against their white rulers.

Nine Disputed Ballots Will Decide on Union

Kingston, Dec. 1 — (CP) — Nine disputed ballots will determine which of two unions will represent the 150 employees of a Kingston woollen goods manufacturing plant following a vote by the employees Tuesday.

D. W. Mather, Ontario Labor Relations Board chairman, who conducted the vote, said the board would rule on the nine ballots, claimed by both the United Textile Workers of America (A.F.L.) and an independent union.

Of 183 eligible votes, 92 favored the A.F.L. body, 82 were cast in favor of the company union, eight were not cast and nine are in dispute.

A board decision giving all nine disputed ballots to the company would give it a one-vote majority.

TWO GUNMEN SENTENCED

Toronto, Dec. 1 — (CP)—Two thrill-hunting gunmen Wed., were sentenced to five years for armed robbery and two years concurrent for having a loaded revolver following conviction for two holdups that netted them $82.

Robert Sanson, 21, and Jean Marois, 20, pleaded guilty of a store robbery that yielded $21 and a theatre box-office holdup that gave them $61.

Sanson told the magistrate he bought the gun "to have some excitement."

Reds Woo Roman Catholic Unions

London, Dec. 1 (AP) — Moscow once again is wooing Europe's Roman Catholic Labor Unions to form a "united front" with Communist workers in what may become a new campaign aimed at disrupting the West's Recovery program.

The Russian-led Cominform (Communist International information Bureau) in a resolution published Tuesday after a secret meeting this month in Hungary urged Communist workers:

"In the struggle for working class unity special attention should be given to masses of Catholic workers and working people and their organizations."

This call coincided with a bitter rift which has arisen here in the organizational meeting of the Anti-Communist Free World Labor confederation over failure by its credentials committee to invite Roman Catholic Unions from Belgium, The Netherlands, Switzerland, Denmark and Luxembourg.

Observers here felt that the Cominform may have been well aware of this split and had decided to take advantage of it.

The Communist resolution was also seen by most observers as an attempt to counteract the recent Vatican decree excommunicating Catholics who militantly support Communism.

France's Catholic Unions were invited to the London Anti-Communist Labor conference. Italian Labor leaders Giulio Pastore threatened to withdraw his organization from the New World group unless the Catholic Unions were invited.

A heated row almost threatened to break up the budding new organization because of the omission. But it appeared today that speedy invitations would go out to the previously snubbed organizations in the hopes of bringing about calm and unity to the Anti-Communist Labor front.

6TH TYENDINAGA

6th Tyendinaga — Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Mumby (nee Joy McKenzie) who were married on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. F. F. Treverton, and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Treverton, and were visited friends on Sunday.

Miss Bessie Boldrick spent the weekend at her home here.

Some of the men have been helping with the work of rebuilding Bronk Cheese factory.

East Hastings cheese factory closed on Saturday for the season.

There has been a touch of real winter the past week.

Mrs. Lorne McKenzie, and Mrs. C. Goodman called on Mrs. T. Parks in Belleville General Hospital Monday afternoon where she has been a patient for a few days with the flu.

WATCH ON TIME

Selkirk, Man. (CP)—Eames Alfred Rogers is what you might call a clock watcher. He celebrated his 86th birthday recently by remaining on the job at his watch-making shop where he is still working. Born at Seaforth, Ont., Mr. Rogers is a veteran of the Riel Rebellion.

Manitoba Takes Steps to Conserve Furry Wealth

Winnipeg, Dec. 1 — (CP) — Further steps in a pioneer plan to conserve Manitoba's furry wealth was announced Wed., by the provincial department of Mines and Resources.

In the next seven years $700,000 will be spent to develop the province's Registered Trapline scheme. Sixty per cent will come from the Dominion government.

It is part of a 30-year plan to keep conservation and production at their most efficient balance.

Registered Traplines were first organized in 1941 to check wanton trapping practices that threatened the existence of the fur industry. Manitoba was the first to bring in the scheme, and was quickly followed by other provinces.

Professional trappers who could establish claims to a line on the basis of previous occupancy were granted exclusive rights. In 1915 the government extended the agreement to include new districts and give equal rights to white and Indian trappers.

Resources Minister McDiarmid of Manitoba, said in a statement today that the agreement of 1945 was "no longer sufficient to provide full development."

Under the new agreement, up to $100,000 a year for seven years will be used to develop existing districts and assess new ones.

The money will pay administration costs, buy equipment, pay personnel, survey, engineering, transportation and construction costs, and back biological or other investigation.

DONATES $450,000

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Philanthropist Bernard M. Baruch has given $450,000 to New York University-Bellevue Medical Center for physical medicine, it was announced Tuesday.

NEW HOSPITAL OPENS

Toronto, Dec. 1 — (CP) — Ontario's new 30-bed hospital for alcoholics at suburban Erindale, scheduled to open today, will commence operations after the New Year, Health Minister Kelley said today.

J. H. McClocklin, superintendent, and Marjorie Parker, head nurse, are to leave for the United States next week for study on the latest methods of treatment and care of alcoholics.

SALESMAN WILL BE QUIETSPOKEN

Toronto, Dec. 1 (CP)—Bernard, 34, magazine salesman, charged Tuesday night with false pretences, was remanded Monday regarding a series of thefts of government cheques throughout Ontario and Quebec.
Reddin was charged with cashing two cheques and money from an east-end store by means of a stolen government cheque.
Post Office officials said thefts usually allowance and income tax refund cheques had been reported in the Toronto area but Ontario and Quebec centres. Police said the cheques were taken from mail boxes and rushed.

FOOD RATIONING NEARS END IN FRANCE

Paris, Dec. 1 — (AP)—France neared the end of food rationing today as the government voted to take sugar and rice off the control list leaving only coffee distribution under strict government control. The government said the normal coffee ration would be doubled this month.

TRADE MINISTER SAYS PROSPEROUS 1950 FOR CANADA

How Attacked Sharply On His Trade Policies

Ottawa, Dec. 2 — (CP) — Trade Minister Howe says 1950 is going to be another prosperous year for Canada.

Fending off a concentrated opposition attack on government trade policies, he told the Commons Thursday night that the next year will be a good one from the standpoint of economic prosperity for Canada.

"Where is there in Canada's No. 1 optimist," Mr. Howe declared, he had no regrets about past predictions and stuck to his forecast.

But he was attacked sharply on trade policy by members of the Progressive Conservative, C. C. F. and Social Credit parties.

They accused the government variously of throwing overboard the United Kingdom market in favor of the United States, hesitating to accept U. K. imports and supporting "socialistic" ideas about the trade picture.

The Commons Thursday also gave third and final reading to a bill to authorize $10,000,000 in federal loans for the reconditioning coal mines in the Maritimes. This measure, which, met with general approval, now goes to the Senate.

Comes Under Fire

Mr. Howe came under fire from spokesmen of all opposition groups.

He finished by saying that anyone who sees any threat to Canada's future in the trade situation must look at things "with very hundlived eyes indeed."

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto-Eglinton) said that what the government termed "normal" was out of urgency, of candor and of a realistic approach to "genuine urgency" of the trade situation.

Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) said that as the result of government hesitation to accept more goods from the United Kingdom, Canada had lost 90 per cent of her British market in the last two years.

John Blackmore (SC—Lethbridge) declared the government had been "unutterably stupid" in its over-lavish support of grain production.

"We haven't got a depression yet," he said, "but we're going to be if we again let the government Explains Housing Bill

Explaining the housing bill on behalf of the government, Senator Norman Lambert (L—Ontario) described provisions and said that in all provinces except Quebec and Alberta the groundwork already had been laid to create land areas outside municipalities suitable for development.

He paid tribute to the work of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation and to the interest, co-operation and efficiency of federal government and the provinces reflected in the legislation.

R.C.M.P. Investigates Report Immigrants Stranded in North

Thessalon, Dec. 2. (CP)— Thement" of immigrants had taken Royal Canadian Mounted Police said today they are investigating reports that six immigrants from Italy were left 23 days without proper food or clothing in a broken-down lumber camp 18 miles north of this northern Ontario centre. Citizens claim the men were "flagrantly abused" by two Hamilton employers.

A report has been submitted by the R.C.M.P. to immigration time where they stayed until rescued from their plight by Otto Febbo.

The stranded immigrants were said in light clothing in which they arrived from Italy. None had gloves or rain boots. Provincial Police, who inspected the camp before R.C.M.P., said it was "completely unfit for human habitation." The same camp was condemned last year by the Ontario Department of Health.

The six are badly hitch-hiked to Thessalon in November and told Provincial Police they were starving. The men said they were told a foreman and cook would arrive but only the latter component of food was sent and no one arrived to supervise their work.

Mayor Campbell Cork said it appeared "disgraceful mistreat-

Cardinal Opposes Legalization of Sunday Sport

Toronto, Dec. 2. (CP) —James Cardinal McGuigan, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Toronto, today came out in opposition to the legalization of commercial sport on Sunday.

Toronto ratepayers will vote Jan. 2 on whether they approve Sunday sport. In Windsor, Ont., a similar vote will be held next week.

In a letter to diocesan clergy to be read in all churches Dec. 18, the Cardinal said "the whole day is to be given to God and kept holy."

Controller David Balfour, only Roman Catholic member of the city council expressed surprise at the letter. He has often expressed strong approval of Sunday afternoon sport.

"If the Cardinal has done this," the controller said, "he has the right to express his views the same as any other clergyman, but the church doesn't instruct me how to vote. They leave that up to our own conscience."

Cardinal McGuigan's letter said that "while anxious to see wholesome sport and recreation for our people, particularly those in the crowded areas of our cities, we view with disfavor the legalization of commercial sport on Sunday."

Mt. Etna Erupts, People of Hamlets Flee to Catania

Catania, Sicily, Dec. 2 — (AP) — People of Catania got under their umbrellas today as Mount Etna was showering black volcanic dust on them.

Europe's highest volcano thundered and belched for hours, starting before dawn and ending at about 9:30 local time.

People from the village-growing hamlets on the mountain's sides fled to the port city to report that several huge craters had broken open around the mouth of the volcano.

Loud rumbling signalled the start of the eruption which sent smoke and cinders spewing into the air from the 10,758-foot-high volcano on Sicily's east coast.

It was the first activity of the mighty mountain since Dec. 7, 1948. At the time Etna belched smoke and cinders, but there was no damage.

The last heavy eruption was in February, 1947, when flowing lava did considerable damage to the fertile cultivated slopes of the mountain.

DIES AFTER BEATING

Sydney, N.S., Dec. 2 (CP)— Douglas Oland, 11, of nearby Coxheath died in hospital here Thursday night after being beaten by three or four other children on his way home from school Thursday. R.C.M.P. left Sydney for Coxheath Thursday night to start an investigation. The boy died from a brain hemorrhage.

TWENTY KILLED AS PLANE CRASHES IN RAINSTORM

Attempting to Make A Forced Landing

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, Dec. 2— (AP) — A Real-Royal Airlines DC-3 plane crashed in a rain storm at an emergency field in Sao Paulo State Thursday, killing 20 of the 22 persons aboard, the line announced today.

A woman and her five-year-old daughter were the only survivors of the crash, which killed the other 16 passengers and four crew members, the announcement said.

The pilot apparently was attempting to make a forced landing at Barretos, 250 miles, north of Sao Paulo, 240 miles southwest of Rio de Janeiro, instead of trying to make his destination in the heavy overcast. The twin-engine plane had been loaded from Sao Paulo to Jacresinho, a short distance from the scene of the crash. The emergency field is in a bush clearing a few miles southeast of Fernandesa Claro.

No foreigners were aboard the airliner, company officials said.

The plane was a twin-engined DC-3 flying a regular domestic route between the capital city of Sao Paulo and the city of Jacare about 200 miles to the southwest.

Officials of the airline, one of Brazil's busiest—said they had no explanation for the cause of the crash. They said the plane was scheduled only 20 miles from its destination.

$1,000,000 Loss Estimate of Blast Of Gas Main

Allentown, Pa., Dec. 2 (AP) — A gas main blew up at a downtown street corner early today and official estimates Bill damage will exceed $1,000,000.

No one was injured seriously in the mystery blast but gas and water service to a wide area was cut off and there was no indication of when it will be resumed. More than a dozen homes were ordered evacuated.

MISS INTERCOLLEGIATE AT QUEEN'S

Kingston, Dec. 2 (CP)— Jacqueline (Jackie) Sloate, 20, third-year student at Carlton College, Ottawa, Thursday night won the title of Miss Intercollegiate of 1950 at the Queen's University Revue.

Miss Sloate is five-foot-four and has blue eyes and blonde hair.

Runners-up were Catrine Hodgkin, 18, Ottawa, who will be Miss Carleton, and Joyce Hardy, 20, University of Toronto's Miss Varsity.

$4 Million Needed to Complete New Hospital for Sick Children

Toronto, Dec. 2 (CP)—Canada's best-known hospital is an overcrowded, out-dated fire hazard, says Dr. Hockbaum of the building tucked into a narrow strip of land on Toronto's busy College Street.

Known around the world for the achievements of its doctors, the Hospital for Sick Children is housed in an ancient maze of brick and stone. Its wards and corridors are crowded with patients, staff, filing cabinets and a corps of workmen trying to keep it patched together.

Happily, a gleaming modern hospital is taking shape a block away at $12,000,000. The building equipped to handle the 12,000 patients who come to "sick kids" each year. A third of them come from outside the city, many from distant parts of Canada.

The new building was-started three years ago and $7,000,000 has been raised. Costs rose and $4,000,000 more is needed to complete it. The money is being sought from well-wishers across the Dominion.

Expected to open next July, the new building will be the most modern on the continent. Bed capacity of 320 will be doubled and equipment for research will be increased greatly.

Room will be available for the 800 children who are on a waiting list for necessary but not urgent attention. No urgent case is refused now—none has been turned away in the hospital's 74-year history—but some must be put off.

Widely known for its treatment of difficult and rare cases, the hospital does a great deal of its work and cure of every-day conditions.

It makes headline news with blue-baby operations and carries on quietly with operations for such things as hare lips, crossed eyes, cleft palate, bow legs, club feet and flat-foot.

Hospital researchers are at work on spectacular jobs such as poliomyelitis and cancer and find time for the study of the effect of school work on physical and mental development of the child. More than 100 doctors, all specialists in children's diseases and deformities, give about 50,000 hours each year to the hospital wards patients. Some 75 per cent of Canada's medical graduates and many from other countries were trained at "sick kids."

Nine in 10 patients are from homes of moderate or poor circumstances. Their treatment is aided by endowments, notably that of the late John Roy Robertson through sale of the Toronto Telegram. However, these funds can be used only for research and are not available for con-

400 Men Sandbag Creek To Save Homes From Loss

By DAVE STOCKAND
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, Dec. 2 — (CP) — Army sweatlights glared along half a mile of flood-raging Seymour Creek early today as 400 men sandbagged its banks to save homes from damage or destruction.

Heavy rain in mountains which tower over the north shore of Vancouver harbor poured uncontrolled through narrow, rock-rimmed river beds.

Since Saturday, early winter storms in southern British Columbia have taken 19 lives, isolated towns and villages and caused property damage in the millions of dollars.

The Seymour Creek dispute was centred on the city-owned water supply of the city's suburbs, was an unexpected blow to hundreds of men fighting nature in the region.

Torrential Rains Begin

A less-spectacular new flood also occurred Thursday night at Port Coquitlam, 20 miles east of Vancouver on the north bank of the mighty Fraser River. The tributary Coquitlam River slowly overspread its low-diked banks and forced evacuation of 13 homes in low-lying areas. Sheds and small buildings were swept away.

British Columbia's torrential rain started last weekend. Thursday the worst was believed over when new storms brewing in the North Pacific veered south to batter the province farther north.

The overnight more rain slashed at the Seymour area. Four hundred soldiers and civilians teamed to pile 30,000 sandbags along the threatened banks of Seymour Creek and Capilano River, a few miles farther west.

Trucks dumped gravel at 200 tons an hour.

Again today the flood risk seemed receding. Seymour Creek dropped two feet from its peak. One water-control official said there was little chance it would rise to high again.

Aside from the West Vancouver cut-off, most transportation was back to normal. Canadian Pacific Railway and Canadian National Railways transcontinental trains—kept out of Vancouver for three days by rail blocks—were running close to schedule.

Derailment

However, a two-car derailment at the C.N.R. No. 3 Yard in the east end of Vancouver was caused during the night by weather-loosened rock at Blue River, 330 miles east of here. It delayed service 12 hours.

C.P.R. and C.N.R. are sharing tracks through damage areas.

Heavy precipitation is usual at this time of year in Southern British Columbia, but it usually comes in snow. This year it has come as delayed until the Spring, and usually is spread through several weeks as temperatures gradually melt the winter's accumulation of mountain snow.

This year the precipitation came in torrential rain, which poured to the sea as fast as it fell.

The Capilano River bridge went out Saturday night. It was West Vancouver's only road connection with the massive Lion's Gate suspension bridges across Vancouver's harbor neck.

50 Homes Evacuated

At least 50 homes along coffee-brown Seymour Creek were evacuated Thursday night. Three homes were called to trees to prevent them being swept away as the water nibbled at foundations. Some more were endangered.

Rain-fed creeks—100 miles west of here, gale-force winds tore a seaplane from its mooring and dumped it on the beach.

In New Westminster, 13 miles from here on the Fraser River, a 330-foot section of an old retaining wall on Columbia Street crumbled under the pressure of heavy rains. There were no injuries as high water and directional lines were blocked.

Loss by Looters and Floods

Looters and the rampaging Seymour River waters threw out Ted Wright, 39-year-old North Vancouver resident $15,000. Fortune was swept out when one of his home to swirl away in Seymour Creek during the week-end.

His house came near to being torn off its foundation. His car was wrecked.

Looters added the final touch by taking a case of whisky and anything else that could be carried away easily.

Wright surveyed the situation Thursday night as dozens of volunteer workers stacked sandbags desperately to stop flood waters from engulfing his whole property and tear the house from its foundation.

"I'll start building from the ground up.

"Twenty years of savings went into it. I've no insurance, except for the furniture. It's a $15,000 loss."

MUNICIPAL POLICE PENSION

Toronto, Dec. 3—(CP)—Ontario municipal police forces are seeking better pension plans.

The Ontario Police Association Thursday asked the provincial government to urge the smaller municipalities to improve pension plans. The association said that at present the existing scale of recognizance is taken of an officer's service before institution of the plan.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Synopsis—Light winds or still but conditions will moderate rapidly on Saturday. Milder air originating from the Pacific Ocean is sweeping across the western states toward the Great Lakes. Consequently a thaw is expected in the western sections of the province on Saturday.

QUEBEC TENANTS LODGE PROTEST OVER RENT RAISE

Court Hearing on Validity of Rent Controls Will be Held January 30

Ottawa, Dec. 2 (CP)—The issue of federal rent controls blossomed vigorously in the House Thursday.

In Finance Minister Abbott's backyard it flowered into an appeal by 200 Quebec tenants to hold back the allowable boosts in rental ceiling Dec. 15 next.

In the Supreme Court of Canada it bedded into a request for an established date—next Jan 30 —when the question of federal rental-control validity will be decided by supreme court justices.

One man who became inadvertently linked with both developments was Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret of the Supreme Court of Canada.

He was on his way to court to fix a date for the validity-case hearing when the parading tenants blocked his way and told him up for 20 minutes.

The tenant delegates, headed by Rev. John Wagland, 39-year-old rector of St. Saviour's Mission in Montreal, later met Mr. Abbott in the House of Commons Railway Committee room.

There, Mr. Wagland, Chairman of the Quebec Federation of Tenants, pleaded with Mr. Abbott to cancel his rent-control order "immediately."

The new initiatives will allow landlords to increase rents by 18 per cent on unheated and 22 per cent on heated dwellings.

Not Legal Question

The matter of rents, said Mr. Wagland, was not a legal question. It was a "human question. "It is a matter of the lives and well-being of Canadian men, women and children."

Mr. Abbott reacted by telling the delegates that their problems to another jurisdiction and counsels the Premier of your province."

When the delegation became boisterous at the moment of the shout of derision, Mr. Abbott retorted:

"I hope you don't think that mass demonstrations—which may go in some countries—go in Canada."

Things were much quieter in the white-stoned supreme court building. The chief justice met counsel representing Quebec, Manitoba an1 New Brunswick, prospective allies of federal government.

He expressed surprise that Saskatchewan with cat - calls and tenants.

GOES TO PAKISTAN

Ottawa, Dec. 2 (CP)—David M. Johnson, 47, acting Canadian High Commissioner in Ireland, has been appointed Canadian high commissioner to Pakistan, the External Affairs Department announced today.

Mr. Johnson will leave for Karachi early next year, the department said.

He has been acting in Dublin while the high commissioner, Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon, has been serving as chairman of the Royal Commission of Transportation.

Billion Dollars Worth of U.S. Arms Moving

Washington, Dec. 2. (AP)—A billion dollars worth of United States arms will begin moving to Western Europe in a few weeks, now that the Atlantic Pact countries have unanimously agreed on their grand strategy of defence.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Secretary Louis Johnson was due back from Paris today after attending the defence plan to President Truman and State Secretary Dean Acheson. Johnson is the U.S. member of the Defence Committee of the 12-power Atlantic Alliance which adopted the plan at a meeting in the French capital Thursday.

Acheson is expected to get the lion's share of the arms and military equipment which Congress authorized to strengthen the Western European members of the alliance against any Russian aggression.

The strategic plan presumably is based on the possibility that in event of a Russian attack France, along with the other European continental members of the Atlantic system, would bear the brunt of the onslaught.

A communique issued by the council meeting after the conclusion of its meeting said it "arrived at unanimous agreement on and engage full approval to the following action:

"A. Strategic concepts for the integrated defence of the North Atlantic area.

"B. Provision of a program for the production and supply of equipment required by nations.

"C. Co-ordination of planning between the various regional groups (of countries in the Alliance).

"D. The progress of defence planning of the North Atlantic Treaty organization."

Radar Experiments on Wild Fowl Introduce Interesting Possibilities

Delta, Man., Dec. 2—(CP)—The ducks flashed through the air in precise formation. Suddenly, for apparent reasons, they wheeled and circled in disarray for a moment and then regrouped to continue their journey.

This marked a phase in experiments early in the day for Dr. H. Albert Hockbaum, director of the Waterfowl Research Stations here, into effects of radar on birds. Dr. Hockbaum feels the experiments are in such an early stage it is impossible to attach any particular significance to the results.

A renowned ornithologist, Dr. Hockbaum said that other contacts last spring with portable equipment provided by the Royal Canadian Air Force. He marked the reaction of flights of birds through an 11-mile area.

"We obtained at least one dozen positive reactions when the birds flared and broke, much as if they had been startled by a shot," he said from the beam. The birds appeared to become momentarily confused in their flight, then they would regroup and continue on their way."

Dr. Hockbaum said there were "a great many negative results." The positive results seemed to apply in the case of fast-flying ducks. The radar beam also appeared to have little or no effect on birds which might be considered local inhabitants in the vast marshes at the foot of Lake Manitoba, about 65 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

In London recently, Lt. Cmdr. Peter Scott of the Royal Navy hinted that the Delta tests might lead to radio control of living things. A noted bird watcher and artist, he visited Delta last spring on a trip to the Arctic.

He made the disclosure in a BBC broadcast, remarking that "it slipped out"—I shall probably be in the doghouse for mentioning it."

Dr. Hochbaum stressed, however, that present tests are not practical impulses on anything living other than birds was outside his province. His reports on the experiments still to be written, will be submitted to Ottawa through the American Wildlife Institute which co-operates with the Delta research station here.

It is possible to contend that some outside influences might have been responsible for the birds becoming confused in their flight. Whereas this might be true in a single instance, we feel we received sufficient enough proof on the whole that the birds really were affected by the radar beam."

The ornithologist said scientists in the United States also have conducted similar experiments with findings still to be disclosed.

American Optical Plant Not Sold Says Manager

Mr. Gilbert Scott, manager of the American Optical Company, Canada Ltd. here today definitely "spiked" rumors to the effect that the company had been sold.

Street talk to the effect that the new plant had been disposed of crscreaded within the past few days and the company officials here been flooded with telephone inquiries.

Mr. Scott succinctly no truth in these statements," Mr. Scott said in an interview this morning. "I do not know where they originate, but they are based on pure rumor."

'Just Crazy Boy' Says Magistrate To Swain, 17

London, Ont., Dec. 2 (CP)— Four London youths who stole a camber in a blue car of them to build a house for the 17-year-old girl he hoped to marry were sentenced by Magistrate E. J. R. Wright in county magistrate's court today.

They had all previously pleaded guilty to theft of the car.

Millar, 17, the house-building swain, who told police he had no home, Magistrate Wright said:

"You are just a crazy boy, stealing timber to build a house for your 14 year old girl friend whom you wanted to marry."

Millar was forbidden to see the girl friend for 18 months placed on two years probation and ordered to pay one third of the court costs.

Donald Acland, said by police to be the ringleader, was sentenced to six months definite and six months indefinite. He was on suspended sentence for taking a car without the owner's consent in October at the time of his arrest.

Richard Englehart, and Bruce Nickles were placed on one year's probation and ordered to pay one third of prosecution costs each.

No Plans to Change Price of Gold

Washington, Dec. 2. —(AP)— Treasury secretary John Snyder said today the treasury has no plan to change the $35-an-ounce price for gold—and in fact cannot make a change without an act of Congress.

"I have no intention to ask Congress or the President to change the price of gold," Snyder said.

THREE FIRE CALLS ARE ANSWERED

Three fire alarms, all for minor causes, were answered by the fire department during the past 24 hours.

First call was to Boswell St., last evening, for an oil burner, while this morning firemen were called to residence on the Front of Sidney for the same cause.

Again this morning firemen were called to 161 George St., for a smoke investigation. Firemen found smoke from the furnace had backed up through the apartment causing alarm to the occupants. There was no damage in any case.

RUN WATER MAIN TO RENTAL PROJECT

The roadway just east of the General Hospital was torn up this morning by a mechanical shovel digging a trench across the main thoroughfare at this point for the installation of a water pipe to the new low rental housing project consisting of 100 modern homes. Traffic is being routed in one lane and the pipe laying job has created a temporary tie-up at this end of the town.

CLAMP DOWN ON ALL-NIGHT PARKING

Police are clamping down on motorists who persist in leaving their cars parked all night on city streets thus hampering the work of the local public works department.

Three cars were checked on Campbell Street for all night parking and police issued parking tickets to the owners.

ALD. NEWT. WILBUR PRESENT AT MEETING

At the Sun Feed held at the Wharf Street Debating Club on Wednesday evening, Newton C. Wilbur, Alderman of the city and aspirant again for the position was inadvertently omitted by "The Observer" who reported the meeting. Mr. Wilbur gave an account of his stewardship during the past two years as Chairman of Welfare and Member of the Memorial Area Committee. He was given an excellent hearing by the club members present.

Delivery Horse Bolts, Cart Shaft Breaks Window

Two persons narrowly escaped what might have been serious injury yesterday when a horse hitched to a bread wagon bolted the shaft of the wagon passing through the window of the front door of a passing car and then ripping into the upholstery of the car top.

Ruben Wagar, driver for Stowers Bread, was delivering his wagon west on Station Street when the animal became frightened at a parked transport and bolted. Wagar was unable to control the animal and the wagon smashed into a car driven by Robert Sinclair and then into a second car driven by William Chamberlain of Corbyville.

Sheriff at the scene was Mark Neek

The shaft of the wagon passed through the glass of the front door of the Chamberlain auto with the driver receiving a shower of glass down his neck. The shaft then ripped into the top upholstery of the car directly over the head of a woman passenger sitting in the rear seat. Neither person was injured.

A second delivery wagon was involved in a minor accident this morning on Bridge Street East but there was little damage except the wagon was involved in his harness, Bert Gurling, driver for Belleville Dairy has been a turn on Bridge Street when Dr. Austin Walters, backing out of his driveway backed into the wagon when he failed to see the vehicle.

Motor-cycle Smash-Up

Raymond LeGuff, 209 1-2 Front Street, suffered a shaking up when the motor-cycle he had ridden skidded in front of a slow moving transport. A Canadian National transportation truck of Picton, driven by Clifford Hermon of that town, was turning into McAnany Street from Front Street, when LeGuff's motorcycle skidded as he attempted to pass the truck on the left.

12 Motorists Fail to Stop, Pay $5 Fine Each

That city police are making a concerted effort to keep Belleville streets safe for pedestrians and motorists alike, was indicated by the city police court this morning which showed that no less than twelve motorists had paid fines of $5 each, for failing to obey a designated stop streets.

Three other motorists paid fines ranging from $8 to $18 for speeding on city streets.

Five individuals were listed on the docket for being drunk in a public place. Three paid their fines and the two others were given the conventional ten day jail terms in lieu of payment.

One lone motorist contributed $5.50 to city coffers when he failed to take cognizance of a parking ticket which had been placed on his windshield with result that a summons was issued.

Jack Snoddon Named President Of Association

Jack Snoddon, Riggs Motor Sales, was the unanimous choice of the Belleville district unit of the Ontario Retail Farm Equipment Dealers Association, for the 1950 presidency at a well-attended meeting held at Golden Acres last night. President Snoddon succeeds former president W. B. Box of Napanee.

Other officers elected are, vice president, Len Foley, Picton and Earl Morgan, Belleville, who will be the new secretary treasurer.

Guest speaker at the dinner meeting, Harold Rollins, in an interesting address pointed out the important part the dealers are taking in the "biggest business in the world," agriculture.

"Through the media of dealers," he added, "modern tractors, implements are being placed with the farmer of today and equally important is the service maintained by the dealers in keeping the machines operating.

Mr. Rollins paid tribute to the many who have helped bring farming methods from the old horse-and-buggy days to the present modern machinery and methods which have brought agriculture in general to the high standard it now enjoys.

During the meeting, Harold Meyers, vice president of the Provincial Association, gave an interesting report of the executive meeting of that body held in Toronto recently. He urged all dealers who can possibly do so to attend the annual ORFEDA convention in Toronto in January when the Provincial Minister of the Junior Farmers Tractor Rodeo, sponsored by the Ontario Department of Agriculture will be held at the Toronto Coliseum in conjunction with the convention slated for Jan. 16 through Jan. 20th.

Following the meeting, the dealers were entertained by Frank Hockaday, well-known local ventriloquist and his humorous stooge "Willie McGhee."

Holders of Municipal Offices, Aspirants To Council and Education Board Outline Programs at C. of C. Meeting at Collegiate Present holders of municipal offices gave an account of their stewardship; first time candidates promised their best in the interest of the city, a few heads were bared and a few criticisms were heard Thursday evening at the Belleville Collegiate Auditorium as candidates for the various civic offices in Monday's municipal elections were heard at a pre-election meeting.

The meeting was sponsored by the local Chamber of Commerce and was attended by every one of the 34 candidates seeking office, and by several hundreds of local citizens and tax payers, in addition to the various candidates the meeting was honored by presents both for and against the two mill grant for the parks board, against a five-cent membership for the public utilities commission.

Meeting Success

All in all the meeting was a success, this being measured by the increased interest on the part of the tax payers in the administration of civic affairs. The meeting was presided over by Arthur C. Bateman, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

First speaker of the evening was Mr. Lorne McDougall who spoke of the need for establishment of a recreational committee in this city.

Mr. McDougall reviewed the various steps taken leading up to the decision on the part of the civic committee to sponsor a recreation commission. He said that in view of the present government's subsidization it seemed to him that the time was ripe for the city council to form such a commission and take advantage of the government grants available for this purpose.

Council Took No Action

Numerous local organizations had been asked to submit representatives to various meetings to consider the matter the unanimous decision was that the commission should be proceeded with. The commission would be a draft by-law and submitted it to the 1949 council before the election to ascertain what the city council had taken no action on the matter.

Mr. McDougall referred to the lack of leadership in recreational activities in this city. He pointed out that a local service club some years ago had provided two playgrounds with equipment costing several thousands of dollars. It was evident that the equipment as there was no one to look after it. He also said that outdoor rinks had been operated only spasmodically through it being no one's responsibility to see that going. School gyms and other buildings for general because of lack of supervision.

Leadership Needed

The local Kinsmen's club is planning a swimming pool but without guidance it is doubtful if come to disuse just as surely as the wading pool in Victory park. Private organizations had done a lot for recreation, but leadership and co-ordination was needed on a city-wide basis.

Mr. McDougall stated a recreation commission must be set up by city council and must be backed by trained direct, a small survey of city householders revealed proved that approximately 50 per cent of those replying were in favor.

"What we need is someone on council to sponsor the project," concluded Mr. McDougall. "Personally I would be delighted to see such a committee set up and would be willing to express their views on the matter. I am sure there is much support for a recreation commission in Belleville.

Mayoralty Candidates Heard

Mayoralty candidates spoke first during the course of the meeting in which aspirants for council and board of education were heard. Candidates for council and for the board of education chose their speaking position by lot.

Alderman H. Jack Allin as candidate for the mayoralty chair declined his remarks almost entirely to the necessity of city tax rate being kept at its lowest possible point and pointed to his ten years of service on council as qualification for the job as first magistrate. He stated he was present chairman of the industrial commission, was a member of the traffic committee and was deputy chairman of public works.

"Today the residents of our city are wondering what the tax rate for next year is going to be," he said. "Experienced heads in your city council can hold that tax rate down."

Must Meet Commitments

He went on to point out that previous commitments must be met by the city but maintained that with careful expenditure by the city should have the sanction of the taxpayer. True, he admitted that large expenditures in the past had received the approval of the municipal board but felt the tax payer should have the right to approve or disapprove.

"I say across civic expenditure must stop," Mr. Allin continued. "By this I mean that this year's less expenditure—it must stop some time and it may as well be next year."

Again referring to the fact that his previous council experience would prove invaluable, Mr. Allin stressed that the city needed men with practical experience on civic matters as well as experience in business.

Expresses Appreciation

J. J. "Jack" Trudeau, also as mayoralty candidate expressed his appreciation to the Chamber of Commerce for making the pre-election meeting possible.

He pointed to his business experience as well as to his municipal experience gained through being a former alderman of the city.

His platform in seeking election as mayor and which had gone out through the press, the radio and through the mails, was promising that if he were elected he would conduct the affairs of the city in a business like manner.

Strict Economy Needed

Strict economy in the public works department was needed in the present time, he said, and business principles as to purchases of materials and supplies. There should be an inspection of all city streets in the autumn so that expenditure could be given the incoming council. Mr. Trudeau stated he favored sidewalk snow removal and although he appreciated the city had been "snowed under" he felt a reasonable job could be done if correctly managed.

"A master plan for the city sewer and water systems was needed," he said if elected he would undertake to prepare such a program which he said would save the city thousands of dollars. Town planning was necessary to provide for orderly growth of the city without unnecessary expense.

Native of City

Jack McNab as candidate for alderman-at-large in the first person of this city, was a businessman and as a taxpayer had studied municipal matters. He felt that he could offer something to the city and promised, if elected, to work for "sound and aggressive civic administration."

Richard J. Goodfellow, grocer, stated this was his first experience in offering himself as candidate for any municipal office. He also believed he could offer something to the administration of civic affairs. He expressed his appreciation to his nominator and seconder and asked for the support of the electors as aldermanic candidate.

Dennis L. Swan, industrial engineer, as a new comer to the city introduced himself as a "planner" for industrial firms, by which field he had met with some success. A native of British Columbia, he said "he had studied accountancy engineering in California and then had been with Canadair in Montreal before coming to Belleville little more than one year ago. He was offering himself for council at the request of some residents in the city. He said he had been disappointed at the seemingly lack of interest of the people of Belleville in civic matters as had been indicated by the few residents attending council meetings.

Must Pay Bills

Max Mathews, customs excise officer, offering himself as aldermanic candidate, said he was a man with three wives and children. He was interested in Belleville because he wanted his children to be able to stay here after they were living.

"Belleville is a growing city," he said, "and it is having growing pains. But we have to pay the bill."

With an energetic council he said, the city would continue to go ahead, but good men were needed. He did not promise to be a superman but if elected he would do all in his power to hold taxes down.

Opposed to System

Alderman Charles Hyde in offering himself for re-election said he has been a resident of the city for 40 years and a business man for 30 years. The city was expanding and experienced men were needed on council, he said.

Mr. Hyde said he was opposed to the new system of holding council committee meetings whereby each council committee met individually and then submitted their recommendations to council. He said if he were returned as alderman he would insist on a return to the former system in which council met as a committee of the whole.

Arthur L. Burke, in offering himself for re-election to the board of education reviewed his stewardship with the board stating he was the present chairman of the property and supply committee. As a home owner in the city he was interested in civic matters, including education.

Increase in Pupils

With the present city expansion there was an increase in the school population, this being so serious that new schools were demanded. As a result a modern five room school was nearing completion in West Belleville while preliminary plans were under way for a second new school in East Belleville. "Next year the board faces a multiplicity of problems," he concluded. "The future of our boys and girls in this business of the control of education—experience will count."

Jack R. Carter, in offering himself as an alderman-at-large stressed the fact that it had been civic pride and interest which had resulted in the development of the Dominion of Canada, just as it had been civic pride and interest which had been responsible for the growth of Belleville. He said he was just an average citizen with pride in the city.

IN MEMORIAM

GROW — In loving memory of our father, Marshall Grow, who passed away December 1, 1945.
Grow, dear father, soon forever,
Memories of you we cherish,
None on earth can take your place.
A happy face, a smile so true,
How sweet the memory still,
Dear Lord, in heaven let it be shared,
We would can never fill.
Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by daughter Myrtle and Husband.

POMEROY — In loving memory of Henry Pomeroy who passed away December 2, 1943.
Sweet is the memory of a loved father and mother, wife and family.

SMITH — In loving memory of our dear son, William Edgar Smith, who passed away on December 3, 1943.
Sweet is the memory,
Dear is his name,
Sad are the hearts he will always remain.
Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by Harold, Ivy, Jessie and Ronnie.

hi; home city. Children's playgrounds were needed as were planned parks. The bayshore was a disgrace. He promised his best efforts if he was elected.

Points to Previous Record

E. Ormonde Butler in offering himself for election to council pointed to his previous municipal record as an alderman from 1936 until 1947. His service during that period had been based on "what I believed the people wanted."

He felt there were three requirements in civic administration and listed these as 1. honesty in civic government; 2. enthusiasm in civic government; 3. usefulness in civic government. He said if this was carried out the city of Belleville could go a long way. He said that he felt his 10 years as a lawyer and nine years as a councillor could be of benefit to the city.

Clare C. Clarke in offering himself for alderman said he had only one thought in mind—service. He had given faithful service for 30 years, the Bell Telephone Company, as a contractor, and felt that he had gathered many friends, simply by practising the golden rule. He was not a politician but if elected said he would work for "honest and efficient" civic government.

Recreation Facilities

George DeWuyst, restaurant operator, in offering himself as alderman said his program would be recreational facilities for Belleville children. Associated as he was with the restaurant business he had heard many complaints from parents and from tourists as to the lack of recreation facilities in Belleville. Provision of recreational facilities would do much to reduce juvenile delinquency, and this was necessary as the city council had passed up the opportunity of establishing a recreational commission at the last sitting of the city.

He said that citizens were entitled to an "open council" so that the people would know what was going on.

Served in Navy

James H. Graham, also an aldermanic candidate, reviewed his early life in Belleville and of his being educated here. He had served in the merchant navy during the war but was glad to get back to Belleville.

He felt that he had attended many council meetings during past two years so as to understand and understanding or what was required of a councillor. He regretted that he was not elected in 1948 for the opportunity of attending council meetings.

He criticized previous councils for lack of consideration in naming streets and referred to the similarity of many street names, the Dundas and Bridge streets but there were three streets in the city named McDonald, Kenmore, Ivy Herchiner and still others with similar names. "This may only be a small matter, but it is important," he said.

Dr. Lily A. Harrison in offering herself as a candidate for the board of education said she appreciated the work the Chamber of Commerce was doing in affording the citizens an opportunity of knowing what was going on in the city.

Spoke of Background

She spoke of her background educational matters, referring to the fact she had been one of the organizers for home and school clubs in Toronto while she was a resident there. She had been one of the official speakers for the home and school council. She felt she could make a contribution to the board of education and promised if elected to attend meetings regularly.

As aldermanic candidate John P. How appreciated the Chamber of Commerce sponsorship of the prosperity meeting and stated that 1950 would be one of the most important years in Belleville's history.

He warned however that unless there was a greater public citizens would face a "tremendous" tax burden. He was in favor of paving and new industries, new businesses and increased assessment would mean lower taxation only if the city affairs were efficiently managed, and during the there was efficient administration.

Made Eligible By Law

Robt. B. McCulloch stated he was hanpy to be able one again to offer himself as candidate for board of education. He referred to previous years of service and hoped he had been of assistance. He regretted that although his home was outside the city, a recent amendment of provincial legislation made him as a result eligible as a candidate.

Favors Present Commission

F. Russell Wotten given acclamation as member of the public utilities commission, he expressed his views in favor of a three-man commission instead of the five-man commission being asked by council. He pointed out that under the present three man commission fuel and water rates in the city were among the lowest in Ontario.

"There is no justification for a five-man commission in Belleville. Mr. Wotten said. "Larger centres such as Toronto and Hamilton have but three-man commissions and they spend millions more than we spend but hundreds. Surely a three-man commission is good enough for Belleville."

He added that a five-man commission would be superfluous.

Question Period

In a question and answer period following Alderman Tice was asked why there were not more free skating periods at the rink and in addition, if not, Mr. Tice pointed out the arena was booked solidly for hockey practices and games and there was a high expenditure at the arena and that it was not possible to ask for further subsidization from the city. He did not want the arena free of debt it should be turned over to a commission to operate as much free time given as possible. He could not speak of the future of the arena again this year as he was not a member.

Another question directed at Alderman Tice enquired why labor was not represented on the hospital board. In reply Mr. Tice said that council had voted for labor to be represented on the board next year following a letter from the Labor Council. He added that the appointment again discussed at the inaugural meeting next year.

Answers Given

Still another member of the audience wanted to know from Alderman Charles Hyde why the city expenditures were not published in the newspaper. Mr. Hyde assured he did not know unless it was a case of too much concealment at the City Hall.

Alderman Thomas was asked why council did not appoint a new Parks Board. It was said the present board was not satisfactory. In reply he said that Parks Board members were appointed for three year terms with two members of the board retiring each year. Referring to Mr. Rollins' statement which showed an honorarium expenditure of $900, he said he did not know what the amount was for.

Within Budget at Present

Alderman Lummiss was asked what amount the Public Works Committee expected to keep the budget this year. He replied that if weather conditions were favorable and little snow, the public works would stay within its estimates.

Still another member of the audience wanted to know from Chairman Arthur Bateman why there had been no opposition expressed to the grant in regard to the five-man commission.

Mr. Bateman said his committee had realized that there should be a speaker on this matter but it had been too late to secure a speaker.

On a question as to whether his figures of 1949 Parks Board expenditures and receipts had included interest, Mr. Rollins replied in the affirmative.

Property Owners Only Vote

He pointed out that property owners only would be able to vote on the question but urged that all tenants enlighten their landlords as to the need for parks in the city.

He went on to point out that the present annual receipts of the parks board amounted to $14,493.96. For a income needed for from three to four thousand it would mean the owner would have to pay possibly three dollars extra if the two mill rate went into effect. "That is an amount per day."

Mr. Rollins pointed out that carrying of the two debentures issues against the present parks board took roughly $6,510 annually and the balance left in the parks board budget was too little to carry out the necessary work. The board wanted to rehabilitate Victoria Park and to develop Zwick's Island. He thought this could be done by careful planning if there was no attempt to go "all the way" in one year.

Opposes Mill Addition

Speaking in opposition to the additional two mills the parks board Alderman Thomas pointed out that he was in no way opposed to parks or recreational facilities. He was, however, opposed to the "lack of business management" of the parks system.

He went on to say that in 1948 the parks board spent $18,572.27 on parks. But what did they get on parks. But what did they get in return. Mr. Thomas went on to cite the various receipts of the parks board and said that if the board had been under the administration then he would approve of the additional one mill, if not the two mills asked for to meet the extra money.

He stated the parks board debentures would soon be paid off and he could see no additional money for other parks board work. Also the assessment would be increased with more buildings and he could receive in 1950 close to twenty thousand dollars.

Recommended Purchase

Alderman Thomas continued that although the parks board had disapproved of the plan a committee from council had considered favored establishment of a park at the foot of Dundas Ave., Victoria Ave., district and had recommended the purchase of the Barlow property for this purpose.

He said the Doctor property in the Bridge Ward consisted of two acres and would cost the city $8,000. The Barlow property consisted of 5 1-2 acres and would cost $8,500. He said the Barlow property was level, had more trees and would cost less to develop than the Doctor property.

In rebuttal Mr. Rollins said that the parks board was given the parks board in 1948, after debentures had been passed, amounting to $10,701. Against this expenditures at the ball park totalled $1,415; exhibition park, $1,000; band stand, lights, lavatory and grandstand cost $2,138, Victoria Park cost $1,277; Corby Park, $427; Memorial Park, $271; other parks, $548; playgrounds $283; flowers and planting, including foremen, $764, insurance $674, Eastern Electric Company $1,200 and honorariums $900, making a total of $10,851, representing an overdraft of $130.

SAVE KILOWATTS

Much has been heard of water shortage which in the long run means in this age power shortage and it is well for each and every user to try to save as many kilowatts of power as it is possible. Every consumer realizes that with some thought and care there can be a saving effected which will ease the tension and strain on the resources of Ontario's great Hydro Electric Power system which has been and is transforming life in city and town and countryside in Ontario by the services which electricity can render people everywhere. It is the handmaiden of progress in the electric age.

Ontario is proud of this great public utility which is adding to the health, happiness and wealth of the people of the Province and whatever aid each and every user of electricity can render will help serve the Hydro and therefore all the people. The time is not far distant when new power will be developed with the bringing in of the great Hydro projects under construction and until that time consideration of the needs of all for Hydro energy should occupy the attention of consumers. Every kilowatt saved will help the situation.

Electricity has done a great deal to ease the burdens of the people and to bring development after development and it will be at no very distant date that there will be more power available through the resources of the water in the great reservoirs of the Commission.

NEARING HOLIDAY SEASON

The last month of the year has come and brought the time very close to the Christmas festival now little more than three weeks away. There is just enough of winter in the landscape to impress upon all the fact that the season which marks the height of the year calls all to the preparations for the glad occasion.

Into the three weeks which remain before the mid-winter festival will be crowded a large volume of business and more interest than goes in other seasons into a much longer period.

The coming season is that time of year which grips the emotions of Christmastide in the hearts and minds of all the people. There is the preparation for the homecoming and the family gatherings which are part of the celebrations of the time when the year nears its close and the thoughts afterwards turn to the promise of Easter and spring.

The modern world rightly gives great prominence to Christmastide because about the central fact of the celebration, the Birth of Christ, are gathered all the riches of human experience, the wealth of ages of faith, inspired by this great event, the most important in human history and the life of this old world.

Henceforth the people's time will be absorbed in the multitude of plans and preparations for the anniversary. Into the scene come the children who are so much on the minds of all at this time because Christmas celebrates the Birth of the Child who has changed the whole course of history on this planet. Fittingly therefore the little ones in the homes come into the fulness and richness of the facts and traditions associated with this hallowed time, enriched through the passage of more than two thousand years, in which men have embellished the celebration of the central event of world history.

A STORY OF CHURCHILL

Here is a tale comforting to Britons because of the moral that whatever may happen to them there is something enduring in the national character:

Winston Churchill was riding in a first-class railroad carriage. Opposite him sat a man about his own age, who, Mr. Churchill noticed, kept glancing at him. After half an hour, the man spoke. "I say," he said, "if your name isn't Churchill—"

"It is," Mr. Churchill replied.

After another half hour's silence, the man spoke again. "I hope you don't mind my asking," he said, "but is your Christian name Winston?"

"Yes," said Mr. Churchill.

There was another half hour's silence, during which the man nervously fingered his old school tie. At last he spoke again. "I say," he said, "by any chance, did you happen to go to Harrow?" — New York Times Magazine.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

TEMPEST IN THE TY-POT

As of currently, funnyman Ed Wynn and equally funnyman Milton Berle are feuding, fulminating and throwing four-letter words at each other. Wynn maintains that Berle is a gag-gangster who makes his living off the labors of a pun, and accuses him of having swiped some of his best jokes and characterizations. Milt's defense is a brash "So what." He points out that, like Shakespeare, he has taken nifties where he found them, and wisecracks that he sees at each others' show should make an exception in the case of Ed's material.

This tempest in a TV-pot has been getting so much space in the columns and theatrical trend papers that recently a network executive and producer had issued a stiffish statement calling "for an end to the word-brangling—he said it was hurting the morale and quality of the television industry.

Well, maybe it was time to put in my oracle, but if I were the network executive I wouldn't brood about their wrangling. Providing, that is, it doesn't last too long. Show business feuds are as old as the silly business itself and, up to a point, they lure the public into paying out a lot of tickets.

Of course, I might feel a little differently about it if this were 1949 instead of 1949, because that was the year when at least between two actors touched off the Astor Place riot in which 22 people were killed and almost twice that many sent to the hospital.

The events leading up to this mayhem in many ways paralleled the Berle-Wynn feud. As for one thing, the issue at issue was the charge that one of the actors had acted another man's repertoire of plays, and for another, the actors involved were both rich. They had a Million in talent and temperament between them. Edmund Forrest preferred finesse to forensics, while Forrest, an American, had a flair for the dramatic and florid.

The trouble began in 1843 when Forrest opened in Manhattan to pick up some dollar exchange. Up to then, Forrest had been sock of the town's favorite actor, and when the spotlight switched to the visitor with the broad "a" he got jealous. And to prove he was a better actor, he duplicated Macready's entire repertoire, playing day-and-date against him in everything from "Hamlet" to "As You Like It."

The gent from Blighty naturally resented this invasion by an American of hitting below the belt, especially as Forrest went right to London two years later, Macready's fans vegetabled him off the stage.

Both actors showed up in New York for the season of 1848-49, and by this time their toy war had spawned international appropriations. On opening night at the Astor Place Opera House, Macready was greeted with bouquets, tomatoes and odd bits of two-by-fours, and ten minutes after the play started he asked to have the curtain rung down.

That might have ended the matter, but a group of fair-minded New Yorkers, headed by Washington Irving, persuaded Macready to try again three theatrical districts. Specified as "South Pacific" prices for tickets and long before curtain time the street in front of the theatre was jammed with brickbat-minded citizens.

Macready's performance of "Macbeth" was met with a steady barrage of epithets and comestibles, and during the first act he was pelted with more missiles than emoting. But at the beginning of the second act, he really got out of hand—a chair was tossed from one of the boxes and when it hit the stage rebounded and nabbed the troublemaker, the riot-lights broke out all over the house.

In the meantime, the crowd outside began to collect more stones, and just as it was preparing to take the theatre by storm, the National Guard came charging up with a battery of field cannon. As for what followed, when smoke and tempers had lifted 22 were dead and 36 badly wounded.

The following week, Macready sailed for Scotland and never, to say, for keeps and quits. And poor Forrest, who was blamed for the massacre, never got over the ugly rap that hung on him. He died a broken man.

Of course this all took place in the days before the stiff upper lip existed or vitamins, and the supporters of Berle and Wynn don't figure to go in for anything as manish as mayhem. On the other hand, if the feud keeps up much longer, their fans might resort to something like the television comics would consider even worse than murder.

Letter to the Editor

Asks Questions On Snow Plowing

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.
May I have a small space in your paper to ask a few questions?

It is winter time once more and sidewalks are to be cleared of snow and ice after each snowstorm. Now the first question is, why is it that all sidewalks alongside Fireman's Park left uncleared while walks in the rest of the city are shovelled?

People have to use sidewalks according to law to work at eight a.m. in the morning while people on the city staff do not start their snow job until 9 o'clock and sometimes later. Yet they are supposed to be on the job early to walk on while the early worker can slip and break his leg or arm and still have to wade through it coming home at night. Also the early worker has a chance of being hit with cars.

Second question:
Chief Probert say no all night parking when across the park from Victoria Road to railroad cars are left there for days and nights and sometimes backed up on the walk?

When walks are not cleared and ice broken up with axes at the street a pedestrian has a slim chance getting up or down street in safety. Yet if walking on the road we are hit with a car or city fathers and police would ask what stiff fine we should pay. Another big track should get some attention as well as people who live on the north side of the election time again and as usual Foster ward will be neglected. Foster ward is not in city limits. Foster ward pays taxes. But after election people of Foster ward are forgotten.

Now with so many men unemployed it should not be hard to keep walks shovelled and give people of Foster ward a feeling that they are human beings and entitled to city protection.

Thanking you for your space and hoping to see some action and better service for the working people.

Ratepayer.

Allied Policy Heading Into Complications

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The allied policy of keeping Germany disarmed indefinitely already seems to be heading into complications.

This column the other day called attention to the reference by U. S. Defense Secretary Louis Johnson of the United States, Britain and France to "the U. S. Chief of Staff, that the U.S. is the only nation that has atom bombs." I commented that this created a strange situation, since we have come to regard the U. S. general part of the Western European set-up and treaties as protected.

Since that writing, the Socialist-democratic official newspaper of the Socialist party in Western Germany declared that the Soviets are creating a people's army of 300,000 men in the Russian zone and are keeping their politics even after the Russian military forces withdraw. Such a people's army would mean one armed red for every 40 persons in the Russian zone—not an ominous sounding figure.

The Socialist army newspaper Tageliche Rundschau made the charge that the Soviets and not the U. S. are creating a 180,000-man police force in their zone besides the 50,000 men now guarding 7,000 German police weekly. The western allies have built up the total police force for all three zones to 150,000 men—one policeman for each 416 persons.

There we have a situation which gives food for serious consideration. It is a position in which there could be a dangerous lack of political and military thought. Not to put too fine a point on it, there are indications that opinion is some important quarters as to whether Germany should be left disarmed in the interests of general peace.

The political viewpoint broadly speaking has been that German disarmament is essential to the maintenance of peace. This basic idea has been strongly supported by the French who have suffered so grievously from invasion in the two World Wars. The political view has been that Germany wasn't to be trusted again.

HOUSEMAID'S KNEE AND OTHER TYPES OF BURSITIS

At various points in the body, where muscles or tendons lie over bony prominences, nature has provided us with what corresponds to roller-bearings in a machine. In the human, these "bearings" consist of "sacs" or cavities, the walls or sides of which are formed of fibrous tissue. The interior of the sacs are normally moist because of a lubricating secretion which is derived from the interior wall of the sac. These sacs are known technically as bursae.

The bursae provide means for an "oiled" glide of a tendon or muscle over a bony point. The only time we become aware of the existence of these important structures is when the second condition known as "housemaid's knee." A bursa may become inflamed from injury or from infection. The bursa, lying in front of the knee-cap may become injured from repeated knocking or pounding pain, swelling and disability.

Bursitis, or inflammation of a bursa, is a common disorder. The conditions known as "tennis elbow," "tennis elbow," and "weaver's bottom," are bursitis of bursae in various locations. A bunion is another example of bursitis.

The type of bursitis known as "subdeltoid bursitis" because of its location beneath the heavy deltoid muscle of the shoulder, is very apt to become chronic. It may start in as a sudden, severe pain in the shoulder, limiting its movement and cause complete disability. This may persist in a severe form for a week or two and be succeeded by a chronic, but less painful stage of "rheumatism," by the misinformed. Early in the attack it is sometimes very difficult to determine whether an acute inflammation of the shoulder joint (arthritis) exists, in conjunction with, or apart from a bursitis. In the chronic form, lime salts are often deposited within the bursa or in the tendon which can be detected by an X-ray examination.

The time honored method of treatment, consisting of rest, heat and pain-killing drugs internally administered by the doctor alone. These procedures too often fail to give any appreciable measure of relief. An anesthetic may be injected into the area of pain with immediate relief following. Considerable success has followed the "new needling" technique, in which the interior of the bursa is entered by two parallel needles as a means for draining and irrigating the bursa. When this procedure is successful, limits may be flushed and repeated if usually permanent.

X-ray treatment is a valuable procedure in chronic bursitis. It is perhaps less effective in the acute form. Results are not immediately apparent, but a series of treatments has been shown on numerous occasions to cause the lime deposits to disappear and restore normal shoulder function.

In some instances, the deposit of lime is so extensive that nothing short of surgical operation can be expected to remedy the situation. In this procedure, an incision is made down to the bursa, which is opened, and the lime removed. It may be necessary to remove lime from the tendon or muscle at the same time, where it has been deposited.

If the bursa has become infected and require incision to permit drainage of pus.

Chronic bursitis may develop insidiously and become periodically troublesome following unusual activity. This is particularly true of the bursitis of which X-ray therapy seems particularly applicable to this type of bursitis.

A bunion, which is a type described in the foregoing, blends itself to correction by surgical operation. It is possible that some relief may be afforded from the pain or bunion by specially padded shoes, pads and other devices, but all these are temporary expedients.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

The Christmas coma is already descending upon us. All you have to do is look around you to see the big clerks to realize that about 73 per cent of our population is in a well-known trance.

It seems to strike the ladies first. They are so far appear to be wide awake, and push their way through the Christmas throng bringing; in their eyes, some glimmer of consciousness, but in fact the ladies are expressionless. Their eyes are vacant. They are glassy, slightly open. And they walk slowly, absently, like sleep walkers.

They grope. Not one of them knows where she is going, or why. The more bundles they carry, the more the Christmas coma grips them. They are hypnotized. They wander. They get into the thickest parts of the crowds and push with it, staring blankly ahead. They allow themselves to be propelled.

Occasionally, you will see them attempting to struggle back to consciousness, as they try to turn right or left into another aisle of the store. But if they get a slight whiff of the perfume counter-walker behind them, they immediately lose their intention, and go drifting back in the direction they were originally going.

If I had a revelation, they try to board the down one, to go up. And the elevators, they get bewildered, in huddles: and if they are going one floor up, they try to get on the roof by the back of the car. If they see a particularly dense throng, they are attracted to it, perfect puppy, like moths to a candle. Once inside, they forget each other with their elbows in the ecstasy of their coma.

In another week, the men will be infected too. Their wives will have got us all. Everything within the big stores will be half mad, half speed, or less. There will be a scene of immense rush. But it will be all slightly unreal. The twilight sleep of Christmas shopping will have come upon us, deadening the pain.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

SYMBOLISM IS A STATUE

In Copenhagen there is a great statue of Christ made by the Danish sculptor Bertel Thorwaldsen. It is a huge piece and the head of Christ is high above the floor of the church. One has to go down to see his face, one has to get down on his knees, very close to the altar to see it.

There is symbolism in all this. People sometimes think that they can read the Biblical account of the life of Jesus or read books about his life and understand him. But Jesus, in addition to being a historical character, is a living, universal personality, still influencing the lives of men. We can only understand Jesus when we get close to him, when we get kneel.

Missing $2,000
Bankroll Found
And Returned

Toronto, Dec. 3 (CP)—Peter Arnauld, 67-year-old barber, had his missing $2,000 bankroll returned Thursday night and Harry Ryder, one of Arnauld's customers, got a reward of $100 richer for his honesty.

On Wednesday night Ryder, a street-car operator, found the roll of bills in the doorway of Arnauld's barber shop. He gave it to police.

Arnauld didn't miss the money until late Wednesday when he discovered a hole in the lining of Arnauld met Ryder at the police station Thursday. Arnauld went home with $1,000 and Ryder left with $100.

Mrs. J. F. Lane, Wellington, was a recent guest of Mrs. R. Vaclavik, at the parsonage, in Stirling.

WEDDINGS

ALEXANDER—VINCENT

Amid a setting of 'mums Wreathed Joyce Vincent, Sudbury, daughter of Mrs. Viola Vincent and the late A. Vincent, became the bride of Robert A. L. Alexander, Gatchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Alexander, of Trenton. The wedding took place at the rectory of the United Church in Sudbury, with the Rev. Mr. Terry officiating.

The bride wore a winter pink suit with navy hat and shoes, and a corsage of roses and baby 'mums.

Mrs. Lee Alexander was matron of honor and wore a Kelly green suit with grey accessories. The groomsman was Lee Alexander, brother of the groom.

For the reception at the bride's home, the bride's mother received wearing a dress of black moire taffeta. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore grey crepe.

Mrs. Haines, Mrs. Rorison, Mrs. Blueman, and Mrs. Williams, also assisted at the reception. Mrs. E. Jacobs and Mrs. H. Ringe poured tea and Mrs. A. Harding, Mrs. W. Wilson, Mrs. M. Modesto and Miss Shirley Newstead served.

For a honeymoon to the newlyweds travelled to points south and upon their return will reside at 43 Bulmer Avenue, Gatchell.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Alexander, Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. Phil Blondin, Trenton, and Mrs. H. Vincent of Kitchener.

BELLIS—McGUIRE

A wedding of interest was quietly solemnized in Christ Church, Belleville, by the Rev. J. Grant Spariing, on Saturday, November 19, at 6:00 p.m., when Catherine Margaret, daughter of Mr. James McGuire and the late Mrs. Annie McGuire, was united in marriage to Leonard Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bellis, Canniton Road. The altar was tastefully decorated with mixed chrysanthemums and ferns.

The bride was becomingly attired in a street length dress of navy blue sheer with lace yoke and matching hats, with pink plume. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds.

Miss Hazel Little, of Hillcrest, was bridesmaid, attractively gowned in a street length wine-colored dress with gored back, navy accessories and a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

Mr. Kenneth Bellis ably supported his brother as groomsman.

Following the ceremony, the happy couple informally entertained their many friends and relatives at a reception held at the bride's home, Coleman Street.

NO AGENDA DRAWN UP YET

Ottawa, Dec. 2.—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today no agenda has yet been drawn up for the January dominion-provincial conference on amendment of the constitution.

He was answering a question by Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) in the Commons.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about Food... What's Cooking?

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC".

If you're offering thanks, don't forget the tin can.

The can of meat which was packed in England in 1824 and recently opened and found edible calls attention to the common article which saves time and motion in every cook's life.

Strained and whole cranberry sauce, canned mince meat, plum and fig puddings, canned dried fruits and pumpkin are a few of the labor savers which have been constantly improved over the years.

For the average family cook the job of laboriously peeling, cutting, cooking and straining raw pumpkin can be eliminated in favor of canned or glass-packed pumpkin without any misgiving. Pumpkin chiffon pie, fluffy with egg white and whipped cream, can be made the day before and brought to the table cold and shimmering, fragrant with spice.

As in warm pumpkin pie, brandy, whiskey or sherry may be added for flavor. Use a pie mix or any standard recipe to make the pie shell.

Pumpkin Chiffon Pie

Bake a 9-inch pie shell and cool completely.

Place 1 tablespoon (1 envelope) plain gelatin in 1-4 cup cold water to soften.

In the top part of a double boiler, put 1-3 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon ground mace, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon ginger, and 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon. Add 3 egg yolks and 1 1-4 cups canned or cooked strained pumpkin. Mix very well, blending thoroughly.

Place over bottom part of double boiler. Cook over simmering water until mixture begins to thicken, about ten minutes. Add gelatin; stir until gelatin dissolves. Remove from fire.

Add 1-4 cup orange juice, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind and 2 tablespoons brandy or whiskey. Cool mixture. Place in ice box. As soon as it shows signs of jelling (test by scraping bottom of bowl), beat 3 egg whites until stiff. Gradually add 1-2 cup sugar to egg whites and fold into pumpkin mixture. Beat 1-2 cup heavy cream until thick, and fold into mixture. Pour into baked pie shell. Place in icebox to become stiff. Serve with added whipped cream if desired.

Do you want a particular recipe, or have you a cooking problem? Write Mario, care this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope for his reply.—Ed.

Women's Activities

BRIDGE STREET W A

The November meeting of the W.A. of Bridge Street United Church was held recently in the church parlors.

The meeting was planned by Mrs. Francis and her group. Mrs. Morden president of the Association was in the chair.

After a short devotional period, under the leadership of Mrs. W. Northcott, Mrs. Ken Bird sang a solo, accompanied at the piano by Miss Leona K. Riggs.

Mrs. Morden then introduced the guest speaker, Miss Riggs, who has just recently returned from an extended tour of Europe.

Miss Riggs told of her stay in Paris, vividly describing for her audience the beautiful boulevards, wide avenues, gardens a riot of flowers, the sidewalk cafes, the travelling musicians, and told some of the amusing encounters she had with various French people.

Although Miss Riggs spent most of her time in Paris, she did go to Spain and also spent some time in England.

At the conclusion of her talk, Mrs. C. B. Morgan graciously extended the thanks of all those present to Miss Riggs for her most interesting and informative talk.

After a short business discussion, Mrs. Francis and her group served tea.

ST. ANDREW'S WOMEN'S GUILD

The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Guild was held on Tuesday evening with Mrs. W.M. Barlow presiding.

Mrs. H. Elvidge read a passage of Scripture. As this will be the last meeting of the year, several items of business were discussed. It was decided to present a life membership in the Women's Missionary Society and a cash donation is to be given to the Girls' Work Board, to assist in the work of the C.G.I.T.

Mrs. H. Elvidge and Mrs. George Wallbridge were appointed to nominate officers for next year, these are to be presented at the January meeting.

Following the business period refreshments were served by Mrs. Kane's group.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Publishing of Photographs for Two Engagements

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

There have been various opinions expressed concerning a certain question, and I would very much appreciate your opinion on this. If a girl has been engaged before and her picture was published in the newspaper when the engagement was announced, and then the engagement was broken, would it be proper for her if she becomes engaged a second time to have her picture printed in the newspaper with the announcement of her second engagement?

B. K.

Yes, this would be proper . . . provided there were a 'reasonable' length of time between the engagements — a year would, so that there would not be unattractive comments. And certainly the same photograph should not be used!

To One Is Mourning

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am in mourning, my son (33 years of age) having died recently. I have no desire to send out Christmas cards this year. Will you kindly tell me if I am right in not sending out card—

M. N.

Please, dear lady, please don't add this unnecessary strain to the heavy burden of the moment that is in your heart. Of course your relatives and friends, knowing your recent bereavement and your sorrow, will not expect you to send Christmas cards.

Morning Ceremony Simple Breakfast Evening Reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please help me. I am to be married during the Christmas holidays. My fiance has been in the service for five years, and it hasn't been possible for us to save very much money. We are to be married at 10 o'clock in the morning, so of course will have to have a noon luncheon. To this luncheon must I invite sisters and sisters, the three grandmothers, the other close relatives, or just parents on both sides? Also do I have to invite the boy friends or fiances of the bridesmaids if they are not in the wedding party? We are to have a large reception in the evening.

L. V.

Since you are to have a large reception in the evening, my suggestion is that you have a 'wedding breakfast' directly after the ceremony (have a real breakfast menu served, if you wish, or a simple luncheon menu appropriate to that hour), and invite only your attendants, your mother and father and the groom's mother and father. This will be entirely proper, and will keep the expense at the minimum. Then to the evening reception, invite as many guests as your budget will accommodate.

Lady on Right of the Gentleman

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a couple goes up the aisle, for example when attending a wedding or a funeral, the lady walks on the man's right. Right? When coming down the aisle should she walk on his right or left?

A. B.

The best of all rules for these occasions and for practically all circumstances, is . . . 'The lady at the right of the gentleman.'

Invitation to Reception in Church Parlors

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When you receive an invitation to a church wedding, and on the same page an invitation to the reception which reads "and afterwards at the reception at the church parlors," should the reception invitation be answered?

Yes. This reception invitation should be answered just as you should reply to a separate reception-card invitation, or to an invitation to a reception to be held in some place other than the church parlors. This response is not only a courtesy to the hosts of the wedding, but is practical information for them, since they must know how many guests to provide for, no matter where the reception is to take place.

The simplest form for the acceptance:

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Graham accept with pleasure the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Hillhouse for Tuesday, the fourth of March

Poet Urges Writers To Draw on Selves

Vancouver, — (CP) — Why do people want to write? For love or for money?

Canadian poet and author Dorothy Livesay Mrs. Duncan Mcnair in private life, put the question to 70 students at University of British Columbia extension department's first creative writing class.

She drew the general answer "both."

A housewife said she writes . . . for the pleasure of choosing words and bringing characters to life."

An Indian girl hoped her writing would help to . . ." present my people's views more effectively."

Miss Livesay—holder of the Governor General's award Canada's highest literary honor—urged the students to "draw upon yourselves" to achieve the best in personal writing.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Noses that blush like the rose.

There are beauty griefs that are just in your eye. You look in the mirror and start to worry. Nobody else notices them but you. This state of affairs goes on all the time with teen-agers. But no girl or woman imagines a red nose. There it is right in the public eye. No denying it. No telling yourself it doesn't matter. It matters a lot and something should be done about it.

When the North Wind doth blow the cerise nose is in its element. It flourishes like a green bay tree, and there is no health in it. A Pretty Thing will make herself a new fact, tint her cheeks to a very pleasing rosy glow and then everything is just dandy. But when she gets to the party her impertinent nose has taken on the appearance of a stop-light. She wishes she had stayed at home with her rosy-posy-nose buried in a mystery story.

The cerise nose is in its element during the cold weather

That nose will have to be weather-proofed if it is not to make a nuisance of itself. To accomplish this pesto-change act one must not use hot or cold water when washing the face, but have the water just warm enough to fluff up a lather. Extreme heat and cold have a stimulating effect upon the little capillaries that are close to the surface of the skin.

It may be wise to change to a different soap. Complexions sometimes improve when a different cleaning agent is used. Rinse every bit of the soap away. At bedtime, apply ointment of zinc oxide. Put on a thin film very gently; do not massage. In the morning, rinse the face with tepid water, dry and apply witch hazel with pledgets of cotton, letting it dry on.

It is a good idea to use a foundation cosmetic before powdering. Those toiletries act as protective agents against a cold atmosphere and harsh winds. Be sure to follow directions. If the foundation is a creamy substance, put it on in little dots all over the facial surface. Blend the dots together until the creamy substance has practically done a disappearing act. Leave just enough to make the powder stay on.

Mind your dietary habits. Avoid highly spiced foods and rich sauces of all kinds. Drink plenty of fruit juices. Take five or six glasses of water a day.

If the redness is present all the time it isn't just due to exposure to the elements, see a medical man who specializes in diseases of the skin and scalp. Some infection may be responsible. These troubles should be treated in the early stages, as they often prove stubborn.

Fashion Flashes

REALLY distinguished fabric coats are seen at the smartest afternoon gatherings. A beauty is of velvet and broadcloth, both black. The velvet bodice has a tiny collar that curves high to the back, dolman sleeves that taper to tight wrists, tiny carved jet buttons. The full skirt has pockets concealed in side folds.

A NEW lease on life is the happy lot of squirrel, with the fur being beautifully worked and handled. Mink or sable dyed squirrel, the skins let-out, is used for a handsome wrap, with elbow-length, cuffed sleeves worked from beneath the cape back fingering. The dipping cape flows into a straight paneled stole in front.

IT'S A BIG season for fine woolknits, a handsome suit of geranium red hand-knit wool is made with a deep shawl-like tab collar and is notched around the hem. Skirt is very slim and straight.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

There's A Warning For Other Women In This Wife's Bad Blunder

When a person has made a mistake, and there is no retrieving the error, the only reason for going back and pointing out where the person was wrong is with the thought that it might save someone else from making the same mistake.

To tell the young wife who writes me about a legal tangle she has got herself into, that her difficulty is the logical result of a bad blunder she made, will not help her any. But it is worthwhile emphasizing that fact if, to do so, makes any other woman in a similar position stop and think before she makes a similar blunder.

The young wife in question is 21 years old, and the mother of two small children. In three years of marriage she has had to put up with her husband's drinking, gambling, irresponsibility about keeping a job and actual physical abuse. "He has tormented me to the point of wanting to kill him," she says vehemently.

Recently, when he committed physical violence on her, she took him to court, as he was told to stay away from her and the children. Now she has filed suit for divorce.

Unfortunately, however, while she and her husband were still living together, her unhappiness and fear drove her into a piece of imprudence that has had serious results. She wrote a letter to a former beau, in which she poured out the whole story of her unfortunate marriage. In return, she got a letter from him saying that "he wanted me and the children." Thereafter, she went out on a few double dats with the young man, her sister-in-law being the other girl. She thought her sister-in-law was on her side and was sympathetic towards her. Subsequently, she went out again with the young man, this time alone, and was seen by someone who gossiped about it. Apparently, the sister-in-law reported all this to the girl's husband, and her husband has now told her that when her divorce suit comes up he will fight it on these grounds.

At present, her husband has a good job, and has told her that he wants her back; that he realizes his mistakes and wants to try again. She, however, as is only natural, is skeptical about his reform.

"If I take him back," she says, perhaps he will mistreat me more, because I cheated on him. And if I did go back with him, how can I tell the other fellow of my decision without breaking his heart the second time?"

Her fear is that if she does not agree to her husband's proposition, he may be able to use her indiscreet renewal of her friendship with the other man to make it appear in court that she is not a fit mother for her children. "If I have to, choose between my children and the other fellow," she says, "I'll take my children."

Since this girl has already filed her suit for divorce against her husband, the only person competent to advise her in this new involvement she has brought on herself is the lawyer through whom she filed her suit. Moreover, it is urgent that if she has not already done so, she tell him exactly what happened. The only hope of getting the thing properly handled is for the lawyer to know all the facts, immediately, for she would be in a sorry situation, indeed if it appear in court that she is not the husband's accusations came as a bit mother for her children. "If a surprise to the lawyer when the I have to choose between my case came up in court.

Newspapers Link West Coast Ports in Joint Edition

Prince Rupert, B.C., — (CP)— The story of the growing economic importance of northern British Columbia and its friendly neighbor, Alaska, is told in a recent international edition published by two newspapers, the Prince Rupert Daily News and the Ketchikan Alaska Chronicle.

The single issue, published Nov. 17, was the co-operative work of the two newspapers. The Daily News printed a 24-page, two-section edition and with it went a 16-page Alaska Chronicle edition.

The international edition was sponsored by the Prince Rupert Trades and Labor Council (AFL-TLC).

The port of Prince Rupert, says a story in the Daily News part of the issue, is linked in common destiny with Alaska's shipping and industrial interests.

Prince Rupert, 600 miles closer to southeastern Alaska than is Seattle, the original port for Alaska trade. With the advent of statehood for Alaska, certain shipping restrictions are expected to be removed.

See Shipping Growth

Industrial expansion in Alaska, with the building of pulp mills and other projects, will provide increased tonnage for the port of Prince Rupert, the most northerly terminus on the Pacific coast of a trans-continental railroad—the Canadian National Railways.

Prince Rupert is the halibut capital of the world, with millions of pounds of the valuable fish landed here each year from Canadian and United States vessels for rail shipment to eastern markets.

Millions of dollars are being spent in the construction of a cellulose plant which already gives employment to 700 workers. It will require large-scale logging operations to feed the mill, which is designed to produce purified cellulose for textiles and plastics.

Construction of a new home for the Daily News is to be started shortly. It will be of modern construction, featuring the latest in newspaper office planning.

The Daily News was founded 40 years ago. Its first publisher was G.R.T. Sawle, now of St. Catharines, Ont. Since 1943 it has been under the control of H.G.T. Perry president and managing director. The managing editor is A.G. Hunter.

Britons to Build Persian Oil Town

London, — (CP) —Eight bricklayers, carpenters, electricians and steelworkers were the advance guard of a labor force to be flown to Persia to help complete the building of a new oil town on the Persian Gulf.

Named Kuwait, the town has practically no women—and no British women at all.

For eight months the workers will live, work, eat and sleep in an all-male holiday camp atmosphere.

By Christmas 17 flights will have transported another 220 men from all over England, Scotland and Wales.

The 300 workers, most of them middle-aged and married, have been chosen from more than 1,000 applicants.

Say No Cliques In Yellowknife

Victoria, B.C. —(CP)—Reporter James McKeachie likes the people in the Northland and says there are no artificial social cliques in the town of Yellowknife.

In an address here, Mr. McKeachie described his voyage from Victoria to Great Slave Lake aboard the converted landing craft Yellowknife Expeditor.

"People of Yellowknife are genuine," he said. "They are proud of their country and want the rest of the world to know about it. It's a rugged country...and it's for young people."

Everybody there—and there are about 7,000—seems to be directly interested in gold stocks. It is not uncommon to see several waitresses in a huddle discussing prevailing gold mine price standings.

He said the 13-year-old town is no longer a boom town, but is settling down into a small progressive city.

Because transportation of any kind in the area is at a premium and costs of delivering goods are high, Yellowknife people are a practical lot.

He told of the local undertaker there whose former R.C.A.F. panel truck served as a hearse, and when funeral business was not booming, as a taxi-cab. His rates: $200 horizontal and 50 cents sitting up.

T.B. Mortality Alarms Britain

BY DON GILBERT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, (CP) —Britons needing urgent treatment of tuberculosis have to wait as long as a year for a hospital bed. With 1,000 fresh cases showing up every week, the national waiting list is growing steadily longer.

"Patients are living in their homes begging for the treatment which can be given in hospital and which cannot be obtained until it is too late," the Royal College of Physicians was told by one authority on the disease, Dr. Geoffrey Marshall.

For the first time in half a century, the fight against tuberculosis mortality has lost ground. While the increase in the number of deaths has been slight the rise in new cases reported is sharp. It is estimated 250,000 Britons are suffering from tuberculosis in one form or another.

Delay in getting serious cases under treatment is partly due to the general shortage of nurses and partly an aftermath of the war years when the network of sanitoria and hospitals carefully built up to fight the disease was switched to care of war casualties. The resulting disorganization has not yet been straightened out.

At present 11,500 serious cases are without hospital beds. Many of these, says the National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, are spreading infection among others and themselves are in danger of passing from the curable to the incurable stage.

The upsurge of the disease has been sharpest in Scotland, where 3,417 died in 1948 against 2,717 in 1939. Some phases of Scotland's tuberculosis statistics are the worst in half a century and there are more T.B. deaths in crowded Glasgow than Hamburg, one of German's worst-bombed cities.

A writer in the Lancet, authoritative medical journal calls for a "sanitary revolution" to fight the disease. But health officers point out that one of the most important factors in any such campaign, elimination of overcrowded living conditions, will remain a long way off as long as the country's economic difficulties continue.

THE CHILDREN'S CHEST

Edmonton — (CP) —While the Community Chest campaign went on in Edmonton, Mrs. J.E. Eden from London England, arrived to tell Premier Manning and other government officials about another appeal. It is the Children's World Community Chest, of which she is honorary director. Her president is Lord Boyd-Orr, winner of this year's Nobel Peace prize.

"SURPLUS" WOMEN

London, — (CP) —Women far outnumber men in Britain. At the end of 1947 there were 2,380,000 "surplus" women compared with fewer than 1,700,000 in 1931.

$2,000 Bankroll Found on Street

Toronto, Dec. 3 (CP) — A big coarse bankroll, wrapped in rubber bands and totalling $2,000 was found on the street here Wednesday night. Up to early Thursday no one has claimed it.

Henry Ryder, a street-car operator going home from work, found the bundle on the doorstep of a store on Queen Street in the city's east end. After a discussion with his wife he deposited it at the Pape Avenue police station.

If it's not claimed in three months the police will return it to Henry. But he's not making any plans.

"They'll be all kinds of people saying they lost that roll," he observed gloomily. "One of them might be the right one."

REFUSED TO DRAW PENSION

Bath, England, — (CP) —Mrs. Eliza Ann King, who died five weeks before her 100th birthday regarded the old age pension as a charity. She always refused to draw it.

FOUND DEAD IN CAR

Regina, Dec. 3 (CP)—Bodies of John Harache, 34, and Eunice Scott, 31, both of Regina, were found Wednesday in an automobile at nearby Pinkie. R.C.M.P. attributed the deaths to carbon monoxide poisoning and said a long rubber hose had been rigged up from the exhaust to the trunk of the car. A .22-calibre rifle, loaded and cocked, was found in the back seat. The couple had been going together for several months.

A PERSONAL MESSAGE TO THE VOTERS!!

VOTE "NO" ON THE 5 MAN COMMISSION BALLOT

On Monday next you will be handed a ballot asking the following question: "Are You in Favor That the Membership of the Public Utilities Commission of the City of Belleville Should Consist of Five Members of Whom the Head of the City Council Shall, ex-Officio be one?"

This will be to replace the three man Commission now functioning and it is the writer's advice that you VOTE NO TO THIS QUESTION for the following reasons:

VOTE NO BECAUSE:—

1st — It is the honest opinion of the writer that the Commission of three members as presently constituted can transact the business as efficiently, if not more so, than a larger group and certainly at MUCH LESS EXPENSE TO THE UTILITY USERS. Why pay 5 men to do a job when 3 men are now doing it satisfactorily?

2nd — This entire suggestion of a five man Commission emanated originally from a small group who as far back as August, 1948, tried without success to dominate and dictate the financial and management policies of the Commission and if they had been able to do so it would have been to the detriment of all utility users in Belleville, in fact a By-law passed at that time to create a new five-man commission forthwith, was quashed by Mr. Justice Wells in his Judgment dated November 23, 1948.

3rd — On March 3rd, of this year an attempt was made to have the Private Bills Committee of The Ontario Legislature ratify the same By-law which would create a five-man Commission for Belleville without the assent of the electors, and this of course, the Private Bills Committee refused to sanction.

4th — The vote being taken on Monday is at least the democratic method of making a change such as this—if a change is deemed necessary. YOU, THE ELECTORS will at last have an opportunity of voicing your opinion as to whether you want to add further administrative costs and expenses to your utilities — EXPENSES THAT COULD VERY WELL JEOPARDIZE THE LOW POWER AND WATER RATES YOU NOW ENJOY.

The above statements are the personal opinions of the writer and are made only to enlighten the voting public as to what they are actually voting ON and FOR next Monday.

Signed,

F. R. WOTTEN

Military Glider Crashes to Ground Ten Are Injured

Rivers, Man., Dec. 2—(CP)—A military glider crashed into the frozen ground here Thursday as it came in for a landing. Its 10 occupants were injured, three seriously.

The smash-up occurred at the Canadian joint air training centre operated at Rivers for personnel of all three services—Army, Navy and Air Force. Group Captain F. A. Gilchrist, commandant, said the glider was nosing down for a landing when it piled up.

Medical officers said the three men seriously injured are not on the danger list.

Officials at the military centre said the glider had released its brake-arrester, a parachute which checks speed of the craft's descent, and the crash came a moment later.

Officials said that those injured included one air force man and nine army men.

Officials said cause of the crash was not known. A court of inquiry, under the authority of the R.C.A.F., was convened to investigate the training-flight accident.

Although injuries suffered by the men were not dangerous, it was decided to fly seven of the injured to Winnipeg for treatment at the Deer Lodge Military Hospital.

The three left in the Rivers Station Hospital were identified as Cpl. J. Clark of Brandon, Man., Pte K. B. Hogg of Sesforth, Ont., and Pte. R. R. Walkow of Winnipeg.

RCAF Association Plans Convention

Ottawa, Dec. 2 (CP)—The first national convention of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association will be held here May 12 and 13, Air Chief Marshal L. S. Breadner, Dominion President of the association announced Thursday night.

Decision to hold the convention in Ottawa was reached at the first general meeting of the association's Dominion executive Thursday. The meeting was called to formulate national association policy and to discuss development of the organization and problems met in the field.

Air Chief Marshal Breadner said that during the last year "we have organized 40 Wings with a total membership of more than 7,000."

North America Bill Passed Thru British House

London, Dec. 3—(Reuters)—The House of Commons today passed the North America bill through all its stages.

The bill gives to the Canadian federal parliament power to amend the Canadian constitution in matters lying solely within the jurisdiction of that parliament, without reference to the United Kingdom parliament.

It had already been passed by the House of Lords and now only awaits formal royal assent to become law.

Philip Noel-Baker, secretary for Commonwealth relations, said the bill arose out of an address presented to the King by the Senate and House of Commons of Canada.

Many people felt that the present situation was anomalous and might be embarrassing to Canada or British.

The statute of Westminister in 1931 conferred on all the self-governing members of the Commonwealth full power to amend United Kingdom acts which applied to them, he said. But at the request of Canada this power was not applied to the British North America acts in which the Canadian constitution was laid down.

Many people felt that the Canadian constitution, could at present be amended only by the British parliament. But all parties in British had agreed that this situation should continue only so long as the Canadians desired.

Canada's Position in World

Recalling a recent visit to Canada, Noel-Baker said: "I find that Canadians of all parties and of all provinces are conscious and proud as never before of Canada's position in world affairs and of the rights and responsibilities which it entails.

"This bill gives us a chance to pay tribute to Canada as a nation, to all she has done as a nation for us over many years, particularly in the last decade, and all she has done for mankind."

Oliver Stanley, Conservative member for Bristol West, associating his party with the minister's remarks said there could be no two thoughts about it. It was only because of Canada's expressed desire that the matter had to be dealt with now at all.

"I am sure the whole house is glad to do this Canada asks and in that we give some concrete example of the gratitude we feel to her."

71-Year-Old Recluse Taken To Hospital

Hamilton, Ont., Dec. 2—(CP)—A 71-year-old recluse who insisted she could take care of herself is in hospital here with a "50-50" chance of survival from frostbite and malnutrition.

Miss Edith Taylor, a member of a once-prominent Hamilton family, was found by police Thursday in her littered old family home. A doctor said she had probably not eaten since Sunday.

Details about the woman are scant. Some neighbors claim she has an estate valued at $100,000. But officials say they know of only three properties—amounting to about $15,000. She is said to have a niece somewhere.

Police said several cheques, a safety deposit box key and an undisclosed amount of cash were found in a room littered with refuse and filth.

Police were summoned to the woman's home by a neighbor who received no response at a locked door.

Doctors said she was ill for sometime but put off going to hospital because she wanted to get electric lights first to replace the ancient gas fixtures.

Religion as a Profession

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

By ROY L. SMITH

There is no more disreputable racketeer among us than one who operates under the cloak of religion for the sake of advancing his own personal interests.

This was one of the most serious problems in the last days of the little Hebrew Kingdom of Judah, and it is likewise one of the most shameful blots on the modern religion scene.

Predatory Prophets

In the midst of the political revolutions and upheavals which overtook the Hebrews during the last few decades of their existence as a nation, a considerable number of priests and other religious leaders attached themselves to the government for the sake of their own political fortunes. Just as always happens, certain individuals cast in their lot with the party in power in the hope that they have picked a winner, supporting the scoundrels as long as there is any chance of success.

Theoretically at least the Temple system among the Hebrews was reasonably free from political control, but every king managed in one way or another to control the Temple priests. His soldiers guaranteed them incomes and his power kept them solidly behind the official policies of the government. Thus they became the religious sponsors of oppression, ruthlessness and social injustices. Meanwhile it was easy for them to persuade themselves that the system was good because it was good for them.

Jeremiah, the Radical

To the professional priests and prophets who depended upon the favor of the king for all their personal advantages, such a man as Jeremiah was a dangerous radical. His insistence upon justice to the tenants of the big landlords, his vigorous defense of those who were involved in debt and in danger of losing their homes, his sermons against the popular immoralities of the time all this had the effect of disturbing the status quo, and the privileged always stand ready to defend the mortality as well as the economics of things as they are.

It was one of the principal purposes of the professional priests and prophets to censure the people, to persuade them that everything was as good as it could be hoped for under the circumstances, and that to disthrb the status quo was to invite any remedies that might ever become possible.

But Jeremiah was won of those sages who is never deceived by an appearance, and never deluded by a mirage. He knew suffering when he saw it, he felt with those who were in pain and he resented as if it had been done to him all the injustices that were heaped upon the people. Because he voiced his opinions the religious leaders of his time denounced him as a revolutionary and sought to have him put out of the way.

The Sunday School lesson for December 4th is "Jeremiah Rejected." Jeremiah 26:12-15; 36:22-26.

The Pagan God Billikin

Two or three decades ago a grotesque little figure might have been seen here and there also the desks of business men, standing on little pedestals in doctor's offices, and occasionally on the mantle piece of some thoughtless home. It was entitled "BILLIKIN, the god of things as they are."

It was at the shrine of Billikin that the religious leaders of Jeremiah's day performed their obligations. They believed in the government as it was, in religion as they found it, in the good life in which they were guaranteed a generous share, in the customs of their fathers, and in the king who kept matters under a strict control. To all of this they added the sanction of religion much as some religionists would do today. But the City Fell

In the long run, however, the city of Jerusalem fell, in spite of all the false prophets who assured the kings on the authority of Isaiah's doctrine of the inviolability of the Temple.

All the powers of an official religion backed by a professional priesthood, and sanctioned by prophets who hoped to maintain themselves in power through their alliance with the royal household, were insufficient to save a civilization that had within itself the seeds of its own destruction.

Farms Are Goal In Man's Battle With Fundy Tide

By RAE CORELLI
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Fort Lawrence, N.S., — (CP) — In this land of crushing tides and lonely grey marshes, the sea slowly is losing its 300-year-long battle with man.

From Bellveau village in southeastern New Brunswick to Minudie in northern Nova Scotia and down along the low-lying shores of the Annapolis Valley, the first fall invasion by Bay of Fundy tides subsided last week.

The Nova Scotia government reported recently that a project it is financing with the federal government and marshland owners to reclaim 80,000 acres of inundated coast is progressing slowly but "satisfactorily."

The reclamation scheme so far has been launched over 11,800 acres with the help of 394 marsh owners. Federal and provincial engineering and survey crews work from a base at Amherst, N.S. Dams, breastwork and dikes are being repaired and built. Canals may be added to the list.

Men are building to hold back the thundering tides which in spring and fall, swell under rains, winds and the moon's pull. A heaving Atlantic delivers the punch as it sweeps up the ever-narrowing Bay of Fundy. Chignecto Bay and its numerous rivers and streams lining the New Brunswick and Nova Scotia shores.

Highest in World

Near the head of the Bay of Fundy, these eddying waters have piled up 53½ feet—the world's highest. Up the 190-mile-long resurgent Petitcodiac they hurtled in 1869, splintering a bridge and licking the back steps of city hall in Moncton, N.B. The average at Moncton is 22 feet.

Farmers along the river-bearer of the famed tidal bore, a first rate tourist attraction—say damages from the annual incursions normally are insignificant. A dike collapses here, a breastwork there. One or two floods a year enrich the soil but more spoil bad news for the next year's hay crop because the Petitcodiac's salt water river when the tide is high.

But others note that if the marshes were reclaimed they might be good for other crops besides hay. French settlers started the job in the 17th century.

Hydrographers explain the bore this way: the outgoing tide is retarded by friction on the wide flats in the river's lowest reaches. The incoming Fundy tide churns into this lower stream and overflows in a waterfall front. The resultant "bore" thunders on upstream sometimes reaching a height of five feet. When it becomes swollen—it goes over the side.

Like its sisters down the coast, the Petitcodiac spends an ocean's commissioner to Canada spread of bushes.

Aussie Elections Drawing Nearer, Eggs Significant

By ANTONY WHITLOCK
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Canberra — (CP) — The campaign for the Australian general election Dec. 10 is warming up. To date however, there have been few incidents to bear out Immigration Minister Caldwell's prediction that it would be one of the dirtiest in the Commonwealth's history.

A few Communist speakers have been run out of country towns and an egg has been thrown at Arthur Fadden, Country party leader, at an election rally. The egg-throwing incident brought about some breezy publicity and Mr. Fadden proudly displayed the tell-tale stains in Sydney the day following the rally.

In most countries an egg here and there is treated as the natural give and take of electioneering, but in Australia there is a deeper significance.

One such egg earned its place in Australian history during the second conscription referendum in 1917. William Morris Hughes, then prime minister, stepped on to a platform in the little Queensland town of Warwick. As he urged a vote for conscription a hefty Irishman stepped out from his fellows and let fly with an egg it missed, broke on the ground and conclusively proved that it was at least old enough to vote.

As a ranging shot, however, it served its purpose. A second egg struck William Morris Hughes fairly on the hat. A returned soldier swung a punch at the Irish thrower. Within seconds there was a free-for-all with the ebullient "Billy" Hughes near the centre of the fray.

Demanded Action

He came out of the struggling mass with clothing torn and eggstained. Enraged he strode over to the senior policeman calmly watching from the outskirts, and demanded that the police do something about the anti-conscriptionists.

But the senior policeman, one Sergeant Kenny (brother of Sister Kenny of infantile paralysis fame) had a mind of his own and made no move. Enraged Mr. Hughes yelled: "As attorney-general and prime minister of Australia, I order you to deal with these people."

Replied Sergeant Kenny, who knew his constitution and state-federal rights: "I am concerned only with enforcement of the Queensland law."

Hughes went back to Melbourne then the federal capital with a burning resolve. Even though he lost the conscription referendum, he was going to start a police force do what the prime minister of Australia told it to do.

Hence was born the Commonwealth Police Force. Its duties are not heavy, because in Australia most of the police work is done by autonomous state forces. And such federal intelligence work as is done by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in Canada is in Australia done by federal security organization separated from the police.

But at least the Commonwealth Police Force must do what the prime minister orders.

Private Wallace Gets Decorations

Victoria, B.C. — (CP) — Wallace the huge St. Bernard mascot of the "Fighting First" Canadian Scottish (Princess Mary's) led a parade here of more than 63 veterans receiving awards for overseas service in the Second World War.

Capt. J.R. Warburton called the first name on the list.

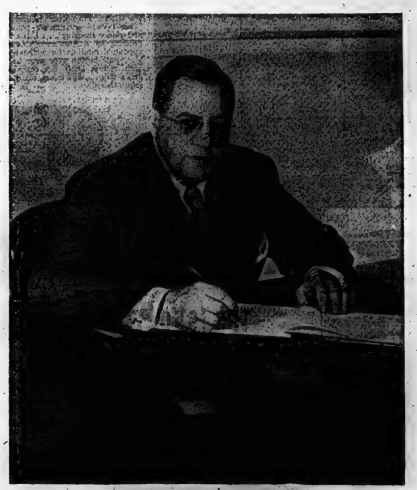
"Private Wallace, Regimental Number K-9."

While 800 spectators looked on, the old dog slowly got to his feet and eyed his master, Piper Andy McGeorge. The piper offered his bagpipes to Wallace, who solemnly accepted them, and together they marched to the reviewing stand.

Wallace eyed his master approvingly as he briskly saluted Brig. F.N. Cabeldu, and offered back the bagpipes. Piper McGeorge accepted and presented the dog with his awards—each in an envelope.

The dog carefully held the packet in his massive jaws and master and dog returned to the ranks as the crowd cheered and clapped.

BARN FIRE LOSS $14,000



Ketchley, Ont., Dec. 1 — (CP) —Fire, which destroyed the large wooden barn on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Ian Moore here Wednesday caused damage estimated at $10,000, partly covered by insurance.

The fire broke out in the early afternoon and the barn and its contents, chiefly hay, were soon ablaze.

Included in the contents of the destroyed building were 70 tons of baled hay, a considerable amount of grain, farm implements, a pig and 34 chickens.

Begun by Church VOWR, St. John's Is 25 Years Old

By ALAN DONNELLY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

A radio station, getting no commercial revenue, paying no salaries and yet attracting a wide listening audience whenever it goes on the air, seems an impossibility to anyone with a first-hand knowledge of what it takes to keep a radio station running.

Yet there is such a station in Canada, and it's almost old enough to be the ancestor of many Canadian stations. VOWR, in St. John's, Newfoundland, completes its first quarter-century of broadcasting this year.

Since 1924, when VOWR first went on the air under the sponsorship of Wesley Church, now a member congregation of the United Church of Canada, the vigorous little station has been carrying on this unorthodox radio fashion.

It gets no advertising revenue from its programs, which go on the air every Sunday; its managing, technical and broadcasting staff receive no salaries; yet VOWR has been able to expand from the first, crude transmitting equipment to today's highly-complex and expensive station equipment.

VOWR isn't the only non-commercial station in Canada owned and operated by a church congregation. It has a neighbor in VOAR, which is operated by the Seventh-Day Adventist church in St. John's.

VOWR's Sunday broadcasting starts with a service from one of the Protestant churches in St. John's. Every Sunday evening it carries the service from its sponsor, Wesley United Church. It closes off the day's activities with one of those news broadcasts for which Newfoundland is noted—a rounding of personal, folksy news for the benefit of listeners in the province's outports.

Back in radio's pioneer days, Dr. J.G. Joyce of Wesley Church, now a minister in Montreal, lead a successful campaign to establish VOWR. Since then the planning for the station has been in the hands of a group of Wesley Church members.

Last year the 500-watt station was able to buy a modern 1,000 watt transmitter. Keeping up with the times. VOWR and Wesley Church are now launched on a campaign to buy $4,000 antenna system.

Its day-to-day operating costs are met in a variety of ways. Each year it sells by radio auction hundreds of articles donated by listeners. An annual concert, with local talent contributed free, brings in more money, and the church women have series of teas in aid of VOWR.

Although its 25-year performance has been something of a marvel in the radio world But the Wesley congregation is confident that the marvel will last—for another quarted-century at the least.

John Fisher, one of Canadian radio's top story-tellers, has now gone into print with a selected anthology of 30 of his best radio scripts, picked from more than 300 broadcasts describing the life of Canada.

The title of the book, "John Fisher Reports" is the same as that of his regular Sunday night broadcasting series over CBC's trans-Canada network. It is the fruit of more than 127,000 miles of travelling through Canada in search of drama in everyday life.

Published by the Niagara Editorial Bureau, this first book is intended as more than just a series of stories. It is the writer's verbal presentation of his stated belief that: "This Canada of ours can add a bright new page in the book of man."

Would Make Men Style Conscious

Birmingham, England. — (CP) — The only way make men fashion conscious is to give them a fashion dictator.

This was the suggestion put to London's men's wear retailers by a young outfitter here. He recommended a style committee by formed to decide what men's fashion are going to be for each season.

"Men are not individualistic about their clothes," he said. "Mostly they will wear what they are told and at present no one tells them."

His idea is to have a public relations officer, and broadcasts and television men styles just as there are with women's styles.

But the idea didn't take London retailers are happy to let Mr. Average Man slumber peacefully in fashion ignorance.

APPLES FROM ITALY

London — (CP) —Britain has placed an order for 20,000 tons of Italian apples. The ministry of food concluded the deal with the Italian Apple Growers Association and will pay £1,075,00 ($3,301,500) for the fruit.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1949

Experiences on the Ice Lanes Aptly Described by Syl Apps At Father and Son Banquet

Idol of thousands of hockey-minded youngsters and oldsters too, for that matter, Sylvanus Apps of the "Pride of Paris" and erstwhile centre ice star and captain of the Toronto Maple Leafs Hockey Club added at least 250 more ardent fans to his large circle of admirers at the Masonic Temple here Thursday night.

The slim, good-looking ex-skipper of the Leafs who judging from his appearance is far from ready "for the shelf" addressed a father-and-son banquet tendered by the Belleville Lodge No. 123 A.F. and A.M.

Befitting the occasion and in honor to their guest speaker members of the lodge decorated the banquet hall with the Maple Leaf colors of blue and white with hockey sticks adding to the sports color.

Larger homage-paying youngsters, faces aglow at the opportunity of meeting, hearing and seeing their hero of the ice lanes, thrilled to the occasion. And some of their dads had no less of a thrill than did the happy kids. After Apps' address, they thronged about the head table where Apps signed autograph books, cards and pieces of paper for the little fellows.

Answers Questions

After the address proper, the former Leaf player, now associated in a business way with the Robert Simpson Eastern Ltd, held a quiz session and many and varied were the questions fired at him by fathers and sons alike.

In his address, Apps dealt with some of his experiences while a playing member of the Maple Leafs ending with some safe, sane and solid advice to the youngsters who have a hockey career in mind.

Apps is not a polished orator. He spoke in a warm friendly manner without a sermonish touch and devoid of flowery superlatives. He talked rather than "spoke" and his whole address was more of the informal chatty type than that of the table-thumping afterdinner speaker.

He drew chuckles and sometimes loud laughter and applause with some of his anecdotes and stories of his experiences in the National Hockey League. He related a yarn about King Clancy, "who, he said, "never lost an argument ..and never won a fight." Clancy, always on the short end of a scrap had the sympathy of his Maple Leaf mates and they decided to do something about it. The next time Clancy mixed matters with a hockey foeman, they gathered about the struggling pair and wigwied Clancy on top of the battling opposition. Then they skated away. Chuck Conacher looked around to see how his mate was doing and heard Clancy's plaintive whisper, "It's no use, Chuck, I'm on the bottom again."

Tribute to Day

The fact that the Maple Leafs have won the Stanley Cup five times in eight years was a great tribute to Coach "Hap" Day, Apps said. His work has been one of the greatest factors in the hockey success of the Leafs. In the years between 1932 and 1942 the Leafs came close to winning but always faltered in the playoffs. Then came the victory year of 1942 when they defeated Detroit for the mythical championship after losing the first three in a row.

Next day a friend told Apps that at long last he was satisfied with the Leftian job of winning the cup in four straight games, but he added that why did you lose the first three?"

He decried the fact that professional teams know the result of a match before it is played, "All you have to do is come to the dressing room between periods and hear what Messrs. Day and Smythe have to say. That will be proof enough," he smiled.

Apps was signed as a hockey player after Connie Smythe saw him play football for McMaster University. Previously a scout had recommended him but Smythe said that anyone named "Sylvanus" would never be a hockey player.

"What's wrong with the Leafs?"

"What's wrong with the Leafs?" the annual question is now popping up again especially in view of what has happened during the past few days. Apps said, "Things are rough in Toronto at the moment but I still believe the Leafs will win the Stanley Cup next Spring. Smythe has said nine words and does things quickly."

Not to Neglect Education

In his advice to the 3 hockey players of the future the ex-Leaf strongly advised the boys not to neglect their education for sport. "If you do become a topflight hockey player you will not make enough to retire on, and some day you will be looking for a job. You will find the fellow with the best marks gets the job so I advise all you boys to get all the education you can while you have the chance."

He urged the youngsters to keep in the best condition possible while playing. "for you will realize that condition is a great thing especially as you grow older. The best hockey player of the world going at half-speed is not nearly as effective as a mediocre player in full flight."

Get Lots of Rest

"Get lots of rest during the week for that important Saturday game," he advised. Diet is all right but the meals that mothers makes are usually the best. As for pie, he suggested that one occasionally does no harm, but there is no point in consuming pie after pie-cake.

Smoking, he felt, while an occasional cigarette not do any harm, neither does it do any good. The best thing to do is to stay away from it.

He urged not only "line" cooperation for the hockey player but team co-operation as well. If a goal is scored against the team don't blame the goalkeeper or any other one man. "Take a little of the blame yourself. In scoring goals, remember it is not always the player who gets the credit, everybody on the team helps in some why."

Good sportsmanship, Apps said is exemplified in the fellow who tries the hardest and does his best to win. If not successful he congratulates the winner. "I have no sympathy for the fellow who does not try to win. He should play golf, tiddledy, and above all leave the referees alone.

"Sportsmanship depends a lot on the early sports environment of a boy," the speaker said. "Our lessons learned while he is young will always remain with him. It is important too, that coaches of boys' teams should be able to not only teach them sport, but how to be good citizens as well. He advised the fathers to study and know the coaches who are looking after their sons' sports interest and insist that they be the right type of man.

"Above all," he said, "the boy should have confidence in his own ability to play. The same goes for the school work. If he is nervous he cannot do his best. If he thinks the fellow on the other team is better than he, he might better skate to the bench and stay there. Regardless of whether you think the other team is better than yours go out there with the idea you can beat them. and nine times out of ten you will," he concluded.

Apps was introduced by Bro. Harold Mott with the appreciation of the meeting voiced by Bro. "Mac" Macklem.

Worshipful Master Ray Gunsolus acted as chairman for the banquet and officially welcomed the guests. He later presented the guest speaker with a token of appreciation in the form of a Belleville Black Diamond checker chess.

Proposing the toast to "The Boys" Bro. C. A. Perkins answering his own question "What is the worth of a boy" said he is worth just what his father wants him. If more fathers recognize this fact, the world would be a better place in which to live. "A boy," he said, "needs love, sympathy and understanding and deserves proper recognition. His body, mind and soul, must be developed. It is obvious that a boy is the gold of which manhood is coined."

"A fine son," he said, "is a greater asset than the finest farm of the world. Success in life does not necessarily mean success in a profession player in full flight."

Britain Factor in Solution Of World Problems, Club is Told

The Women's Canadian Club was privileged to have as guest speaker last evening in St. Thomas' Parish House, the brilliant and gifted commentator of world questions, Mrs. John F. Davidson, who addressed a capacity audience on "Britain in the World Today".

Mrs. Davidson, who was born and educated in Latvia, and who received her post-graduate education at Smith College, Northhampton, Mass., thence going to England, and from there back to Latvia, and returning later to England, has had an unique advantage in seeing behind the scenes, and is highly qualified to give an opinion on the chaotic condition of the world, both economically and politically.

"We must look the world's happenings squarely and fully in the face," said Mrs. Davidson. "The right perspective on current affairs needs humility and imagination, something which is rare in common people, as well as in uncommon people. We seem to be in a confused state, surrounded by economic problems, the factors are depressive, while others are exuberant. So we need to look at the mean between these two extremes.

British Children Reported Healthier

"There has been much criticism levelled at the Labor Government of Britain. But British children have never been healthier, nor have there been more persons employed, and the children are better educated, than ever before.

"The depressionists would have people believe that Britain is on the verge of bankruptcy, while others would say she is entering into Utopia. The truth lies between these two Britain is not equally recovered from the effects of two global wars, but is striving to that end, and the system she is trying to work out is not finished, as anything fully great is never really finished. Today Britain is in the difficulties of being a balancing factor between the United States and Russia, and the world's anxiety depends on Russia and the other nations.

"The battle of ideologies is going on today all over the world, and Britain has tried to see herself in peace and tranquility, not dominated by either communistic beliefs or fascist doctrines." The history of a nation is perpetual, a story that goes on and on: the germ of a movement is there, and in time comes to fruition like the Labor Government of Britain, and its social security, which is not really new, because forty years ago provision was provided to those who were unable to procure food, but it has now come to the fore.

Dislocation of Trade

"As Britain gathered up the sufferings of two wars, her investments ran out, trade was dislocated, which made it impossible for her to feed her 47,000,000, She was obliged to import many times more goods than was exported, and as her reserves ran out, business concerns would quit order, but waited for the pound sterling to be devalued, because it cost Britain more to produce than the same production cost in other countries. She had either to devalue the worker or the pound sterling. If the worker had been devalued it would have led to recession and lower standards of living, which would eventually have led to a world-wide depression. So the pound was devalued from $4.03 to $2.80. This was done even before Sir Stafford Cripps assumed it, because there was the existing gap between the dollar and the pound. To compete with the United States so that they could sell British goods, there was about the same price, devaluation took place.

Devaluation was not considered a remedy for the ills of the nation, but a means to do something about it, and so the B.B.C. countries (Britain, Australia, and Canada), met to do some revolutionary thinking. When the pound sterling was devalued, 22 countries were also devalued. Russia would be pressed to see the economic status of the ABC countries fall into pieces. If they took up co-operatively it will tend to evolve world trade and production.

Britain Factor in World Solution

From the depressionist point of view, statistics, therefore, they would must see Britain restored. She is searching for two ideologies, economic and political, for a middle way, and it is by economic stability that we understand that the test is being made. Political and economic ties go together and be interwoven, else each will harm the other.

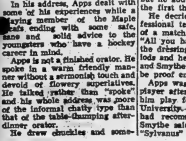
"The strength of character of a nation is the government's decision to ride out the crisis, come what may, to be together in words, more co-operative in action for the victory of one economically sound world; this, and the great home-coming which will take place in 1951 from all parts of the world of Welshmen, Scotsmen, and British will help to bridge the gap as they meet to view the Great Concert Hall which will be erected, surpassing even the historical Crystal Palace".

Mrs. W. J. Doyle, president of the Club, extended appreciative thanks to Mrs. Davidson for her interesting and lucid lecture, after which tea was served in the downstairs assembly room.

Thousands of Cards Go After Tourists

Halifax, — (CP) —The man from eastern Ontario's 1,000 islands is a top-notch go-getter when it comes to tourists. And the secret of it all is thousands of cards.

In one year Billy Wilson has handed out at least 5,000 of the little cards bearing his name and, on the other side, messages extolling the tourist fame of Gananoque in Ontario and the surrounding lake and river district.



Mr. Wilson, 71, has been manager of the publicity and tourist bureau of the Gananoque Chamber of Commerce for 24 years and for 10 years the secretary-treasurer of the 1,000 Islands Lawrence River Rideau Lake District Association.

With Mr. Wilson it's always business first. While attending the annual convention of the Canadian Tourist Association here he made sure everyone present received one of his cards.

D. Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian Travel Bureau said recently if he had 25 men like Mr. Wilson across Canada the value to the Dominion's tourist industry would be "unlimited."

For $6 A Week A Man Can Live If He Tries To

By RALPH DIGHTON

Los Angeles, — (AP) —Albert Enoch, 57-year-old chemist, has been living for some years now in on economic twilight which he calls "the far side of the sun."

He gets along—adequately and without complaint—on a total of $6 a week. He earns the $6 himself.

Until a few weeks ago Enoch had resigned himself to obscure poverty. He set but one condition for the remaining years of his life—financial independence.

How he attained the goal—on six self-earned dollars a week—was one of those human-interest stories that go unnoticed in a busy metropolis.

Then his modest design for existence suddenly became a cause celebre—an issue in California's current pension controversy.

"The pensioners in the hotel where I live jumped all over me the day the newspaper carried a story about my $6 a week budget," Enoch says. "I used to have a lot of friends at the hotel. Now I haven't any.

"They say my $6 a week, for which I am indebted to no one, makes their $75-a-month state-paid pensions look a little like a fraud. Well what's done is done. I meant no harm."

His carefullyplanned budget for foods comes to only $1.50 a week. It consists of small eggs, bacon ends, evaporated milk ground meat, fish, honey, peanut butter and coffee. He also buys a sack of tobacco and has about 20 cents left over from the $1.50.

Hotel Room Cheap

His only other expense is $3.75 a week for a room.

"When my leg doesn't bother me," says Enoch, "I walk to the wholesale market and get my vegetables free. After 10 o'clock in the morning you can salvage considerable fruit and vegetables from the big containers where they put produce that is unsaleable but still good.

"Today I got onions, potatoes, celery, carrots, lettuce, peppers, corn and grapes.

"From the Salvation Army soup-line may get bread and cakes for the asking. I work for my clothes at a church. You can get a free haircut in the basement of the Union Rescue Mission, although I usually try to give the barber a quarter. The also have facilities there to press your clothes and take a bath. I find enough odd jobs to earn about $2.00 over my room rent, and that's all I need.

"Of course, you have to stuff your pride up your sleeves and adjust to living on the other side." The "other side," Enoch says, means the areas of any city where the poor live.

"It's another world, a world of the aged and lonely who sit in rockers and talk about politics or the past; of the people who wear old clothes and whom you don't see when you pass them on the street; a hemisphere on the far side of the sun, where the inhabitants get less than their share of warmth."

French Craftsman Buys Prairie Land

Regina, — (CP) —A master glass maker from Reuns, France has joined the ranks of Saskatchewan's farm population.

He is E. Rault who since a trip to Canada last year bought some land in the Swift Current district. He isn't sure what he's going to do with it yet. But he feels it might "come in handy some time."

"I now am a small farmer," he said in an interview. He visited Regina to discuss further art projects with his western Canadian agents. While here he examined the stained glass windows he designed for Holy Rosary Cathedral and installed last year.

Mr. Rault has adopted ultra-modern business techniques to one of the oldest forms of artistic expression. His craft is carried on nowadays in much the same way it was 1,000 years ago But he hurries from place to place by airplane and does most of his business by telephone or cable.

He has heavy commitments. And the destruction of thousands of delicate stained glasswindows in Europe during the Second World War makes him a busy artist indeed.

When he gets an order for a window, he likes to visit the church personally, and take his own measurements. He creates an appropriate design as he works

Then he submits a colored sketch, drawn to scale, for approval. A full-scale colored drawing is prepared. The glass, which is stained in the molten state, is carefully cut, pieces by piece, and joined to the other stained fragments with strips of lead.

During the Second World War, Mr. Rault continued his work underground with the help of his brother and another workman. Since lead was in great demand by the German occupation authorities, he did all of his work in secret in the basement of a church in Rennes.

WALLBRIDGE

Wallbridge — Foxboro Tennis Club members held a dance and euchre at the Orange Hall, recently. A good crowd was present and all enjoyed a very good time.

A few members of the Wallbridge W. I. motored to Stirling on Wednesday evening last, and were entertained by the W. I. there, and a very enjoyable evening was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hendrick and family, spent Saturday evening with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Chisholm.

Glad to report Mrs. D. Trow, who has been convalescing at the Rowe Nursing Home is able to return to her home. All wish Mrs. Trow continued health.

The heavy snowstorm which came last week is fast disappearing, but hope enough will be here for old Santa to come with his reindeer to visit all his little boys and girls as Christmas will soon be here.

Graphic Picture of Nfld. Given At Mission Circle Rally Held Here

(By FLORENCE MACMULLEN)

Miss Ida MacKenzie, travelling secretary of Dominion Board of Mission Circles, gave a graphic picture on the theme "Newfoundland As I Saw It" at Bridge Street Sunday School rooms.

Miss MacKenzie spent ten weeks in the Autumn visiting the three presbyteria, Burin, Carbonear and St. John's in the Newfoundland Conference Branch of the Woman's Missionary Society. She arrived in Trenton on November 1st, having visited 43 different places, contacted 128 groups of adults and young people and 23 groups of students in public schools.

Pictures of Newfoundland

Miss MacKenzie is a fluent speaker to whom her listeners gave rapt attention as for over an hour's address which closed with scenic views, many of them in colors. The first slide was a historical picture of Newfoundland showing the exact spot where John and Sebastion Cabot planted their flag in 1497. Many other views pictured scenes at the time of confederation and then through the years, until Newfoundland became the 10th province. Beautiful autumn scenes with their lovely churches, harbors, W.M.S. boats, the salmon, cod and lobster fishing industries and many of the rugged outposts of the country gave the audience a deeper insight into this new province.

The speaker began her address with a map talk and said Newfoundland has 43,000 miles of surface and one-third of which consists of lakes and rivers. The population is around 330,000.

Two Methods of Fish Curing

Many people leave the province yearly to find work elsewhere. There are 6,000 miles of coast line with fisheries the main industry. She pictured two vastly different ways of "making fish" as the term used for canning. At Fortune, and Grand Bank, each locality uses an entirely different method, despite the fact that they are only 30 miles apart.

Grand Falls and Corner brook have large paper and pulp mills, while Belle Island is noted for its iron mines.

Many Varieties of Vegetables

Miss MacKenzie attended an agricultural fair where cabbages the size of wash tubs were exhibited, and where carrots were yellower. Here a retired Methodist minister grew over 70 varieties of vegetables and flowers in his garden.

The speaker visited the best building plants and she gave her audience an amazing description of her travels via "The Trinity Steamer" and schooner. She met numerous folk who had never travelled outside their own village, and some of these places reminded one of "Old England" in the days of Queen Elizabeth, with their English accents and various superstitions.

Outposts Have No Conveniences

The outposts where the United Church missionaries are at work, have no electricity and no conveniences of any kind; the roads are very narrow. All food comes by boat except what they raise themselves, the mail service is twice a week. There is no communication with the outside world except with their isolated people have a lack of opportunity.

The church and the school are the two buildings found in the outposts. The schools are under denominational guidance which gives it the advantage of being at the centre of all activities but it is not satisfactory for education.

Beautiful Churches

The churches are guides for sailors and at Catalina Church the bell on the church tower rings out day or night, summer or winter. The people have sacrificed to erect beautiful churches.

In the Newfoundland Conference Branch there are three missionaries at work. Miss Ruth Tillman, missionary-at-large in the Bonavista area, and Miss Nancy Edwards, missionary-at-large in the Twillgate Presbytery, while Miss Stella Burry is in charge of a community centre in St. John's. The hostel here continues to meet a great need as over 30 girls find there quarters, while they are engaged at work in the city.

Popular Vacation Schools

The vacation schools are proving popular and many mothers and children go to the areas and enjoy a much needed holiday at the parks. The mothers' club is a live organization with emphasis on personal living, richer home life and advance in missionary service.

Miss Edwards has her headquarters at the Harbor Grace Port. The little RCAF chapel is used on alternate Sundays for Anglican and United Services. All through this presbytery of Twillgate, there is a marked evidence in the many points throughout the Presbyterial and this included several from the newly-organized W.M.S. group at River Valley.

Among the Presbyterial officers present were Mrs. Albert Empey of Eldorado, president of Belleville Presbyterial, who introduced Miss MacKenzie, although she felt perhaps that most of the folk who had gathered did not need a introduction to the travelling secretary having heard her speak on several previous occasions.

Mrs. R. N. Broad, vice-president of Maple section; Miss Florence Down, 121 Georgs Street, Bellevills secretary, of Christian Stewardship; Mrs. O. Bertrand, Corbyville, R.R.1, secretary of Baby Bands, and two excellent of the Presbyterial, Mrs. Selden Homan, of Corbyville and Mrs. Stanley Spafford of Atkens were also seated at one of the special tables.

Miss Isabel McCabe, president of Bridge Street Circle graciously welcomed the guests.

Fine Program

Miss Norma Arkles led in a sing song of rollicking tunes and Christmas carols with Miss Margaret Hillis as pianist; Miss Mary Bertrand, of Plainfield Mission Circle contributed a piano selection; Miss Marion Allan, Hollow-way Street Mission Circle, sang "Teach Me to Do" Thy Will" with Miss Ruth Brintnell as accompanist.

In the discussion period "How Can We Celebrate the Anniversary Year, Mrs. D. C. Anes of the hostess circle, Miss Elinor Hobbis, secretary of associate of Holloway Street Circle, spoke briefly.

Miss MacKenzie called it "A Know Year," using five headings:

1. Know your Bible, Study Books, "Our Living Faith," "Pilgrims of the Lonely Heart" "Be Glad you are a Protestant."

2. Know your church. She put great emphasis on the study of "Growing with the Years". Read "The Glorious Company." The First Fifty Years," and be sure to subscribe to "the Missionary Monthly."

3. Know your community, find out other more members for your group.

4. Know your abilities, and then be ready to use them to a greater degree.

5. Know your opportunities, for missionary service, and the requirements needed for mission-ary training, and then share the knowledge with other girls.

A brief recess was given when a large array of books, devotional, stewardship, biographies and Eagle series were on display and Mrs. Sid Demorest, assisted by Mrs. Harold West and Miss Mary Hulls all of Stirling, sold and took orders for almost $14 of literature.

Beautiful Worship Centre

The evening worship was presided by members of Wesley circle on the Newburgh circuit. A beautiful worship centre had been arranged with an open Bible, a picture of the hands of Christ and lighted tapers.

Mr. Lorne Campbell leader of the circle, opened with all singing of a hymn and Bible verses were read by Mrs. Alvin Lockridge, and Miss Jean Nugent on the theme "Some of the things Jesus did with His Hands."

The leader gave a few thoughts on the theme and said, "Let us always remember about the people who felt the touch of Christ's hands and were different afterwards. Miss Helen Cook completed the worship with the vocal rendition of "The Touch of His Hand on Mine," accompanied by Miss M. Hillis.

Following the special address and slides, Miss Beth Davis vice-president of Holloway Street Circle, voiced the appreciation of all present when she graciously extended thanks to Miss MacKenzie for her splendid address and round of information; to Mrs. MacMullen who spent time and effort in planning the rally; to all who assisted with the program and had helped in any way to make it a success; to Mrs. Broad and Mrs. Down, the ladies of Bridge Street W.M.S for the delicious banquet to Miss MacCabe and members of Bridge Street Circle for their gracious welcome.

Completes Four Year Term

Mrs. MacMullen in her closing words, said she would be completing her four-year term as "secretaria" secretary of Mission Circles in April 1950.

During that term three rallies have been held. The first in October 1946 at Holloway Street in connection with the cavalcade and the one in May of last year, and now at Bridge Street. She appreciated the co-operation she had received from interested presbyterial officers and W.M.S. members of sunlliaries and quoted at Romans 8:28 the 25th chapter, in 1950 the words of John Oxenham:

"God grant us wisdom in these t...ming days,
Of true love unsealed that we clear visions see,
Of that new world that He would have us build
To life's ennoblement, and His high ministry."

The service closed with a gracious prayer of consecration and blessing on this department of the W.M.S. work by the Rev. A. E. Baker, the new minister of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling who also pronounced the benediction.

SALARY INCREASES

Toronto, Dec. 2 (CP)—After a preliminary skirmish in which it was decided, it discuss the matter in public instead of in camera, the Toronto Board of Education Thursday night recommended salary increases for top officials.

Increases to be recommended to the 1950 Board include: Director of Education C. C. Goldring from $10,000 to $12,000; Business Administrator C. H. Fuller from $8,500 to $12,000; Superintendent of Public Schools J. S. Plimster from $7,500 to $10,000. The maximums would be reached by annual increase of $500 starting next year.

DEER DIES OF FRIGHT

Fort William, Ont., Dec. 2 — (CP) — Len Anderson hunted through hundreds of miles of timberland around this Lake Superior port this season without sighting a deer. Then one paid him a visit and dropped dead. Anderson said the deer, pursued by a dog, burst into his back yard Tuesday. The terrified deer became entangled in a wire fence and is believed to have died from fright.

MARMORA

Marmora—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Shannon spent Saturday in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Bonter left on Monday to spend the winter in Florida.

Mrs. J. M. Brownlie returned home on Wednesday from Civic Hospital, Peterborough.

Martin's Summer

By Vicki Baum

And as he bellowed it out the clenched fists in the air. The pain this caused him was so excruciating that he became dumb and fell back on his pillows with a look almost of astonishment in his fevered eyes.

Puck had retreated into the spider's corner, and her eyes were as wide with horror as if she had seen a landslide and an earthquake in one. A ghastly sensation seized her heart. She gasped for breath, and each breath whistled in her throat.

"Do you say this to me? Are you going to strike me?" she asked, utterly broken. But her lips were stiff and there was no sound in her throat. So the question was locked in silence. Martin lay on his bed with his face to the wall. He looked completely exhausted, and his arm lay like a block of wood. The hot smelled of paraffin, and the air was full of eddying black specks that rose and fell again and covered everything. Puck went to the lamp absent-mindedly and turned down the wick until the flaring flame was reduced to a steady even yellow light. Then she coughed her wet cloak around her and pulled the hood over her head.

"I am going now and I am going far, far away—" she said in a dry listless way. Then she waited; but there was no response . . .

Go to sleep, Martin thought, but he kept it to himself. He was beginning to split into two pressmanufacture mice-inflammable film in a factory. He heard the door shut, cool breath of rain blew in and then no more.

How and she was with her little face in the shadow of the hood, sobbing the two of him thought in to delirium. The other had clumsily put his hand into some hydrochloric acid. The third lay for a while and stared at the lamp and then with an immense effort got up out of bed. He turned out the lamp, felt his way to the door and stretched his head out into the night. "Puck . . . don't be angry . . ." he called out this one of the three, who still had a glimmer of normal consciousness. But Puck was no longer to be seen.

Early in the morning there was a dog on the beach. It was Tiger. He was lost and woebegone and whipping was and he howled in a high and piercing wail. An empty boat with a torn sail drifted on the lake. It was the Dobbersberg boat. The peasant boy who came down from the mountains every morning with a milk can on his back and then rowed across the lake with it, took the boat in tow and brought it in.

Everybody at the Schloss was distraught, and an anxious search was begun. Leutnichan ran distractedly from room to room, and through the buildings and yards. She was weeping and talking in Bohemian, but everybody knew what was the matter. A farm hand went panting up to the meadows where the young lady had more than once been found before, but no one there knew anything of her. Her mother was at the telephone. The baron, yellow and ghastliness, got on horseback and rode on an aimless search up the Wurmtal valley. The guests stayed in the house talked in dissolved whispers.

They were theatrical people from Vienna. They had been making merry the night before, and no one had noticed Puck's disappearance. One of them, a man with broad shoulders and a concealed air, put on his leggings and collected a few farm hands. The Bojan had a nervous collapse and was carried to a faint to her gondola. Then the rumor reached Franzensee. In the square in front of the Big Peterschen and on the promenade, people collected in small groups and talked in low voices. They had always been told that the girl was mad. And so now she had jumped into the lake to join the twenty-four maidens who had been drowned there in the sixteenth century.

There was a chill and drizzling mist, though the rain of the night was over. Moisture dripped from from every blade of grass drops from every blade of grass drops fell to the ground. A thick white mist was drifting over the lake. Not a feature of the landscape was to be seen, not a mountain nor a house nor a shore. Every sound was muffled — chimes from the tower, the puffing of the train in the station, a motor horn in the street, the misplaced gaiety of a gramaphone in an inn After a time the sound began to lift, it became transparent and frayed; and then a tired and chilly sun drank it up.

The motor boat traversed the lake six zig zags without reference to the time-table. It looked distracted and aimless, but it had an aim as it went to and fro like a dog on the scent. Every telescope in Franzensee was in requisition. The last of the visitors sat under the colonnade of the market. Herr Eggenhofer was telling everybody about it on the terrace of the Big Spits where the Mayfreders were packing their trunks.

The lake itself that morning had a complacent, innocent air. Its short and choppy waves, silver-gray in the sunlight, were as sportive as lizards, as they lapped with a pleasing sound against the promenade. Fish and trout rose to tiny flies on the surface. There was something eerie that morning about the little-bellied silver fish rising from the bottom . . .

Three boats were dragging the lake with poles and lines and old-fashioned nets. There was little hope with such tackle of reaching the bottom of the dark water, eight meters deep. The actor from Vienna was in command of one of the boats. He was a gloomy and imposing figure, and he had a powerful voice. The baron crouched in another. He looked as if he was not quite in his right mind, as with a lean hand he pointed first in one direction then in another. The rowers rowed where they were directed, and then looked down into the water and stirred their poles about. When the poles touched bottom in the shallower places, bubbles rose to the surface and burst without a sound. The third boat was the heavy, broad-beamed emergency boat belonging to the bathing establishment. Martin was on the secondrowing seat.

He hung over the side looking as if he might at any moment fall into the lake.

Martin had been the first to be called out when the word went round to search the lake. He tumbled out of bed and putting on his bathing suit and cloak, he got into the boat. He had taken it as a matter of course without saying a word, for he was not in a condition to know whether he was awake or still dreaming. He belonged to the maze of delirium in which he had passed the night. His arm was in a bandage, and, though it throbbed painfully, it felt oddly separate from the rest of his body. It was like a large, heavy, burning rod of iron hanging from his shoulder. He alternated between moments of tense clearness, and moments when everything became fantastic and quite unreal. His lips were as dry as crumpled paper, and he had a horrible taste in his mouth. His eyes were burning, but his eyes were bloodshot and deadly sick. His face was drawn and glowing hot. His will alone—the hard, indestructible stuff of his being—kept him going.

He forced himself to take account of what was going on. What was it? What had happened? Puck had come to him that night. He had spoken in a hateful way to her, and she had gone away. "But I am going far away, very far . . ." The words were always in Martin's ear. The mark of Puck's heavy boots were still there in the wet sand of the beach. They still ran crazed with distress from Martin's cabin to the beach and back again, stopping now and again to throw up his head and utter a lamentable howl.

Martin would gladly have howled too. He clenched his teeth as tightly as possible to stop his chattering. If Puck's in the lake, it's my fault, he told himself in a lucid moment. But how was it his fault? What had he done? He had loved, his love had been so that could under all the stress of hard circumstances. In word and act he had said and done the obvious, natural thing. Then of a sudden he was involved in error and guilt and tragedy. Suppose Puck were really in the bottom of the lake—suppose she had done it — suppose again it was all a dream, like the non-inflammable film had been in flames on countless occasions that night! Martin strove in vain to break through the barriers of fever and stupor that penned him in.

He did not know very much. But in Franzensee everybody knew everything by some mysterious means. Even the sparrows picking in the dirt in the station yard knew that the crazy young baroness had drowned herself for love of the handsome swimming instructor. Later in the morning, when came that something had been found near the Seespitz where the lake ran to sedgy shallows that overflowed the swampy ground . . .

Martin hung over the edge of the boat and stared into the water that danced in the water he saw many Pucks, many small, dear, woebegone Pucks. Many more hoods, and many looked like Javanese slave-girls. Many were eating currants, and many grasped at him over the gunwhale reflected in the water. When Martin saw this a fit of dizziness came over him and he thought, Stop. It took a supreme effort of will to regain control of himself. If Puck were drowned, her body would drift, he reflected, and even said so, with a hoarse voice to Herr Birndl, who nodded in confirmation. Herr Birndl was bathed in sweat from the exertion of rowing, and very grave.

Miss steered, taking his direction from Martin's lifeless eyes. Now and again the three boats would bump, certainly, but the eyes were bloodshot and deadly sick. His face was drawn and glowing hot. His will alone—the hard, indestructible stuff of his being—kept him going.

He forced himself to take account of what was going on. What was it? What had happened? Puck had come to him that night. He had spoken in a hateful way to her, and she had gone away. Bishop's Buying Saves 150 Wives

Darwin, Australia. — (CP) — The "Bishop with 150 wives" has left his 500,000 square-mile parish to return to civilization.

He is Most Rev. Dr. Francis Xavier Gsell, Bishop of Darwin. He has been serving the Roman Catholic church in the Northern Territory of Australia for 43 years. Now he will retire to the college at Sydney whence he came with a beard to his waist and a nickname of which he is most proud.

How he got that nickname is a story of patience and faith.

When he went Darwin, capital of the Northern Territory, in 1906 he found he could do little for the wild, suspicious natives of the north. Their tribal customs were so deep rooted and their distrust so great that he could convert few of them. He almost felt like giving up.

The years passed and one day a 15-year-old native girl who had some contact with the mission came to the bishop for help. She told him she was being forced to marry an old man of the tribe and could not bear the thought of it. She would not go back.

Her fellow tribesmen tracked her and formed an angry shouting mob outside the mission buildings. Dr. Gsell spent the night in prayer wondering what his next course would be.

Next morning he approached the natives and silently laid out beads, mirrors and other trade goods before them. They were delighted.

As the years went by Dr. Gsell "bought" more and more native girls from their tribes to save them from hatred marriages. Most of these girls later married mission-trained boys.

But to the aboriginal tribes Dr. Gsell became the "Bishop with 150 Wives" and soon he was known throughout Australia as that.

Now, at 77, he is coming back to Sydney—without his "wives."

GENEROUS DONATION

London, Dec. 2 — (Reuters)— Princess Elizabeth has sent "a generous donation in the name of Prince Charles on his first birthday" to the Christmas Appeal Fund for Arab refugees in Palestine, the Archbishop of York, Dr. Cyril F. Garbett, told a press conference today.

African Instability Slows Peanut Scheme

London, — (CP) — Ignorance of native population is a big stumbling block in developing East Africa, a British government agency reports.

In Tanganyika many Africans refer to Kongwa as "London" and some think that the British king lives there.

Kongwa, in central Tanganyika, is one of three principal areas earmarked for peanut production under Britain's so-called "groundnuts" scheme.

In its first report on the plan, designed to help relieve a world shortage of fats and oils, the government's Overseas Food Corporation acknowledged liabilities of more than £23,000,000 ($71,900,000) but said the project will not be abandoned despite early frustrations.

One difficulty about African labor, it said, is that unskilled workers often stay on the job for a few months, long enough to raise money for their local taxes, and then go home. At the same time others would walk hundreds of miles to get a job with the corporation.

British officials, following a directive to provide an outlet for the "ambitious and capable" African, are trying to establish a settled force by building villages in which each African family will have a piece of land.

Not all the difficulties are of the human variety. The report referred to telephone and telegraph system being constantly interrupted by the "depredations" of wild animals, particularly giraffes.

Cupid Darts Fail Even on Shipboard

Durban, South Africa. — (CP) —Many South Africans refused permission by magistrate to marry because of the "borderline" color of their skins have been approaching captains at ports to perform the ceremony.

Others have been visiting passenger ships making coastwise voyages hoping that there was a parson aboard who would marry them.

But they have been disappointed for under the Merchant Shipping Act no merchant captain may marry anyone at sea. He may bury them and christen them, but if he marries them he is liable to a £100 fine.

A captain said that he had been approached three times by couples at Capetown asking him to take them as passengers to Port Elizabeth or Durbnh and marry them outside the three-mile limit.

Captains have been warned by their agents to be very careful to do nothing that would be a breach of the new South African law which bars marriage between Europeans and persons of native ancestry.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Tall, handsome Sylvanus Appe, erstwhile skipper of the Toronto Maple Leafs Hockey Club stood up under fire here last night but it was not that of pucks, sticks and body checks. It was a verbal attack featuring a barrage of questions fired at the ex-Leaf captain by eager youngsters and inquisitive dads at the Palmer-ous banquet tendered by The Belleville Lodge A. F. and A. M. at the Masonic Temple.

The quiz battle followed an excellent talk given the proud poppas and their equally proud offspring by Appe, all of which is reported in a story elsewhere in this edition. The kids did not spare the question horses, and a number of queries were directed at the guest speaker by the dads, too.

One little fella started off the query session with the question, "How many fights were you in, Mr. Appe?"

Appe smiled, "Three or four," he answered, "I was genuinely too tired to fight."

He refused to be drawn into a discussion when asked the origin of hockey. "Some say Kingston and others say Halifax. Personally I do not know" he said.

The roughest game he every played in occurred one night in Detroit when he was fined on his head six times during the first three minutes of play. "However," he said, "the game actually looks a lot rougher than it is."

Asked if hockey was an offspring of "shinny", Appe smiled. "My grandfather used to play shinny with a piece of wood cut from a tree. The 'rink' was a pasture field and I can't tell you what the boys of those days used for pucks.

Coaching a team is really tougher than playing, was Appe' answer to a query. "When you are playing you know what to do, but when you are coaching you have the boys what to do and then they usually do the opposite."

"Did you ever play with Red Horner?" came a childish treble from a back corner of the banquet hall.

"I did," smiled Appe, "and I'll tell you now that I would rather play with him than against him".

The hardest body checker in the National Hockey League, in Appe' opinion is Bill Ezinicki of the Leafs. "That boy hits 'em hard and keeps right on going".

Players with reputations of being "bad men" usually draw more penalties,but are sometimes necessary. A "clean" player if he trips a foeman can sometimes get away with it because of his record of staying out of the penalty box.

Then up spoke a father, "Tell me Mr. Appe," he said, "is there any possible chance of we fellers in the stalls, so to speak getting tickets for a game in Maple Leaf Gardens sometime. Can't we get them without being affiliated with the Toronto City Council, or what do we have to do?"

That one stumped Appe. He scratched a healthy head of hair, "I don't know what to do about that. But please don't write me. I can't get 'em either."

Bill Durnan of Canadiens is the best goalie in the National Hockey League today, the ex-Leaf said. But his loyalty to his former team-mate Turk Broda is apparent. I think Turk Broda is one of the best, and despite the present trouble I believe he'll be back in there and finish the season with the Leafs."

The Leafs have an elaborate system of evaluating players, Appe said, replying to a question regarding sale and transfer of players. "They are categorized in three classes, plus players, neutral players and minus players. The plus shape are in there driving hard for goals. The neutrals are out there to see that nothing happens either way and the minus crew well are just minus. So if a club manager trades three minus players for a plus player the club actually is better off. Statistics are kept on the scoring of each player which is an aid in such a decision. Performance is usually judged by the number of goals scored against their team while they are on the ice.

"What were you, plus or minus?" asked a small boy.

Appe chuckled, "I was with the Leafs for seven years and I believe they classed me as a plus player".

"How much did the Leafs win when they got Max Bentley from Chicago?" was another query.

"Just the Stanley Cup," was Appe' terse reply.

"How does Milt Schmidt rate as a centre man?" asked another youngster.

"Milt Schmidt is not only the best centre ice player I ever met on the ice, but in my opinion he is the best hockey player I ever played against."

Among the best centre players of the present day, Appe named Syd Abel, Teeder Kennedy, Edgar Laprade and Doug Bentley.

"If a player does not get along with his team - mates what happens to him?" asked someone.

"If a player cannot get along with his mates, he cannot get along with anybody," was the reply. "The best thing to do is get rid of him."

"Have you any desire to become a referee?" came a query. That one got a short sharp decisive answer, "None whatever" Appe said.

Top players in the National Hockey League can make $15,000 a year if they belong to a team that reaches the Stanley Cup finals. Salaries range from $10,000 and this with bonuses can easily be expanded to $15,000.

In answer to another question, Appe said the keen rivalry that exists between the Maple Leafs and the Montreal Canadiens is the aftermath of the intense desire for one team to beat the other. The fans of both clubs want to see the opposition get defeated regardless of whether the hockey is good, bad or indifferent.

Following the quiz session, Appe was surrounded by the youngsters and he was kept busy for fifteen minutes signing autograph books, cards and pieces of paper, in fact anything that could take a signature." He met and shook hands with a large number of his youthful admirers.

Northern Electrics and Flyers Win District Hockey Games At Memorial Arena Thursday

The best team lost last night when Northern Electrics defeated 6 R.D., 4 to 3 to maintain their season thousand per cent batting average in the first game of the Belleville and District league series at the arena last night.

Time and again the R.D. wingers broke through on the Electrics net, but either Plumley was too good of size the shooters missed the gap by inches. The airmen should have had at least three goals in the last period.

Mulvihill and Jones carried the bulk of the Electrics play and were rewarded with two points each, Mulvihill doing the plumbing on both occasions. The R. D. line of Watson, Garrett and Johnson gave Plumley most of his trouble with brilliant rushes that had the Northern's goalie at their mercy more than once, but Jones, Cox-sina, Mulvihill, Markle, Creighton, Reeves.

6 R.D.: Goal, Tomasini; defence, Schmidt and Watson; centre, Jones, wings, Twigg and DeMille; subs, Broderick, Forget, Watson, Koch, Christie, Johnson, Zinck, Hubbs, Garrett, King.

Flyers Beat Juniors

Trenton Flyers handed Belleville Rockets a well earned 3 to 2 drubbing in the second fixture of the card featuring the open ganging attack hockey for the full sixty minutes.

Feeling at times ran high with the result that officials were compelled to break down on the offenders and much of the game saw one or the other side playing short-handed. Wright of the Rockets was banished on a misconduct charge in the second frame for clubbing Zaleski, who had been hooking and was sent to the cooler for the penalty. Zaleski suffered a slash over the left eye but carried on after a quick patch job by his handlers.

With a younger and larger aggregation around Bill Cook's Rockets should have skated the older Flyers into the ice but the locals lacked organization when they were in possession and especially around the net appeared befuddled and bewildered. The Rockets didn't seem to know what to do with the puck after they got it in front of the Flyers nets.

Keys, the Flyers goalie, however, performed exceptionally well with a bang on brand of net minding behind a better led outfit. Trippe between the posts at the other end gave a similar great exhibition although he suffered misery from a throat irritation ... that should have kept him confined.

Miller starred for the Flyers gathering two on scoring shots while Hogan for the Rockets duplicated Miller's feat sinking the rubber twice to advance his record another two points.

The teams:—

Flyers: Goal, Keys; defence, Lauder and Robertson; centre, Ault; wings, Miller and Zaleski; subs, Jackson, Sargent, Gagnon, Gobiel, Park, Omeara, Hughes, Prudergast, Cunningham.

Rockets: Goal, Trippe; defence, Trumble and Graham; centre, Hogan; wings, Semark and Mcholland; subs, Murphy, Strachan, Gilmour, Brown, Wright, Pittock, Bone, Kinneley, Fisher, Turland, Green.

Officials: St. Louis, Fitzpatrick, Howey.

SUMMARY

1st Period

1. Rockets Hogan 6.30
2. Flyers Omeara 8.34
3. Flyers Miller (Park) 19.18

Penalties: Cunningham, Ault.

2nd Period

4. Rockets Hogan (Graham) 17.30

Penalties: Kenneley, Art Wright (5 minute match misconduct penalty), Zaleski, Miller,

3rd Period

5. Flyers Miller 14.40

Penalties: Gagnon, Cunningham.

BIG SEVEN

(By The Canadian Press)

Chicago's Doug Bentley today holds second place among individual scorers in the National Hockey League, four points behind Ted Lindsay of Detroit. Bentley chalked up one goal and an assist last night to boost his point-total to 24 on nine goals and 17 assists. Sid Abel of Detroit is only one point behind with 23 points. Fourth spot is split three ways, between Maurice Richard, Montreal, Gordie Howe, Detroit, and Roy Conacher, Chicago, each with 20 points. John Peirson, Boston, Metro Prystai, Chicago, and Bill Mosienko, Chicago are deadlocked another notch further down, with an 18-point total.

"MR. MOTORIST—

Give Me 45 Seconds of Your Time and I'll Save You Money and Inconvenience!"

A regular Exide free battery check-up . . . a simple procedure requiring only forty-five seconds . . . is the only way to detect symptoms of battery failure before they become trouble and expense for you.

This Exide battery check-up can tell you one of three things immediately. First it will put your mind at ease if your battery is in satisfactory condition. Or, if your battery needs a recharge, a check-up will discover its run-down condition before serious damage takes place. Finally, if your battery needs replacing, you can arrange to purchase a new Exide on the spot and avoid being caught with a dead battery miles from help.

The next time you're in for gas and oil, have your Exide Dealer give you a free battery check-up and protect you from starting failures due to battery trouble.

Surely you can spare forty-five seconds now to avoid hours . . . perhaps days of costly trouble later.

And remember, a single starting failure can be far more costly than the little extra you pay for a trustworthy Exide Battery.

Lumley of Detroit Red Wings Racks Up Another Shutout As His Team Beats Leafs 2-0

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Reminder Harry Lumley has Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League victory trail again.

The big goalie racked up his fourth — and second successive — shutout of the campaign Thursday night as the Wings blanked Toronto Maple Leafs 2-0 in Toronto.

In the only other game, Chicago Black Hawks took over undisputed third place by defeating the last-place Boston Bruins 5-4 at Chicago.

The victory at Toronto gave coach Tommy Ivan's Wings 31 points — nine ahead of the second-place Montreal Canadiens, while the loss put the Leafs in fourth place, two behind Chicago.

Lumley, a 24-year-old native of Owen Sound, turned in a performance that was a far cry from that last weekend when he allowed 13 goals as the Wings lost two games.

The two shutouts — he got one Monday when the Wings defeated Boston 3-0 — pushed him into second place among goalies with an average of 2.43 goals scored on him a game. Bill Durnan of Montreal is first with an average of 1.80.

On the rough end of the 2-0 count was little rookie Gil Mayer, playing his first N.H.L. game while replacing the two-bit Turk Broda. Mayer was visibly nervous before the game but settled down.

If Leafs' boss, Conny Smythe, was aiming for publicity when he named his now famous blast against overweights, it worked. There were 14,015 fans jamming the Maple Leaf Gardens.

Broda Sat Out

Meanwhile, Broda, who rocketed to headline news when he was benched for carrying seven pounds too much, watched from the sidelines. The goalie pared off 10 pounds in two days on gymnasium tactics add stiff diets and, having made the weight, is due to get back in the cage Saturday night.

Jim McFadden was the chief offensive cog. He scored the first goal while Toronto's Ted Kennedy was serving a tripping penalty and then set up the other for winger Jim Peters in the first period. Kennedy suffered a knee injury in the third period and is expected to be out three weeks.

At Chicago, the Bruins led twice and held a tie three times before Gaye Stewart got the payoff goal at 14:34 of the final session.

Doug Bentley, Bert Olmstead, Roy Conacher and Bill Quackenbush got the other Chicago goals. Phil Maloney, Zollio Toppazzini, Woody Dumart and Bep Guidolin were the marksmen for the Bruins.

No games are scheduled tonight. This weekend all six clubs move into action. It's Detroit at Canadiens, New York at Boston and Chicago at Boston Saturday. Sunday: Montreal at Boston, Toronto at Detroit and Chicago at New York.

Cradock May Transfer Interest To Toronto

Montreal, Dec. 3 (CP)—The Gazette says in a newspaper story today that Eric Cradock, a director of the Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four football league, plans to move his interests in football to Toronto.

The story does not say definitely whether Cradock would join the Toronto Argonauts, but says he would confine his gridiron support to Ontario's Queen City in the future."

Cradock is one of three major shareholders of the Alouettes. He admitted that he was intending to support football in Toronto.

"I feel," he said, "that as resident of Toronto it might be better for all concerned if I turned my support to that city."

Cradock denied Elmer Ebbs' was any "differences" between him and the management of the Alouettes.

He would neither confirm or deny a report that Argonauts had invited him to join their directorate.

Sports Roundup

(By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.)

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Maybe Philadelphia Athletics, who already have one manager and two former pilots on their staff—Connie Mack, Jimmy Dykes and Mickey Cochrane—could find room for two other former pilots, Bill McKechnie and Steve O'Neill, just let out by Cleveland Indians . . . Branch Rickey will toss his party for the other National League Club owners tomorrow night instead of during the major league meetings. Seems Commissioner A. B. Chandler has taken over and traditional date for another affair.

Moose Smelled a Rat

Just as any college athletic director with a good football game, Notre Dame's Moose Krause had his trouble with friends who wanted tickets . . . One Friday night, after a day of ducking and refusing, Moose entered a South Bend hotel and saw an old friend in the lobby. . . . Thinking he'd forestall the inevitable query, Krause said: "Hi, Bill. You don't by any chance have two tickets," . . . The guy just stuck a hand in his pocket and replied: "Sure, Moose, here's two." . . . Krause was so surprised he had to take a seat (out two) right there . . .

Rocky Marciano, the Brockton, Mass., Clouter who fights Pat Richards in the semi-final to tonight's Lazzo-Briton bash, is getting almost as much attention as the main eventers.

Battle of Broda's Bulge Served Double Purpose

(By The Canadian Press)

The Battle of Broda's Bulge, choice conversation piece for Toronto school kids and business men the last three days, has been won. And what was done to the tune of screaming front-page headlines, with the Toronto Daily Star announcing in two-inch headlines:

"Broda Gets Down to 189 Pounds."

And Broda, told to scale down from 197 to 190 "or else" by managing director Conny Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs in time for the Leafs' National Hockey League game against New York Rangers Saturday night, watched the scales stop at 189 and said: "I'm going home to bed."

Smythe's sudden outburst Tuesday, after a double pneumonia (A) it gave Leafs — and Smythe columns of publicity — something that couldn't be accomplished the last week or 10 days when sports pages were filled with stories of the Calgary-Montreal Grey Cup game, and (B) it got hockey's fat man down to fighting form.

The Star played up the Broda story with page-high pictures of the Turk and his blonde wife, Betty, a compact, five-foot-three-inch bundle who weighed 128 pounds four days ago.

Betty decided to string along with the Brandon, Man., netminder until he chipped the seven pounds off. She couldn't bear to think of Turk sitting at meal-times as she "decided to lose weight, too."

Purses for the King's Plate and four other important horse races were increased from $20,000 to $6,000 to $10,000; the Princess Elizabeth Stakes for two-year-old fillies from $2,000 to $4,000; the Breeders' Stakes from $4,500 to $5,000 and the Maple Leaf Handicap, autumn race for three and four-year-old fillies, from $2,500 to $3,000.

The Coronation Stakes for two-year-olds has been increased from $6,000 to $10,000; the Princess Elizabeth Stakes for two-year-old fillies from $2,000 to $4,000; the Breeders' Stakes from $4,500 to $5,000 and the Maple Leaf Handicap, autumn race for three and four-year-old fillies, from $2,500 to $3,000.

The Coronation Stakes for two-year-olds has been increased from $6,000 to $10,000; the Princess Elizabeth Stakes for two-year-old fillies from $2,000 to $4,000; the Breeders' Stakes from $4,500 to $5,000 and the Maple Leaf Handicap, autumn race for three and four-year-old fillies, from $2,500 to $3,000.

Jack Kramer again showed his tennis mastery over Pancho Gonzales in their professional tour, defeating the 1948 and 1949 United States National singles champion 6-1, 6-1, at Toronto Thursday night. Kramer took the 21st victory in 25 starts.

In a preliminary match Francisco Segura whipped Frankie Parker 2-8, 8-2, 10-8 after parker twice had match points in the final set. The victory was Segura's 20th against four defeats and one tie.

The next stop on the tour is Waterloo, Ont., tonight.

Al Rollins, obtained by Toronto Maple Leafs from Cleveland Barons in a cash-player deal this week, Thursday signed a contract with the National Hockey League Club at Toronto. The contract was signed after Rollins, a goaltender, passed a medical examination which was a condition of the deal.

Rollins, purchased from the American Hockey League for a sum, in five figures and four players, is a native of Kincaid, Sask.

At Berne, Switzerland, the touring Hull Volants Thursday night handily won their second Swiss hockey engagement, blanking the Berne All-Stars 6-0. Held to a one-goal lead at the end of the first period, the Canadians ran up three counters in the second and two in the final frame. Gaston Desjardins and Gerard Bilodeau led the Volants with two goals each. Carman Marsh all and Roger Leger got the others.

President Lou Ferini of Boston Braves said at Boston Thursday his club would have the National League's largest crowd of rookies in the Braves training camp at Brandenton, Fla., next spring.

The Braves will have 11 youthful prodcts of the Braves farm system in camp for extensive tryouts under Manager Billy Southworth.

Previously the Braves generally have had the smallest number of rookies in the league.

Buffalo State Teachers College opened its basketball season Thursday night with a 82-45 victory over the University of Toronto before about 2,100 Buffalo fans.

Toronto held the lead only briefly with a 10-9 edge at the end of the first quarter. Johnny McMahon of Toronto was high scorer with 16 points.

Roland LaStarza 5 to 8 Favorite Over Cesar Brion

New York, Dec. 3—(AP)—Roland La Starza, unbeaten glamour boy of the young heavyweight crop, bids for international recognition tonight in a 10-round Madison Square Garden bout with Argentina's Cesar Brion.

This is the big fight in the careers of both these 25-year-old hopefuls whose eyes are trained on the gold and glory of the heavyweight championship. A decisive knockout win could earn a June title date with Ezzard Charles for either boy.

Even more intriguing than a Charles bout is the possibility that an impressive victory might bring Joe Louis out of retirement next summer. An outstanding young contender against the Brown Bomber would be a surefire $1,000,000 gate.

Before worrying about Charles or Louis, both of tonight's slugging pair will deal with the business at hand. It shapes up as tough enough with La Starza deservedly a 5-to-8 favorite.

While La Starza was bowling over 17 of 36 victims by knockouts, little attention was paid to Brion who is billed as the greatest South American slugger since Luis Firpo. He was little known until he knocked out Bernie Reynolds in a major upset on the Charles-Joe Lesnevich card last summer. Since then Brion, a rangy young fellow with a baby face, has flattened Tami Mauriello and Jimmy Walls. He has won 23, lost two and knocked out 15 opponents.

A crowd of 17,000 is expected to pay about $45,000 to see the fight.

Indirect Approach Silences Members

Ottawa, Dec. 3 — (CP) — Effectiveness of the indirect approach in talking relative members of to make less noise was illustrated in the Commons yesterday.

Trade Minister Howe was briefly piloting in a bill to authorize loans for Maritime coal mines. His words barely pierced the general buzz of impromptu conversation in the enormous Chamber.

Claire Gillis (CCF — Cape Breton South) rose and said:

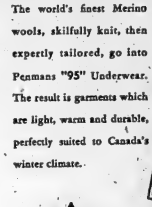
"I'm interested in this statement but the minister is making so much noise that I can't hear all the other conversations."

The members laughed. They stopped talking too.

Third Cruise Ship Will be Scrapped

Sarnia, Dec. 3 — (CP)—The Huronic will join her sister ships, the Noronic and Hamonic, in the scrapyards at the end of this season. All are former cruise ships of the Northern Navigation division of Canada Steamship Lines.

The vessel was being loaded at the Point Edward dock today preparatory to starting her last trip of the season and the last of her career.



The Huronic is scheduled to go to Port Arthur with her last upbound cargo, return here with her last shipment of flour and then go to Hamilton to be scrapped, at the plant of the Steel Company of Canada.

Already there for scrapping is her sister ship, the ill-fated Noronic, which burned at Toronto Sept. 17. Latest figures on the disaster show 114 identified dead, with four persons missing.

The Hamonic, burned at Point Edward July 12, 1945, was also taken there for scrapping.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Already Oppect hands me many a laugh. The biggest is when he starts off with the remark that his judgment is as good as any xyleton. He insists that no system of bidding can be accurate.

Soon I have him almost convinced that there is such a system. So what? Does he applaud the fact that it is good? Not that baby. He immediately takes a different tack.

If a system is accurate, he says, every contract would make. If every contract makes, he concludes, there would be no uncertainty. If there is no uncertainty, he concludes, where would be the fun?

He is wrong on all counts. Accurate you may be. But not every contract will make. Freak opponent division may throw you. Offside face cards may ruin your bid. Or the timing may be off.

Expose both hands of a pair and carefully decide the number of tricks the combine may produce. Times are when it may take less or more, depending on which opponent held what unseen cards.

In a bridge game you do not see the cards of opponents. Their pitfalls are not known to you in advance. These are the uncertainties that will always be present against the best bids and plays.

A deal that recently came up is shown here:

♣ K 10 8 7 4 2

WEST
♠ A 10 4 3
♥ None
♦ A Q 6 5 4 2
♣ J 9 5 3

EAST
♠ Q J 8 7 6
♥ K Q 6 4 2
♦ K 10
♣ A 8

SOUTH
♠ K 9 2
♥ A K Q J 5
♦ J 9 7
♣ Q 6

The east and west pair should not reach a contract of more than game in spades or diamonds. This is so by any accurate standard of bidding. But they took all 13 tricks with spades as trumps.

Switch north and south spades. See what would happen with a club lead. East would take trick one with the ace of clubs. North would then be sure of taking at least one trick with his trumps; and a club.

Thus, the horizontal pair would be held to the 11 tricks that they count in their pair. But south started with a heart lead and all the tricks came in. Bridge in a clinch is never a cinch.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 2 (AP)—Walter Huston of Toronto is one veteran actor with no plans to pen his memoirs.

Huston, who now is working on "The Furies," was informed that both Ethel and Lionel Barrymore are writing their life stories. I asked him if he had any ideas about writing his.

"No," he laughed, "I tried it once. I sat down with a fellow and he wrote up a couple of pages. When I read them to the family, they said, 'no, it doesn't sound like you.' So I retired for a couple of days and rewrote the two pages.

"I read them to the family and they said, 'good—that sounds like you.' Right then I knew if it took me two days of hard labor to write so little, it would be too darn much work to write a book."

So I gave it up."

Friday Footnotes

Claudette Colbert wants to direct a love story, but she doesn't know what or when. Furthermore, she's getting tired of talking about her directorial ambitions. She won't give up acting. Now in "Blied Spot", she plans to act in two more pictures next year.

Jessica Tandy, wife of Hume Cronyn, the London, Ont., star, is back from her triumph in "Streetcar Named Desire" and playing Joseph Cotten's neglected wife in "September." She is on loan-out from 20th-Fox, which still has nothing scheduled for her.

Gertrude Lawrence may turn director after she finishes "The Glass Menagerie." She is thinking of directing and appearing in Tennessee Williams' new York.

Capsule Review

"On the Town" (M.G.M.) is pure entertainment. It has no problems, no violence and no plot to speak of. Mainly it's a fast-moving collection of musical numbers by six lively and talented people: Gene Kelly (who co-directed), Frank Sinatra, Vera-Ellen, Betty Garrett, Jules Munshin and Ann Miller. A bright Christmas confection.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK — By R. J. SCOTT

Little Penny's Note Book

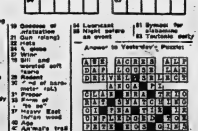
After supper Mr. Lewis called pop on the fone from Pete's Bowling Alleys and told him they needed another man over there, and pop told him he'd come rite over and be the man, and ma said, Now William, you've already gone bowling twice this week. Remember you're not as young as you were once, she said.

Well, perhaps not quite, but I'm stronger, pop said. It's not a good thing for a man to sit slumped in a chair while his bottled up vitality rusts in his bulging muscels, he said, and ma said, I must say you dont seem to be much a lover of strength around the house.

Show me a heavy trunk, I'll lift it for you, pop said, and ma said, I'm thinking of last Saturday when I was in a hurry to get the house done and prevailed on you to run the vacuum cleaner a few breef minutes while I made a telefone call and instead of to find you with all the earmarks of a fizzical wreck, you hardly had the strength to hand the vacuum cleaner back to me, she said.

I have a dim recollection of some sutch occurrence, but I thawt I must of dreemed it, pop said, and ma said, If you're sutch an irresistible force, how is it you collapsed on the sofa like a broken bag of bones the other evening after simply standing up quietly for 10 minutes so could pin up the hem of my skert on you?

You must be thinking of some body else, pop said. I hope you weren't undignified enough to ask the milkman to model your skert for you, he said.



And he quick got his hat and overcoat and went, ma saying, Sutch a man.

Meaning him.

FORT ERIE METERS PROFITABLE

Fort Erie, Dec. 2—(CP)—Parking meters are proving a profitable business for this municipality. It was announced Thursday that from Oct. 31, 1948, to Nov. 30 this year, the net profit was $8,406. The meter system will become the property of the town when a balance of $8,533 is paid.

Pastor Given Until Saturday To Quit Pulpit

Toronto, Dec. 2. (CP)— Rev. Thomas Christie, Baptist pastor at Guelph, Ont., has been given until Saturday to quit his pulpit and remove his belongings from the church. The rulings by the Ontario Supreme Court came Thursday after Church deacons said the congregation had been split since the pastor was accused of writing a love letter to a married woman in his congregation.

Mr. Justice J. K. Mackay in Supreme Court granted an injunction sought by five deacons and three church trustees of the York Road Baptist Church at Guelph. The injunction bars the pastor from church property.

The deacons presented an affidavit signed by Mrs. Robert Stitt, slender 27-year-old housewife, charging that the pastor wrote her a letter which included this paragraph: "I drove by your house last night and saw my darling Pat with her hair down and ready for bed. Would that I could have put my arms around you then but, alas; it is not my place."

Roland Wilson, counsel for the plaintiffs, said that 96 of the 104 church members had signed a petition asking the pastor's removal. His said his clients have been holding meetings in the Orange Hall and that "irreparable damage" would be done unless Mr. Guthrie was prevented from entering the church.

Church May Be Closed

Wilson said that if the injunction was refused, the church would be closed.

"I am unwilling to close the doors of a church," said His Lordship.

"Forgetting for a moment that it is a church," Mr. Wilson began when His Lordship interjected: "What I'm having difficulty doing is forgetting that it is a church."

Counsel for the pastor, Andrew Brewin, declared that Mr. Guthrie had previously agreed to resign if the letter was returned and all copies burned in his presence. The deacons had agreed to this but, he said, extra copies of the letter had been made, reproduced in a church circular and given wide distribution.

While the injunction against Rev. Mr. Guthrie is effective until Dec. 22, Mr. Justice Mackay inserted a provision that if by the meantime the congregation, as of last July 24, voted for the minister's return the injunction would be dissolved.

The congregational vote will be held as soon as possible. At Guelph last night Mr. Guthrie said that the vote would be supervised by a committee of six, three from each side.

Will be Asked For Free Care for Double Leg Amps

Ottawa, Dec. 2 (CP)—Alan Piper, First Vice-President of the Ottawa branch of the War Amputations' Association of Canada, said Thursday night the federal government will be asked to provide free automobiles to help war veterans who suffered the loss of both legs and for paraplegic cases.

Mr. Piper, who despite the loss of both hands drives his own car, said guys'sion of a car would help double leg amputation veterans to augment their incomes, in most cases limited to their war disability pension.

Contractor Must Pay Damages

Ottawa, Dec. 2 (CP)— An Ottawa contractor Thursday was ordered to pay damages totalling $3,788.80 because of faulty construction in a house he had built. The damages were levied against Harold Taggart Construction Company following a damage suit before the Ontario Supreme Court, instituted by V. Z. Akalin who bought the house from Taggart last year. In addition, Harold Taggart, head of the construction company, was assessed 70 per cent of the costs of the action.

The case believed to be the first of its kind in the history of Canadian law courts, lasted for eight days. It created wide interest in Ottawa legal circles due to the possibility that it might be used as a precedent should any other home owners feel faulty construction had gone into their homes and decide to sue for damages.

Mr. Akalin had sued the Taggart Construction Company for $5,504, which he claimed was the amount needed to put his home in proper condition.

Mr. Justice G. A. Gale allowed a total of $2,356.80 as damages for actual discrepancies in the construction of the house, including $307.49 for contractor's profit.

Canada's Capital Soon Will be 5th Largest City

Ottawa, Dec. 2 — (CP)—Canada's capital, gobbling-up surrounding townships in an effort to relieve its cramped status, is threatening Hamilton's claim to the title of Canada's fifth-largest city.

With the formal annexation New Year's Day of 21,000 acres from Nepean and Gloucester townships, Ottawa's population will be given a 25,000-citizen boost to the 184,000 mark — well above Hamilton's current 170,000 figure.

The annexation, approved by the Ontario Municipal Board, will more than triple Ottawa's present 6,009 acres, now bursting at the seams because of heavy wartime and post-war development.

Early this year Ottawa officials took a long look at adjoining Nepean and Gloucester townships, which since before have lost slices of territory to the city.

Following negotiations with Nepean township, Ottawa was allowed the right to annex close to 7,000 acres holding a population of some 17,000.

Thursday the capital won approval of the Ontario Municipal Board to annex another 14,613 acres from Gloucester township.

Effective date of union for both tracts of land is next Jan. 1.

About 800 acres of the land being annexed from Gloucester township were obtained over the protests of the adjoining town of Eastview, whose own expansion plans were squelched by the board ruling. Some Eastview officials have publicly expressed fear that Ottawa's long-range plans for eventually annexing the town itself.

As well as serving to relieve congestion in the city, the annexations are part of a long-range program to beautify the nation's capital that is being undertaken jointly by the city and the federal government.

Waiter Admits Having 2 Wives

Toronto, Dec. 2 — (CP) — Samuel T. McNair, 48-year-old hotel waiter who walked in to a police station and admitted having two wives, was remanded on a charge of bigamy to Dec. 5.

Police said McNair in his statement, admitted his "conscience bothered" him. He said he was married in St. Paul's Church, Ottawa, in 1927 and last March he went through a form of marriage in Toronto.

His second wife said she learned two weeks ago her husband had been married before.

McNair told the court Thursday: "I only want to get it cleared up and off my mind."

84 PERSONS FINED; HAD NOT LINCENCES FOR RADIOS

Some Thoughts on Proposed By-Laws

(An Editorial)

Next Monday the property owners of the city will be faced with three questions on their ballots. Briefly these questions are: first, are you in favor of increasing the Public Utilities Commission membership from three to five? Second, are you in favor of an additional mill to the tax rate for use of the Parks Board? Third, are you in favor of spending $85,000 on renovating and modernizing the City Hall so that it will accommodate the police station and civic offices as well as provide facilities for the market?

Undoubtedly there are many people, entitled to vote on these questions, who will have some difficulty deciding just what is best. With these voters in mind we would like to express some thoughts on the matter. We do not pretend to have all the answers but there are some things which should be kept in mind.

This city for the past few years has been forced to spend considerable money on expansion to take care of increased public services caused by increased population. This has forced up the tax rate by a good margin. The large property holder, perhaps, can bear this extra cost without too much difficulty, but the clerks, teachers, office workers, factory workers, and all other salaried groups who own their homes, find the cost of living a big burden. Increased taxes add to it.

There is a major project in the offing namely, a sewage disposal plant, and probably an incinerator, which together will likely cost $1,250,000. We have expressed the thought before that the former project will be forced on the city by the provincial health department to rid our public waters of pollution and filth.

The increased need of school-room accommodation in the city is something which is of paramount necessity. A new school is nearing completion at a cost of $180,000, and another one to be built in the eastern section of the city which will probably cost $300,000. On top of that will be annual maintenance and staff costs.

When these projects are completed in the not distant future the tax rate in Belleville will be no minor item in living costs. The tenant pays his share through increased rentals.

We are of the opinion that economy should be practiced in every department of civic government, consistent with the efficient operation of our public services. We would like to see less of streets being torn up two or more times to install water and sewage services. Surely, there must be means of eliminating this kind of expense. Perhaps, more co-operation between the Public Utilities Commission and the Public Works Department could be effected, if such co-operation is lacking at present.

Now with regard to the questions on the ballots we believe that the present set-up of three members is sufficient to handle the management of this department. Generally speaking, the smaller the governing body, the more efficient is its operation.

The extra mill for the Parks Board might be desirable — at some later time. Instead the Board should earmark a larger portion of their funds for children's playgrounds. This year this important work received only $263. The same should apply to Victoria Park. This need not be completed in one year, but should get sufficient attention each year to restore its former usefulness. Until such time as the Board presents a satisfactory plan as to how the extra money is to be spent we would prefer to see no action taken authorizing an increased budget. Getting better value for money spent should be the aim of the Parks Board seeing that such a large portion of their funds is consumed by repayment of debenture costs. At present these costs take $6,000 out of $14,000 raised by taxes. Also, we have no doubt that the council would make a grant to the Parks Board should extra funds be required to carry out commitments undertaken by the Board.

As for the renovations at the City Hall, we believe these, too, can be deferred or the plan altered until such time as unemployment might make it advantageous to construct a new City Hall. We feel that the plans as presented do not improve the situation as to call for spending $85,000, and likely much more, and then have only a make-shift set-up that would satisfy few people.

We have presented our views on these matters as a taxpayer, and one who is interested in the welfare of the city as much as anyone. However, we feel that some caution in the spending by our civic bodies is needed at present so that we may take care of future commitments without too much hardship on those who must pay the bills.

And finally let everyone who has the franchise get out and vote. Indifference and apathy are not a real citizen's way to reward greatly renewed interest in municipal affairs by a fine list of candidates.

CANADA TO SPARE NO EFFORT IN DEVELOPING DRUGS

Acth and Cortisone Both Show Promise

Ottawa, Dec. 3 — (CP) — No effort will be spared by Canada in helping develop two new drugs which appear to have extremely valuable results in the treatment of a number of diseases," Health Minister Martin said Friday night.

He told the Commons of progress in discovery of the drugs, acth and cortisone. Both have shown some promise in the treatment of arthritis and other undisclosed diseases.

At all times cautious, Mr. Martin told the House of Commons that "it should be emphasized that the work which has been carried on for some months still is in the experimental stage."

No final decisions had yet been reached on the full effects of the drugs, or on the conditions and diseases for which they can effectively be used.

Speaking during consideration of health department estimates, he told of the part played in development of the drugs. He stressed that the amounts available are so small that they can barely meet experimental needs.

"I can say nothing about the future, but at the present time the amounts which are available to us — and it will be made available to all — will be solely for experimental and research purposes.

Is Trouble With Doctors

The health department has been in touch with leading doctors working on the drug in the United States.

"I want to give this country the assurance that no effort is going to be lost to do all that can be possibly done from our end, through this department, more particularly through research men on whom the development really rests," Mr. Martin said.

Scientific Research Spending Mounts

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)— Presidential adviser John R. Steelman said Friday night the United States is spending more than ever before on scientific research, surpassing even its war-time peak, to speed that purpose. Figures offered by Steelman and other speakers at a scientific-industry meeting indicated that the government and private interests together are spending at the rate of almost $3,000,000,000 a year for scientific research and development work.

Mayor of Aue Flees to West

Berlin, Dec. 3—(AP)— The Mayor of Aue, uranium mining centre in the Soviet zone, has fled to the British zone, refusing to move people out of their homes to make room for new-by-drafted miners, the British-licensed newspaper Telegraf said today. Aue, in the heart of Germany, is in the heart of the district which is known to be a chief source of raw material for the Soviet atomic program.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Dec. 3 (CP)—Synopsis—Mild weather accompanied by very light snow has already invaded Northwestern Ontario. That temperature will follow rather rapid during the night. At 10 p.m. Friday evening it was locally reported 9 below zero. By five a.m. this morning the mercury had risen to 30 above. There is no indication of the milder weather to move into the remainder of the province.

A southerly surge of mild air is also entering Southern Ontario accompanied by increasing cloudiness. Temperatures tonight will not re below 35 degrees in this area. Scattered showers tonight and Sunday morning will be followed by clearing conditions later in the day. However, Sunday will continue mild in Southern Ontario for the greater part of the day. To the more northern regions Mr. Jack Frost is again busy and a few light snowflurries are expected.

Government Puts Heat On Fanatical Sons of Freedom Faction in B.C.

Victoria, B.C., Dec. 3—(CP)—Special police details were flown into Doukhobor country today as the government put the heat on the fanatical sons of freedom section, apparently to end the seemingly senseless violence in southcentral British Columbia.

Six more details will be flown to the Kootenays Monday and at least 10 officers will be dispatched to the interior of the province. It's the government's answer to threats from Nelson, B.C., that vigilante action will be taken unless authorities act immediately.

Recent dynamite bombings of railway track near Nelson, blamed on the sons of freedom, prompted this latest crackdown on the terrorists. It was charged that Kootenay Valley since the Doukhobors split into two factions shortly after their arrival in Canada from Russia 50 years ago.

Homemade fuses, a symbol of the sons of freedom, were used a week ago to detonate two dynamite blasts that ripped up 30 feet of Canadian Pacific Railway tracks east of Nelson, Trainmen since then have threatened to quit work in Doukhobor country unless some protection is given them.

Today, patrol cars precede all Kootenay travelling passenger routes and special railway guards have been placed at strategic bridges. Another track bombing two weeks ago was within 20 feet of a railway bridge.

The sons of freedom, the radical faction of B.C.'s 13,000 Doukhobors, have waged an incessant campaign against their orthodox brothers and what they term "man-made" laws. There are about 3,000 of them. One of them, convicted recently of deliberately burning a school, Peter Archangin Tarrya, B.C., summed up their feelings by declaring:

"We are fulfilling the will of our Almighty Father. I was free in my conscience. I am free now. I am not guilty."

Peter Doukhobor, Peter Sweetliakoff, who has not yet been sentenced, charged during his trial that Peter Archangin Verigin mailed him sketches and instructions for bombings and fires.

Verigin, leader of the secular colony on Vancouver Island, emphatically denied the charge and said Doukhobors do not perpetrate acts of terrorism need not look to him for aid.

In a letter to the Nelson News Friday, Verigin said he welcomed government intervention in the sons of freedom acts of violence and asked for a free hand to flush out from the very bottom the cause of terrorism. Doukhobor inner turmoil that has become a national menace."

Delicate Operation Changes Shy, Humiliated Children Into Happy Youngsters

By A. E. FULFORD
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Dec. 3. (CP)— Shy, humiliated children with crossed eyes change almost overnight into happy, outgoing youngsters under the skilful hands of surgeons at the hospital for Sick Children in Toronto.

The operation is a delicate one but safe and surgeons, who straighten the eyes of 200 children from many parts of Canada each year, say there is no reason why any child should go through life with the affliction.

The surgical teams scrub up at sinks in a cupvaked hallway of the 74-year-old "sick kids" building. Facilities in a new hospital—to be opened next year in Burgess Hill—are crowded in a current buildingfund drive over-subscribed. The operating quickly on a waiting list of 90 children who now have to wait months for surgery.

Become Confident

The psychological change the operation brings is even more striking than the physical improvement. Shamed kids whose lives were made unhappy by the jeers of playmates become confident, cheerful children. People no longer point and stare at them. Potential juvenile delinquents undergo amazing character change.

Some children are saved years of humiliation by operations developed at the hospital to make operations possible at 3 to 4 years instead of at 7 to 8 years considered the earliest safe age.

Operations on babies are made possible by administering the anesthetic direct to the lungs by tube.

Girl Impaled in Chest by Car Lever, Owes Life to Garageman, Cop, Doctor

Detroit, Dec. 3—(AP)—Laura Cassell, 20, probably owed her life today to the steady nerves of a garage mechanic and a policeman and surgeon's skill.

Laura's father, Jack Cassell, was driving her to her department store job Friday.

At an intersection where police said the signal light had failed the Cassell car collided with another.

Laura was flung sideways against the steering wheel.

The impact propelled part of Laura was impaled upon the gear-shift lever. It entered her chest through her left side.

Police and Laura's father did not remove her.

But they called John Richer, mechanic at a nearby garage.

As Laura gritted her teeth, Richer sawed the lever from its mounting while policeman George Mortimer held the girl.

Then Laura was hurried to hospital.

An hour-long operation followed. The broken gear-shift lever was removed after her chest was opened from hey back.

Dr. William Tuttle, who operated, said Laura came through in "good" condition. She ought to be up and around in a day or two, he added.

THIRSTY CUSTOMER FINCHED

Port Colborne, Dec. 3—(CP)—A thirsty customer, a complete stranger for a bottle opener in the washroom of a hotel in nearby Humberstone Wednesday night. The stranger didn't have an opener but he had a policeman's badge. Howard Augustine Finch, 23, was fined $50 and costs, missing liquor in a public place, said by Constable James Marshall.

CHARGED WITH THEFT

Toronto, Dec. 3. (CP)—Albert Mignaco, 39, and Louis Jeffries, 23, observed by police Friday night as they took a radio from one automobile, dumped it into the back seat of another car and drove off, have been arrested on charges of theft. Police were directed over the two-way police radio system.

250,000 AUTO WORKERS RESUME JOBS ON MONDAY

Will be Engaged on Work of 1950 Models

(By DAVID J. WILKIE)

Detroit, Dec. 3 — (AP) —Approximately half the 250,000 auto workers, idle this week because of steel shortages, will return to their jobs Monday.

For the most part they will resume manufacturing operations on 1950 model cars. Some companies with 1950 model switchovers already, completed will get back to full production August. Others will stockpile component parts and sub-assemblies for a resumption of car output Dec. 12.

This week's output of 57,788 passenger cars and 9,771 trucks is described by Ward's Automotive reports as the lowest since the first week of 1948.

Industry Outlook Better

Ward's said however, that the industry's outlook for December is improving. As a result, it added production of all the major workers laid off towards the end of last week will be back at their jobs by the end of the month.

The agency said improvement in the steel supply situation enabled the automotive factories to build 368,000 cars and 60,000 trucks last week.

Some 1250 model United States automobiles are going to cost a little more than the current models.

The lower price will result from the reduction of factory prices on some automatic transmissions. The cuts range only from $25 to $61 and many models will never see in them evidence of a trend toward lower car prices.

So far automatic transmissions installed in cars in the middle and higher price fields. During the last year or two they have become increasingly popular. The demands for them has grown so steadily that Chevrolet and Ford will have them next year.

Chevrolet will announce its drive soon after Jan. 1 with presentation of its 1950 models. Ford has already put its drive-shaft, developed in co-operation with Kaiser-Warner, will be ready next summer.

14,000 PERSONS WITHOUT TAP WATER

Fort Coquitlam, B.C., Dec. 3—(CP)—An estimated 14,000 persons today are without tap water in four Fraser Valley centres and parts of a fifth after the water was cut off when the flooding Coquitlam River washed out a break in a 25-inch water main. Works crews Friday tied the break in the pipe break, which has cut off the supply to Haney, Hammond, Webster's Corners and Port Hammond. Two divers today will probe another section of the line for breaks.

COMIC STRIP CREATOR DIES

Daytona Beach, Dec. 3—(AP)— Frank Miller, 51, creator of the syndicated comic strip "Barney Google," died in a hospital here Friday night. He worked for the Denver Post, the Chicago Rocky Mountain News until he began drawing his strip 13 years ago.

Sicilian Towns Being Endangered By Molten Lava

Mount Etna Eruptions Followed by Earthquake

Catania, Sicily, Dec. 3 (AP)— Fiery lava from erupting Mount Etna today threatened the little Sicilian town of Maletto but an official source at noon (8 a.m. EST) said the burning flow had "slowed down" considerably several kilometers from the town of 3,000 inhabitants.

The police chief at Catania estimated the "pent-up" lava now was flowing from at least 10 openings in the mountain's side.

At dawn, exactly 24 hours after Etna began its new eruptions, monstrous flames shot toward the sky from the main crater. A reported earthquake jolted the area with a terrifying roar, witnesses reported.

The lava advancing on Maletto no longer appeared to threaten Bronte, a town of 18,000 southwest of Maletto.

First reports today did not estimate the distance now separating the lava from Maletto. The first flow during the night reached point 13 1-3 miles from Bronte, then deviated toward Maletto. The fiery mass sowed destruction among rich fruit orchards as it slithered down the slope of the mountain.

Witnesses said fiery blasts of air moving ahead of the lava started forest fires.

At dawn the 10,758-foot peak was hidden by a huge cloud of steam, smoke and vapor.

Residents of towns throughout the eruption area stayed up all night but did not begin to evacuate their homes.

A youth who saw the dawn eruption of the main crater said it looked like a "monstrous pyrotechnic spectacle."

"Geysers of flames and sparks soared out of the main crater," he said. "There was a great roar then silence. It was like looking at a color movie without sound."

Pleads Innocent To Drunk Driving

Perth, Scotland, Dec. 3 (CP) — The Queen's nephew, the Earl of Strathmore, was accused of drunken driving today.

The 31-year-old ex-soldier pleaded innocent.

The offence was alleged to have taken place Friday night on the road between Perth and Forfar, about six miles from Perth.

The earl was allowed bail after a brief arraignment in Perth sheriff court. The court fixed March 10 for a trial. The earl, whose name is Timothy Patrick Bowes-Lyon, was held.

The earl's address was given as Glamis Castle, the family seat of the Strathmore family. Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret spent much of their childhood there.

Desk-Thumping is An Art Soon Learned by New Members of House

By NEIL SUFRIN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Dec. 3 (CP)—One of the first things a New member learns when he comes to parliament is the art of desk-thumping.

As the fi st session of the 21st parliament draws to a close, it is evident that the overwhelming majority of new members have learned their lesson well.

You can't distinguish the newcomers from the veterans when the question period is in full swing or a noisy desk-thumping ovation.

Desk-thumping, incidentally, is parliament's way of expressing spontaneous approval.

The rhythmic, collective slapping of desk-tops with the palm of the hand is the most com municate approval of such varied subjects as British Columbia apples, sharp retorts, Prince Edward Island lobsters, distinguished visitors, Nova Scotia apples and world wheat kings.

Too Much Thump

In fact it might well be asked if the Commons isn't a little too free with its desk-thumping.

There's desk-thumping when a member rises to speak and again when he sits down.

Except on rare occasion, each party thumps for its own speakers. However, this selective deskthumping often loses identity much as when a Liberal finishes and a Progressive Conservative rises. Both parties are thumping for joy.

Grand Slam

With the desk-thumping practised so regularly, it becomes increasingly difficult to signal exceptionally hearty approval. The only way is by more extended and thumping applause.

To this end, J. J. Gauthier (Portneuf, Quebec Liberal), a parliamentary veteran, has developed a new technique of desk-thumping. He uses the heel of his shoe instead of the palm of his hand.

Sedate Hansard reporters recognize the thumpers in their own way, but a layman scanning their account of Commons proceedings wouldn't detect as much as a single tap. Here's what a rousing thumping session looks like in print:

"Some honourable members

COST-OF-LIVING INDEX REDUCED BY HALF POINT

Decline in Food Prices During October Brings Drop

Ottawa, Dec. 3. (CP) —A decline in food prices during October reduced the cost-of-living index by half a point to 161.7.

It was the third successive decline for the index since it reached a peak of 162.8 last July. During August it fell to 162.3 and in September it dropped to 162.2. The index is computed on the base, 1935-39 equals 100.

Lower prices for meats, eggs and most fresh vegetables were mainly responsible for the decrease in October, but prices also were lower for most overcoats, suits and women's topcoats as well as dishes and glassware.

Some foods were higher, including oranges, lemons and coffee, but the lower price of other items outweighed this.

The food index rose from 205 to 203.3. The rent index was unchanged at 125.9 of the miscellaneous division also was unchanged at 130.2.

Fuel Index Up

The fuel and light index, however, jumped a point to 135.1, with higher quotations for coal and coke imported from the United States. Devaluation was believed the reason.

Higher prices for f miture were reported, over-balancing the decreases for dishes and glassware, and the index for the home furnishings and services division was two-tenths of a point from 167.2 to 167.4.

The drop in the food index had the greatest effect on the combined index, since food counts for nearly a third in the combined figure. Part of the decline at least, was a seasonal one with meat prices normally lower in October.

CASHIER SLUGGED

Chicago, Dec. 3 — (AP) — Two daring robbers slugged the general cashier of the Stevens Hotel Friday, seized $23,000 in cash and cheques and escaped. The robbers entered in late afternoon as the cashier, H. W. Kipper, 47, stepped into a service elevator on the fourth floor of the world's largest hotel.

Information for Voters On 3 Municipal Questions

When Belleville electors go to the polls on Monday they will be asked to vote on three municipal questions in addition to casting their ballots for the man they wish to represent them as mayor and for members of council and the board of education.

The three questions on which the electors are asked to voice their opinions include whether they are in favor of the Public Utilities Commission being increased to five members instead of three members as at present. All electors, whether property owners, or tenants, will be entitled to vote on this question.

The other questions to be decided are proposed money bylaws and only property owners are entitled to vote on them. The questions are approval for renovating and modernizing the city hall to accommodate the police station and civic offices at an estimated cost of $150,000, and a question of the annual budget for the parks board to amount to being set at a sum of two mills instead of the one mill as at present.

Difference of Opinion

There has been a difference of opinion expressed as to the merits of increasing the membership of the Public Utilities to five members. City Council has approved of the matter being placed before the electors, while the chairman of the commission expressed the view that a five man membership would be unwieldy.

The question of renovating the city hall has been discussed both in council and on the street for a number of years with no definite action having been taken on laws.

Should the city hall be renovated according to the current plan all civic offices as well as the police station would be situated on the ground floor of the building. The council police station would then be made over into the farmers' market, taking the place of the present space in the city hall.

Details of the proposed alterations to the city hall are estimated to be in the neighborhood of $85,000.

The remaining question as to whether the parks board budget should be increased to two mills instead of the present one mills is a comparative new matter only recently suggested by the Parks Board. The Parks Board claims the additional money is needed for the improvement of the city park system, they having specifically mentioned Victoria Park and the development of Ewick's Island on a long-term basis.

Think Funds Sufficient

On the other hand there is a feeling in certain quarters that the Parks Board has sufficient funds to carry out the necessary work on local parks providing the board was efficiently managed.

So there it is, folks! First it is the duty of the elector to get out and vote. Then after choosing mayor, and representatives and candidates for the board of education, there are the three questions through the ballot to members of the Utilities Commission, which questions are stated to vote. Only property owners are entitled to vote on the proposed money bylaw.

Talk on Adult Education Given

Miss J. Sady, field secretary of the Canadian Association for Adult Education, addressed the Y's Men's Club at its regular weekly meeting in the Y.M.C.A. on Thursay night. She presented the program of adult education as an opportunity for self education as a voluntary basis as contrasted with the formal school methods. While adult education was presented in various forms such as lectures, forums discussion, films and radio, she stated a primary opportunity was available at present in the citizen's forum which the adult education association was sponsoring in co-operation with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation as weekly feature. She pointed out the values which came of listening groups discussing together timely topics of major importance in Canadian life following presentations by radio experts on the subject.

Les Reid introduced the speaker who was thanked by Archie Boyd. A distinguished visitor at the head table was Mrs. Charles L. Hyde, mother of president Gerry.

Announcement was made that the club was proceeding with the sale of Christmas trees at a usual club project and members were urged to make the fact known to friends who have loyally supported this project in the past through the purchase of trees.

The club family Christmas party will be held on Dec. 16th.

Motor Trip to West Coast

Must be Seen to be Appreciated

By M. HALSTEAD HORN

(5th Instalment)

Leaving Saskatoon on Sept. 30th by highway No. 7 that passes through Rosetown and on to the Alberta boundary where it becomes highway No. 8. The weather was good being down warm and bright and it is a pleasure to be driving and we are agreeably surprised to find we are on a hard surfaced highway that does not pass through all the small towns along the way. As we passed a sign board we saw a sign board naming the town and pointing to the road leading into the town.

Unless the traveller cared to go through the town he could keep driving and save only 15 or fifty miles per hour. As we were in no great hurry at the end of two hundred and fifty miles we decided to go into the town for lodging at a small town in Alberta.

During that two hundred and fifty miles west of Saskatoon we drove through some excellent farming district and most of the crop had been harvested.

Forsaken Land

Further on we came to very large tract of level land and as far as eye can see in any direction no sign of a house or farm buildings. We could tell this land had been under cultivation but not this year nor last year. Knowing this district we know it had produced luxuriant crops. Now it was very badly weed infested, the principal weed being the Russian thistle. You ask why no buildings and why the weeds. The answer is much of this land was really grazing land and the prairie wool grass the originally covered it was excellent for fattening cattle and I mentioned before the high price of wheat tempted people to break up as much grazing land as they because raising, wheat takes less time than to feed cattle for the year round.

Although this land produced abundantly at first under favorable conditions such as the rainy years, after the land should have been broken up, because open the fibre in the soil becomes exhausted the soil was very fine and inclined to drift and when the crop of dry grass rolled around it drifted with every puff of wind. It has been said it drifted soil like snow drifts and this top soil that drifted is the best of the soil. When there are several dry years in succession the land is eventually abandoned and mother nature steps in to cover the soil and also weeds and what is likely to stand drought in this case it is Russian thistle.

Nuisance Weed

The Russian thistle is all right to prevent soil drifting but a real nuisance when it completely takes over. Even a fire it is a good servant but a very bad master. In case you have never seen this weed I shall endeavor to describe it to you. It is a very dark rusty green looking plant growing from ten to 18 inches tall, the lower branches lay on the ground and the branches are very many and compact and the plant is like half of a large ball.

I have seen single plants growing by the roadside and on the fields and I doubt very much if the ordinary wash tub would cover the plant. When it is matured it breaks off close to the ground and at the first breeze it starts rolling merrily hither and yon and scattering the hundreds of ripened seed for next year's growth.

Of course were all the prairie lands producing wheat at an average of thirty bushels per acre there would be no market for it and no place to store it all. But it is tragic that this stretch of land is known as the bad lands I do not believe nature ever intended it to be so called but man's greed is to blame. Were the rainy season to return no doubt this land can be made to bloom again but at considerable expense clearing the weeds.

Irrigation Discussed

For some years there has been talk of a plan to dam some of the rivers to make a storage lake that would feed a system of irrigation ditches. Since I started writing this account of our trip I have read in the Edmonton Journal that Alberta is trying out a voluntary plan to help prevent erosion. They have a "Save the Soil" campaign and many farmers are doing their utmost to further the work. Those who don't care to co-operate in the undertaking may find pressure brought to bear because Alberta claims that agriculture is and will be one of Alberta's greatest industries as long as the fertility of her farm lands is maintained.

Towards dusk we registered at a small clean hotel in a small Albertan town. The town is having government hydro installed and not before it was needed, as the lighting plant is being run by a tractor and liable to fold up anytime. During the night the power went off and that meant the light in the hall in front of our room was out.

I wakened and knew the light was out, because it was shining through the glass in the transom when we retired. Of course I got thinking if October 31 were to be fire escape or a rope at the window in case of fire I don't see how I could it was rather difficult getting to sleep again yet we came through all right and woke to find another grand day coming on.

While we were getting gas in the morning I asked a young man when the hunting season opened. I knew we were close to the pheasant district but was rather surprised to learn the season for pheasants and Hungarian partridge and prairie chicken was to open on October 15th. Friend, then register at the hotel. Believe it or not this is the first hotel we were ever in that the manager seemed so surprised when I asked for a key to lock the door when we were out. I was informed that there were no keys but there was a bolt on inside to fasten at night. At my astonishing my hostess burst laughter and came back with a key and, what do you suppose happened? At the first turn the key broke off in the lock so we were informed that we could have room for nothing since no one tampered with our grips while we were there.

Delicious Lunch

I wish you could have seen the lunch that was served just to think of it makes my mouth water. When we sat down at the table looked like some of the colored pictures of food seen in the magazines, so many varieties of cakes, pies and meats followed a delicious fresh fruit salad, that was served with homemade bread and rolls.

With a lunch like that, one forgot about the poor cards. We had such a happy time that I thanked and said good bye to our hostess with sincere regret.

My husband and I went out several times later if those pheasants had waited for us, but we found much of the district along the irrigation ditches had been posted "No Shooting" placards, and posted as it seem, any bird we saw, were too close to restricted areas to take a chance.

Leaving Strathmore for Calgary those mountains seemed a little closer than still in the evening. Some of the mountain peaks had donned their snowy bonnets and were very beautiful with-the sun shining on them.

Gaitic Origin

The name Calgary is of Gallic origin and means clear running water. Calgary is known as the city of the foothills as it is 3,428 feet above sea level. It is a beautiful city with many trees, beautiful gardens and many miles. It is not flat like some of the prairie cities but is built on rolling land. In it there are 138 churches, 93 schools and colleges, 13 theatres, 34 hotels and 2 banks and a population of 90,000 souls.

My friend arrived us to phone from Strathmore for a room, and she considered us most lucky when we were fortunate enough to have one reserved for us at the York Hotel. It was at the dinner table room on the seventh floor with a grand view looking westward to the Rockies.

Calgary is a very busy centre and many families are coming and going all the time. The rich Turner oil fields are only twelve miles away and then Calgary is a real shopping centre, for the southern and western parts of the province. Much of the land for miles around is used for ranching and there is an extensive irrigation system that makes for plenty of water for the large flocks of sheep and herds of cattle that are raised there and in the district.

Calgary is a very friendly city, and a city that is keenly interested in all kinds of sport including skating, hockey, football and curling. The Stampede is a time looked in the hearts of the Calgary folk, and the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede is world famed. Then too you will remember this city is the home of the Calgary Highlanders. We certainly liked Calgary very much with its wide paved streets, rolling landscape, beautiful homes and many trees and shrubs throughout the city.

HOLIDAY CLOSING

Toronto, Dec. 2 (CP)— Toronto Stock Exchange will close for the Christmas holiday from 12.30 p.m. Friday Dec. 23 to 10 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 27.

Hospital Given Extra Grant

Toronto, Dec. 2—(CP)—An additional Ontario grant of $565,000 to the new Hospital for Sick Children was announced today by Premier Frost. Provincial grants for construction and equipment of the new building which will have a bill at Ontario now total $1,632,000.

With members of the cabinet and Children's Aid Society officials, Mr. Frost toured the building, now approaching completion.

"More than one out of every three of the hospital's patients come from outside Toronto and these are the difficult cases requiring lengthy hospitalization," the Premier said later in a statement.

A campaign to raise $4,000,000 to complete the hospital has reached one-third of its objective.

ASKS DOCTORS REPORT QUICKLY FOUND DEAD

Toronto, Dec. 2—(CP)—Police today asked the city's doctors and hospitals to report a pending wound cases going to them for treatment. Police believe one or more shots fired at a fleeing shopbreaker Thursday night may have killed him. His body was discovered to run after only a slight pause. Proprietor of the downtown supply shop entered said nothing of value had been taken.

BRITISH TRIBUTE TO CANADIAN RED CROSS

London Times recently paid a tribute under the heading "Ship From Canada" and said:

"No better instance of practical friendship could be found than the record of the Canadian Red Cross, which is now closing down in Britain after 10 years of splendid service. It leaves behind as a standing memorial, the Canadian Red Cross Hospital at Cliveden, which is, among other things, a research centre for rheumatic-cardiac conditions in children. All this work had its source in thousands of local committees and small workrooms scattered throughout Canada, and, on this side of the Atlantic, thousands of men and women remember gratefully the benefits received through this great spontaneous welling-up of Canadian generosity."

BUSINESSMEN GET TOGETHER

One of the results of these days of conferences and trades discussions is the setting up of a new "Businessmen's Committee" to study Anglo-American trade relations from the point of view of the businessman. Several Kingdom organizations have joined with the Canadian Chamber of Commerce to form the new central committee which will meet twice a year, once in each country. The next meeting will be in London at the end of this year or the beginning of next.

The committee will study problems of internal and external trade affecting both countries, such as exchange difficulties, multilateral trading. Suggestions are to be considered "at the business level," and the prime purpose will be to exchange ideas and views. If circumstances demand, the committee will have the job of allaying misconceptions about mutual trading policies, and will make recommendations to one or both of the governments concerned.

Two members of the United Kingdom committee, Mr. John McLean and Sir Percy Lister, are members of the Dollar Exports Board, ensuring that the work of the two organizations is complimentary. Formation of the new body follows talks which started when the delegation from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce visited London last February, and were continued when a party of United Kingdom businessmen came to Quebec last June.

LOOKING FORWARD

Lots of people in the past decided not to follow precedent says the December letter of the Royal Bank of Canada and "that's why living is so much better today than it was 50 or 4,000 years ago. That's why we have gadgets and jigs to make work easier, books to make learning easier, motorships and automobiles and planes to make it easier to go places and electric calculating machines to add up the cost and profit of it all."

"If we 'progress' then gets to work before its coming is recognized." Too much precedent worship causes staleness to set in and "repetition produces a gradual lowering of our vividness of appreciation. Life becomes dull and the spirit of adventure dies. We are willing to be what we have always been, thinking successes were either."

"But fortunately for the race," says the writer, "a tiny creative minority remains that refuses to turn aside from the task of building usefully. The belief that things have already been settled for us on lines surviving from primitive civilized society is the prophecy of disaster."

"We need to reason upon today's cases themselves, they should be taken as helps not as laws."

History should not be despised and precedents are not to be ignored if they are used as stepping stones not as millstones.

"It is a duty to learn from those who have gone before us, on a road that we too must travel. So what makes history important is that history is the basis of knowledge, not battles as battles, or kings as kings, but the history of events and thoughts that affected the current of human life."

That takes the letter writer to the consideration of the approach of a new year . . . "We need practice in the art of darling, he says, to win with pleasure and lose with a smile. "Armed with all great men, even the most venturesome have had, art of self-governance or mind management . . . In the face of what has been we need not fear the future."

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST
(Copyright, 1948, Edgar A. Guest)

EARLY WARNING

"Want to know something, Pop?" said he,
"As I was talking with his dad,
He thinks important news for me
Immediately to tell he had.
"Yes," I replied,"I'd like to hear
Just what I haven't learned, my son?"
"Electric trains," said he, "this year
Are going to be hard to get;
"You know the boy who plays with me?
I nodded, "Well, he said the strike
Made steel so short he'll hardly be Able to manages to get a bike."

And, there is something more
He thinks I'll learn;
His father just found out
somehow;
Soon the last scooter will be sold.
It's hard to find one even now."

"H-mmm!" I replied; "That's startling news.
You're right it's something I should know.
Plainly I have no time to lose;
Already scooter stocks are low!
December, and the bikes are few
And little time to buy remains.
This warning I'll remember, too:
It's hard to get electric trains!"

Member Critical Of Announcing Hospital Grants

Ottawa, Dec. 3 (CP)—A doctor-member criticized the public letter Martin to Little Jack Horner in the Commons Friday night.

Dr. W. Black (CCF—Yorkton), criticizing the health department for the manner in which it publicizes grants for hospital structure, said Mr. Martin is giving a good imitation of Little Jack Horner. Everytime he stuck in his thumb and pulled out a plum he said "What a Good Boy am I."

"It's becoming tiresome to hear this fanfare and publicity every time a grant is made," said the Perth. Ont., physician as the House began consideration of health department estimates. He was hardly in keeping with the general attitude of the medical profession or public that of the provinces. All provinces had been great boosters for years with "very little advertising." Similarly nurses, physicians and hospitals had done splendid work without banning all the time for publicity.

Dr. Blair selected one specific example which had appeared in the Toronto Globe and Mail. The headline of a story reporting a $560,000 federal grant to construction of the Sick Children's Hospital had given the impression that it was the government project.

It must be remembered, said Dr. Blair, that the province's government had contributed $2,000,000 to that project and the city of Toronto $1,000,000.

Too Much Publicity

Every grant made to a hospital anywhere by the federal government had been published in the press and broadcast on the radio. Yet while Ontario grants were larger than those of the federal government, there was never as much publicity.

Dr. Blair said there had been a lot of talk about a national health plan, but that was not needed now. There was no hollow-ness in Canada's economy.

There were many pressing needs which could only be filled by the federal government.

These included the care of incurables, retraining of disabled persons as a result of the increasing accident rate, and treatment of the enormous number of mentally afflicted.

Prevention was the keynote of disease and in helping increase early discovery was needed.

There was a serious shortage of hospital space, particularly for incurables, many of whom were in public wards of hospitals.

Dr. Blair lamented that greater strides in medical progress are usually made during war. He hoped that the day would come when just as much energy would be devoted to medical research in peacetime.

Mental treatment had been neglected, but there were some bright spots. One was the pioneer work in Ontario. Others included free hospital care and physiotherapy to poliomyelitis victims.

Lithographers Sign Contract With Employers

Toronto, Dec. 3 — (CP)—Representatives of the Canadian Employing Lithographers and the Amalgamated Lithographers of America in Toronto today announced signing of a collective labor agreement.

The agreement brings to an end a five-month tie-up in the lithographing industry in Ontario and Quebec that affected 900 workers in Toronto, Hamilton, London and Montreal.

The statement was released Friday by Ernest Higgins, executive secretary of the employing lithographers Association, following a meeting Thursday.

It said the dispute, which centred on wages, welfare, pensions and hours, was settled on the basis of:

Maintenance of 40-hour week, contributory welfare plan to which each employee contributes 2½ cents an hour, insurance being paid by the employer, for group life, hospital, medical and surgical benefits, and wage increase of 17 cents an hour. Another 2½ cents paid cost-of-living bonus is also being incorporated in the wages, which means an increase of 22 cents an hour over the basic rate in the 1948 contract.

Mr. Higgins said the numerous classifications in the industry made it difficult to cite a basic wage figure.

Included also in the settlement is a $3-a-week payment to employers, retroactive to Oct. 1, to the date of the strike, June 29.

The 1948 contract expired last Dec. 31. The new collective agreement runs until Dec. 31, 1950.

Mr. Higgins said employees will report to their places of employment next Monday for instructions. Production will date they will return to work. The plants will be in readiness by the C. S. A. reopen Dec. 7.

Letter to the Editor

Better Health Service Suggested

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

Would you be kind enough to publish the enclosed letter of April 9th, 1949, in your worthy columns and also its reply.

We are hoping that the candidates elected for election are interested in health matters.

(Mrs. E.) Jessie David,
Secretary.

Health Committee, Belleville Home and School Associations and St. Michael's Academy.

J. W. Holmes, Esq.,
Secretary,
Board of Health,
Belleville.

Dear Sir:

As agreed at our meeting on Thursday, April 7th, in the City Hall, we are writing to cover the discussion that took place.

Our Health Committee represents five Home and School Associations of Belleville and also St. Michael's Academy, and in this way represents the families of approximately 3,700 pupils.

Our purpose in meeting with your Board was to request an improvement in the present public health services in Belleville, which we hope to be materially inaugurated at present. The minimum requirements suggested by our Mr. Bennett, as recorded, are what we understand to be the present services, as follows:

(Proposed)
Medical Health Officer full time	$5,100
Three nurses (four desirable)	7,000
Clerical help (if voluntary help not available)	1,200
	$13,300
(Present) Medical Health Officer	$ 700
Three nurses (four desirable)	2,500
	$3,200
	$13,300
	3,200
Difference	$10,100

Since we cannot have a County Health Unit until the County Council changes its views, we feel that something must be done at once to improve the health services in our city.

Our request for improved services is not to be taken as a criticism of the excellent work being done by our present school nurses. The Home and School Associations are conscious of the fact that we have only one nurse for the Collegiate Institute and no services in the Collegiate. St. Michael's Academy would also be without nursing services without the assistance of the Catholic Women's Association raised the money to pay for services by the V.O.N.

Thanking you for your kindness in granting us this hearing, and also for the very appreciative manner in which you accepted our recommendation

Yours very truly,
(Signed)
(Mrs. E. S.) Ada Kelsey,
Secretary
135 Albert St., City.
April 9th, 1949.

April 27th, 1949.

Mrs. K. S. Kelsey,
Secretary, Health Committee,
Belleville Home & School Associations,
155 Albert Street,
Belleville, Ontario.

Dear Madam:

I beg to advise you that at a regular meeting of the City Council held on Monday, April 25th, 1949, the following recommendation was adopted:

Re: Request for Health Unit—Home & School Clubs

THAT the matter of a Health Unit for our City as suggested by Water Bowling Home Clubs was considered but as we have no legislation for same in our 1949 budget, it is recommended it be referred to the Council for 1950.

Yours very truly,
J. Wilfred Holmes,
City Clerk.

300 Men Escape As Fire Destroys School Dormitory

Norman, Okla., Dec. 3 — (AP) — More than 300 men students sleeping in a dormitory at the University of Oklahoma campus escaped early today when fire destroyed the building.

Two students were injured critically and at least 18 others including a Canadian, suffered less severe injuries. The Canadian was James Melvyn of Big Valley, Alta. His condition was reported not serious.

The fire broke out about 2:30 a.m. and quickly spread through the two-storey, wooden structure. Origin of the fire is not known.

Alvin Lee Hall, Oklahoma City, who was sleeping in the dormitory at the time, said that there was some confusion but no one was panicky.

"The first we knew of the fire was when guys ran down the hall yelling 'fire, fire.' We thought it was a gag but I got up and opened the door," Lavina said.

"I climbed out on the ledge. We were on the second storey there and I dropped down on the ledge. Some were throwing their stuff out the window but I didn't have time."

TAXICAB SIGNS ARE ORDERED REMOVED

Toronto, Dec. 3—(CP)—Toronto taxicab signs urging Sunday afternoon sports in the city were ordered removed today by police. Police said that applications for permission to carry the signs had been refused previously.

THE DANGERS OF TONSILLECTOMY

From this ignorance there are two methods of approach—the injection of electro-coagulation.

He chooses to ignore the dangers associated with these two forms of therapy, which may occur even when used by skilled physicians.—(Quoted from an editorial in the bulletin of the Fort Wayne Medical Society.)

Electro - coagulation (surgical diathermy) is the alternative I recommend to any one who contemplates undergoing a tonsillectomy. The allusion to injection treatment I recommended if at any one who contemplates entering the hospital for the old Spanish custom. Frankly, I prefer these modern methods of "forms of therapy" because I believe they are at least as efficacious as the knife and cheaper and they are less painful and less dangerous.

Neither electro-coagulation of tonsils nor injection treatment is an internal, blind, bleeding hemorrhoids (piles) despite the patient from his or her ordinary activities for more than a few minutes at each session in the office of practice. This feature of the modern methods is of tremendous importance when compared with the hospitalization and loss of time from work entailed by the older method.

One assumption which many physicians who believe in and practise tonsillectomy would like to laity and even their medical colleagues accept as fact is that the operation (tonsillectomy) in the hands of a qualified operator leaves no scar of any kind in the throat. That this is not so, any physician who cares to investigate the method of closure must realize. A medical friend describes interesting discussions of the question in the doctors' room at the hospital. Those who have had tonsillectomies sound off about the completeness of removal, he says them to tell him how his throat looks, and when they pronounce his tonsils not much enlarged he mentions that he has undergone tonsillectomy at the hands of leading specialists only three times so far.

Another assumption which many physicians accept as fact simply because they forget what they learned about pathology is the notion that all tonsil tissue is harmful in itself, if the tonsils or one of them are or have been infected—that is, if there is reason to believe a nidus or focus of infection is present in one or both tonsils. There is no sound reason for regarding tonsil tissue as injurious in itself. Nor is there enough clinical evidence to indicate that the presence of a septic focus, a nidus of infection in one tonsil warrants an attempt to remove the entire tonsils—by an attempt, because seldom is tonsillectomy fully successful in that —no matter who does the operating—portion of tonsil tissue usually remain in the throat in at least one-third of all cases.

The procedure associated with electro-coagulation" (diathermy) is employed only in their absence. This method of treatment for infected tonsils is without mortality and free as the moment from

If my tonsil or tonsils were infected and my physician of experimentic trouble seemed to be due to focal infection therefore, I'd insist on electro-coagulation or diathermy of the tonsil or tonsils surrounding tissue in the affected area, disinfection or sterilization of the area, drainage of the tissue. That, I believe, is the best results at least as good as any I can investigate the method thoroughly and without serious risk to life.

Tonsillectomy always involves risk to life, in my judgment, the risk is seldom warranted.

Where do the old fur coats go
All these ladies, regardless of their furs—what do they do when the coats are done for?

Are they sold second hand? Is there a lively enough second hand market for the fur trade, too; because several of the men, who had been in the habit of buying a new fur coat for their wives, found finally to their sorrow, that the old coat was beginning to look a little shabby. But not too much to make a jerkin.

Outdoor clothing has become very expensive in the last few years largely thanks to the zippers. Many of the men demonstrated that light, wind-proof clothing is all that is bearable when the day is active.

But for inactive gents who merely like to be in the warm countryside, looking at nature and breathing raw air something more insulative is required. And a jerkin patched out of the wife's old fur coat makes a man understand why the ladies love fur.

have got the bug and have had fur-lined jerkins made of all manner of furs; muskrat, seal, the coats are done for?

So far, none have come up with the answer. Not even a request for the fur trade, too; because several of the men, who had been in the habit of buying a new fur coat for their wives, found finally to their sorrow, that the old coat was beginning to look a little shabby. But not too much to make a jerkin.

STAGNANT POOLS

A beautiful pool in the midst of a beautiful garden is one sometimes visit is covered at this time of year with green scum. The answer is to be found in one word—stagnant. There is too little water flowing into the pool and too little flowing out to keep the pool fresh and wholesome.

The day on which people leave high school or college is called "commencement," the idea being that although formal education is now ended, the education process has in reality only just begun. But for many people graduation day is really a closing exercise, the last bit of intellectual stimulation they will have the rest of their lives. These people are stagnant pools. And their personalities are about as attractive as a pool of water covered with green scum.

Life ceases to be a normal and satisfactory fashion unless there comes from without some unusual stimulus entering life. By the same token, these forces must go out helpful ways to others, and purposeful activity if the person is to remain fresh and it will ease to be healthy and happy.

The life which the psychologist terms stagnant is that which fortunate life in which energy unintended flows out purposefully through channels of creativeness and purposeful activity.

FAVOR LOUDSPEAKERS FOR BRANTFORD BUSSES

Kitchener, Dec. 3—(CP)—Overwhelming approval for loudspeakers for busses owned by the local Public Utilities Commission was given here by the public. The P.U.C. allowed a firm to install one radio on a test basis for 10 days. A poll was then taken here about 11 o'clock and decided to dictate people want them installed on all other busses plying city streets.

WINTER WINDOW GARDENS

A Fascinating Hobby That Performs An Attractive Feat of Home Decoration

Based on an Idea Used Years Abroad by Garden Lovers

The requirements are quite simple. The first essential is a window which, with minor alterations and accessories, can hold a lovely display that will repay the time and effort involved. In a series of four articles on window gardening, these requirements will be described.

The window garden season begins when frost has finished the last remaining flowers in the border and ends in early spring. During this winter period it is possible to carry through a succession of bloom. There are approximately ten types of plants and vines that can be raised from seed, cuttings or already potted by your florist. There are also Holland bulbs which, by following simple instructions can provide a succession of fragrant blooms.

This illustration shows an ideal window garden applicable to a new home. The principles can be adapted, however, to any sunny window. Plant material will be described in following articles.

It is first necessary to equip the window with Venetian shades. This will control the volume of light and provide a barrier against cold glass. In both frame and brick veneer walls, the depth of inside reveal does not permit the proper width of shelves which should be 5½ inches wide. By constructing a simple plywood casing six inches wide over the window trim a frame is created to enclose the display of green foliage and flowers. Such a reveal also permits a wide, deep metal trough for the plants. A 30 inch width between jambs will give a total of ten feet of growing space. For this, ½" plate is best with the edges polished. A 5½ inch length of ½" core mould can be braded to the jambs, thus holding the glass securely and making removal of the shelves a simple matter. The bottom section, also of plate glass, is a protective design and made to enclose a Lumiline light. This can be connected to the nearest base plug and provides a pleasing illumination.

The window ledge should be covered with some waterproof material. On top of this, a shallow metal pan can be placed filled with sand or fibre pad to retain the moisture and help increase humidity. For home, apartment or office, a window garden will provide an inexpensive and interesting pastime. Your florist has all the plant material immediately available to quickly provide a lovely display as soon as the window is ready.

False Curls Add Color Contrast To Clipped Hair

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

London, — (CP) — Britain's "two-color" hair style was applauded at the annual congress of the Syndicatist Haute Cocefr in Paris.

Introduced by Riche of Mayfair, it is a Coolie Cut—short, brushed-up ends and no parting the hair coming from the crown in a Catherine wheel fashion to form a front fringe.

The novelty of this style is a Juliet cap for evening wear made of contrasting hair. The cap is combed and blended into the real hair-line finished with a wimple of black velvet circled with gold ribbon.

Paris's contribution to the falsehair styles is the Jacqueline-curl. Short, softly-brushed urchin day styles can be glamorized for night time by addition of a fine spring band to which is attached perfectly-matched curls that have been lacquered stiff and shiny.

Many styles can be achieved by this additional band—the windblown look, the tight cut, the slickbrushed shingle, the asymmetrical look and the winged Grecian line.

So, whatever the women of Britain do in hairdo's, the trend is definitely getting shorter. For smart women, these short styles are a "must" with the high collared winter coats and tiny skull shaped hats.

Coiffeurs Like It

Both Raymond and Steiner—two of Mayfair's exclusive coiffeurs—are concentrating on short cuts.

Raymond's semi-shingle flip is smoothly-brushed with a side-parting, softly brushed-up sides and slight back turn-up.

His "choirboy" style is a sm o o thly-brushed Napoleonic shingle—cap with winged sides and small fringe. His asymmetric style is a straight-cut short fringe style on one side, with the stepping-stone halo of roll-curls on the other side.

Steiner's "Peter Pan" cut follows the new off-the-forehead trend. It is brushed smoothly back to a tiny knot of short curls at the nape of the neck. For day or night wear you just change the curl ornament from combs to bows, jewels or flowers.

The new length is anything from three to six inches in front and much shorter at back. Sometimes the hair is only half an inch so as not to bring it at the back. It may be softly turned up or cut in a mannish shingle.

One of the most popular shingle cuts are the smooth, cap-shingle with winged sides and short straight fringe and the second, formed by brushed-back waves with softly brushed curls high on the forehead.

People Careless, Pilfering Widow Takes Advantage

Oakland, Calif. — (AP) — People observed Mrs. Elizabeth Worthington, "are awful careless."

The spry, 73-year-old widow ought to know. She estimates she has relieved "careless people" of more than $500,000 in the last 50 years.

Mrs. Worthington is spending a six months' sojourn in the Alameda County prison farm—"quite the loveliest fall I have been in."

She ought to know about that, too. Mrs. Worthington, who claims Missouri as her birthplace, but gives no specific town, says she has been arrested 22 times.

Her cheerful—if not exactly moralistic—outlook on life is the fruit of experience, of what she termed "grand and something maybe great grand" larceny in many states. Her present incarceration is on a vagrancy charge.

Mrs. Worthington likes to travel but she is glad to rest a bit in pleasant surroundings with all expenses paid. She has smooth dark hair, lively smile and candid blue eyes. Her appearance of demure respectability is completely at variance with her unabashed account to reporters of her career of "stealing through life." Mr. Worthington died, said she, at 45 years ago.

She said she was no juvenile delinquent nor was she led astray by evil companions. As a matter of fact, her first shoplifting experience was by accident.

Followed Example

"I was in a department store," she told a reporter in her cell "when I saw a woman picking up stockings and things from the counters and stowing them in newspapers.

"Uh huh," I thought 'I guess I can do that too.'" I stepped out to a 5 and 10, bought me a shopping bag and came back. I did that other woman one or several better. I walked out with three expensive dresses."

"I got things to sell (Mrs. Worthington never uses the direct word 'steal') for five years without being caught. Then they closed up all the fencing stores, so I didn't have a chance to sell things. I had to get money direct."

Mrs. Worthington's first arrest was the result of carrying a suitbox of "lovely things" into a courtroom, where she was a witness in a case.

With a little spare time before the proceedings, she remembered she "went down town and picked up some beautiful dresses." With no time to deposit them elsewhere she brought them to the courthouse. That was a mistake.

"Before I got down the steps of that place. I was charged with grand larceny," she said with a chuckle.

Mrs. Worthington figures she could have picked up more than $500,000. She has spent a lot of it "and not all on myself, either"—but a tidy sum of $10,000 or so is put away in a safety deposit box, she says "and wouldn't the police of about five states like to find out where that is!"

Terrier is Escort For Prince's Buggy

London, — (CP) — Prince Charles and his mother's pet terrier, "Shandy," are frequently seen on pram outing in Green Park these days.

Shandy is a six-month-old smooth-haired fox terrier with pure white body and a mask divided strictly in half—one side dark tan, the other white.

Two months ago he was living in kennels near Reading, Berkshire, where his former owner, Mrs. Winifred de Garis, breeds fox terriers.

She gave him to Princess Elizabeth when she heard that Mummy, Shandy's uncle, had died. Formerly Rummy had the run of Buckingahire Palace.

Said Mrs. de Garis: "I have had a letter from the princess saying that Shandy and Prince Charles get on extremely well together."

Opera Career Goal For Mother of Two

Manchester, England, —(CP)— Between bookings for her husband and two children, Mrs. Mary Malden studies singing four times a week at the Royal Manchester College of Music.

Her training, which came after she won a special scholarship will be completed in 1951 when Mrs. Malden will go onto the concert platform.

"I am hoping there is still time for me to become an opera singer," 29-year-old Mrs. Malden said.

Wife of Diplomat Enjoys Shopping Self-Service Style

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, — (CP) — The Canadian housewife may look on the corner grocerette as just another shopping centre, but Mrs. A. A. Roberts regards it as a "fascinating place." Where she comes from—Pretoria, South Africa—such self-service stores still are novelties.

"In your groceterias all the food is so beautifully packaged," the wife of South Africa's High Commissioner to Canada said in an interview as she described recent shopping excursions in and about the capital.

On the other hand, Mrs. Roberts find prices in the Dominion often a bit hard to take. In fact potatoes, fruit juices and nail polish are about the only things she has found herself able to buy for less than she would pay in South Africa.

And lemons—at 29 cents for half dozen! Mrs. Roberts threw up her hands and laughed. "You see, they grow on the trees in our garden at home."

Meeting the wives of diplomats and of government heads has kept this energetic woman at a brisk pace since she and her husband arrived in Ottawa last September.

And it has left her with a warm attitude toward Canadian hospitality. "I do feel that the women are most friendly and really open their homes to you."

Likes Canadian Lakes

For the High Commissioner and his wife, seeing Canada so far has been limited—to an occasional journey to Montreal, and motor-trips through the nearby Gatineau hills.

"On a Sunday it's nothing for us to take a picnic-lunch and travel 100 miles," said Mrs. Roberts.

She has been particularly impressed with the many lakes and rivers in the Gatineau country, and says South Africa has nothing to compare with Canada's waters.

Come spring and the Sunday jaunts undoubtedly will take the form of fishing-trip.

The High Commissioner's wife says that both she and her husband are "keen fisher people" and just waiting for the fishing-season to come around.

Mrs. Roberts is fond of gardening and has taken a lively interest in the variety of plants grown here, but unknown in her homeland.

Already she has toured the Dominion Arboretum, which lies on the southern outskirt of Ottawa. She expressed amazement at the quantity of crab-apple trees on the grounds.

On the lawns at the High Commissioner's big grey-stone residence she has planted a mass of cosmos and snowdrops. Daffodil an tulip bulb are growing in pots in the cellar.

Tulips are a rarity in South Africa, and Mrs. Roberts is eagerly looking forward to their appearance come spring.

Woman Doctor Sees Indian Food Threat

Winnipeg, — (CP) —An average family income in India of $15 a month, matched against a 400-per-cent increase in the cost of living is a serious threat to the health of India's children, says Dr. Helen Hanson, who lives in Winnipeg recently on a tour of Canada.

Dr. Hanson is the medical officer in charge of Vellore hospital for women in the Kengra Valley of the Punjab. The hospital is the only medical agency serving the valley with a population of about a million persons.

Dr. Hanson said that food in the valley is in short supply and milk, so necessary for the growth of children, is very costly. Rickets and malnutrition are widespread.

A descendant of an old Scottish family employed by the old East India trading company in the 18th cent., Dr. Hanson was born and educated in India. Her present tour marks the first time she has been away from her homeland.

Mrs. Edith Higgins, announces the engagement of her daughter, Jane W. Higgins, to L.A.C. David J. McLeod, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. McLeod, of Winnipeg, the marriage to take pace in Albert College Chapel, Belleville, during the Christmas season.

Mr. Fred H. Barton, advertising manager of the Ontario Intelligencer, left yesterday for Moncton, N.B., to attend the funeral of his mother, who died in that city on Friday.

Mrs. Flossie Mason, Mrs. Grace Lazenby, and Mrs. Violet Stark motored to Toronto on Friday to spend the weekend with relatives and friends.

WEDDINGS

CARMAN—CLEMENGER

Marmora—A quiet wedding was solemnized at the United Church parsonage, Madoc, on Saturday, November 26, by Rev. A. Fowler, when Marjorie Clemenger, youngest daughter of Mrs. Henry Clemenger and the late Henry Clemenger, was united in marriage to Ezra John Carman, of Madoc Township, youngest son of the late Collingwood Carman.

Mr. and Mrs. Carman left on a trip to Toronto and points west. They will reside on the groom's farm in Madoc Township.

Women's Activities

FOXBORO W.M.S.

The December meeting of the W.M.S. was held on Thursday afternoon in the S.S. rooms with a large attendance.

The meeting was in charge of Mrs. C. Priest, who gave the introduction. The Christmas Story was fully given by different passages of scripture, and the present singing of the Christmas carols.

Those assisting in the Scripture passages were Mrs. G. Hicks, Mrs. J. G. Sills, Miss Ann Marie McCullough, Mrs. M. Hawley, Mrs. Churchill, Mrs. Ray Tunnion and Mrs. Ewart Sills.

Mrs. R. Shetler rendered a solo "Sweet Holy Christ Child Here." Mrs. Priest told a most interesting Christmas story "Why the Bells at Christmas Ring", in which she told of a little boy who gave his only treasure—a lamb, with a small bell attached to its neck, to the new born Babe.

The second chapter of the study book "In Our Evangel", was in charge of Mrs. J. G. Sills, who explained the meaning of "Evangelism". Mrs. McCullough gave some practical thoughts. Mrs. Ewart Sills told of the "Preaching Method", and Mrs. S. C. Gay spoke on "Visiting Evangelism". Mrs. B. Hollinger spoke of "New Methods" being used namely radio, motion pictures and the translation of the hymns in their native tongue. Mrs. W. Ewart Sills and Mrs. Ella Sills asked "How are we helping in the work of Evangelism?"

Mrs. Scott conducted a short business period in which the treasurer reported having reached the allocation. The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. G. Sills.

Women's Institute

FOXBORO W.I.

The November meeting of the Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Gordon Gay, with a good attendance. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. G. C. Shorey. The roll call was answered by each member expressing some special activity they would like to have in the community. The minutes were read and approved and routine matters of business discussed.

Mrs. F. Tunnnon gave an interesting paper under the heading of "Agriculture and Canadian Industries", stressing the development of Beta, and its future objectives. Mrs. W. Simmons also gave an interesting and complete report on the Area meeting, just recently held in Belleville. Mrs. Hollinger gave a report on the girls' work. Mrs. J. Churchill, the leader of Community Activities and Public Relations for the Branch, gave a concise paper. One interesting fact was that Queen Mary, Queen Elizabeth and Princess Elizabeth, are members of the Institute in England.

A vote of thanks was tendered to all those assisting in making this an outstanding meeting. After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee.

PLAINFIELD W.I.

The December meeting of Plainfield W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Violet Elliott with 35 ladies and four children present. The meeting was opened by Miss Marion Prindle leading in community singing. The secretary Mrs. Hazzard reported the proceeds of auction sale amounted to $36.75. Collection for Institute for the Blind amounted to $42.26.

Mrs. V. Elliott took charge of the Christmas program which had been prepared by Mrs. Garnet Denyes. Christmas carols were sung and explained. Instrumental music was rendered by Mrs. C. Pryce. The celebration of Christmas in different countries was given by Mrs. O. Rollins, Mrs. C. Delong, Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. J. Salmon, and Mrs. S. Parks.

Mrs. Norm Hall gave the topic "What Should Christmas Mean to Me". Inexpensive Christmas gifts were then displayed and roll call was answered by exchange of presents. Refreshments were then served by the hostess, which brought the enjoyable afternoon to a close.

Girl Guide Activities

4th Belleville Brownie Pack—On the day before Remembrance Day the Brownies of the 4th Belleville Pack drew the three crosses that make up the Union Jack and learned the second verse of God Save the King. At "Pow Wow they thought about the meaning of our flag and of doing their duty to the King and closed their special Remembrance Day meeting by singing both verses of the National Anthem. On Nov. 22 the Brownies were also able to attend the Guide meeting when Brownies from all the Packs flew up to Guides. Beverley Brown and Betty Jane McLuskie flew up to Company 2. The Tweenies have been busy learning all they need to know before enrolment on Dec. 8, while the Brownies have been reviewing the tests they will need to know to tie up their Christmas parcels for mailing, and the whole pack has started to learn the song "We're the Brownies."

Princess Chooses A New Secretary

London, (CP) —Princess Elizabeth has chosen a new private secretary to succeed John Colville who has been appointed to the British Embassy at Lisbon.

He is Hon. Martin Michael Charles Charteris, 36, brother of the 12th Earl of Wemyss and March. He will take up his new post in January. 9

As a company commander of the King's Royal Rifles, Maj. Charteris has been living at Winchester. He will now have to find a London home for his wife and two children—a daughter aged four and a son aged two.

Maj. Charteris has had a distinguished military career, but he will receive no retirement allowance from the army. Only at 46 is an officer entitled to his pension. He will, however, receive a gratuity of £1,000 ($3,100) plus from £.100 to £150 for each year of army service.

As private secretary he will receive a salary of between £1,000 and £1,500 a year. The post is a responsible one and entails controlling a large clerical staff.

The Mixing Bowl

ANNE ALLAN
(Hydro Home Economist)

The story of the first Christmas is familiar to us all—of the Three Wise Men who came from the East with their gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh to worship the Christ Child. Legends have sprung up in different regions concerning the Wise Men but little is actually known about them beyond the brief story in the second chapter of St. Matthew. However, we do know they belonged to the "Magi" sect of priests who were noted for their enchantments, knowledge of astrology and wisdom. From the name of this sect comes our modern word "magic" for the art of entertainment.

At this season we wish we possessed more magic art in the selection of Christmas gifts to please our relatives and friends.

TAKE A TIP

1. Paper articles are numerous, attractive and economical—lamp covers, place mats, serviettes, doily centre bowls, doilies, dish cloths, etc.

2. Colored metal pieces in tumblers, trays, coasters, sieve and pans are stainproof and pretty.

3. The market abounds with all kinds of new little gadgets in metal or plastic. For instance, red plastic salad servers fashioned like scissors; attractive colored dusters in plastic holders for the assorted polishes you use, variously sized bowl covers in assorted colors.

4. Something new in kitchen equipment is always acceptable —cake tins with depressions and ring bands; stainless steel spoons and spatulas on a hanging bar, a can opener which lifts and holds up the lid; a fruit jar opener; an electric clock; a kitchen fan; a box of spices and a preparation knives.

5. Attractive serving dishes are a delight to any homemaker. This year, the novel salts and peppers are favourites for the goose and the golden egg, bride and groom, blossoms, fruit, etc. Aluminum book ends, tumblers and trays, coffee makers. Glassware, especially flower vases, tumblers and centrepieces.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. F.M.: Would like to know if it is necessary to chill cookie dough?

Answer: If cookie dough is mixed and chilled for a few hours it will be more easily handled when rolling—or you may slice it.

Mrs. G.S. asks: Why are waffles soft and yet dark brown in color?

Answer: Too much fat may cause them to be soft and insufficient egg or too much liquid makes them thin. If you separate the eggs and fold in the whites before batter is poured on the iron, the waffles will be more crisp and thick.

Mrs. N.B. asks: Why are some apple pie fillings so brown, others such a clear color? . . .

Answer: Powdered spice turns apples brown while a little lemon juice keeps apple flavor and color.

Mrs. F.W. asks for the following recipe:

SHORTBREAD

1-4 cup mild-flavored fat
1-4 cup butter
1-4 cup brown sugar
1-3 teaspoon salt
1 egg yolk
2 cups pastry flour

Soften fat and butter slightly but do not allow to become oily. Stir in sugar, egg yolk, and salt, using a wooden spoon. Mix in flour adding a little at a time until mixture is too stiff to work with a spoon. Turn on to a floured board and knead lightly, working in rest of flour as needed to make dough. Use dough as you crack. Roll about 1-4 inch thick and cut with a small cookie cutter. Bake in a moderately slow oven (325 degrees) about twenty minutes or until delicate brown. Makes about 4 dozen.

Club Activities

ST. ANDREW'S GLEE CLUB

Marmora. — The Glee Club of St. Andrew's United Church held their last meeting for 1949 at the home of Mrs. J. Wilkes on Wednesday afternoon with an attendance of 17. Mrs. Lowery conducted the opening exercises, and Mrs. Campion reported flowers sent to a sick member, and a gift purchased for the Communion set at the church.

The illness of Mrs. M. Thomson, club president, was deeply regretted, and sympathy expressed for the family, as well as the very present sorrow of all the club members.

Mrs. Litt led in the singing of a Christmas carol and other songs and short readings were given by Mrs. J. Hart; Mrs. H. F. Sabine; Mrs. A. Fraser and Mrs. A. H. Connor (nee Mary Mc-D. Young). Mrs. Hart also sang a Scotch song. Mrs. Young read a beautiful Christmas story to conclude the program.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Wilkes, with Mrs. Garth Sabine assisting.

ST. ANDREW'S C.G.I.T.

The regular meeting of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church C.G.I.T. group was held recently in the church parlors.

The meeting opened with a carol "O Little Town of Bethlehem", followed by an installation by Mrs. F. Fleming. Business was brought to order. Mrs. Weir stated that the candlelight service would be held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in the early part of December.

Those who had material worked on their projects.

"Taps" was sung and the meeting was dismissed.

There were ten girls, 2 leaders, one visitor and one new member, Shirley Gillespie, present.

Woman Finds Profit In Taxidermy Hobby

Halifax, — (CP) —Mrs. Thomas Bromage of Halifax has made a small industry from her hobby of stuffing animals and fish.

Mrs. Bromage started designing and stuffing the novelties as a spare-time hobby but it has expanded so that now her taxidermy is winning recognition from Canadian and United States tourists.

The sea is the source of many of the articles. She has a collection of swordfish, lobster, tuna and other what she calls a menagerie. These were sent to the National Hobby Exhibition at Toronto last year and won for her a special award in the miscellaneous senior section.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about Food ... What's Cooking?
By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

Cooks are the first to learn that art of practice doesn't necessarily make perfect.

You can boil beef for 99 years and never learn when to stop cooking it. One of the most provoking problems is how to tell when boiled beef is ready to eat. You can always cut off a slice and taste it. But you might cut a piece of soft meat and another muscle would be tough.

If you're making a roast you can insert a meat thermometer which takes all the guesswork out of the game. But when you're boiling a leg of mutton a piece of beef chunk, you must tell if it's tender by inserting a fork.

Overcooking is often as bad as undercooking. Beef that is boiled too long can't be cut into smooth neat slices. It will crumble under the knife and be tasteless as well as stringy.

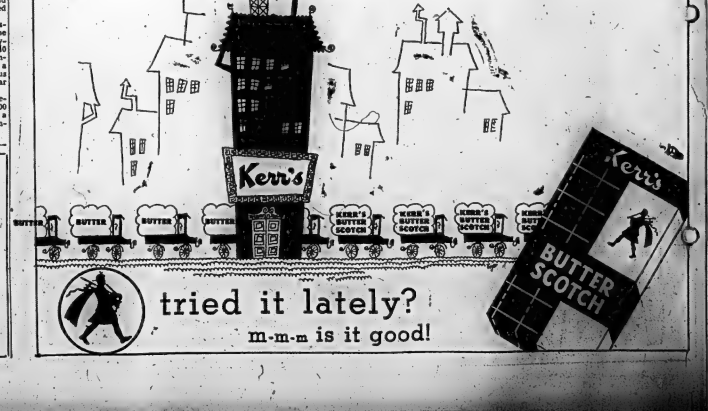
To tell if boiled beef is done, remove it from the pot of liquid so that it doesn't bounce around. Set it on a cutting board. Insert a 2 tined fork. You should be able to insert the fork and withdraw it without any tugging. If it slips loosely in and out, you've probably overcooked it. Test the meat before the allotted time. Pierce it in several places to make sure it is entirely tender.

Boiled Fresh Brisket of Beef
Serves 4 to 6

Buy a 4 pound cut of fresh brisket of beef and wipe it with a damp cloth. Place in a large kettle with boiling water to cover. If you are interested in conserving the flavor of the meat, start it in boiling water. If you want to extract as much of the flavor as possible for the broth, start it in cold water.

Bring water to a boil again. Reduce flame so that water barely simmers. There should be hardly any movement on the surface of the liquid. Add 1 tablespoon salt, 2 whole large onions, 2 smashed cloves of garlic, 2 stalks of celery, 1 bay leaf, 6 whole peppercorns and 4 whole cloves.

Simmer slowly until meat is tender, from 3 1-2 to 4 hours. If too much water evaporates, replace it with fresh water.



A half hour before cooking is completed, add 6 whole peeled carrots and 6 medium size peeled potatoes. Cook until vegetables are tender. Strain broth and serve as a bouillon or use it as the base for any vegetable or thick soup.

Serve with horseradish sauce made by adding 1-3 cup grated horseradish and 1-2 teaspoon dry mustard to 2 cups of seasoned white sauce.

Do you want a particular recipe, or have you a cooking problem? Write Mario, care this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped, envelope for his reply.—Ed.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 3 — (AP) — Ben Randolph Scott talks about Westerns, it's news. In fact, it's news when Randolph Scott talks. From the days of Bronco Billy Anderson and William S. Hart through Gene Autry and Roy Rogers, the hoss opry has been one of Hollywood's most popular commodities. When in doubt, do a Western" is sage advice in this town.

Nightdrawer have said the Western is Blondon's sole original contribution to the arts.

Randy Scott is one of the most consistent portrayers of the frontier hero. Finding him in a rare talkative mood, on the "Colt .45" set, I queried him about his profession.

Westerns Easy

"Why do you make Westerns? Are they easier?

Scott parked himself and his monstrous guns and began expounding:

"No, Westerns are harder. I'll say they...Were three times harder than the usual boy-meets-girl picture.

"I make Westerns because I like them. Westerns have been the mainstay of the movie industry ever since its beginning. And they have been good to me.

"Westerns are a type of picture which everybody can see and enjoy. They are family pictures for both kids and adults.

"There is always a moral to the story. Right always triumphs. Wrongdoers are always punished. Sure, I have shot people on the screen. But I was sheriff and I was justified. Besides, they 'had it coming.'

On the same program "Five Graves to Cairo" starring Franchot Tone, Anne Baxter and Erick Von Strohein.

AT THE McCARTHY — Gary Cooper, Jane Wyatt and Julie London in a scene from Warner Bros. "Task Force," now playing at Odeon's McCarthy Theatre.

'HORSE SENSE BRIDGE'

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

When a defending pair reaches game in bridge, the defence rests. It is usually better thus. If the other side has a true opening, the defenders can seldom make more than a game.

You see, an opener says he has, among other things, four high cards of which two are sure tricks. The two sure will usually take two tricks against any trump suit. The other two high may take one.

So, the general idea is that the defending pair must worry about giving away two or three tricks. It is possible for them to take 11 tricks. Most likely they can take no more than ten.

This, of course, does not always apply. The sure tricks of the opener may be nullified by an unusual holding in the hand of one of the defenders. Or by a trap that can be laid for them.

On the other hand, there is no assurance as to which sure tricks are held by the opener. They may not be in the suit he has bid. This is one of the uncertainties that defenders must entertain.

South opened with a bid of one heart in this deal:

	♥ 10 9 7 3
	♦ 8 5 2
	♣ K 10 8 7 4 3
WEST		EAST
♠ A 10 4 3		♠ Q J 8 7 6
♥ None		♥ J 6 4 2
♦ A Q 6 5 4 3		♦ K 10 9
♣ J 5 2		♣ A 9
	SOUTH
	♠ K 9 2
	♥ A K Q J 5
	♦ J 9 7

The five high cards (aces, kings, queens) and a short card in clubs are six tricks in south. His ace and king of hearts are two sure tricks. Thus, he has enough for the opening.

West lacks one high card of having a true opening bid of one. On account of this he does not have a double for takeout. Because a defensive double for takeout promises as good as an opening of one.

Therefore, west makes a simple overcall of two diamonds. This is an admission of six tricks in a hand that could not have opened. A simple overcall of one needs five tricks; of two, six tricks.

There is not much hope in west of making a game. If his side has a game, partner in east must show encouraging support. The life of defender in bridge is fraught with uncertainties.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. B. CARVER, Sports Editor

We were unable to attend the District League tilts in Memorial Arena on Thursday night, having a previous commitment with our Syl Apps at the festive board in the Masonic Temple where he spoke to 150 dads and sons at a hitchby-yakkedale fiesta staged by The Belleville Lodge, No. 122, A. F. and A. M.

But from reports from our scouts, and the backs who punched out the story on his typewriter beneath the midnight oil flaring at 11, that Lal, we get the impression that there was a slight spot of misarriage of justice, if and when such a thing can be applied to sports and especially hockey teams who give their all for their figurative Alma Mammy yet come out on the short end of the score.

We are informed that the Thursday night fenestrars in the ice amphitheatre were a pair of the best tilts seen during the current season. Both were hard-fought affairs with Northern Electric basking in the smiles of Lady Luck when they turned back those fighting Sixsders Tigers, who if it stated were definitely the best team on the night's play. In the other tilt the Rockets Juniors likewise missed the jackpot in spite of valiant efforts, bowing to the speedy RCAF Flyers by the odd goal in five.

The games next week which marks the end of the regular league schedule should be fiery and exciting. There'll be playoff berths at stake although Northern and RCAF Flyers cannot be dislodged. Should be some tidy tiffs between the teams swing into the all-important eliminations games.

Monday night, while the boys in the high places are wondering just what the electorate will do with them, over in Memorial Arena should be a stiff battle between the Diesel Electrics and the Fleetwood-Trenton Legion. Both squads use their first start in Senior "B" company and will be out to make it two in a row. Our Doc-Dec's Tuesday night visit of certain defeat last Monday when they barraged four quickie goals against Peterborough's pluck Petes, while the saucy Legionnaires were thanking the Canadensco team under a terrific 32-3 score.

Legion, last year's champions are a strong husky crew, typical of the fighting Peterborough squads that came out of the Memorial Arena years ago to rule our puckish roost back to far they resembled a tribe of dehydrated mudcats minus whiskers. The Legionnaires,' true, were defeated by the Petes in an exhibition game, but that doesn't mean a thing. Our Dec-Dec's knocked off the Petes twice in a row in these former Ice-cream dishers, then took at what the Petes did when the group chips were down. They scared the umbilicuses out of our prides and were the better team on the night's play.

The "sweats", some young, some old, who comprise the Lifford Legionaires are formidable worthy of anybody's steel. They'll give a good account of themselves here on Monday night, and like their inter-city pals have nothing better than to be dished out anything that wears a Belleville uniform. That goes both ways. So it all makes for a real ice battle. Game at 8:30.

Following is a letter received from a member of the Belleville Collegiate Institute Board of Council. It speaks for itself at the moment. More about this later:

The Students' Council, under Leo Marcus, have accepted as their yearly project, one of large proportions, but one desperately necessary, which will benefit both Community and School, as mentioned. Rec realized Field. The early developments would be efficient to make way for rugby and track and field. Later, the field or stadium could become the centre of all sports, tennis, softball, basketball and possibly soccer. Certainly the Students' Council deserve credit for such good work, this should become a community project. A suitable location is being looked into now.

The hard working kids are willing to do their share in a project of this nature. The y will strive to make and maintain a place for sports that the city has needed for so long. The field would be enclosed and thus kept in good shape, telling of several trees and some filling will be the real work.

There are hopes that some day this recreational field become the relaxation centre of the people where they may enjoy themselves as a spectator and in self-participation. Belleville could attract more and more sport. Belleville needs and wants a Recreational Field."

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By EDGAR SIMON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Dec. 3—(CP)—It looks like a long hard winter for the authorities who govern Canadian athletics.

Organized hockey took its annual going-over on the C-form issue before the first snow fell. Then it snowed, and Canadian Rugby officials received critcism because they didn't sweep out the Varsity Stadium fields—and stands—well enough in time for the Grey Cup final, even though tons of snow was removed.

Now two executive bodies are swapping barmakers on the status of amateur boxing in Ontario. Wearing purple trunks is the Ontario Athletic Commission, which stands accused of allowing professionalism to creep into the sport. Wearing shining armor is the commission's accuser, the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

In the O.A.C.'s corner is Harry (London Free Press) Kisen, talking issue with A.A.U. spokesman Prof. Nelson Hart, a Londoner and past president of the union.

Harry doesn't think much of Prof. Hart's contention that "the A.A.U. should take over control of amateur boxing in Ontario and make sure nobody gets paid.

"It would kill the sport quicker than anything I can think of," Harry protests, quoting London boxing promoter Al Robertson to back him up.

Customers Demand It

"If we don't pay to bring good boxers here, we aren't going to get any people out to see our shows," says Robertson. "And without cash customers—lots of cash customers—we can't operate."

When Montreal kicker Fred Klejk turned in running shoes for last Saturday's Grey Cup final (and discarded them for cleats after his first punt) he wasn't setting any football precedent.

Mike (Kingston Whig-Standard) Rodden recalls a number of occasions when players wore soft-soled footwear with telling effect on a slipper field.

There was the time 41 years ago when Queen's University lost an intercollegiate title to Toronto's Varsity Blues on a soggy day at Ottawa. The Blues, wearing lacrosse shoes, easily outmaneuvered the cleated Queen's squad, whose ball-carriers repeatedly found themselves pushed into snowdrifts piled along the sidelines.

Mike doesn't mention whether they cleaned the snow from the stands.

Waterloo Will Be Given Junior 'A' Rating, Team

Toronto, Dec. 3 (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association's 40th annual convention moved into full swing today—with 16 constitution amendments and policies topping the agenda.

A total of 200 delegates, headed by a 17-man executive board are expected to attend the one-day affair, and other preliminary meetings, a sub-committee will hear grievances here Monday.

The meeting was given its initiation Thursday night when the seemingly tireless executive members toiled into the early morning hours lining up today's activities and giving preliminary approval to some amendments and minor liffs in the leagues.

Two main issues were discussed at length Thursday night. The first was an application for a Junior "A" entry from Waterloo, and the other was the question of how many teams would meet in the playoffs of the four-team Senior "A" league.

Headed by O.H.A. President James J. (Tiny) McFadyen, the executive board voted unanimously to accept the application and that of Port Arthur, Twin Cities of Kitchener and Waterloo their first Junior "A" team in the 1949-50 season. The league now has, nine teams.

A note of disapproval was contained in a letter submitted by officials representing the Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen, a Senior "A" entry.

Cut Gate Receipts

Kitchener officials said that a Junior entry in the league would cut gate receipts and tend to overload the Waterloo residents with too much hockey.

The Flying Dutchmen now are using Waterloo ice facilities—and have been for several years—until a new ice arena is constructed in Kitchener in a year or so.

However, W. L. Timmins, representing Waterloo's local hockey board, said that the proposed club was financially secure for a few seasons and reportedly had the backing of Tubis Oilers of the Kitchener Hockey League and a farm club of the N.H.L. Boston Bruins.

He added that no member of the Dutchmen is a resident of Waterloo and that a junior entry would give local players a good chance to advance.

On the senior playoff issue, members could not be left over for a meeting between officials of the four clubs. Officials then will decide whether all four clubs will be allowed to enter the playoffs or just the first three.

Three other team applications were also approved and accepted for next season. They were: An intermediate B entry from Woodbridge, an intermediate A team from Ingersoll, and a junior B from Georgetown.

Good Shooting and Solunar Periods

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

(Noted sportsman, author and creator of Solunar Tables)

Last month, on "opening day" of small game season, to be exact, I went on a combination grouse and woodcock hunt with a friend.

Prior to the advent of the small game season we had scouted our territory and made our plans rather carefully. From the many covers in this entire area, we had chosen one that held a liberal supply of both grouse and woodcock.

We knew, of course, that the major Solunar Periods for that day came too early in the morning to be of any value to us, but it was "opening day" and we wern't going to sit all, there are certain amenities which should be observed in the life of every gunner.

Negative Reactions

In my day-to-day observations of things Solunar, I am always interested in what might be called negative reaction just as much as I am in the positive ones.

In other words, when fish don't rise or when game is absent from the feeding covers, this behavior is grist for my mill. It is every bit as important that I tell the users of the Solunar Tables what not to expect as it is to give them information of good news.

The area we hunted holds, to my exact knowledge, good coverts of grouse. I know because I had flushed and shot them late in the October. Also, "when the flights are in," it holds Woodcocks in quantity.

Unfortunately the storm that came during the night in which we had moved the woodcock out ahead of it and none has come into replace them. In cover that usually holds plenty of birds we found exactly one.

Little Luck

In ideal grouse cover, mile after weary mile of it, we found seven birds. These birds were not feeding. Most of them were perched in the high hemlocks and all of them flushed well out of gun range, not affording us a single shot.

When at last we conceded defeat, our score for the day was one little woodcock and one black duck which took wing a few seconds too late from a small beaver pond.

Usually I don't talk about the Solunar Tables much when I'm out with my friends. Some of them, I'm sorry to say, do not take them too seriously, and I dislike arguments or difference of opinion. That is usually keep quiet about matters Solunar and talk of other things.

That day, however, the "negative reaction" was so complete and clean-cut that I mentioned it.

"You know," I said, "it's really lost effort to hunt grouse when there is no major Solunar Period in progress. You know as well as I do how many birds this area holds.

"Today they had filled their crops during the early morning feeding period and when we arrived they were gone from the feeding covers. Result—wildflushing birds and no shooting."

He looked at me and smiled, "I was wondering," he said, "whether or not you would speak about it. While it haven't told you, I saw your Solunar Tables every time I go hunting. Today I was pretty sure there would work out about as they have.

"Another thing," he continued. "The other boys at our deer camp wonder how I manage to bring in my buck about the first morning shot. Actually, it's easy. I know the crossings and the main deer trails. While I haven't told them, all I do is to take my stand on a good deer trail about an hour before a major Solunar Period comes in. Then my buck comes to me. I've found out that way for the past eight consecutive years.

Gets Wild Gobbler

"Last year I used the same system on wild turkeys. I knew where the flock fed and where the roosts were located. While they were scratching around during the feeding period, I was able to take my stand between the two and the roost without alarming them. Sure enough when the Solunar Period was over, in they came and I picked up a seventeen-pound gobbler.

I realize that you who read this may live in an area where deer, turkey, woodcock and grouse do not exist. But that makes no difference.

Regardless of the sort of game you hunt, the rules are the same. During Solunar Periods all wildlife is active feeding. Between Solunar Periods birds and animals are resting and thus are more difficult to find.

Believe me, if you want good shooting—and I know that you do—it pays to keep track of the daily Solunar Periods.

Sports Roundup

(By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.)

New York, Dec. 3, (AP)—They staged a "house warming" party at the Sock Exchange the other day and the guys in the fight mob said it was because they had heat in the joint for the first time in two years. . . anyway, the mob turned out, and why not . . . the drinks were on the house (like the rent usually is), there was food there for the gabbing and a profusion of pleasant conversation.

Marked Down Market

The Sock Exchange, in case you haven't heard, is the name applied to the big barnlike room that is a dime-a-dance joint which formerly housed the tournaments of champions, Inc., . . . the space is fenced off into little cubicles, each with a desk and phone, for the fight managers and matching characters . . . The phones also are locked as a precaution against unauthorized long distance calls.

Conversational Gambits

The strange thing about the house warming was that you heard comparatively little talk about fights and fighters. The assertion managers complained that the International Boxing Club had "monopolized good fighters into New York and added that a New York fighter can get plenty of work if he'll go to the smaller cities. . . and inevitably they wound up: "Things are pretty dead right now; there ain't many good fighters."

Eye Opener

Connie McCarthy finally broke the conversational deadlock with a yarn about the time he had ice cubes in his Williams fighting Lefty LeBlanc in Boston. He's a big better —"a big politician, sorta undercover"—had 40,000 on Williams and went to the dressing room to make sure everything was okay. . . He found Like sound asleep and unresponsive and emerged worried about his bet . . . Connie had trouble reassuring him until He knocked out LeBlanc in four rounds . . . then the gambler bubbled over. Cosh, what would that sonofagun do if he was awake!"

La Starza Wins From Cesar Brion In Tame Fight

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—Ezzard Charles is safe on his National Boxing Association heavyweight throne, Young Rinaldo Starza, unbeaten Bronx butcher boy with 37 straight victories isn't quite ready.

For two rounds Friday night at Madison Square Garden, La Starza seemed to have arrived. He was an aggressive stalker with punishing power against Argentina's Cesar Brion. Then he went back to his old patient counter-punching.

For the next eight rounds these two 20-year-old youngsters put on a tame and crude exhibition. Referee Ruby Goldstein's unanimous decision but the bout dragged to an uninspiring end.

There was mild dissatisfaction from some of the 12,035 who paid $40,062, but nothing serious. La Starza, a 5-to-9 favorite, handed out the more punishment with his effective counter-punching while Brion wasted his power with wild whaling right. Brion weighed 192¼, La Starza 187.

La Starza remains an excellent prospect, but he will need a couple of thumbing victories before they again bring up the subject of Charles.

Gerculino Rollie failed to protect his advantage after the riotous opening rounds. Brion, with an advantage of four inches in height and reach, seldom Jabbed. He waited to lunge with his wild overhand right and usually finished second to the rugged La Starza when they got inside.

Slumping Leafs Face Critical Test Against N.Y. Rangers, All Six Teams to See Action

The National Hockey League hangs into a full six-game weekend schedule tonight with scant sympathy for the slumping Toronto Maple Leafs, three times Stanley Cup champions.

For the once-proud Leafs, tonight's game against New York Rangers at Leafs could be pretty grim. They have one tie and five defeats in their last six starts, and another Leaf defeat would cut them in a tie for fifthplace with the Rangers.

The league-leading Detroit Red Wings battle the second-place Canadiens at Montreal, and third-place Chicago Black Hawks are at Boston Bruins in tonight's other games. On Sunday Montreal travels to Boston, Leafs to Detroit and Chicago to New York.

The veteran Turk Broda will be in the Leafs' nets tonight, after being benched for being overweight. Sherry Gil Mayer netted goal when the leafs lost to Detroit, Thursday, the first game Broda has missed since he started in 1937, apart from his army service.

Broda said the other night he made the weight deadline set by managing director Conn Smythe some with pounds to spare. Broda was down from 187 to 187½ pounds yesterday, compared to 190 pounds objective. Harry Watson has reduced from 205 to 196, Garth Boesch from 185 to 182. Vic Lynn from 187 to 181. Sid Smith from 183 to 179, and Howie Meeker from 171 to 165.

Trying youth at another bolster to his slipping team, Smythe announced that George Armstrong of the Toronto Marlboro Juniors would replace the injured Ted Kennedy at centre for tonight's game. He's also got centreman Rody Migay of Pittsburg Hornets and defenceman Hugh Bolton of the Marlboro seniors, both of whom showed well against Detroit Thursday.

Armstrong will be taking his first shot at the big time under the amateur limd-lease act.

Kennedy will be in hospital at least 10 days with torn knee ligaments, suffered when he was checked by Detroit's Leo Reise Thursday. Gardner is out most perhaps February and bashing Bill Barilko, reliable rearguard, is out for two weeks with torn ligaments.

Electrics Defeat Belleville Golf In Major "A" Loop

Bellevilla Golf slipped by the wayside Thursday in the Major "A" Bowling League session at the Bowl-O-Drome, and by the time they got through with their surprise, Northern Electric had not only defeated them by a 7-0 score, but had slipped into second place in the league standing.

And Lawn Bowlers showed they are still a force to be reckoned with when they defeated Electrics by the same count.

In the other games, Tobe's County Gardens won over Moore's Chiselers by 2 count and Callaghan's Ice took the measure of Central Cigar four points to three.

Sam Halbert topped the individual scoring with a high three-string of 805. Others bettering the 650 mark were: Charlie Marriott 744; Jack Bennett, 712; Bill Fraser, 704; Johnny Bonney, 701; Ray Dennes, 681; Bert Hardwick, 676; W. Kirkham, 670; Ernie Colbourne, 667 and Ken Peacock, 650.

Larry Hopkins took over the high average from the veteran Joe Leguelt with 228 with Jog trailing with 227. Les Lennox in next with 236.

The scores:

Northern Electric	(7) 2236
Belleville Gold	(0) 2151
Lawn Bowlers	(7) 3319
Electronics	(0) 3081
Tobe's County Gardens	(3) 3120
Moore's Chiselers	(2) 2957
Callaghan Ice	(4) 2738
Central Cigar	(3) 2748

FINED FOR 'SCALPING'

Toronto, Dec. 2 — (CP)—Two men, charged with scalping tickets to last Saturday's Dominion football final game were convicted Friday and fined. Robert Henderson was fined $30 and Charles MacDougall $15. The alternative was five days in jail.

Scoring Power Keynote of Three Hockey Games

(By The Canadian Press)

Scoring power was the keynote of three Ontario Hockey Association games last night and goaltending the difference in the other one.

Toronto St. Michael's Majors kept the scorers at St. Catharines busy by blasting Teepees 10-2. The win had double meaning for the blue-shirted collegians. It broke a tie for third place between the Irish and Teepees, sending St. Michael's to within four points of the second-place Windsor Spitfires.

Oshawa Generals, fresh from two lop-sided victories over Galt Black Hawks, had the boom lowered on them by Alfie Pike's Guelph Biltmores. The final score at Guelph 10-5.

In other games, Joe Primeau's league-leading Toronto Marlboros scuttled second-place Kitchener-Waterloo 10-3 in a senior encounter with Toronto goalie Pat Boehmer playing brilliantly. Another senior encounter saw Hamilton Tigers and Owen Sound Greys battle to a 3-3 overtime draw.

Harold Fiyers' Eddie Crouch held off Stratford while the rest of the team was potting three goals. The win put the Barrie solidly in fifth position while sending Kroehlers deeper into the low basement of the basement.

At St. Catharines, the Irish struck early, pumping home three first-period tallies while holding Teepees to a goose egg. They continued to pile it on in the middle frame and rapped in four more in the final stanza.

Dineen Passes Collegians

Bill Dineen paced the collegians with three markers, two in the final frame and one in the opening singleton were counted by red Roy, Paul Alain, Red Isselgrin, Willy Marshall, Bob Salcourin, Georgie Stanuts and Neil Buchanan.

The two Teepee goals were scored by Wayne Brown and Jack White.

Guelph Biltmore's also were having a field day at Oshawa's expense while St. Michael's were scutling Teepees. Guelph led 3-1 at the start of the second 6-1 at the end of the middle session and 10-3 at the finish.

Don Oberholzer and Ron Plumb led the Hatter's attack with three markers apiece. The rest of the scoring was divided around the team. Frank Baltgalis Vic Dimarco, Chas Konecny, Don Beilinger, Jack Dickenson and Ed Theberge notched singles. Ted O'Connor, Frank Hooper and Marcel Clements popped in the Oshawa tallies.

The Toronto Marlboro victory over Kitchener-Waterloo was marred by an accident to Gord Hannigan, popular Marlie winger. In his first game after two weeks of sitting on the sidelines with an injured hand, Gord was carried off the ice on a stretcher after smashing into Doug Verity. He was reported to be suffering from undetermined head injuries.

Baseball Games Will be Televised During Season

(By the Canadian Press)

Officials of both Philadelphia major league baseball clubs said Friday that television is the greatest thing to happen to baseball since radio.

Both Bob Carpenter, president of the Phillies, and Connie Mack, Jr., Athletic's Board director, announced their clubs would televise "as many games as the local stations can handle" and would broadcast home and away games.

Broadcasting of road games is new in Philadelphia. Only the Shibe Park contests of the A's and Phils have been aired previously.

Carpenter and Connie, Jr., agree that the new policy will create "cut-throat" competition but each expressed confidence that his ball club is capable of drawing the holding fan if fans would.

The two baseball executives admitted televising hurt a little last season but explained that screening of the action had indoctrinated new fans who otherwise might never have been baseball fans.

Art Rose, general manager of Boston Bruins, will be presented with his locker key at the game tonight at the Boston garden.

The presentation, to be made by James B. Garvin of Kingston, president of the International Hockey Hall of Fame, will be witnessed by a large group of hockey celebrities.

In addition, Rose will be showered with gifts from the Bruins management and players. Boston hockey writers had radio announcers, the club's loyal "gallery gods" and personal friends during a post-game gathering in a Boston hotel.

Harvey (Busher) Jackson, a former N.H.L. star with Toronto Maple Leafs at 3 Members of the famed Primeau-Conacher-Jackson line, will take over shortly as coach of Moncton Hawks or the Maritime Senior Hockey League. It was learned from Hawks executive at Moncton Friday night.

Jackson was expected to take up his coaching duties in the near future, it was said, probably about Dec. 7.

Hawks have been without a head coach since they returned from a game against Halifax St. Mary's Wednesday and Jack McClinton of Toronto was let out as Mentor.

Windsor Assumption College Purple Raiders opened their 1949-50 college basketball season at Windsor Friday night by edging University of Western, Ontario Mustangs, 51-47.

The Assumption boosters led all the way in a dull game which featured plenty of erratic basketball shooting. The Raiders had a 8-0 lead during the first four minutes of the contest and despite a late Western rally, maintained their lead to the final whistle.

The champion New York Yankees will be happy and content if they can land a "real starting pitcher" at next winter's minor league convention in Baltimore General Manager George Weiss said at New York Friday.

The tosser Weiss has in mind, and for whom he already has done some preliminary dickering with Cincinnati is the Sacramento, smooth righthander of Washington Senators. The Yankee boss said, however, that he had talked trade with six other American League clubs.

Bobby Dawson, 168, New York Friday night knocked out Ted Burpy, 167, Detroit, in the ninth round of a scheduled 10-rounder before a small turnout of 1,480 for the family of Bussey's brother, Talmadge, who died Oct. 11 of injuries sustained the night before in a bout with Luther Rawlings of Chicago. The gross gate was only $3,954.

At Zurich, Switzerland, Hull Volanis Friday night won their third straight hockey match in Switzerland, defeating the National All-Stars 6-3.

Charles Bilodeau, who has been in great form during the Swiss tour, contributed a brace of goals, as did Robert Digner.

Syracuse University's basketball team opened its season Saturday night by trouncing University of Toronto 79-45 before 2,328 fans at Syracuse, N.Y.

Small Walked Out Of Office 30 Years Ago, Never Since Seen

Toronto, Dec. 3—(CP)—Thirty years ago Fri. theatre magnate Ambrose Small walked out of his downtown theatre, happy over the successful conclusion of a $2,000,000 deal. He hasn't been seen since.

The case is still one of the most puzzling in the city's history. A reward of $50,000 alive, or $15,000 dead is still offered for information about him. The case is officially listed as "open" on police files.

FORD PEACE-TIME RECORD

Windsor, Oct., Dec. 2 — (CP)— Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited Fri. announced a peacetime production record for the 45 years of company operation here.

The company said in a statement that it has turned out 102,606 motor cars and trucks in the first 11 months of 1949, exceeding the previous record — 101,185 units produced in the 12 months of 1947.

LAND FOR SANCTUARY

Fredericton, Dec. 2 — (CP) — Lord Beaverbrook has donated a 120-acre tract of land, rich in the history of the Miramichi area, as a park for the use of the people of New Brunswick. Disclosure of the gift of Wilson's Point was made by Hon. R. J. Gill, Minister of Lands and Mines. An order-in-council has been proclaimed accepting the gift and creating the area a game refuge and bird sanctuary, he said.

Martin's Summer

By Vicki Baum

Time went on. The twelve-twenty-three train came in, the engine released steam in noisy puffs, and the train went on again. The luncheon gong sounded in the Big Petermann. The mountains descended steeply to the lake and threw no shadows. Martin saw something bright drifting in the shallower water. He dived again, and by staying under till he was on the point of suffocation he nearly reached the bottom. It was only the trunk and branches of a tree stripped of their bark. Martin rose to the surface. After this he lay for some time in the bottom of the boat and could scarcely feel the slow beat of his heart.

The motorboat passed. It was again running on schedule, and was heavily laden with incidental passengers. Herr Birndl took out a loaf and began to eat. He was perspiring beyond all precedent and he rubbed his blistered hands.

"I've had enough of this. It's your turn to row now, Herr Heil," he said.

Martin took the oars, but to row was beyond him. His arm was no longer under his command, "I can't," he muttered, and let his hand fall into the water. "I'm not quite myself—"

Math rowed, and with a silent determination that did credit to his six years. In one of the other boats they were hauling in a net in which some driftwood was caught. Once the Dobberberg boat passed close by, almost grazing them, and Matz had to ship his oar. The baron glanced across with a frowned, unseeing look at Martin, who was drooping wet, and done up. Dobberberg opened his mouth then closed it before a sound would come. At last he said in his high-pitched voice, "Shall we give it to him?"

"No, no," Martin replied quickly, and pulled himself together. "Do you think we shall find her, then?" asked the baron. He had scarcely opened his lips that morning.

"If she's in the lake we'll find her," Martin answered. He was surprised to hear himself talking rationally. "If she is in the lake she's bound to come to the top."

The boats glided apart. The baron relapsed again. He seemed like a ghost, and his face was sunken and yellow. Martin took a deep breath and dived in once more.

Three o'clock. The freight train came along from the Salzfelden direction. The people of Frauensee had scattered again, since it went on so long and nothing of interest occurred. The few remaining visitors were dozing in deck chairs. The Iron Tooth was free of cloud for the first time for weeks, and the white peak above was once more mirrored below. A bier had been brought to the Wurmtal landing stage in case it might be needed. Later the rumor was that the baron had had to be taken home. He had had a collapse with an onset of fever and heart-stroke. The old doctor from Frauensee, with a black leather bag dating from the last century, hurried across to the Gehlhaus in the motor.

Martin's heart too, was far from right, but he kept going. He endured it all—mental strain and physical fatigue. Now and then he thought dimly to himself that this was the most terrible day of his life.

Meanwhile the sun travelled across to the west side of the lake. On the Wurmtal shore the alders already cast shore shadows. Four o'clock. Tiger jumped into the lake and swam far out. Herr Birndl took the oars and rowed toward him. Martin understood him at once and summoning up his strength he dived in at the spot round which Tiger swam in circles.

The man descended a long distance. It was dark down there and there was an immense weight of water above him. For a moment it seemed that he would never emerge. Then an eddy caught him and swirled him to the top, and he was pulled into the boat. He fell no pain that ever now. Not a trace. He lay in the bottom of the boat and gazed up into the sky. It was dazzling and he saw it quite black through the drops of water on his eyelashes. A sweet and consoling thought came to him unawares; Fuck was not in the lake and he had not done it, he decided with complete certainty. Fuck was a child. She was fond of life. She would come back. She slept for a few moments—comforted by this thought.

The evening set in. The orchestra was playing in the Petermann. The Mayrederrs at the Seespitz let the telescope fall and set off along the promenade, with Pampert soberly walking between them.

"They may want me along there," said Dr. Mayreder, as he wadled on his short legs into Frauensee.

Frau Mayreder brought a bottle of brandy. "That poor young Martin will be frozen," she said with reason, for she had had her own experience of the lake.

The Mayrederrs went on to the beach and there on the blackboard was chalked up 18 degrees —which was scarcely the truth. The ticket office was empty. The humpbacked Rest sat hunched up near the but where the towels were given out.

"Yes, yes," she said, "that's what happens."

The beach was deserted and sodden with rain. The night wind had begun to blow. The red flag flapped at the pole like a bird trying its wings. Near the gangway a wet and miserable dog lay on the sand, his muzzle on his paws and his eyes fixed on the lake. Otherwise the bathing beach was empty, except for a man in a striped bathing dress with his eye glued to the telescope. It was the Saxon gentleman.

"There's been an accident apparently," he said to the Mayrederrs without taking his eye from the telescope.

It would soon be night, and the lake was already pink with the setting sun. The Iron Tooth was flushed with a glow that seemed an extravagant entertainment for the few visitors who remained in Frauensee. Frau Mayreder went right out to the end of the gangway and stood there with her hands on the rail and her wrap fluttering in the wind. She felt like a picture postcard except that she was rather too stout. She was old and yet a little proud. The girl drowned herself in the lake because of a boyish secret, while she, Frau Pauline Mayreder, had got over hers quite quietly, so quietly that not even her husband had noticed anything. But after all, her husband had his merits. . .

The boat drew in to the gangway, Matz jumped out and made fast. Herr Birndl got heavily to his feet, dragging something after him.

"Take care of the lady, please," he said gallantly.

Herr Mayreder ran down to the beach and along the gangway. He pushed Frau Mayreder aside. "Has anything happened?" he asked quickly. His pince-nez were on his nose and he was nothing now but the doctor.

"Don't think so. Only fainted. It's been too much for him," answered Herr Birndl.

They put their arms under Martin's shoulders and got him ashore and there he lay on the planks with the water running off him.

"Brandy," said Herr Mayreder as he began to massage. Dr. Mayreder began to loosen the wet clinging bandage, free from which discoloured lake water. Martin groaned and turned his white, fevered eyes on the doctor. Dr. Mayreder whistled, and, taking out a knife, cut the bandage very carefully from the arm. Frau Mayreder raised Martin's head in her lap and put a spoonful of brandy between his lips.

"Thank you," Martin murmured. "I shall be all right—on my own. Damnation!. . .

Dr. Mayreder had the ugly-looking arm immediately below his eyes. It was red, swollen, and not at all promising. Thin red streaks ran beneath the armpit.

"Is there a hospital here?" he asked.

"Yes, the Ursulines have a small hospital. Why?"

Dr. Mayreder laid the arm down with extreme caution as if it were a fragile vessel filled with poison.

"Blood poisoning," was all he said.

Herr Birndl stood in front of the Big Peirman with his friend Eggenhofer, the porter and engaged the postman in conversation. It was a day of faultless weather. The square was white in the sunshine with a quite Italian brilliance. Women wore lemon-yellow and white cotton dresses, and the postman ran with sweat after completing his rounds among the hills.

"What's the use of coming along now with your registered letter after keeping Herr Heil waiting for it all summer?" said Herr Birndl. "The whole summer it's rained and no one's bathed, and now that it's brimming instructor lies at death's door we have 19 degrees and everybody wanting to bathe. And here you come along with his letter when it's no more use to him. You can keep it now."

"Is he really dying, though?" asked Herr Eggenhofer, involuntarily taking off his cap with the Petermann badge. "It seems too bad—a smart young fellow like him."

"It's so, all the same. God alone knows whether he'll get through. Dr. Mayreder said to me himself: 'I don't know, Herr Birndl, whether we can pull him through,' he said. And why — because of the infection? That's what it is, you see. Puck doctor says: 'If we get him through, it will be at the cost of his arm.'

At present they know what's best to do. What can a sportsman do with only one arm? Yesterday they cut away the flesh round about, but it doesn't seem that it's done much good. "I'm not much of a surgeon,' says Dr. Mayreder. 'I haven't done a operation since I was an assistant surgeon.' Well, and our doctor here, we all know him, the drunkard sot. A lot of use he is!

"Rest spends the whole day in church praying for him and my old woman goes ten times a day to the Ursulines to ask how he is. How he is! They've given him morphia now and he's gone off. He can't sign for any registered letter. If one only knew whether it was bad news or good." Herr Birndl continued. And he took the letter and weighed it in his hand, smelled it and inspected the postmark and stamp. "It's from Berlin. There's Hedi Germania on it," he said knowingly. "He must have the letter today, for we don't know whether he'll last till tomorrow. But he's unconscious owing to the morphia, and now here comes this letter!

"I shall wait twenty-four hours Dr. Mayreder said to me, 'and then, Herr Birndl, I shall telegraph to my colleague in Salzburg. I shall have him along at my own charge, for I won't take any risks with the young fellow.' Well, why should he take any risks, I say? It'll cost him something, I dare say, and that's very decent of him, and his wife's at the back of that, You know her, that short fat woman. She has made eyes at the swimming instructor all the summer like a codfish. All the women are silly over him. You'd be surprised. That Vesi from Schwoisshacket's cries all day long like a leaky gutter.

FRANK CIPOLLA GIVEN 4 YEARS FOR POSSESSION

Police Say Guelph Man Not "Big Shot" Behind Counterfeit Bills

Guelph, Dec. 3. (CP)— Frank J. Cipolla, 32, convicted of possession of counterfeit Canadian $10 bills, is not the "big gun" behind the counterfeiting, police officers testified Friday.

The short, swarthy defendant, sentenced by county judge K. S. Clark, now has started four years in penitentiary for possessing false bills with a face value of $40,000.

At the hearing, Cipolla, who pleaded innocent, said that to protect his wife he made admissions to police after his arrest here Sept. 18 that the bills belonged to him. He had told police he purchased the money from a man in a Guelph poolroom at five per cent of the face value.

His wife Blanche, 25, was arrested at Brockville on the same day and this week pleaded guilty to a similar charge. She is to be sentenced next Monday.

Cipolla testified that the chest in which police found the counterfeit currency belonged to his wife and he had no key. Judge Clarke observed that finding of a man's shirt and socks in the chest and no women's apparel was consistent with Cipolla's ownership.

Charge Serious One

Judge Clark said the charge was a serious one and carried a maximum penalty of 14 years. "Counterfeiting is rife in Canada for people who try to get things for nothing," he said.

Concern was expressed by the judge for the Cipollas' two children. Judge Clark said he thought it would be fortunate if the children, a girl 8, and a boy 4, were left in care of their grandparents.

Cipolla was arrested by Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Guelph Police officers following a raid on his apartment where the counterfeit money was found. Cpl. Barry Graham of the RCMP told the court police were unable to learn from the defendant whether any others were involved.

3 Violent Insane Men Escape, Fear is Felt

Salem, Ore., Dec. 3 — (AP) — Apprehension spread over western Oregon today where three violent, insane men were at large.

Police warned that the three, who escaped from the state mental hospital here Friday night, were "very dangerous." All available police were ordered out in an intensive search.

Four actually broke out of the hospital, but a fifth decided one down in a brush patch two miles from the hospital and subdued him.

Except for another of the patients in the criminal ward, 58 insane might have escaped. He tricked the escaping four, and was credited with saving the life of one of the hospital guards.

The escape started with one patient feigning sudden illness. When attendant Ed. Rollins went into his cell, he overpowered Rollins and seized the keys.

He unlocked the cells of three others. One of them telephoned attendant Tom Smith that something was wrong with Rollins. When Smith rushed in, he was choked from behind by a towel that was wrapped around his neck.

"Everything started to go black Suddenly a fifth patient ran up and said, 'Let me finish the job. I thought I was done for, but he let up on the towel while pretending to tighten it," Smith said later.

The four gave Rollins' keys to the fifth patient and told him to unlock the cells of 51 others in the criminal ward. As they left running, he threw the keys away, shunning the chance to escape, Smith said.

CLINIC ON RELIEF PROBLEMS IN DISASTROUS FIRES

Toronto, Dec. 3 — (CP)—The Canadian Red Cross announced Friday night that a clinic on handling of relief problems in connection with fire disasters will be held at Toronto headquarters from Dec. 9 to Dec. 14. Colin Herrie, National administrator of disaster services of the American Red Cross, will direct the program, which was developed following the Noronic steamship fire here Sept. 17 when 118 persons lost their lives.

WHITE RUSSIAN DENIES SPYING AGAINST TITO

Former Capt. of Czar's Army Third Defendant

Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, Dec. 3 (AP) — One of 28 White Russians charged with operating a cominform anti-Tito spy ring for the Soviet Union today admitted he had collaborated with the Nazis during the war. But he denied he was a Soviet spy after the war.

A former captain in the Russian Czar's army, Vladimir Ognievi, told the district court, however, he had conversations after the war with officers of the NKVD, the Soviet secret police, and representatives of the Soviet consulate in Munich.

Ognievi was the third defendant to appear before the three-man court as Yugoslavia strove to prove the Soviet Union has had spies inside Yugoslav borders in an effort to overthrow Premier Tito's independent communist government.

The only woman defendant, Ksenia Gorodtsova, a White Russian school teacher, Friday admitted that she has helped recruit the low countrymen who had fled from the Russian Revolution for the Nazi occupation forces in Yugoslavia. She was the only one of the defendants who apparently was not charged with espionage.

The court had already heard gray-bearded Rev. Aleksei Kulakovsky, a Russian orthodox priest, testify he felt "partially guilty" to the long list of charges in the indictment linking him with the Germans during the war and the Soviet unions afterwards.

DISASTROUS FIRES

New Orleans, La., Dec. 3—(AP) —Vast patches of scorched earth scarred the Gulf coastal region today as firefighters scanned the skies for rain in that would mark hundreds of forest fires. Scrub thickets and lush timberlands were in the paths of blazes in Mississippi and Alabama, where strong winds whipped flames fed by dry underbrush. Fire safety and householders labored to keep the fire from their doors.

Tourist Homes Will be Subject To Inspection

Toronto, Dec. 3. (CP) — All tourist homes having five or more rooms for exclusive use of transient guests will be subject to inspection and licensing by the provincial government, Ontario Travel Minister Cecile said Friday in announcing new regulations under the Tourist Establishments Act.

Motor courts and all types of resort hotels, not under jurisdiction of the Liquor Licence Board or the Lands and Forests Department, also come under the licensing system. Ordinary rooming houses are exempt.

The regulations cover every detail of operation, including the number of water closets, toilets and wash basins that must be available. A register must be kept giving the name and address of guests.

Police Search For Gunmen in $4,000 Holdup

St. Hughes, Que., Dec. 3 — (CP) — Provincial Police today guarded roads and bridges around this village 40 miles east of Montreal in a widespread search for gunmen who Friday held up a bank branch here and escaped with $4,000.

It was the second time in two weeks that Mrs. Jean Baptiste Vigneault, 72-year-old manager of the Banque Canadienne Nationale sub-branch here, had been held up.

In the first robbery, three men robbed the branch of $2,000. They were captured and sentenced to prison within the space of a single day. One of those arrested was a Montreal city policeman.

Wearing Overcoats Backwards Cause Shudder

London, Dec. 3 (AP)—Britain's swank tailors shuddered today at the possible spread of a new fad—wearing overcoats backwards.

Their trade magazine, the Tailor and Cutter, fretted about "repercussions almost too terrifying to contemplate." These included getting anything out of pockets situated "roughly an inch above the kidneys."

But it listed a couple of advantages; extra chest protection and giving people you didn't want to see anyway the impression you're going out when you're coming in.

The magazine said the fashion began with beautiful Barbara Goalen, a model. It admitted that on h r it looked good, but added:

"Miss Goalen is lucky enough to possess those rare attractions which would ensure her looking quite devastating clad only in a barrel."

Harold West Wins 6th Place With Butter

Harold West, buttermaker at Stirling Creameries, Stirling, won sixth place in the Ontario Creamery Association butter quality improvement competitions held during the past season, according to an announcement made by the dairy branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The grand championship went to the Nova Scotia Nova Milk Products Co-Operative at Waterford, Ont.

The Stirling Creamery also was entered in class one of the competition which was for creameries which purchase cream from primary producers and in which less than 25 per cent of butter is made from fat separated from whole milk either in their own or other plants.

Trent Valley Creameries at Campbellford, with Carl Stephens as maker, placed in the yeast and mould competition, while in the workmanship competition Archie Phillips, Canada Packers at Bancroft was a prize winner.

Posthumous Award Legion of Honor To 2 Crash Victims

Paris, Dec. 3 —(AP)—France's official Journal today announced the posthumous award of Chevalier in the Legion of Honor to two famous victims of the French airliner crash in the Azores Oct. 28. The decoration was conferred on boxer Marcel Cerdan and violinist Ginette Neveu.

Saves Himself Just $2,000

Seattle, Dec. 3—(AP)—Who says golf isn't profitable? P. J. Clintworth played a round Friday and saved himself $2,000. That's usually the amount Clintworth draws from the bank Friday mornings so he can cash cheques for his farm patrons.

Friday he played golf first, and went to the bank afterward.

When he got to the tavern he discovered two holdup men earlier had relieved the place of $230.

THANKS ONTARIO!

Please keep up your splendid work of conserving electricity

On Monday, November 28th., when the demand for electricity jumped 150,000 kilowatts above that for the previous Monday, our appeal to consumers met with immediate response. The daily peak demand figures show the extent of this co-operation:

DAY		PEAK DEMAND
Monday	November 28th	2,006,400 kilowatts
Tuesday	November 29th	1,977,900 kilowatts
Wednesday	November 30th	1,947,400 kilowatts
Thursday	December 1st	1,965,000 kilowatts

In extending our thanks to all consumers, we wish to point out that at this season of the year the consumption of electricity reaches its peak between 4.00 and 6.00 p.m. For the next few weeks, therefore, we shall require ALL the assistance you can give us in reducing your use of electricity. Please avoid waste at all times, particularly between 4.00 and 6.00 p.m.

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO

Who's Who of Aspirants For Municipal Office On Monday

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER PRESENTS FOR THE BENEFIT OF ITS READERS THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION ON THE CANDIDATES FOR THE VARIOUS ELECTIVE OFFICES:

FOR MAYOR

H. JACK ALLIN

Veteran of ten years experience in city council, Alderman H. Jack Allin is offering himself this year as a candidate for the mayoralty in Monday's municipal election.

Associated with the Stewart Warner Alemite Corporation for well-over 30 years, Mr. Allin was born in Bermuda'ville and took a course in mechanical engineering at the Chemical School in Toronto. He is presently plant superintendent at Stewart Warner in Belleville.

Mr. Allin's experience in the municipal field has not been confined to city council as he at one time served on the local board of education and was chairman of the board for one term.

Considered a keen debater in city council Mr. Allin has taken a keen interest in the various city departments and has served on several council committees, currently being a member of the public works committee.

Interested in industry Mr. Allin is current chairman of industries and is also chairman of the Industrial Commission and in this capacity has spent considerable time out of the city, during the past year.

Mr. Allin is director of the Ontario Accident Prevention Association and director of the Hastings Fire and Accident Insurance Company, Ltd. He is a past master of Eureka Lodge, No. 233, and member of Moira Chapter, King Baldwin Preceptory and director of the Belleville Shrine Club. He offered his services to his country in the First World War.

Married, he has four children, one attending Belleville Collegiate. He attends Bridge Street United Church.

J. J. (JACK) TRUDEAU

Well known local business man and one who has taken an active interest in both municipal and welfare matters in Belleville, J. J. "Jack" Trudeau, is a candidate in Monday's election for the office of chief magistrate.

A native of the Second district, Mr. Trudeau came to the city in 1923 when he set up business here in the automotive field. He is president of the firm known as Trudeau Motors, Ltd.

During the war Mr. Trudeau took a very active interest in the various Victory Loan campaigns, serving as county chairman during four campaigns and as general sales chairman for seven. He is past president of the Hastings-Prince Edward Garage Operators' Association and was provincial president of that organization for two years. He is chairman of the Belleville Auto Dealers' Association and is former director representing Ontario for the Federation of Auto Dealers for Canada.

Previous municipal experience was gained by Mr. Trudeau during a three year term as alderman from 1944 to 1946, one year of which he served as chairman of public works. He is current chairman of the Belleville and District Planning Board.

He is past president of the local Kiwanis Club having served on all club committees and is presently district chairman on their agricultural committee.

A family man, Mr. Trudeau takes great pride in his home and family. He is a member of St. Michael's Church.

A PERSONAL MESSAGE TO THE VOTERS!

VOTE "NO" ON THE 5 MAN COMMISSION BALLOT

On Monday next you will be handed a ballot asking the following question: "Are You in Favor That the Membership of the Public Utilities Commission of the City of Belleville Should Consist of Five Members of Whom the Head of the City Council Shall, ex-Officio be one?"

This will be to replace the three man Commission now functioning and it is the writer's advice that you VOTE NO TO THIS QUESTION for the following reasons:

VOTE NO BECAUSE:—

1st — It is the honest opinion of the writer that the Commission of three members as presently constituted can transact the business efficiently, if not more than a larger group and certainly at MUCH LESS EXPENSE TO THE UTILITY USERS. Why pay 9 men to do a job when 3 men are now doing it satisfactorily?

2nd — This entire suggestion of a five man Commission emanated originally from a small group who as far back as August, 1948, tried without success to dominate and dictate the financial and managerial policies of the Commissioners and if they had been able to do so it would have been to the detriment of all utility users in Belleville, in fact a By-law passed at that time to create a new five-man commission forthwith was quashed by Mr. Justice Wells in his Judgment dated November 23, 1948.

3rd — On March 3rd. of this year an attempt was made to have the Private Bills Committee of The Ontario Legislature ratify the same By-law which would create a five-man Commission for Belleville without the consent of the electors, and this, of course, the Private Bills Committee refused to sanction.

4th — The vote being taken on Monday is at least the democratic method of making a change such as this—if a change is deemed necessary. YOU, THE ELECTORS will at last have an opportunity of voicing your opinion as to whether you want to add further administrative costs and expenses to your utilities — EXPENSES THAT COULD VERY WELL JEOPARDIZE THE LOW POWER AND WATER RATES YOU NOW ENJOY.

The above statements are the personal opinions of the writer and are made only to enlighten the voting public as to what they are actually voting ON and FOR next Monday.

Signed,
F. R. WOTTEN

ROBERT L. "BOB" SMITH

A graduate in Electrical Engineering from the University of Manitoba, Robert L. Smith, seeking election for the first time came to Belleville in 1948 with the Northern Electric Company. He joined this organization in 1942. He is a member of the Institute of Radio Engineers and president of the Northern Electric Engineering Employees' Association. A member of Bridge Street United Church, Mr. Smith is married with two children.

CLAUDE D. TICE

A member of the City Council, Claude D. Tice is seeking a third term on the Aldermanic Board. He was born in Hastings County and in early life moved to Western Canada. On the opening of hostilities he returned to Eastern Canada, enlisted and served overseas returning to Canada in 1918. The next year he moved to Belleville and went into business with his father, but in 1922 joined the Ontario as Sports Editor and has been continually with that organization since that time. On the amalgamation of the Ontario and the Intelligencer he was appointed to the post of City Editor a position he now holds. During his term "on the beat" as a reporter he covered the city council for many years. Mr. Tice is a member of the Canadian Legion and the Army, Navy and Air Force veterans, the masonic order, trustee of the Protective Order of Elks, the Kiwanis Club, executive member of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club, and the Anglers' Association. He has always taken a keen interest in sport and last year as member of Council was chairman of the Memorial Arena Committee and this year has appointed honorary member of the Ontario Arena's Association. He is married and is a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

GEORGE DeVUEST

A business man for some years in this city George DeVuest is seeking election to the City Council as an alderman. George was born in Belgium, came to Belleville in 1936 and in 1940 opened the Bar-B-Q and has continuously operated the restaurant since that time. Mr. DeVuest has always been actively connected with the affairs of the Canadian Restaurant Association having served as president and is at the present time a national director of the organization. He is also past president of the local branch. Prior to coming to Belleville, George served civically in Detroit, Michigan, being chairman for two years of Parks and Boulevards. He is a member of Christ Church, is married and has one child.

NEWTON C. WILBUR

Newton C. "Newt" Wilbur as he is familiarly known, was formerly manager of the Tip Top Tailors shop, but now is with the Esquire for Men and has served six years in the City Council and has held many chairmanships of various departments, at present being Chairman of "Welfare. He is a past president of the Kinsmen Club and is an active worker and is keenly interested in social welfare and civic administration. He is also interested in sport and is a member of the Memorial Arena Committee. Married with one daughter, he is a member of the masonic order and is a member of Bridge Street United Church.

SHIPS YULE TREES

St. Albans, V. T., Dec. 3 (AP) — Canada is shipping nearly 2,000,000 Christmas trees into Southern New England and the Atlantic seaboard states. The Central Vermont Railway said the trees are coming from the forests of Quebec province and the Maritime provinces.

FOR SCHOOL BOARD

ARTHUR L. BURKE

Offering himself for re-election to the Board of Education, Arthur L. Burke has had long experience in municipal affairs being former reeve of Sidney township and member of the Hastings county council where he headed important committees in that body.

He is a native of Hastings county and on completion of his education entered the service of the Canadian National Railways, representing this transportation system in several capacities throughout the system.

Following municipal life in Sidney, Mr. Burke moved to the city 13 years ago where he is now a salesman representative and one of the leading producers in the Great West Life Assurance Company, which firm he has represented for the past 11 years. He is a member of Holloway Street United Church and is prominent in fraternal circles, being a member of Masonic and Orange Orders and Independent Order of Oddfellows.

He offered himself as candidate for the board of education two years ago and was one of the successful candidates for that position. During the past year he has served as chairman of the property and supply committee for the local board.

JOHN W. FISHER

A veteran of the last war who takes a keen interest in educational and other matters in the city, John W. Fisher is again offering himself as a candidate for the Board of Education. This is the second time which Mr. Fisher has offered himself in the service of the city as member of the board.

A native of this city, Mr. Fisher has lived here all his life. He is an electrician by trade.

As a married man with three daughters Mr. Fisher has good reason to be interested in educational matters of this city. He is a member of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, belongs to the Masonic Order Rameses Shrine and to the Belleville Shrine Club. He served his country during the last war and is an executive of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans, Belleville branch. He is a member of the Kinsmen Club of Belleville and takes an active interest in the work of this service club.

DR. LILY B. MATHIESON

Although offering her services to the local board of education for the first time, Dr. Lily B. Mathieson nevertheless has had considerable experience in educational matters. She is one of the organizers of home and school clubs in Toronto and is one of their charter presidents in that city.

Dr. Mathieson was also a member of the Home and School Council and one of three official speakers for Toronto clubs.

Dr. Mathieson was born in Kent county and attended Toronto University, doing post graduate work in medicine at the university, at the Hospital for Sick Children a t at Boston. Prior to coming to Belleville 14 years ago she practised medicine with her husband, the late Dr. William Mathieson, in the Danforth district of Toronto.

A member of the local Soroptimists club, Dr. Mathieson is chairman of the Eastern Canada Regional Fellowship Committee and was named vice president on the inauguration of the local club. She has always shown a keen interest in educational matters concerning teen agers and parents.

ROBT. B. McCULLOCH

A former member of the local Board of Education Robert B. McCulloch, local barrister and solicitor, is again offering his services to the board. Mr. McCulloch served on two year term on the board and acted as chairman

HAROLD G. SELDON

Former chairman of the Board of Education and member of the board for the past four years, Mr. Harold Seldon, local druggist, is again offering his experience as a member of the Board.

A native of Whitby, Ontario, Mr. Seldon graduated from the Ontario College of Pharmacy in 1927 and worked as a druggist in Toronto before he came to Belleville where he purchased the former Don Bleecker drug store.

He is a member of the local Kiwanis Club and former director of that service club. Since coming to the city he has taken a keen interest in public affairs and is director of the Chamber of Commerce, now completing his second term of office. He takes an active interest in the district Druggists' Association and also in the provincial organization of that association.

During his term on the Board of Education Mr. Seldon has served as chairman of various committees, including the finance committee. Past chairman of the Board, he this year is chairman of the Sites and Accommodation Committee and has looked after details of the construction of the new school in West Belleville. He is a taxpayer, married with two children and is a member of Bridge Street United Church.

FRED T. SYMONS

A native of the city and a veteran of the last war, Fred T. Symons, Front Street tobacconist, is offering himself as a candidate for the board of education for the first time.

Mr. Symons was born in Belleville and attended Queen Victoria School and Belleville High School. In 1940 shortly after the outbreak of war Fred offered his services to his country and served for five years with the 5th Light Anti-Aircraft Regiment, seeing service in England, France, Belgium, Holland and Germany. He rose to the rank of captain and received his discharge in 1945.

Following his discharge from the army he purchased his present tobacco and newsstand business on Front Street. He is also local issuer of motor vehicle licences.

Fred is past master of Eureka Lodge and is a member of Quinte Friendship Chapter, R. A. M. He is a member of the Kiwanis Club and is chairman of the sports committee for that service club, having always taken a keen interest in sports from the standpoint of a fan and as a sports organizer.

Married with one son, Fred is a member of Christ Church and has been a property owner in the City since 1937.

MISS JOSEPHINE TICKELL

Only woman member of the Belleville Board of Education and chairman of that body for the past year, Miss Josephine Tickell is again offering herself for re-election to the board.

Miss Tickell is a native of this city, is a graduate of Toronto University and has had seventeen years high school teaching experience on which to base her opinions on the operation of schools and other educational matters. She taught school at Picton, Penbrooks, Kingston and Simcoe. Of late years she has lived retired in the city.

However, she has shown a keen interest in civic matters, in women's organizations, and in educational matters, having been elected to the Board of Education four years ago. She is secretary of the Belleville branch of the Red Cross, and takes keen interest in the work of the Red Cross organization. She is a member of Bridge Street United Church.

JOHN M. WOOD

A local businessman since 1943 when he came to the city from Western Canada, Mr. John M. Wood, proprietor of the J. M. Wood and Sons grain and feed business, is offering himself as candidate for the board of education for the first time.

A native of England Mr. Wood came to Canada in 1909 and settled in Western Canada where he worked as a salesman. He came to Belleville in 1943 and purchased the grain and feed business of R. G. Coulter, North Front Street and later built his large mill in Foster Ward. He is a veteran of the First World War.

Always interested in education, Mr. Wood has had an educational background in that his father and four sisters were school teachers, while his wife is also a former school teacher. He is past president of the Isaac Brock home and school association in Winnipeg and is also past president of the Belleville Collegiate Home and School Association. He is a former superintendent of the College Hill Sunday School and is a member of the Session of Bridge Street United Church. He is a past patron of the Eastern Star, is a member of the Masonic Order and is a member of the Kiwanis Club of this city. He has four children, the youngest of whom is attending school at the Collegiate.

A. CLARE WILKIN

Principal of Queen Victoria public school for a period of 32 years, A. Clare Wilkin is a candidate for the Board of Education and is therefore in the field for the first time.

Mr. Wilkin came to Belleville from London, Ontario, in 1911 and from then until last June was principal of Queen Victoria School. He retired at the termination of the last school term.

Although this is the first opportunity Mr. Wilkin has had to offer himself for public office, as principal of his school he has missed but very few meetings of the Board of Education and is thoroughly acquainted with procedure of the Board. He served for 23 years as a member of the Public Library Board, was chairman for one term and also acted as secretary to that Board.

He is a member of Bridge Street United Church and has a married daughter and two grandchildren living in the city.

Artistry in Wood Profitable Hobby

Sturgeon Falls, Ont. — (CP) — Donat St. Pierre has no problem furnishing his trim brick home. He builds his furniture in intricate mosaic designs out of many varieties of wood.

The 53-year-old resident of this Nipissing county town does the work as a hobby. He uses 15 kinds of wood, matching or contrasting them according to pattern.

One example of his skill is a 500-pound desk containing 13,600 pieces of half-inch wood glued together in a pattern. He has also built a cedar chest out of 21,000 individual pieces of wood.

There are samples of his handicraft in every room of his house. The latest is a clothes tree of 10,100 pieces.

Mr. Mrs., E. Minaker Entertained by Friends, Relatives

Consecon—On a recent Thursday evening a large number of friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Irvine, "Pine on Your Old Over Bonnett" by Phillip Squire and John Wale, community singing with Charlie Kent at the piano and a reading "New Homes" by Mrs. Jack Root.

A musical contest was put on by Mrs. Arnold Cruickshank with Charlie Kent accompanist.

The bride and groom were asked to take chairs in the living room and addresses were read by North Lakeside and Melville community by Mrs. Earl Walt and Mrs. A. Cruickshank.

They received many lovely gifts for which they expressed their thanks "For They are Jolly Good Fellows" was sung and refreshments served.

Nigerian Quartet Studies in 'Peg

Winnipeg, — (CP) —Students travel across Canada to attend the university of their choice, and for some it's quite a long distance.

But it's easy compared to the four Nigerian students travelled to attend the University of Manitoba. Their jaunt was about 10,000 miles.

Christiana Oso-Afiana, final year arts student, is staying with a Winnipeg family while her cousin, Onwuro Chizor, and two friends Yazaz Sule and George Elesgqu are in residence on the campus. They are in first and second year science.

Christiana said they came here because of encouragement from pen pals.

Christiana's father is an official in the post office at Makurdi, Nigeria.

"After this we will not have to go away from home to study," Christiana said, explaining that the University of Ibadan was established in West Apica last year.

Toronto, Dec. 3—(CP)—Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier of the Ontario Supreme Court, hearing a charge of rape against three men, Thursday asked "all respectable men" to leave the court. Not "a person moved among the spectators crowding the courtroom. "Now that all respectable men have gone," said the judge, "we will go on. What is to follow is not any too delicate language. So keep your ears open. This is obviously not fit for respectable ears." The trial continued.

PICTON
Elks Lodge Instituted With 70 Members

Picton — With ceremonies of the evening under the personal direction of P. A. Miquelon, Dominion Grand Organizer of the Order in Canada, Picton Lodge No. 236 of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks came into being at a colorful meeting held in the I. O. O. F. hall last Tuesday evening when 70 citizens of Picton were initiated into the realms of Elkdom. Officers of Toronto lodge No. 302 were in attendance and assisted throughout the ceremonies and are quite a number of officers and members of Belleville lodge No. 325 (also a new lodge in Ontario) were present to welcome in the "baby" lodge of the province. Also present at this gathering were A. J. Adams and E. R. Greer — both organizers of the Grand Lodge — who were introduced to the assembly by Mr. Miquelon. Both these men are working respectively in Napanee and Madoc and Elks' Lodge will be instituted in these towns soon (Napanee Institutes on Monday, Dec. 5th).

John F. Claxton of Toronto, District Deputy G. E. R. was in attendance in his official capacity and installed the new officers of the local lodge, assisted by J. N. S. Dixon, Toronto lodge exalted ruler.

Marked by Efficiency

Ceremonies throughout were marked by efficiency, decorum and dignity and left a deep and most favorable impression with the new members.

In his acceptance address, Jack Cooper, exalted ruler, expressed his gratitude and thanks to officers of Toronto Lodge for their friendly gesture in driving the long distance from Toronto to assist at Picton lodge's "birth" as well as to visitors from both Toronto and Belleville for their presence. He expressed special thanks to Mr. Miquelon for his indefatigable work in Picton during the three weeks he spent in organizing this splendid lodge which, he said, can and will fill a need in Picton and which, he predicted, would double its present membership before July next when the Dominion Convention of the Order is being held in Toronto.

A wholesome lunch, served by members of the Rebekah Lodge brought to an end an important event and a delightful evening in the history of Picton.

FOXBORO FARM FORUM

The Foxboro Farm Forum met jointly with Brookdale Forum at Marsh Hill school house. Mr. Joseph Galway, national secretary of Farm Radio Forum, spoke on forums across the country.

Mr. Wesley Neelands led the discussion. Four groups discussed the topic "Are We Good Farmers?"

Opinion was divided on the question "Is financial success the main factor in judging a good farmer?"

It is thought that to be a good farmer a man must also be a good neighbor, co-operate in community activities and practice soil conservation.

It was felt that farmers could increase their efficiency by having more demonstration farms and making the results more widely known. Also by co-operative buying and selling and using some machinery co-operatively.

The Foxboro ladies served refreshments and a social half hour was spent. The next meeting on Dec. 3rd., will be at Mr. Ronald Longwell's home.

HERE ARE THE FACTS! A PRACTICAL PLATFORM FOR 1950!

VOTE JACK TRUDEAU

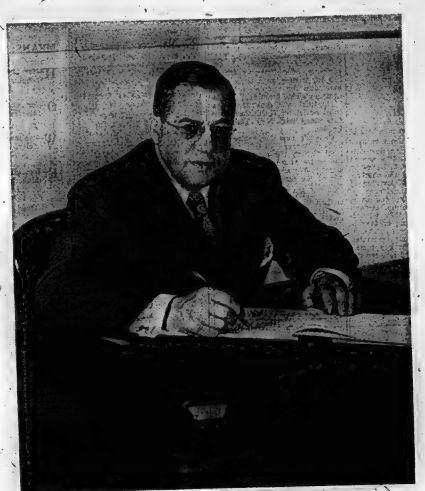
Business Man for a Business-Like Administration!

Our city is changing very rapidly these days — expanding, growing, and becoming more and more important. This fact is one upon which we should all reflect a great deal and it should cause us to realize that the administration of our city should be handled in a most efficient and business-like manner. To do this requires a man with years of experience along these lines. Let's have a business-like administration.

Economize With Your Money!

Your City Council is entrusted with the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars annually. The members of this Council should plan for a smooth-running, carefully-supervised method of handling city funds, believing that there are many ways in which the management of our city's affairs could be improved, at the same time giving full consideration to the development of our city and the services to the citizens that are so necessary. If I am elected, I pledge myself to see that there will be no unnecessary expenditures of civic funds.

Sensible City Planning!



It is my intention, if elected Mayor, to support a sound program of town planning as is being done in a great many cities across Canada with a view to caring for the future needs of your city. Facilities should be provided for without drastic expenditures later. For example—if streets are not designated in advance, costly buildings may be placed where a street need be later. Water mains and sewers would have to be rebuilt if proper foresight were not used. Provision must be made for streets, school sites, industrial and commercial areas, parks and recreational grounds, etc. We expect the City of Belleville to continue its growth. Belleville proper is already patterned—but we must provide for the orderly growth of the areas immediately surrounding the city. And a good working relationship should be maintained at all times with the adjoining municipalities.

Proper Budgeting!

There are certain services in connection with the operation of any city for which municipal funds must be provided. It is my intention, if elected Mayor, to have all these estimates included in the original budget so that no further taxation need be levied in any form upon the citizens as a whole or upon any particular group.

Veterans' Interests!

I feel that the interests of the men who fought for this city and this country in two world wars should not be overlooked whether it be in the field of housing, employment, of their general welfare as citizens of this city.

Hold the Tax Rate!

Due to the expansion that Belleville has enjoyed in the post-war period, it would be impossible for any candidate for Mayor to truthfully promise you a reduction in taxation. On the contrary—an increase for next year already seems inevitable. But—if elected your Mayor—I will do all in my power to see that we hold the tax rate down to the lowest possible level without neglecting or impairing vital services to which our citizens are entitled.

Snow Removal!

I am in favour of sidewalk snow removal in both business and residential areas by city equipment. I realize that it is difficult to give the citizens the service they might expect with present equipment. I do feel, however, that with proper organization, the service can be improved a great deal. Additional equipment should be purchased only when it can be done without causing more hardship by way of increased taxation to the citizens.

Complete Map of Sewage and Water Systems!

I will support an undertaking to prepare a master map of all sewer and water systems in the city, showing their location, size, and all other vital information. This is to be done in a manner so that as our city grows and expands, additions can be made to these services without unnecessary tearing up of streets and spending of money. This plan will remain at the City Hall as the permanent property of the citizens, thus enabling the department to function with the utmost of efficiency.

Improved Public Works Department!

The Public Works Department is the largest spending department in your city, having budgeted for $100,000 expenditures for this year, and which, I venture to say, may be exceeded. Having been Chairman of this important Department, and having given a great deal of thought to its administration, I feel that, if elected Mayor, I can improve the management and operation of this department to your advantage. I plan to perform a complete analysis of purchasing and dispensing of materials and proper inventory control. "The methods of the past thirty years may have served well in their time—but they are out-moded today". I plan to hold educational meetings with the members of the Public Works Department to instruct the men as to how the work can be better and more efficiently performed, and how to better care for the public property. The courses that I plan are such that are carried out by progressive business today. It is important that Public Works be planned. For instance —all streets should be inspected early in the fall so that all estimates for alterations and repairs may be accurately calculated and ready for submission and consideration when the budget is being considered. I am interested also in improved garbage collection services.

Mayor's Reports!

It is my intention, if elected Mayor of Belleville, to keep the citizens constantly informed of what is taking place. I shall be pleased to report as regularly as possible via the press and the radio, as to the activities of your Council. It is my desire to ask various civic organizations to sponsor meetings throughout the year, at which members of our Council and myself will be pleased to discuss with the citizens any problems which they might have, or any aspect of municipal business about which they would like to know. I would like to point out that I am an independent Candidate for the office of Mayor. I am not sponsored by any individual, or group, or organization of any kind, and am under obligation only to the individual citizens of this city as such. I would further point out that my office door will be open at all times to any citizen for any civic purpose. I have so organized my business affairs so that I can give the necessary time to the administration of your affairs.

Tabling of Written Reports!

It is important that in the interests of civic administration, Commissions be appointed. It is my intention, if elected Mayor, to ask these Commissions to submit to the City Council written reports of their activities and expenses, so that the city may receive the maximum benefit from their efforts. The same request would apply to any delegate or delegates attending any Conventions on behalf of the city.

CANADA TO SPARE

Mr. Martin said he hopes that before the end of next week he will be able to say something further in that connection.

"But at this stage I feel that I should await the result of certain conferences that are taking place outside the country before I make that announcement."

Discussing experiments, Mr. Martin said that in April Dr. Philip Hench of Mayo clinic gave a public demonstration to medical scientists of the effects of the use of cortisone on arthritis patients.

"The result were almost miraculous, and because of this the drug, cortisone, has been associated popularly with arthritis. It should be emphasized, however, that this drug has not yet proved itself even for this single disease. It should be emphasized that it seems to show promise for other diseases also."

Acth showed similar promise, "not only for arthritis but for other diseases."

Difficult to Produce

Mr. Martin said the drugs are difficult to produce. The synthesis of cortisone requires several months and 37 individual stages of preparation that can only be carried out by highly-skilled steroid chemists.

Acth could be produced from the pituitary glands of sheep, beef and swine. Swine glands have been shown to be the most productive. Other sources were under investigation.

The history of Acth went back to 1930. Three years later Dr. J. B. Collip, now head of the medical school at University of Western Ontario, made an important contribution.

"He prepared a comparatively pure extract for anterior pituitaries which was capable of reducing the pituitary gland in its relationship to influencing the adrenal cortex," Mr. Martin said.

Dr. C. H. L. Long, formerly of McGill University, later worked with Sayers and White at Yale University in obtaining crystalline acth from sheep and swine anterior glands.

The story of cortisone was similar to acth. A Dr. Hartman, formerly of University of Toronto, was one who discovered a method of extracting adrenal compound cortin which served as the basis for commercial production.

Made Contributions

Among Canadians who made important contributions to cortisone development were Dr. R. D. H. Heard and Dr. J. S. L. Brown, both of McGill, and Dr. Hans Selye of University of Montreal.

Other Canadians who worked on development of acth were Dr. James Campbell who is at Connaught Laboratories in Toronto with Dr. Charles Best, co-discoverer of insulin.

Dr. W. A. Blair led off in the health debate, criticizing the health department for the manner in which it publicizes federal grants to hospitals.

Dr. Blair likened Mr. Martin to Little Jack Horner. Everytime he stuck in his thumb and pulled out a plum he said "What a good boy am I."

The continual publicity was hardly in keeping with the reserve on such matters in the medical profession or on the part of hospital assistance offered by the provinces.

The Perth, Ont., physician urged that a national health plan be instituted immediately. Misery and sickness would not wait for the government to take its time on introducing such a plan.

H. H. W. Beyerstein (SC—Cannorse) called for government aid for incurables. It was a question for the federal government, one that transcended all provincial boundaries.

David Croll (L — Toronto Spadina) said the cabinet should be ready to take action at the next session of parliament on a comprehensive pension scheme.

If it didn't, unions would go ahead and hammer out the best pension deal they could make with industry.

He urged the cabinet to assume leadership before the pensions picture gives way to a "piecemeal, hodge-podge system that will "dot the country-side like a crazy quilt."

Hour of Filibuster

Amid considerable progress in the drive to prorogation next week, the Commons plodded through another hour of filibuster on the controversial pipe-lines bills.

In the period devoted to private members' legislation, a bill to incorporate Alberta Natural Gas Company was talked out.

This bill and another asking incorporation of companies to transport natural gas from Alberta have been blocked by the filibuster from members who want the route of the proposed pipe lines written into the bill. They would be to assure that Canadian needs are filled before gas is transported to the United States.

An attempt to postpone the bill's passage indefinitely was blocked when the Commons voted 111 to 28 against an amendment, moved by Howard Green (PC—Vancouver-Quadra), which would have given the measure a six-month holst.

Development of Canada's vast store of natural resources was hooked-up by Prime Minister St. Laurent in four government bills re-arranging the make-up of the cabinet.

Departments to be known as Resources and Development, Mines and Technical Surveys, Citizenship and Immigration will replace the existing Departments of Mines and Resources and of Reconstruction and Supply.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, objected to division of the Mines and Resources Department into two separate departments. He said it would lead to overlapping and inefficiency.

Facilities urged

Improved immigration facilities both in Canada and in the countries from which the immigrants come were also urged by Mr. Drew.

Mr. St. Laurent said Mines and Resources is being divided to handle two aspects of development. One would move forward in aid of mines already in operation. The other would prepare the way for "vast new undertakings" by providing the scientific data and information to induce new developments. He was sure there would be no overlapping.

Approval was given to a measure which Veterans Minister Gregg said will allow "greater flexibility" in administration of the Veterans Land Act.

One change will allow the administration to sell a veterans' land in one locality and to settle him in another if he is transferred there for business reasons. The bill contained safeguard to prevent speculation and exploitation of the benefits.

ROSLIN Young People's Union Attends Hockey Match

Roslin—Around 30 members of the Young People's Union enjoyed a trip by bus to Toronto last Saturday. Leaving Roslin around 8 a.m. they motored to Belleville where they boarded the chartered bus for Toronto, arriving at their destination around noon.

After dinner the various members of the party split up, to spend the afternoon as they wished, shopping, sight-seeing or attending the theatre.

In the evening all assembled and attended the hockey match at Maple Leaf Gardens, to see the game between Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins, for which tickets had been secured earlier.

After the game the party left for home arriving in the small hours of the morning.

Fur Trade Revives In Old Tradition

Montreal, — (CP) — Montreal's position as Canada's fur trade centre which faded late in the first century after year's of supremacy will soon return. And leading the movement will be the Hudson's Bay Company founded 1670 in the early days of Canada's history.

That's the word from Sir Patrick Cooper, governor of the company, who plans to re-establish fur trading on a large scale here with the completion of the company's new building.

Montreal will thus become a third outlet for North America's furs along with New York and London.

Canada's new fur centre will be near Beaver Hall Hill in Montreal "which 100 years ago was the centre of fur trading in this country. We are coming back to almost the same spot," Sir Patrick said.

The building where the first auction will be held Dec. 19, is specially designed for fur storage and will have an auction hall with accommodations for 300 bidders.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

EQUIPPED FOR WINTER

Though a few people always arrange to go south, the majority of Canadians have prepared to remain at home throughout our cold snowy season. Most birds escape the worst by flying to milder climates; but unless the winter is unusually severe a number stay in settled Canada, while others evading difficult conditions in the far north, move down to join them here.

House Sparrows, Starlings, and Pigeons we expect to see continually, and if our minds were not otherwise occupied we would know that summer residents, such as Pheasants that have been "planted" in certain districts, some Blue Jays, Tree Sparrows, and Juncos, invariably stay on this side of our southern-border. Shrikes Yellow-shafted Flickers, and White-breasted Nuthatches often brave the elements. Cedar Waxings are seen every month of the year. Occasionally Brown Creepers are encountered. The main here because they have discovered some rough-barked trees, as ash, elm, or oak. Many Blackcapped Chickadees are found a mild our snow-storms. Each year some Robins forget to leave there are Purple Martins that do not go at all, or take a very short holiday in the United States.

Through the severest weather Scaup and Buffle Head Ducks have been seen in the shores of Lake Ontario. Ruffed Grouse remain wherever found. Southern Ontario has its beautiful Cardinals the year round., as well as tiny Golden-crowned Kinglets, Goldfinches, and Red-winged Blackbirds which sometimes stay even farther north than that. There are Crows which never leave Canada, some pairs of Duck Hawks which never go south.

Common Redpolls, Snow Buntings, and Goshawks are regular visitors from the north, Canada Jays and Snowy Owls come down here when forced to look for food. The gray-like Pine Siskins Pine and Evening Grosbeaks may land in any locality at any time.

How can birds live through zero temperatures in snow-covered land? In days of plenty they fattened themselves after the manner of hibernating animals, though to a lesser degree, and their plumage has grown thick. Frost presents the danger of frozen feet, heavy snow the difficulty of finding food and of gaining cover, sleet storms the impossibility of being able to get at sealed-in-food or any perch. Their biggest problem, however, is sufficient nourishment. When equipped with suitable bills for eating flesh, dried berries, insects in bark, or seeds showing above the snow, they can be true Canadians. never deserting their homeland.

MARK TRAIL

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT

Little Benny's Note Book

Dan was watching pop smoking the first half of his 2nd cigar.
Finally, William, I mean
Benny, I wish you'd start thinking seriously of getting a television set.

That's impossible at the moment, pop said, and ma said, Why not for land sakes?

At the moment I'm still thinking seriously of not getting one, pop said, and ma said, Now William, how do you suppose I feel when Mazi Hews supercilliously invites me to her house to see a television show?

You should feel amused at her indecent display of vanity, pop said. As soon as everybody has a set at home, then nobody will have to go to anybody else's house, so who's going to have the fun of feelin' like the manager of a theater? he said, and ma said, But William, you dont want to be behind the times, do you?

Now you're exaggerating, pop said. It's been many years since the invention of the telegraf, and yet how many people can you name with telegraf instruments in their homes? Why, you're even still upset at receiving a telegram, unless somebody first sends you a letter warning you to expect a message of congradulation, he said.

Now you're the one that's exaggerating, ma said, and pop said, My dear, I'll tell you the real reason. When I listen to the radio I can take my after dinner nap in my chair with my ears wide open just as comfortably as though there wasn't a sound in the room, but if I was looking at a television set, imagine the struggle I'd have dropping off to sleep with my eyes still open, he said.

CONSECON

83rd Birthday Honored

Consecon—Mr. and Mrs. J. Root, south Consecon Lakeside, entertained on a recent Sunday in honor of Mr. Frank Benway's 83rd birthday. After all were seated at the dinner table "Happy Birthday" was sung and all joined in wishing Mr. Benway many more years of good health.

Guests were Mr. Benway, Mr. and Mrs. Harper Broad and Sandy of Pleasant Bay and Mr. and Mrs. Alex Tait, Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Cruickshank and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Cruickshank and Wayne were Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs Marcus Moy of Centre at a venison dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Istead, and son, moved from Mrs. Edgar Matthew's farm to their own farm purchased from Mr. Chas. Margetson on Tuesday.

Miss Sybil Hardy, Belleville, spent last week with Mr. Colin Hardy, Billie and Jean.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Root were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Matilda, Bloomfield.

Mr. Leonard Root is building a sunporch on his house and Messrs Ernest and Clarence Carley a new pig pen. Mr. Clifford Carley has built a new cement drive on his barn. Mr. Howard Bird has new cement cisters and Mr. Colin Hardy a cement stable flooring.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Munroe attended the Best-Alexander wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Weese on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Marshall Picton, spent Wednesday with Mr and Mrs. Clayton Istead.

Messrs Clayton Palmer, Allan Wight and Donald Post, returned last week from a deer hunting trip in the northlands.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Matthis of Bloomfield spent Tuesday afternoon and evening with their daughter, Mrs. Leonard Root, and Mr. Leonard Root.

Mrs. Archie Cannons and baby of Ameliasburg, spent Wednesday with Mrs. Howard Palmer.

Mrs. A. Carley spent Wednesday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Will Reddick at Mr. and Mrs. Will Adams. Wellington and tea hour with Mr. and Mrs. R. Preston, Roger and Delores.

LADIES' AID

Melville Ladies Aid met at the home of Mrs. Ross Cruickshank and Mrs. Arnold Cruickshank on last Thursday afternoon with the president Mrs. A. Kinnear, presiding. The meeting opened with a carol "It came upon the midnight clear." The minutes were read and approved and the roll call was answered by an exchange of small Christmas gifts. These were all unwrapped and admired.

Mrs. Arnold Cruickshank gave the treasurer's report, which showed a good balance on hand.

Mr. Kingerly took charge of the election of officers which resulted in the following, being elected: President Mrs Arthur Kinnear; vice president, Mrs. Leonard Root; secretary, Mrs. J. Root; treasurer, Mrs. A. Cruickshank; social convener, Mrs. D. Palmer, and Mrs. Charles Kent; treasurer of flower committee, Mrs. A. Carley.

Mr. Kingerly expressed his appreciation of the good work done in the year and hoped the aid be more successful during the new year.

It was decided that each hostess serve refreshments of two things, sandwiches and cake or sandwiches and tarts with tea.

The January meeting is to be held at Mrs. A. Carley's.

A delicious cold plate lunch was served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. C. Kent.

Collection amounted to $2.85 Flower collection 12 cents. Fifteen members and visitors were present.

Would Save Children Of Annulled Unions

London. — (CP) —The House of Lords has approved a measure to prevent children becoming illegitimate when their parents' marriage is annulled.

In law, a nullified marriage is one that never existed. Any children automatically become illegitimate the minute the courts declare a marriage null.

Lord Llewellin, former food minister, sponsored a change to give such offspring the same status as children of divorced parents. He recalled a case where a girl reached the age of 17 before her parents' marriage was annulled.

Then this quite grown-up girl suddenly became "illegal," Lord Llewellin told the Lords. The measure went to the House of Commons as part of the Law Reform (Miscellaneous) Bill.

Short-Order Gowns Still Paris Models

Paris, — (Reuters) —Smart women from all parts of the world can now buy model gowns in famous Paris fashion houses almost as nonchalantly as notions.

Leading houses are today selling almost ready-made models in their "boutique" departments, once confined to accessories.

Here, model dresses and coats are cut out and partially finished so that one fitting is all that is necessary to complete them. The garment is moulded to the figure and finished in special workrooms with such speed that tourists can take the model home with them, even if their stay in Paris is short.

PUBLIC NOTICE

VOTING AT MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS
TAKE NOTICE that for Mayor and Aldermen, all persons whose names appear on the Voters' List may vote.
Electors can vote for any number of Aldermen up to Seven. Any ballot marked for More than Seven Aldermen is to be treated as a spoiled ballot and not counted.
All voters on List are eligible to vote for school trustees except Separate School Supporters.
These are noted, where possible, in the Parts of the List with the letter "S". In cases of doubt, or in cases in Part 2 of the List, the Returning Officer will satisfy themselves on this point.

QUESTIONS
On question of "INCREASE IN MEMBERSHIP OF THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION" — strike out whose names appear on the last revised assessment roll are entitled to vote.
On questions of "RENOVATING AND MODERNIZING THE CITY HALL AT AN ESTIMATED COST OF $85,000.00" and ... "SETTING THE ANNUAL BUDGET OF THE BOARD OF PARKS MANAGEMENT AT TWO MILLS ON THE ASSESSMENT OF PROPERTY, INSTEAD OF ONE MILL AS AT PRESENT"...

Failure of Communist Strikes In Italy, France Serious Defeats

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The failure of the Communist-instigated general strike in Italy is another forceful indication that the western democracies have contained the Red offensive and are gaining in Europe's cold war.

This was the second serious defeat of its kind the Communists had suffered in a week, the other being the flop of a Communist-supported general strike in France. The two setbacks are particularly significant in that Italy and France have been the chief Communist strongholds in western Europe.

The Italian strike was called by Communist leaders to protest the death of two peasants in fights with police growing out of invasions of farmlands by squatters. However, the proclaimed purpose of the move was of small moment.

The real importance rested in the demonstration that the Italian public no longer can be cowed when the Reds crack the whip. This transformation has taken place under Premier De Gasperi since his Christian Democrats defeated the Communists in the 1948 election.

Coincident with this has been the development of the grave conflict between the Kremlin and Premier Tito of Yugoslavia. That fiery Balkan state had been another stronghold of Communism, and Tito was one of Moscow's pets.

So we find the Communist offensive held along a line from north to south through central Europe. But that isn't the whole story by a long shot, for there is bitter discontent among the Russian satellite states. Wholesale purges and liquidations are being carried out in most of these eastern European countries.

As a complement to these developments the defence ministers and chiefs-of-staff of the 12 Atlantic-pact countries have met in Paris and without fuss or feathers have agreed to a general defence plan involving western Europe, Canada, and the United States.

Definitely the tide has turned in the European cold war. However, while that is a matter of extreme gratification it needn't encourage complacence. One of Moscow's chieftains has been to produce economic chaos among the democratic countries and she has succeeded to an extent which likely far exceeds her expectations.

Paper Says Ont. Won't Co-operate To Build Road

Ottawa, Dec. 3, (CP) — The Ottawa Journal said Friday it has learned the Ontario government won't co-operate with federal authorities in the building of the Trans-Canada highway.

Under federal legislation for the building of the highway, the federal government has agreed to pay the provinces 50 per cent of the cost of new construction of the highway and allow the provinces 50 per cent of the money they have spent in building existing stretches of the road.

In a newspaper story, the Journal says "defect of the Dominion proposal is reported to be that 50 per cent is not a great enough contribution for a national highway directed in the national interest."

Building of the highway would mean that "very essential feeder roads and other (Ontario) traffic requirements would have to be side-tracked for a highway away from the large centres," the paper says.

Ontario government officials declined comment on the report. But they recalled that Premier Frost said last week that Ontario will co-operate in building the Trans-Canada highway and that other government spokesmen have said within the last few days that Ontario's share of federal grants cannot be determined until a decision on the route is reached.

Stork Gets Lost In Dense Fog, Baby Born at Home

Los Angeles, Dec. 3—(AP)—The stork got lost in the fog today.

The seven-pound son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sarkisian was born at home instead of a hospital because an ambulance driver couldn't find the house in a heavy fog.

An obstetrician told Mr. Sarkisian what to do by telephone, then started for the home in another ambulance.

The second ambulance became involved in an accident in the fog. When the doctor finally arrived, mother and baby were doing fine.

$111,000 FOR BULL CALF

Chicago, Dec. 3. (CP)— A Canadian Aberdeen Angus bull calf sold Thursday at the International Livestock Exposition for $11,000, highest price paid at the show's Angus sale. Owned by Don Head Farms of Richmond Hill, Ont., the calf placed second in the senior class. Its name is Barbara Rose of Don Head III, which traces back to Barbara Rose of Anoka, foundation cow of the breed. Buyer was Orchard Hill Farms of Enid, Okla.

Dogs Maul or Kill Turkeys, $1,300 Loss

Brantford, Dec. 3—(CP)—More than 80 full-grown turkeys, averaging 25 pounds each, have been killed or mauled by marauding dogs on the farm of Jack Rive, Tutela Heights Road, and the loss is expected to reach about $1,300.

Dozens of the dead or mangled birds were found when feeding was started on the range and 81 had been rounded up, many of them dead or so severely injured they were not expected to survive.

After an all-night watch had been kept on the range by Reg Franklin and Gerald Rive, a dog found prey another dead turkey was shot and Mr. Rive said more of the dead or injured birds may be found.

Close to 1,000 turkeys are on range at the farm and the dead birds have been destined for Christmas Dinner tables or for breeding stock. Shipments are made throughout the country from the farm.

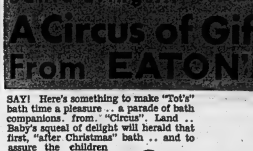
Butter Consumption Down 35 Million Lbs.



Toronto, Dec. 3—(CP)—Canadian butter consumption is down 35,000,000 pounds in the first 10 months of this year, compared with the same period in 1948, J. H. Duplan, president of the National Dairy Council said today.

He told the annual meeting of the Ontario Creamery Association "as a direct result of margarine competition, the purchasing power of 400,000 dairy farmers has been reduced by at least $50,000,000 this year.

Mr. Duplan said that "butter consumption will be down at least three pounds per capita this year, while on the other hand per capital consumption of margarine has, in the space of one year, exceeded the per capital consumption in the United States, where it has been sold for more than 75 years."

Second Uranium Mine Blast Kills 340 in Red Zone

Disaster Occurs in Ore Basin at Annazerg, Saxony

Berlin, Dec. 5 —(Reuters)— A second uranium mine disaster in the Russian zone is reported today by the British - licensed newspaper Telegraf. The paper says 340 miners were killed.

The newspaper says the disaster occurred Nov. 2 at Annazerg, in the ore basin of Saxony.

Last month the Telegraf said 400 were killed in a Soviet-owned uranium mine at Johannegeorgenstadt, also in Saxony.

Western Allied intelligence officials in Berlin today discounted the Telegraf report of the 340 deaths at Annaberg. These sources said they had no information to substantiate the newspapers reports of uranium mine disasters at Annberg or Johannegeorgenstadt.

At Lenin Works, the chief officer of a fire brigade in Leipzig, who has fled the society zone, said today that about 3,700 persons lost their lives in the uranium mine disaster at Annaberg, reported Saxony last month.

The officer, whose name the paper withheld to protect his family in the Soviet zone from reprisals, declared that only between 200 and 300 out of about 4,000 miners in the pit escaped.

MINE WORKERS TROOPING BACK TO THE PITS

480,000 Members of Lewis' Union Start Work on Three-Day Week

Pittsburgh, Dec. 5 (AP) — John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers started helping Santa Claus fill his bag today.

Those who went on strikes briefly last week to obtain welfare-out of the year, began trooping back to work for the first shifts prompting at 12:01 a.m.

The 480,000 U. M. W. members will work the three - day week decreed by their unpredictable chief until further notice.

In the nine days before Christmas, each can earn about $139.50. That's based on their average daily wage of $15.50.

That, with cash back pay, means they'll enjoy Christmas. Even if some dislike the bosses or short of money, company stores guarantee they can buy food and toys for Christmas.

Though the miners are happy over prospects of working most of them are anxious to get back on a five-day week. It's almost certain Lewis won't order such a week until he has finally reached a contract with industry. And top operators show no indication of giving in.

Operators Don't Budge

Top operators haven't budged since Lewis' contract ran out last June 30. They maintain they can't afford the pension, welfare wages, and they want Lewis to tighten up the welfare and retirement fund which has been financed entirely by the 30-cent-a-ton royalties the operators pay for all coal mined.

Lewis is due to begin negotiations in New York tomorrow with the subcommittee (hard coal) industry representatives. They operate mainly in Eastern Pennsylvania and employed about 80,000. The anthracite diggers are on a three-day week under Lewis' orders, as are the soft - coal diggers.

Historically, the hard coal operators follow, rather than lead, the soft coal industry.

Meanwhile, the coal stockpile in the United States is estimated at 30,000,000 tones, will be cut down greatly before the bargaining position will improve.

GOALIE RELEASED

North Sydney, N.S., Dec. 5— (CP)—Release of goalie Fred Murphy of Ottawa by North Sydney Victorias of the Breton Island Hockey League was announced last Sunday night. Club officials said the move was "strictly on hockey."

Murphy, with Pembroke Lumber Kings last season, has been sharing northside goal-tending duties with Tommie Ivan (Dunny) Bindon. In 12 games Murphy allowed 53 goals, an average of 4.38 a game, highest in the circuit.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Polar air from northwestern Canada has swept across all sections of Ontario and minimum temperatures last night ranged from zero in the White River section to 32 in Southern Ontario. The difference was caused by the great Lakes which, in a northeasterly flow of air protect Southern Ontario from cold air that falls in temperature. Considerable amount of cloud is shown areas adjacent to Georgian Bay and Northern Lake Huron, but elsewhere mainly scattered flurries.

The present strong winds will slacken over the province tonight and snowflurries will be less frequent on Tuesday. Otherwise there will be little significant change in the forecast regions during the next 48 hours.

CRIME COMICS COME UNDER FIRE IN PARLIAMENT

House Will Consider Broadening of Code

By MEL SUFRIN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Dec. 5 (CP)—Those sexy, vice-ridden crime comic books will be under fire in parliament today.

Fortified with the suggestions of 10 provincial attorneys-general, the Commons will consider legislation to broaden the criminal code and provide for legal action against the lurid crime comics which have swamped Canadian newsstands in recent years.

A private member, E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) initiated the legislation—a bill which would provide for prosecuting those who sell or distribute crime comics and obscene literature.

Introduced early in the session the bill was left in abeyance on request and aggression while the provinces were asked for their views on the proposed legislation.

The general feeling of the provincial authorities was that it will be a tough job to draw up legislation without loopholes. But all the provinces indicated they are willing to do something which will help cut down the distribute of the objectionable type of comic books.

The comic book legislation will be among the first private legislation considered in the Commons rush to prorogation, expected around the middle of December.

Labor Estimates

For almost five hours Saturday the House considered the $49,000,000 estimates for the labor department. The expenditures were approved just before the House rose Saturday night.

Freight Derailed, Truck Demolished

North Bay, Dec. 5—(CP)—Two men were injured, a light truck was demolished and a freight train was derailed and delayed for six hours in a truck-train accident Sunday night near Meadowside.

Police said the light delivery truck, driven by Fred Howard, Airport Road, failed to stop at the crossing and smashed into the side of the train. The force of the impact hurled the vehicle through the air for 43 feet.

Injured were passenger, Garfield Neeley, of North Bay, were injured, and hospital in hospital treatment. Howard suffered from shock and a possible back injury. Neeley suffered shock and head lacerations. Both men were taken to the Civic Hospital for a passing motorist and released after treatment.

Police said the truck was "a complete wreck."

More Applicants Fewer Positions

Toronto, Dec. 5 — (CP)—Statistics released by the National Employment Service this week-end disclose that there are two persons available for every one unfilled job in Toronto as of Nov. 30. At Nov. 30, 1949, there were 5,909 jobs for men, and 3,173 unplaced women and 13,173 unplaced applicants. At the end of October, there were 7,883 unfilled jobs and 9,233 applicants.

Says Kind of Shoes Worn Today May be One Cause of Cancer Increase

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

New York, Dec. 5 — The kind of shoes people wear may be one cause of the increase in cancer, says Dr. J. Wilder, Baltimore Chiropodist.

He says the widespread increase in cancer started not more than 30 years ago and that it coincides with the rise in the manufacture of modern shoes.

Dr. Wilder says leather toes puny and helpless. This in turn atrophies a set of muscles connected with the toes. Result is that 85 per cent of Americans have foot disorders. Feet twist outward. Thigh bones do likewise. So do pelvis dips downward a bit, chests tend to flatten and lungs, hearts and stomachs and abdominal organs are pulled down a little.

In fact, he said, there is hardly a square inch of your body that remains unaffected from faulty feet.

The result is added stresses and these in turn may cause irritation of tissues. Irritation, if continued, is one of the accepted causes of cancer.

Dr. Wilder gives cancer death rates to show that they are highest among those who wear shoes most.

"The United States has a cancer death rate of 120.2 per 100,000 while Hawaii has 67.2. The cancer rate in Japan is 39.8 and it is only because American shoes are worn when Hawaiian children reach their middle teens and adult life. . .

Peru, Ecuador, Colombia and Venezuela, he said, have a death rate of 25. In those countries the natives go barefooted or wear sandals. The rate jumps to 62.9 in Brazil, where white and city populations are numerous. Stress in European fashion.

Things are Tough in New York, Residents Will Have to Skimp On Water For Next 3 Years

New York, Dec. 5. (AP)—The sad truth dawned on New Yorkers today that they will have to skimp for three years.

Not on food, clothes, amusements, or liquor—but on water, plain water.

Free-spending, sophisticated, luxury-loving Gotham had to swallow the homeliest of measures: "Waste not, want not."

And New York has not alone in dwindling water supplies.

The largest city in the United States had to look no farther than sixty miles away to see what happens when a community lacks water.

To Little Roosevelt, N.J., (population 900) its two artesian wells went dry last Monday. For 14 years they had been pumping 750,000 gallons daily.

The town's two factories shut down, putting 22 persons out of work.

The public school was closed and the 100 pupils ran happily through the streets shouting, "Go wash your face!"

Each of the 200 families began to board soft drinks.

The volunteer fire department hauled 3,000 gallons of water—a mere trickle—from Hightstown, seven miles away.

Even water-hauler-tanks from Fort Monmouth also began shuttling water. Each tank had a capacity of 250 gallons.

A third of the population abandoned cities for wetter locations.

Army men set up a portable purified at a nearby stream.

Meanwhile, drilling began early in the week to find water at deeper levels.

Enterprises collected their meagre water arations in saucepans, using it as sparingly as possible.

Saturday night well-drillers struck water. But the six dry days had come to an end.

In New York the basic facts are simple.

The "normal" rate of water consumption is 1,200,000,000 a day.

The city's reservoirs upstate have but 35 per cent of capacity and continue to dwindle.

Water Commissioner Stephen J. Carney warned that New Yorkers must consume 300,000,000 gallons less water a day, bringing consumption down to 1,100,000,000 mark.

Torrential rains or water - rationing are the only two things that can stave off a cent in pressure unless the present drain on the reservoirs is reduced, he said.

At the week's end Chief Water Engineer Edward J. Clark reported: Man-hidden conservation had been cut by 50,000,000 gallons—down 1,150,000,000.

It wasn't nearly enough.

But it showed that the city's "save water" campaign was bringing results. The city had 790 inspectors on the streets Saturday on the alert for Water wasters. They were to give warnings to minor offenders, but crack down with summonses on more serious violaters.

Encouraging Number Record Votes Under Ideal Weather

Today the electorate of Belleville went to the polls to elect a councillor for municipal government for 1950.

The day broke clear and cool with weather conditions facilitating traffic to the polls.

The polls opened at 9 o'clock this morning and will remain open until 7 o'clock this evening. Candidates have made every day arranging for transportation for voters in the faraway places and attending to other details necessary on election day.

According to a survey of several polling booths taken at 11 o'clock this morning, voting was sluggish. The most reported that the number of voters casting their ballots at this time was lower than that of a year ago, while one or two other booths

Quash Conviction, Order New Trial Of Aime Boucher

Ottawa, Dec. 5 — (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today quashed conviction of Aime Boucher, a resident of Lake Nowah Witnesses, on a charge of seditious libel and ordered a new trial.

The test case, first heard about three years ago, was carried to the Supreme Court by Aime Boucher, a native of Ste. Germaine, Que., was tried at St. Joseph De Beauce, Que., Mar. 30, Justice Alfred Savard and a jury. He was found guilty and sentenced to one month's imprisonment.

The case was appealed to Court of King's Bench, which confirmed the sentence by a majority judgment. Two of the judges dissented in the minority.

Today's judgment by the Supreme Court of Canada also was a majority decision. Five judges were unanimous in quashing the conviction. Those were the Chief — Mr. Justice I. C. Rand and Mr. Justice J. W. Estey — would have directed a judgement acquitting Boucher entirely.

STEEL PRICES STILL GOING UP

Pittsburgh, Dec. 5 — (AP) The head of the fourth largest steel-producing firm in the United States Sunday indicated that steel prices are going up. Admiral Ben Morcell, chairman of the board and president of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, said production costs are rising. He left little doubt that consumers ultimately will have to pay more for steel.

Wiarton Dentist On Morning Walk Killed by Truck

Owen Sound, Dec. 5 (CP)— Struck down by a rural hydro truck, Dr. S. E. Foster, 63, of Wiarton, died instantly here, was in the habit of taking an early morning walk, regardless of weather conditions. The truck driver, who had just driven by William Morris of Wiarton, struck him on No. six highway about one-and one half miles north of the town.

Provincial police said that weather and visibility conditions were good. The truck which struck the elderly dentist was driven by a crew of workmen in a hydro construction project near Wiarton.

Dr. Foster is survived by his wife.

Two Bandits Prove 'Pretty Dumb'

Toronto, Dec. 5 (CP)— Albert Pierce and Lorne Pierce who held up his downtown cigar store and escaped with only a handful of silver were "pretty dumb."

Pierce said the men entered the store and held their hands in their pockets as if they had guns and told him it was a stick-up. He put a few pieces of silver on the counter and said: "O.K. boys, here's some silver. Help yourself." The men picked up the change and left.

Pierce said the men neglected to search the store and "missed a tidy sum."

R.C.M.P. WARNS BUSINESS FIRMS OF BOGUS BILLS

Can be Easily Detected By Printing, Engraving

Ottawa, Dec. 5—(CP)— Counterfeiters in Christmas almost as much as the kiddies — it's an ideal time to try circulating bogus bills.

They'll probably try to pass large amounts of counterfeit $5, $10 and $20 bills on unsuspecting store clerks during the Christmas shopping rush.

The R.C.M.P., in a statement today warned business firms of that possibility, and advised them to keep genuine notes on hand so comparisons can be made quickly.

Counterfeit money can be readily detected by engraving, by printing and engraving, the statement added.

Last September, the Bank of Canada reported the R.C.M.P. had broken a big Chinatown bogus American $10 bills in Canada. But the force said today there still may be some of the money around.

Counterfeit bills are usually dull and smudged, the lettering is uneven, sometimes indistinct, and the intricate lacy engraving around the numbers on the bill is usually missing.

In addition, the planchettes—a small green disk, similar to a poker chip, found across the surface of a good note—can't be duplicated. Only the genuine counterfeiters try to imitate them by using small spots of green ink.

Haida's Crew Are 'Honorary Texans' Now

Ottawa, Dec. 5 — (CP)— Officers and men of the Canadian destroyer Haida, have been made "honorary Texans," and will be given a reception when the Haida of 18 survivors of a United States B-29 which crashed at sea, 300 miles northeast of Bermuda. The co-pilot of the B-29 was a Texan.

Double Drowning In Madawaska River at Renfrew

Renfrew, Dec. 5 — (CP)—Two little shovels and two sets of rubber-footed rubbers fed searchers Saturday to the scene of a double drowning in the Madawaska River near Camel Shute, Ont.

Drowned were Martin Dodge, 6, and his four-year-old brother, Thomas Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dodge, who farm at Shute, live about 40 miles south of here.

A search party of about 50 men found the bodies of the boys a stretch of open water on the river covered by about 10 inches of an all-night search. Gerald's body still is missing.

Police said the search party found two small shovels on the river's edge. Footprints in the youngsters' footprints across the ice to the open stretch of water.

Fertile Farm Land in Wooded Rockies Open to Land-Hungry Dutch Settlers

Fort Frances, Dec. 5 — (CP)— A fertile farming area almost hidden in the timbered and rocky country west of here will be opened to land-hungry Dutch settlers next year.

A. G. Gunn, supervisor of immigration for the Rainy River district of Northwestern Ontario, announced the decision today that 2,000 Hollanders would be admitted to a 1,000,000 - acre area during the Canadian - United States border.

The immigrants were admitted to Canada in small groups following the Second World War. They settled on western farms, doing a year's labor as required by Canada's agreement with The Netherlands government.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture says the soil of the land near here ranks with the best in the province.

There are 100 vacant farmsteads, about 215 in area, already of occupancy, Mr. Gunn said.

The area itself is a rolling plain bordered on the north and west by the Lake of the Woods, on the east by Rainy Lake, and on the south by the International boundary.

At present produce is marketed through Winnipeg, another 100 miles east. But the Ontario government proposes a new highway to Fort William and Port Arthur.

Most Dutch immigrants since the war have been agricultural workers, but none so far had been able to buy land.

In 1950 another 10,000 Hollanders will be admitted to Canada, some of whom may go to near relations already on farms.

District 5 U.E.W. Is Suspended For Non-Payment Dues

Labor Congress to Throw Weight Behind New Union

Ottawa, Dec. 5 — (CP) — The Canadian Congress of Labor today threw out the communist-lined United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America and said it would support the rival anti-communist International Union of Electrical Workers.

It suspended district five of the union for non-payment of the per capita tax affiliated unions must pay to the congress, the C.C.L. executive council said.

District five is made up of Ontario and Quebec locals — only U.E. locals in Canada—of the union.

New Union

The C.C.L. said it already has affiliated some Canadian locals of the new union, formed in the fall in a split which the U.E. has expelled from the Congress of Industrial organizations.

Suspension of the U. E. followed suspension of the union's five top officers last fall for statements published in the U. E. newspaper about the Ontario Federation of Labor, C.C.L. affiliate.

The five were the men whose names appeared on the masthead of the paper, The U.E. News. They are C. S. Jamieson, Canadian director of the union; George Harris, secretary-treasurer; Ross Russell, organization director; Bert Roberts, the paper's editor, and J. F. Hunter, union executive.

The C.C.L. statement said the suspension was effective Dec. 1. At the same date, the congress began affiliation of Canadian locals of the new electrical union.

It said it was informed the new union is "rapidly taking over" former U.E. locals in Canada whose members have no sympathy with the policy which the U.E. has been following in recent years."

That policy apparently was the allegedly-communist line followed by the United U.E. has which takes in Ontario and Quebec, the only provinces where the U.E. had local unions.

The U.E. is the second far-left union to be suspended by the congress. Earlier, the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers was suspended and the congress began helping organization of mine workers in Northern Ontario and individual locals, directly affiliated with the congress, have been established in some mines.

In the case of electrical workers a congress spokesman said, that C.C.L. will not do any direct organization because there is a new union in the field.

It will, however, give "support and encouragement" to the international union of electrical workers.

There was no decision how many Canadian locals so far have been established by the new union.

ACTRESS DIES OF BURNS

Hollywood, Dec. 5 — (CP) — Mme Maria Ouspenskaya, 72-year-old actress, died here Sunday at the motion picture country home from burns received in a fire which destroyed her apartment Thursday. Her physician, Dr. Marion Sadia, said the second- and third-degree burns were directly responsible for her death.

Elections Returns

In accordance with its usual Election day policy, the Ontario Intelligencer news-room will relay election returns to the public as soon as received.

An augmented editorial staff will man a battery of phones to facilitate this public service.

Results close as seven o'clock this evening, and returns will not be available until an hour later.

Call 4330, 4331, 82, or 83 for election returns, after eight o'clock.

INDIANS' CLAIM RIGHT TO APPEAL ALLOWED IN PART

Claim Moneys Belonging to Them Were Spent by Old Province of Canada

Ottawa, Dec. 5 — (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today allowed part of a claim by the Six Nations Indians for right to appeal to the Exchequer Court of Canada, in what the Indians contend is a long-standing debt owed them by the Crown.

The Indians brought the case to the Exchequer Court in 1945, but the court ruled they had no cause for action. The Supreme Court ruled today that there was cause in part of the Indians' case and that the Indians may go ahead and seek $160,000 of this claim.

This amount is claimed by the Six Indians on the ground that moneys belonging to them were spent by the old Province of Canada on the Welland Canal and the Grand River Navigation Company.

The claim was disallowed in part.

The Supreme Court did not disturb the judgment of the Exchequer Court regarding other claims of the Indians on lands surrendered in 1841 by Chief George III for their assistance in the war of 1812-14.

The other claims involved the Six Nations contention that parts of the land were flooded in the building of the Welland canal and that they received no compensation, it was the United Kingdom government.

The court said nothing to show any agreement by the King to convey said land by the King in trust for the Indians. The latter claim was disallowed by the Crown of any alleged agreement or trust.

Lucedale Lemieux, K.C. of Ottawa, who handled the case for the Indians, argued that the Indians were not "ordinary litigants." They are infants, minors or without political rights. He said judgments in other cases did not apply to them.

During the Supreme Court hearing, Mr. Jackett was questioned about the claim by Mr. Justice I. C. Rand regarding the Welland Canal. In the court today allowed the appeal.

A new collection agency for the benefit of Bell Telephone subscribers in Belleville has been opened at Schryver's Pharmacy, 204 Front Street near Bridge Street, according to G. W. Proctor, the company's manager here.

Subscribers may then pay their telephone bills at this agency without extra charge, but accounts will also be handled at the business office located at 121 Front Street where all other business transactions will be conducted, the manager said.

TAGLESS DOG IS PICKED UP

City dog catcher Thomas Thorn has in his custody a male red Irish Terrier which was picked up in a Front Street department store on Saturday. The dog was wearing no collar nor tag and apparently had gone there for shelter to get out of the cold. He is being kept by Mr. Thorn awaiting an owner.

COUNTY ASSESSOR GIVEN SALARY RAISE

The salary of the assessor of Peterborough county has been increased to $3,700 per annum. In addition, he will receive $100 travelling expenses, according to a Peterborough story.

HAMILTON PLAYERS VISIT ANAF BRANCH

Two teams of the Hamilton branch of the Army and Air Force Veterans in Canada darts league, were guests of Belleville branch 32 in a series of matches at the Front Street club rooms on Saturday night. The visitors were afforded a cordial welcome by the president and officials of the local service organization and were loud in their praise of the hospitality accorded them.

Following the matches they were the guests of the playing members of Branch 201 at a spare rib dinner at Ye Olde Bar-B-Q Restaurant.

A return visit to Hamilton will be made by two or more teams and members in the near future.

No Apparent Rush For Rental Forms

C. H. Clifford, rental officer for the W.P.T.B. here, reported today that Belleville landlords were apparently in no great rush to obtain rent increase forms, a condition prevailing likewise at the present in both Toronto and Montreal.

Mr. Clifford said that there was a slight demand earlier, principally by mail, but since the forms were made available Friday very few crocoerty owners have asked for them. Mr. Clifford would not say if the landlords intended to impose the entire increase at one time or proposed to lift rents gradually.

F. J. Wingfelder chief rentals officer at Toronto announced that the forms were available Friday, but that there was no unusual demand Friday or Saturday.

A spokesman for the rental board in Montreal Saturday said there were fewer landlords applying there than in 1947, when the 10 per cent increase was allowed.

Maximum raise landlords can impose amounts to 18 per cent for unheated dwellings and 12 per cent for heated accommodations.

Arrest Follows Chase by Police

Police Constable John Balyx proved himself somewhat of a sprinter Sunday evening when he gave chase to Fred Rowe, 20, who failed to apprehend an alleged night marauder who was disturbed as he, it is said, attempted to ransack a car in the George Street area.

As result of the chase one Ernest S. Hawkins, 45, no given address, is in custody charged with theft and according to police will also face an additional charge of being in possession of booze.

Parcel of Meat Left on Wrong Doorstep

The price of meat may be at something like an all-time high, but a certain gentleman on Bridge Street West, nevertheless is not accepting free gifts of meat from the butcher.

The West Hill resident was not a little surprised to find a parcel of ham, chicken and other meats on his doorstep on Sunday morning. He had ordered no meat for delivery from the butcher, so he notified police of his find.

Now he is wondering just what sort of a reception the careless delivery boy will get from his employer, and also of the reception the poor butcher will get from the disappointed customer who must have gone dinnerless on Sunday.

37 Stitches Taken To Close Facial Knife Wound

Toronto, Dec. 5—(CP)—Thirty-seven stitches were taken to close a facial knife wound suffered by Alec Dinning in an altercation with three youths here Saturday, police said today.

Police said Dinning, 7-year-old former petty officer in the Royal Canadian Navy, was slashed diagonally across the face after he had asked the three teen-agers to "tone down their language."

Arrested following the tussle and booked on charges of wounding were Ronald Ray, 17, and the Hayes brothers, James, 17, and Ronald, 18.

Police said Dinning and his wife were walking home from a movie when Dinning stopped to take exception with the youths for using "foul language." In the ensuing tussle, one of the boys whipped out a knife and carved the seven-inch wound extending from the edge of his left eye, across the nose to the right corner of the mouth.

32 Applications For Citizenship Considered

A total of 32 applications for Canadian citizenship were scheduled to be considered by His Honor Judge J. C. Anderson, at the County Court of the Peace for Hastings county, which opened this morning at the county court house.

The applications were presented through the office of the Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, acting as clerk for the General Sessions court.

Two criminal cases were listed for hearing during the sessions, one of gross indecency, and the other of motor theft.

Also three older men charged with being found in a dwelling house by night were scheduled to appear for indictment. It was stated, however, the cases not be proceeded with at this court.

260 of Finest Cheese in Canada Exhibited at B.E. Dairy Show

Two hundred and sixty of the finest cheese in the Dominion of Canada are on exhibition in the showroom of the British Empire Dairy Show now being held in the basement of the Orange Hall by Alec Dinning, Locale of the show is just north of. Tabernacle Church.

Cheese from all parts of Ontario and Quebec arrived at the show Saturday and Sunday and judges went to work scoring the cheese on Saturday. Saturday night the job was done and prize lists were released today.

Arranged in four double rows of the exhibition cheese will delight the eye of any dairyman or agricultural official and the aroma of the cheese makes the visitor think in terms of favorite cheese dishes. The greatest public has a chance to view the exhibition in the showroom today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Convention Opens Wednesday

The annual dairy show, with J. L. Irwin as honorary president, is being held in conjunction with the annual convention of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association, sessions of which will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday. Prominent speakers will be on hand to address the convention which will be concluded with a banquet at Todd's County Gardens on Wednesday evening.

The British Empire Dairy Show is exactly what the term implies and is open to any cheesemaker in the Empire. Competition is keen for the $1,700 in cash prizes and only cheese grading the highest possible scores can be expected to win the top prizes. Top scoring cheese at the show this year scored 98.50.

Outlines Problems Of Teaching New Canadians

A conference of teachers of new Canadians was held on Saturday last, when representatives present from Kingston, Trenton, Stirling, Point Anne, Picton, Belleville, Frankford, Tweed, Wellington, Warkworth, Napanee and Madoc met for the purpose of discussing the many problems arising from teaching new Canadians and of ways of increasing efficiency in this work.

The morning session, which took place in the Collegiate auditorium, was preceded by a dinner. Mr. Frankford, Principal of the Belleville Collegiate Institute, presided.

Greetings were extended to the visitors by Miss J. Tickell, chairman on the school board. Mr. Earl Webster, district representative for community programs, Department of Education, outlined the purpose of the work, which is, to face problems of the past and in teaching new Canadian citizenship.

Talks on Citizenship

The guest speaker, Mr. Stephen Davidovitch, Citizenship adviser for the Community Programs Branch, Department of Education, gave an address on "Citizenship of New Canadians" in which he stated that the average residence ten years before they qualify for nationalization was 16.5 years, but during the past fifty years, it was now three or four years.

The project which cost $20 per student per year was shared by the community and the federal government. It is a federal function, but each province decides on the standards and in an adult education, defining what the new Canadian should learn including language, and attitudes that coordinate with the Canadian way of living, with proficiency certificates being the goal.

The community also helps the new Canadian citizen as well as radio broadcasts, which are helps in teaching aids. The newcomer is encouraged to talk of things of close interest by composing sentences on paper and by context possibilities with English speaking people and by the use of the newspaper which forms reading habits, fixes spelling and vocabulary.

Beneficial methods would be to have skills, tutorial classes; simple English controlled vocabularies used in a series of books of fiction; one act plays, and film strips on Canada.

Miss F. Gaynor gave a demonstration of basic English technique and Mr. Davidson showed for the first time in Ontario, some films for advanced classes in citizenship.

Mrs. W. J. Doyle was the presiding chairman during the session.

Writer Paid Glowing Tribute By His Friends

Chatham, Dec. 5 — (CP) — The cup of happiness brimmed over Saturday evening for Wilfrid Lauriston, a quiet man with a ready smile who has been a writer for half a century.

Some 175 friends and associates paid him tribute at dinner Messages of congratulation came from Prime Minister St. Laurent and Rt. Hon. William Mackenzie King. Hendon Hunnisett Martin came in person to praise his achievements as novelist, historian and newspaper man. Beside Mr. Lauriston was the pretty white-haired woman who left a job as a newspaper typesetter 42 years ago to become his bride.

The dinner came as a complete surprise to the genial little man who has lived all of his 68 years in the Chatham area. It marked the anniversary of what he called "my first byline" story — a tale called "Miss Carleford's Diamonds" which he sold to Scroll Magazine in Chicago in 1906.

Mr. Martin called him a "great citizen of Chatham . . . a simple man who by his industry, his ideals and his dignity strikes us as being deserving of our tribute." There was perhaps no better tribute than one by which Mr. Lauriston measured success in life — "doing his job well."

Surprise Witness Says Boremovic HadPartisanOkay

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

Belleville, Dec. 5 — (AP) — Pint-sized Aron Boremovic, former state prosecutor here during the wartime German occupation, produced a surprise witness in his treason trial today to support his claim he had an okay from Marshal Tito's Partisans to hold his job.

Boremovic is one of 10 defendants on trial. They are charged with collaborating with the Germans during the war and of working as spies for Russia after the liberation.

Branco Jokic, member of the liberation movement's judicial committee during the war, told the district tribunal hearing the case that Boremovic approached him in 1944 and asked whether he should accept appointment to the court martial trying 28 Chetniks.

The Chetniks were accused of plotting against the Ustachi puppet government of Nornia and Synagogues set up by the German occupiers.

Boremovic has acknowledged service on the court martial which resulted in death for 24 of the accused Chetniks, but claimed he had permission to do so from the Partisans.

Jokic supported the story. He said he consulted his associates on the underground judicial committee, then told Boremovic "under the circumstances he could take the assignment which, as he has testified, he did although not as a spy for Tito."

The prosecution earlier paraded half a dozen witnesses active in the wartime liberation movement who denied knowledge of any connection between Boremovic and the Partisan movement, or any purported permission for him to serve on the court martial.

Voluntary Cutoffs To Save Power Gain in Toronto

Toronto, Dec. 5 — (CP) — At least four large Toronto firms have agreed to accept hydro-electric power cut-offs between 5 and 6 P. M. daily, if requested, Hydro chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, said today.

Most public buildings are observing daily blackout periods from 4:30 to 6 P. M. daily, he said.

"The conservation drive is steadily gaining momentum and with this kind of co-operation I am sure we will get through the critical period that lies ahead without ordering switches pull-

Doukhobor's House Is Destroyed, Police on Probe

Nelson, B. C., Dec. 5 — (CP)— The home of the Doukhobor who invited his followers to leave Canada rather than pay taxes was burned Sunday. Investigating British Columbia police believed it may have been the work of his followers.

The burning was the latest development in events which prompted a crackdown by provincial government has been against the violence prevalent in this south-central area settled by the religious sect.

The burning of the small shack-like home of John Lebedoff followed a meeting held by the Sons of Freedom group of the Doukhobors, the radical fringe. The meeting had been addressed by officials of the police and of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The whole area is patrolled by special police and deputies while armed guards at speaker-and-guard bridges on all rail lines in the area. C. P. R. rail lines were attacked recently — the last time Nov. 29 — with dynamite.

Advised Back to Russia or Turkey

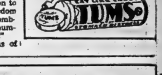
Lebedoff is head of the Sons of Freedom and last spring he urged his 5,000 followers and non-orthodox Doukhobors who so desired to leave Canada in a great trek to Russia or Turkey. The announcement drew no official comment and no reference to it has been made public recently by Lebedoff.

When he made his call, special detachments of provincial and R C. M. P. were strongly reinforced from the area as a wave of incendiarism swept a new $35,000 school and other less costly structures.

"Too much trouble," he said then in explaining the decision to move. All the Sons of Freedom are blamed for fires and bombings . . . and only a small number are actually implicated in battle."

Just last week, six, Sons of Freedom were convicted on fire separate charges dating back so far as the 1943 burning of a Brilliant, B. C., jam factory. Other charges were bombing the tomb of a deceased leader and burning the new school at Terrye, B. Can ary, one April.

New Long Distance Switchboards Installed



Two new long distance switchboards at the exchange here are keeping Belleville in line with the rapid increase in long distance service throughout the company's Ontario and Quebec territory, G. W. Procter, Bell Telephone manager here, said today.

The additional equipment which recently went into service, brings to 16 the number of switchboards operating at the exchange.

Long distance calls have increased considerably in Belleville, Mr. Procter said, the present daily calling rate being 1,600 compared to less than 1,100 in 1945. Five new switchboards were installed here during that time, he added.

DOCUMENTS OF AN ERA

There are four or five million documents or papers in the collection of the papers of Franklin D. Roosevelt, the greater number of which will be opened on the seventh of March next year while a small number will be kept under seal for a further quarter of a century, the archivist of the United States, Dr. Wayne C. Grover, states. The papers are at present being kept in the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library at Hyde Park, N.Y., says the New York Times.

About 85 per cent of the total volume of papers could be opened to the public on March 17th.

Dr. Grover stated that this action will open up a large percentage of the president's papers less than five years after his death and is believed to be unprecedented in the history of the United States. As with most things in life many scholars and students who are interested in research into recent history.

The immense volume of documents associated with one who fills the post of President of so important a nation as the United States must come even with surprise to a large number of people and yet in view of the vast number of questions which come before a leader of a great nation, especially one who was so long in the presidency, the volume may seem reasonable.

Such immense masses of the modern world. Ancient sign of the strengthened in the past few years. Many peoples did not have the multitude of means of making records of documents as moderns have. Historians would give much if for any of the many great ages of history they could find even a minutiae of such treasures. Many problems of history have long since been lost, because there was not the same care taken to keep them, there were so many upsets of governments, the rise and fall of so many civilizations that the records of the defeated must have often passed on with them.

Today the world places a high value on papers associated with government.

Yet it is surprising that so much remains of old civilizations' records as to give the modern world a fairly accurate idea of many of the great former periods of man's life on the globe.

Documents too have a knack of coming to light from time to time and such are looked upon as precious for the light they throw on the progress of civilization.

Where and when so much has been lost, the archeologist steps in and skilfully recreates ancient cultures.

ANCIENT ETNA ACTIVE

How long Mount Etna has been threatening those human being who dwell within range of its lava flow no one can say. This Sicilian volcano is historically the most famous for it has left its marks on western civilization. Situated on the island of Sicily it is the most active in Europe and the highest mountain in Italy. From the waters on the east which wash its base it rises 5,000 to 6,000 feet, then rises like a gigantic cone to a height of 10,875 feet. On the south and west it is formed of superimposed mountains. The circumference is about 90 miles at the base of the mountain.

Man has so long become accustomed to Etna that around the mountain and at the lower slope, fields are cultivated and olives, figs, dates and orange trees grow and there is higher up a belt of forest of oak, beach and coniferae. Above the 7,000 foot level vegetation is very scarce. There are at the summit rocky precipices, lava beds, masses of ashes and scoriae. Farther up snow covers the slope. Every eruption changes the phase of the summit.

This volcano has a long record, more than eighty eruptions having been recorded. Of these 11 took place before the Christian era dawned. The record in toll of life is an unusual one. In 1169 A.D. an eruption overwhelmed Catania and buried 15,000 persons. Five hundred years later, 10,000 persons perished and the country was covered with lava flow for a period of 40 days. But the worst eruption was in 1693 when 60,000 and more persons were killed.

At the weekend lava was flowing from at least ten openings in the cone and towns were threatened.

Man is used to the explosions of Etna and those who are native to the area are loath to flee.

Pity is akin to love and every thought of that soft kind is welcome to my soul.—Southern.

STOP! LOOK! WAIT!

There are holes in my gloves,
In my shirts, in my socks,
My neckties are wrinkled and frayed.
There's not one good handkerchief left in the box.
And I'm down to an old razor blade,
But, though there is my bureau and empty each drawer,
These are things which I mustn't now buy for myself.
I am sadly in need of some new underwear,
My pajamas lack buttons
and my shoes need a shine,
But I'm told by my loved ones
they'd be unkind.

At this time, to purchase
such things.
I'd be foolish. What's worse
I'd be wicked, they state
With Christmas Day coming,
if I didn't wait.

So patient they tell me, and pass the good buy.
The ads in the papers don't bend
We are to wager at Christmas your wants to supply.
And if helps us to know
that we're not unkind,
So in honest work and I am pledged to remain.
I am waiting for Christmas
. . . I hope not in vain.

TODAY'S DAILY

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A NEW EXPERIENCE

One reason why I have lived such an interesting and happy life I've been trying to find experiences that have coming my way. I have always tried to do different things, to seek out unusual things. Life is what keeps life adding up.

Occasionally I have written a little book of these daily talks and my publishers have given me a trip to Columbus and Cleveland, in Ohio, to sign my book for those who might wish to purchase one. Why I accepted was that I wanted to meet some of my unknown friends, face to face, for most of my readers I shall never see. Well, I had a most interesting experience. I met scores of people in all walks of life, and gave me the opportunity to thank them personally for their interest and encouragement.

In Columbus I was interviewed on television, but forgot to take my book along! The smiling lady asked me its name, and I replied, "Better Than Gold." She thought that a rather unusual title and asked me what was better than gold. I replied that she was, that friends were, as well as great books, gratitude for children, parks, free hospitals for the poor, and any number of other things.

In Cleveland I was interviewed on the radio by a charming Miss, who was very nice to me and made me feel she knew more about me than I knew myself. Then I presented to a big book shop and spent two hours signing more of my books—quite a few I did, I hope to myself, after each signature: "I am sending you my love, dear, wherever you are, wherever you may be—a bit of myself." For that is what a book is, for me, a part of my author signs and sends out into the world, abit of himself.

On my way home I read a little book by Mr. Luther Evans called "A Free Man's Worship," and once in a while I would drop the book and thank God that I lived in a country where anyone could express his faith, tell other people about it, and exercise it without governmental interference. What an inheritance!

THE PERENNIAL MESSAGE

As I write this article I hold in my hands something very, precious. It is a manuscript sermon of Phillips Brooks, the great Episcopal bishop who thrilled the city of Boston with his preachings seventy-five years ago.

This sermon is written on the text, "And lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." It is a magnificent setting forth of that fundamental Christian doctrine that Jesus is a living reality in the world today, precisely as he was 2000 years ago. Phillips Brooks goes into great detail, showing how we can bring the presence and influence of Jesus Christ into every situation of modern life. There is nothing so overwhelming and compelling as to be beyond his power to control. here is nothing so apparently insignificant as to be outside the effects of his kindness and watchfulness.

Brooks likened Jesus to a great Captain who is not content just to give his sailors detailed charts of the voyage and have them sail according to his instructions. "I go down with you in the ship." said the Captain, "in every doubt you will have me to appeal to. You will only have my commandments, you will have me. I myself will sail the ship. "Lo I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

The Christian message remains the same through the centuries.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

A MILD BEEF

Neilsad-Marcus Department Store Dallas, Texas.
Gentlemen:

May I register a complaint?

Yesterday afternoon, I was sitting in my office, minding my P's, Q's, manners and business, when an expressman walked in and handed me a package, enough to house a midget. .It was wrapped in Santa Claus paper, and there was a fancy sticker pasted on top with Christmas greetings from Neilsad-Marcus.

"Gosh!" I said. "I didn't know they cared."

I stopped what I was doing and ripped off the wrapping, and there it is a see of silver excelsior I found a dozen gift packages, each looking like what the well-dressed Christmas tree will wear.

I picked up the phone. "Don't call me for the next ten minutes", I said to the switchboard girl. "I'm in conference."

Having spent a couple of years in Texas, I of course had heard a good deal about your Aladdin's lamp of a store and so, as I untied the fluffy puffs of ribbon on the first box, my head began to swim with Christmas Eve visions.

Box Number One contained several pounds of excelsior and nothing.

"Evidently a mistake in the shipping department," I thought, and went on to Number Two. It was filled with the grade A superfluity tissue paper.

Number Three, however, contained an impressive collection of excelsior, plus a little card with pictures of diamonds which you were willing to let go for a song. Number Four was a beauty.

Number Four was a heavier box, and I scissored it open with mounting interest. The grade A was then packed it, and you know what was in it—a mail order catalog.

Well, by this time I realized I had been teased by an old-fashioned gimmick, and so I filed the rest of the package in my round basket. And by the time I had cleaned up the mess of excelsior and tissue paper, I was ready to go down to Macy's basement, buy a sack of potatoes, and ship it to Neilsad-Marcus."

Now, it's generally conceded that you gents operate one of the smartest stores in the country, and that's why I thought it would be fun to tell you how to run your business. But I started to do that, your Christmas promotion stunt violates the first rule of salesmanship—never build a customer up to a let-down.

Here I can highlight the dangers involved in this procedure by telling you of another fellow who made the same mistake. . .

One afternoon while I was rehearsing the Aquacade at the New York World's Fair, a skinny guy with walked into the backstage lot.

"What sort of act do you do?" I asked.

"My unsinkable," he said.

I did a triple take. "What do you mean, unsinkable?"

"Just that," he said. "Because of the sir in my arteries, it's impossible for me to sink—even with a slab of concrete on my chest."

"Tis I've got to see," I said. "Get into the pool and start floating—I'll dig up a concrete slab somewhere."

The swimmer came to a stop. My swimmers hoisted themselves from the water and sat on the lip of the tank, while Marshall Wayne and a dozen other fine divers squatted on the diving platforms. Stagehands located a concrete slab in Queens, and the boys then handed it to Johnny Weissmuller and Stubby Krueger who, at a signal from me, lowered it onto the stomach of the self-declared sinker.

He sank—like a slab of concrete. He lifted half a minute later, looking as bubbly as the name sting in the surface, I got wrinkly and yelled, "Take him up!"

When—into the water went the unsinkable—and with the whole cast of Aquabelles and Aquabeaux Down to the bottom they torpedoed, and finally, after a long hundred seconds, they got him up. He was still sitting on the concrete, up on dry land and even a grin.

"I don't mean to pry," I said when some of the dampness was off me, "but how in the name of floating with a slab of concrete on your chest happens?"

The dehydrated joker shook his head.

"Then what gave you the confused notion you were unsinkable?"

"I just thought I'd take a chance," he said.

And there you have it, gentlemen—the story of a salesman who let his fancy run away with his liver—and it may explain why I'm allergic to presenting percents.

Next Christmas, if I'm still on your list, send me a postcard or, if you want to spread yourself, a gift calendar. And then, if it's better not to play Santa Claus at all than to get up before breakfast and come down the chimney with nothing but hot air in your bag.

Sincerely,
Billy Rose.

Mackenzie's Column:

Case Revives Interest in Spiritualism

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The lawsuit in London over the affections of the late Sir Hugo Greenwood, during the tobacco magnate, developed a highly interesting spiritualist angle.

Lady Greenwood, the American born widow of Sir Hugo, sued Marjorie Bowes for damages for alienation of affections. Miss Daw was accused of inducing Sir Hugo to leave his wife by means of alleged letters from the dead man. Lady Conan Doyle, a remarkable impression of Lady Cunliffe-Owen. Sir Hugo was an ardent spiritualist.

The case was settled out of court, and with that we may dismiss it, since our sole purpose in mentioning it was to draw attention to the fact that interest in Spiritualism has long had a considerable following in England and I was struck at the time when its great leader was the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, famous creator of Sherlock Holmes.

Sincere Believer

Doyle was deeply grieved by the widespread expression of disbelief in spiritualism. One day when we were together on this he called my attention to a life-size head-and-shoulders photo of himself, with the face of a young man looking over his shoulder.

He said that a spirit picture of a dead son who, as I recall, had been killed in the First World War.

Sir Arthur told me he personally believed that the picture was genuine. He said it had been developed in his own home and had touched it before the plate was put in the holder. Then he explained:

"How can you even look at that picture and not believe?"

I never debated spiritualism with Sir Arthur or anybody else, but listened. After he died I became interested in the subject, and in one of Doyle's books, his charging wife, who also was a firm believer in spiritualism. She told me that she was receiving spirit messages from her husband.

One time when I was calling at her home Lady Greenwood told me Sir Arthur had warned the medium that he had a message that there was a defect in the machinery of a racing car owned by one of his friends, and that it should be fixed immediately. She said the message was correct and that the boy might have lost his life if he had driven the car without repair.

Plane Crash Kills all Five Persons Aboard

Long Beach, Calif., Dec. 5—(AP) Five persons, including pilot, plane crashed and burned today at Long Beach municipal airport, killing all five person aboard.

Eyewitnesses said the plane's motors sputtered, brought a nose and soon after takeoff and the plane smacked world. The fuel tanks burst into flames.

The plane was owned by Bob Sanders, 33. An airport spokesman said it was believed Sanders was at the controls. John Hall, control tower reported others aboard were Mrs. Sanders, John Hall and Cliff Boyden.

The girls victim was unidentified.

All were believed to reside in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area.

SHEPHERDS AND FARMHANDS RETURN TO FIELDS

Catania, Sicily, Dec. 5—(AP)—Shepherds and farmhands returned to pastures and fields on the slopes of Mt. Etna today as a gesture from the ancient volcano's threatening eruption seemed to have passed.

Lava streams which started pouring Friday from newly-opened craters on the 10,758-foot peak had stopped flowing, but the city of Randazzo, Bronte and Maletto remained evacuated. Fear of new lava but today scientists said the eruption seemed about over.

NO UNUSUAL DEMAND

Toronto, Dec. 5—(CP)—Local offices of the Prices Board said Toronto landlords are apparently in no position to take advantage increase forms. The forms became available today but there was no unusual demand for them either Friday or Saturday.

FOOTBALL AND YOUTH

An athlete in full training may maintain a degree of exertion which would be dangerous or impossible if he were not fully trained. Coaches, managers, trainers, doctors and everybody else officially associated with sport or athletics knows this — everybody, that is, except the physical education instructor or director, so-called, in school or college. The physical education instructor is glowered aside when the prospective parents in the growing boy should play football in high school.

They have said here many times that in my opinion he should not. But, dear me, what can a person such a mollycoddle thinks or says about it, when the coach wants to get his team grade A superfluity and every other fellows will brand him.

If he doesn't get into "training", as they humorously call it? Then he will be left out days of flaming youth, has the moral courage to say no when the coach asks him to? Then boys and girls in school want the boy to play. He is afraid to be thought by gather from what they tell me about this situation, are generally wishy-washy and not properly appointed physical education instructors, else this department heads in high schools where the football travesty is played.

American football is a grown man's game, a game for professionals, men, or at least men who have attained adult development. It is far out of place for boys in their teens.

Some of these harassed parents seem to think the risk of physical injury is the chief danger. Growing children should not play football, if that were so, I'd withhold my consent down to youngsters burlesquing this grown men's game.

But fractures, sprains and dislocations are comparatively insignificant incidents—every boy is subject to them, whether he plays football or not.

The damage the growing boy's heart suffers from the extreme physical effort demanded of him in the game. A youth who has attained his full physical development merely at 17) may make a quick recovery after such a severe effort as is required in college or university football players seldom suffer permanent damage at that age. But the growing boy in high school, under make or believe "training" does not. Many of them in the college man s. grave risk to life with their hearts for to come. The characteristic manifestations of dilated heart, enlarged heart, enlarged heart, soldier's heart, effort syndrome, neurocirculatory asthenia, as it is variously called, familiar to every physician, are found in these high school columns or by mail. Suffice that many a boy who doesn't get a fair break in his physical education instructor, his physical director, or his coach, is permanently crippled for a season or for a game, in the great burlesque. But then zero hour is stumpy which recovery is discouraging—by slow if he does not break down get back into normal condition.

What football does to the high school boy who is picked by the "coach" for a fair test of his inhibition is sufficient, I think, to outlaw, the burlesque from high school athletics.

What the "big games" do to the growing boys and girls who have parts in the chorus, or to spark, on the sidelines, in the bleachers and grandstands, is in my opinion, harmful to their well being. Their vicarious participation in the game is mass hysteria and I mean hysteria in the medical sense of the term.

I leave to the police, the clergy and other citizens of the community the problem of the effect of big game hysteria on the normal behavior of boys. The school boys and girls who carry the heroics of make-believe beyond all ordinary restraints.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Most women, by the way they dress, hope they look pretty The fact is, very few women are naturally pretty. This is a terrible thing to say, but it is proven very simply by the enormous profits and expenses men go to in order to try to look better than they really do.

It has been the fashion for the last few thousand years, to say that women are the weaker sex, all the tireless frantic effort on the part of men to do all in their way to put it. The miserable fact of the matter is that all these billions are spent merely to humble in heart. On behalf of parties, balls, dresses, hats, plain, and who are struggling to look pretty. Women, I say, in hope that all women and girls who are naturally beautiful may be encouraged to grow slowly thanks to the River of Every Thing Perfect, and that furthermore, they are loving and kind to their parents in having and unfailing attitude of thanks for the gift of beauty they bestow upon us all, is my sincere prayer.

D.P. Asks for Tolerance For Newcomers to Canada

Back in Budapest George Heiman lectured at the academy of music without thought that someday he would be working in Belleville at the New Service Lunch. However the events of a war and a change in Hungary's national politics brought talented young Heiman to Canada with thousands of other Displaced Persons seeking new homes and a better way of living.

Mr. Heiman has demonstrated that he is not afraid of work but his heart is still in music and sooner or later he hopes to return to his favorite field.

Specialist in music history and folk music the new resident graduate from universities in Vienna and Greece acquiring a degree in music, later working as assistant professor of music. He worked at the U.S. legation in Budapest in 1948 arriving in Canada in August 1949.

In addition this new Canadian aspired to well at journalism with the result he spent long terms in Nazi-German and Communist prison camps for attempting to convey free thoughts in the controlled press inside the iron curtain.

A sister lives in Los Angeles while their parents are both dead.

Young Heiman's first job in his new homeland was as a farm labourer on Everett Lake's farm at Stirling.

Already having learned to love Canada and the Canadians he has become acquainted with in the last three months Mr. Heiman does not hesitate to thank his new friends in his article voicing the problems of displaced persons with suggestions for better understanding between them and their Canadian foster parents.

By GEORGE HEIMAN

The first thing an emigrant, a D.P., sees when arriving at the harbour of Halifax is a large sign on the wall of the pier saying: Welcome home to Canada. It is an extended hand, a warm welcome, a sign, that this country really means to give a home to thousands amongst the hundreds of thousands of the wailing and shuffling mass of D.P.'s in Germany or Austria.

Though, generally speaking most of the newcomers succeeded in making a fresh start, not a few have created a problem and have not made a good impression on the Canadians. There is a certain amount of disappointment among Canadian, who see that their extended hand their help is sometimes rejected, overlooked or abused.

No Friends In Canada

Most of the emigrants are brought over to the so called immigration schemes. That means, that they do not have relations or friends in Canada, who could have provided them with permits, housing and jobs, thus sponsoring the entry of an emigrant. Seventy five per cent of the new arrivals register through the I.R.O. (International Refugee Organization of the U.N.) with a certain type of scheme, a certain field of occupation. Before embarking on the transport, every D.P., going in a scheme, has to sign a one year contract, in which he promises to stay in that kind of work the government assigns to him or her. Most of the hard feelings, misunderstandings and justified condemnation derive from the fact, that a certain percentage of the D.P.'s try to leave their assigned work, looking for a more suitable type of employment.

Considering this fact, these actions seem without doubt to show a lack of gratitude and appreciation of the newcomers who try to break their word. Indeed, these actions are unjustified and condemnable. After all at least seems to be short period especially when compared to the break that is given to anybody, who is permitted to enter this country. Yet an amount of these D.P.'s who under circumstances may be still not displaced, but displaced persons, break their contracts thus disappointing the officials and employers creating tenseness between Canadians and newcomers, in which without doubt the Canadians are right.

Defines A D.P.

Nevertheless, there always is a another side to show this other side, is the goal of this article.

At first we would like to define what a D.P. is. He or she is a displaced person in the very literal meaning of the word. Not only displaced because they had to leave their country, but because seemingly no other wants them. There is no place for them in Europe, economically, but mainly ideologically. A misplaced individual, historically and geographically, too. All of them have one original idea: they want to leave countries, which had been "liberated" too often and too thoroughly. First the German, Nazi-needed slave-labor, they needed human guinea pigs for their experiments, soap from human bodies and lampshades from human skin. And they certainly did have no use for people who had other ideas about life than the Nazis. In consequence of this tens of thousands were deported under various charges, but with one main goal—extermination.

And all of them would have been extinguished, as the Germans were rather pedant in this matter, but they ran out of time. A number of them lived to be liberated by the Western Allies. But, as already mentioned, it seemed to be a grave error to have been born in Eastern Europe as after the German occupation came the Russian, the "glorious Red Army". At the very beginning it was really a moment of free breathing for those who were anti-nazi, liberals. But then came that shameless and bloody farce, which dared to call itself "People's Democracy" and the terror started all over again.

Worse Than Nazism

It was and is worse that the Nazi regime because the Reds have time, much time, to organize, to terrorize, and rule. Thus another large amount of people new itself forced to leave their home to become misplaced on the map of Europe. So we see that there are two main groups of D.P.'s. The first consisting of deported subjects who after their liberation in 1945 refused to return to their country, realizing that they would not live under Russian control. The second group is made up by a steady stream of refugees, who since the years of 1945 and '47 flee their country which is a satellite and seek refuge in the western part of Austria and Germany. According to last years statistics about 70 per cent of the D.P.'s in Europe belong to group one, the remaining 40 per cent to group two.

There exists a certain difference between the two groups. Group one as already mentioned, consists mainly of slave-laborers, onetime soldiers and a rather small part of former concentration camp inhabitants. To this group also belong: a certain amount of Eastern European Nazis who evacuated their country together with the retreating German army. These had settled down in Germany and Austria and not a few have managed to be accepted as refugees. The unique character of this first group is, that it lives in camps since four or five years.

The second group is by no means luckier. The difference is, that it is not so much a crowd, than a steadily growing number of individuals, who after some years of Russian Communism became so called "political refugees". Eighty per cent of these end in camps after a few months, also. It must be mentioned that latter group consists mainly of intellectuals, teachers, clerks students physicians who got into conflict with communistic ideology.

Seek New Home

Both groups have one aim—to find a new home, far away from Russian influences, far away from the miseries of Europe. Crammed together in camps ragged and mostly hungry, in the means of the I.R.O. are very limited and work is almost unobtainable, these D.P.'s are willing to do anything to emigrate to some overseas country. This is not easy. Countries which are willing to take D.P.'s, if at all, look for a certain kind of emigrant. Frankly speaking they seem not so much interested in helping to solve the problem as a whole but much more look at the mass as a pool from where certain kinds of laborers can be drawn.

No objection can be made from the standpoint of the overseas countries. They want a certain amount of a certain kind of workers and these are accepted for immigration. But nevertheless, there are many unfortunate ones, who formerly made their living by mental work—a fact made them another one target in the communists. And these city-dwellers degenerated in modern mass of civilization, don't fit into any of the schemes. But they keep on trying and many authorities investigating the applicants are inclined to let some of these pass knowing the conditions the D.P.'s live in and what it means for them to get overseas.

Lost in Strange Work

So this is one factor which contributes to the problem in the new country. It is a human error that an individual strives to reach territories which are more familiar to him feeling lost and very out of place in some occupation, or else she had never done before, and what is worse can hardly be placed in it. Nevertheless, by running away from their appointed posts, they commit an error and are guilty. Answer to this problem would be: either, no intellectuals at all under no circumstances under no conditions or a scheme, which gives a break to these people by securing them work, which is more familiar to them. It is up to the country.

Another problem derives from following fact. D.P.'s are mostly disinclined for those parts of a new country immediately after their arrival. Taking such an individual who after the shocks of war the miseries of years of campsife or imprisonment behind the Iron Curtain finds himself in completely new and strange surroundings, tends to develop a certain kind of complex. All alone in a new, world without the merest knowledge of this countries language not even so much as to ask for bread or a direction, the D.P. and especially those of less civilized background tends towards a kind fear, mistrust, unhappiness lostness. Not able to express his simplest desires or wishes accordingly understood by nobody and misunderstood by the whole world, he may become restless, difficult to handle and stubborn.

Great Temptations

All round him he sees the realization of a dream that of completes freedom of the individual an unknown or almost forgotten air of independence and free speech and the temptation is near at hand to reach for that to go and make his own way immediately. It is unjustified and condemnable action again but many lack the self discipline are tempted too much by freedom, by the air of a big and broad country. A solution would be very hard to find. In Australia for instance the government places every new arrival in a camp where the basic elements of English are taught to him. The thoughts and life-style of the country are explained to him the laws and rules made clear. Only after thus equipped for the contract years is he set out to work, somehow equipped and prepared for the coming times.

The language is the highest barrier between understanding and mutual getting-along and this should be torn down somehow. Many D.P.'s have a chance to visit night schools but as already mentioned many are strewn over the country and it is usually these, who break away and try to approach places where they can find people who understand them.

Need Understanding

Yes, it is understanding which is needed. Two strangers meet in such a case a Canadian, born free, raised free to whom freedom is a natural part of every day life. It is he who extends his hand towards the stranger, a man—and place—less persons who is mixed up has no basis is without belief to which to cling and shaken out of every illusion. Resembling a wild frightened child, who is strange, and to him luxurious, surroundings promises to be good, but has his lines of strange restlessness and stubbornness. This can be, must be cured, if the D.P. is to be acclimatize the D.P.'s, cured and handled with sternness—but with understanding too.

Many of the D.P.'s have made out very well, many fair. These have been mentioned often by the always sympathetic Canadian papers. Some have done harm to their new country and to themselves. We do not want to justify them, because they can not be justified, we only tried to explain....

Good Companions Hold Christmas Party

The Good Companions' Club of Tabernacle United Church held their Christmas party in the church school auditorium with over 60 members present on Friday evening. A gaily decorated Christmas tree with its large and small parcels was the centre of attraction. Green and red streamers decorated the room with Christmas wreaths at the ends. The fireplace was ready for a visit from St. Nick, for hanging on its mantel were the Christmas stockings, large and small.

The president, Albert Mulvey, presided over the meeting and conducted a short business session.

Once again the members relived the rejoicing of Scrooge when he discovered that it wasn't too late to celebrate Christmas Day, and to enjoy its magic and giving pleasure to others. This was read by Ethel Horton, as part of the day's programme.

With Doris McKillop at the piano, Douglas Bolton led in the familiar Christmas carols.

Two gaily wrapped Christmas parcels were claimed by Muriel Andrews around the circle. When the music stopped whoever held the parcel took off one of its many wrappings. All began to think that the parcels were all wrapping paper. Then a contest to test the knowledge of the streets of Belleville was given.

Jingle; Hurrah! the arrival of Jolly Santa Claus aroused the curiosity of all as to the parcels on the tree.

Red candles and birch logs centred the tea table with the poinsettia circle. Delicious refreshments were served by Helen Roland and her committee and closed a very pleasant evening of fun.

Says Women's Organizations Bring Results

Toronto, Dec. 8. (CP)—The vice-chairman of the Ontario Liquor Control Board said Sunday night that a ban on the indiscriminate issuing of cocktail bar licenses in Toronto was the direct result of organized opposition by the Ontario Provincial Council of Women and other temperance organizations.

Major the Rev. John Foote, V.C., who recently returned from a tour of Europe to investigate drinking habits there, told a United Church audience that many of the recommendations made at a women's mass meeting last month had already been acted on by the provincial government.

In a talk on the "liquor problem", Major Foote said other recommendations presented to the provincial government by the women's groups were receiving top cabinet consideration.

Ladies Auxiliary Presents $500 Cheque to Aid Kiwanis Work

The Kiwanis Ladies Auxiliary met at the Kiwanis Centre on Thursday evening and had as guests the members of the Kiwanis Club. There was a splendid attendance and it proved to be one of the most enjoyable meetings in some time.

President Hazel Saragar capably presided during the business part of the meeting.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of a cheque for $500 to the Kiwanis Club from the Ladies Auxiliary. Before presenting the cheque Mrs. Saragar likened the Kiwanis Club to a "magic carpet" which would carry people across many distances and over many obstacles, the idea that the secret of a fine carpet is in the weaving. So in the Kiwanis movement the imaginative threads are the constitutional objects of Kiwanis and the threads woven across are the activities of the club. The very fine threads of which it takes many to make the carpet are the activities of the individual clubs.

Many Projects

The activities of the Belleville Club such as sponsoring the V. O. N., supervising the playgrounds, the Fresh Air Camp, the Hobbycraft, the Key Club and various other projects are the numerous threads which together help to make the huge carpet. Kiwanis in doing this are not forgetting to promote always the idea of better citizenship by training the children of today, moulding their lives and character so that they will be the better citizens of tomorrow.

In presenting the cheque to president of Kiwania, Norm Edwards, Mrs. Saragar stated that the Ladies Auxiliary is anxious to assist in this great and noble work.

Mr. Edwards expressed the club's thanks to the Auxiliary for this fine gesture and wished them continued success.

The Auxiliary also presented a coffee urn to the Kiwanis Club to be used at the centre.

Variety Program

The entertainment for the evening was in charge of Kathleen Craig and Vera McIntosh and their committee.

Tillie Bonn was appointed Sergeant-at-Arms.

Harold Carruthers led in community singing assisted by Riggs at the piano.

A ladies' chorus consisting of Mrs. Carruthers, Mary Grace Carruthers, Laura Hyde, Mildred Stanton and Irma Reid entertained with a timely number. They were challenged by a velvet of men consisting of Vic White, Dick Kuntze, Taylor Franklin, Ken Graham, Mark Vanzeer and Shell Eaton.

After carol singing the ladies staged a fashion show with Flossie Smith as commentator and Jean Riley as pianist. Those taking part were Vi Kuntze, Nita Cowan, Gwen White, Vilma Logan, Joan Pryke, Marjorie Davieson, Bessie Marsh, Winnie Quincey, Linda White, Vilma Houston and Carm Mott. The judges who were the directors of the Kiwania Club awarded the prizes to Carm Mott and Chris Bonn. Mrs. Adams presented the favors to all those taking part.

Dancing was the order for the remainder of the evening with Ted Schwab as master of ceremonies assisted by Vi and Vilma Kuntze. The eliminati-on dance was won by Jacombe Bolt and Bill Bateman and the spot dance by Jean Maund and Norm. Edwards. Mrs. Ted Adams was the lucky winner of the door prize. Refreshments were served by Margaret Black and her committee.

FOXBORO M. B.

Mission Band was held on Wednesday, after four o'clock in the S. S. rooms with an attendance of 18. The meeting, which was in charge of Carol Stewart, and Joan Royals, as secretary, opened with the Mission Band Purpose and a Christmas hymn "Away in a Manger."

Marie Royals read the Scripture lesson, and Shirley Kilpatrick gave a reading. Ronald Bamber received the offering, which was dedicated by Carol Stewart. It was decided to hold a Christmas party on December 19th.

A chapter on the Study Book, "One Street Village" was given by Mrs. Carmen Bamber. The singing of "Silent Night" closed the meeting.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about Food ... What's Cooking?

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

Cookies are an old time brain food.

Eating them won't raise your I.Q. very noticeably, but it's well to remember that children used to be taught the alphabet and numerals with gingerbread cookies shaped like letters and numbers.

Samuel Johnson, English wit and dictionary writer, said that he did his best work when a jar of cookies was nearby.

In the period between Thanksgiving and Christmas more cookie jars are filled than at any other time.

To keep cookies properly stored, put them in closed cans or jars with wax paper in between layers to keep them from crumbling.

Cookies made with mince meat have all the lively spice and rich dark flavor which is typical of holiday baking. You can substitute mince meat for raisins in most cookie recipes; you should make allowance, however, for the added moisture of mince meat and use more flour, if necessary, to make a batter of the right consistency.

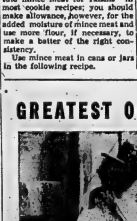
Use mince meat in cans or jars in the following recipe.

Mince Meat Cookies. Makes 32.

Set oven at 375 degrees. Grease a cookie sheet.

Cream 1-3 cup shortening, that is, work with the back of a spoon against the side of a mixing bowl until shortening is free of lumps. Vegetable shortening kept at room temperature will require no creaming.

Gradually add 3-4 cup brown sugar firmly packed when measured. Beat until light and fluffy. Add 1 egg, blending very well.



Sift together 1 cup pre-sifted all-purpose flour, 3-4 teaspoon baking soda, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon ground mace and 1-2 teaspoon salt.

Add dry ingredients to the sugar egg mixture. Add 1-2 cup of mincemeat and 1-2 cup chopped pecans, or almonds.

Drop mixture by teaspoons onto cookie sheet. Bake 12-15 minutes. Cool and store.

Do you want a particular recipe, or have you a cooking problem? Write Mario, care this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope for his reply.—Ed.

Most unusual sight in the quietly beautiful city of Victoria is, of all things, a robin's nest. It's a very special nest. Fact is, when the new Christ Church Cathedral was being erected, a robin made a nest in the structure.

The workmen did not disturb the nest while the parent robins reared their family. Later, a plasterer sealed around the nest with plaster and a Victoria craftsman carved out an artificial robin which has been hooked to the edge of the nest.

Now, when you enter theon Times have changed. Nowadays, even the Fourth Estate Cathedral, you can see the robin day, it's not a problem of growand her nest still at the top of the ing old "financially," but of growsecond pillar of the south side of ing old "financially."

the nave. This, in memory of one of God's courageous feathered families — a constant symbol of the mystery of life. What a magnificent, monument to grace this sacred house of worship.

Whenever Victoria people want to honor some visiting Royalty, or when you, even the Fourth Estate, they light up their beautiful Parliament Buildings. The lights are fitted out with electric bulbs in such a way as to outline their entire contour — the domes, the windows, the doorways . . . when done, are outlined with a single thread of white light. It's a spectacular sight whether you're looking in toward Victoria or out to sea where the reflection is unique.

2,800 Children Placed For Adoption in Canada Outside of Social Agencies

Montreal, Dec. 8 (CP)—Approximately 2,800 children were placed for adoption during the past year through other than recognized social agencies, a meeting of the Child Welfare Division, Canadian Welfare Council, was told today.

These findings were brought out in a report on the Division's Adoption Committee, presented by Mrs. E. D. Fulton, of Ottawa and Vancouver, B.C., and Mrs. N. B. McCrea, of Montreal.

The report, which disclosed the result of a questionnaire sent to government and non-government child-caring agencies in all provinces except Newfoundland, was described by Phyllis Burns of Ottawa, secretary of the Division, as "by far the most complete picture of adoption in Canada that has ever been compiled."

Ninety-four agencies replied to the questionnaires which the committee distributed. They provided information for the first statistical year—in most cases 1948—and covering adoption placements of 5,886 children. Interviews with 14,610 unmarried mothers; applications for children to adopt by 7,163 couples, The agencies reported that of the 14,610 unmarried mothers with whom they worked, 8,403 gave birth to children during the year. Of this total, 4,084 surrendered their children for adoption, 1,437 asked for boarding-home care, 2,882 made plans apart from agencies.

The report found the latter figure significant, as it was from this group that most private (not through a recognized social agency) placement are made."

However, it also included mothers who kept their children or placed them through relatives, or in institutions. The report estimated that private placements —through doctors, lawyers, and others, and by parents directly, would be "around 2,800 children."

The report found that 2,085 unmarried fathers participated in the planning for their infants. Of these more than 1,000 contributed financially.

Inquiry found that as there are not enough children available for adoption, about half the agencies do not place a child in a family where there already are children. Childless couples get first choice.

MADOC

New President C. J. Rose

Madoc—On Tuesday evening a meeting of the members of Madoc Community Club was held in the council chambers with the president E. T. Naylor in the chair. After a long discussion, it was decided to turn over to the Legion building fund, about $70 of their funds, that had been in the bank. The piano, which had been used by the Women's Club during the past year is being loaned to the Madoc Public School Board to be used in the school.

The members then appointed Reeve Jack Kincaid, as chairman to conduct the election of officers for the year, resulting in the following being elected: President C. J. Rose; secretary, Percy Gunn and treasurer T. H. Rupert.

The following officers were:

Wor. Mistress, Annie Holland; Deputy Mistress, Ethel Adams; Junior Deputy Mistress, Alma Adams; chaplain, Alice Maynard; recording secretary, Lucy Phillips; financial secretary, Thelma Wright; treasurer, Claudine Brady; guardian, Minnie Nicholls; director of ceremonies, Edna Hearns; lecturer, Beatrice Adams; lecturer Beatrice Adams guard, Elizabeth Adams.

Committee: Ruby Holland, Millie Baumbour; Bertha Ray and Gladys Ash.

Refreshments were served by the Star of the East members. Regular meeting will be held the third Thursday of each month.

Installing Team Entertained

Sister Hilda McGowan, D.D.P. of Belleville, District No. 4, entertained her installing team to a delightful supper and social evening at her home on Monday evening. Those present were Sisters Elsie Tufts, Hazel Johnson, Ruby Brady, Myrtle Lough, Edith Hatch, Verna Cassidy, Elizabeth Parks, Edna Reed, Greta Creasey, Keitha Holland, Lavina Farrow, Molly Haggard, Marion Alway, Lily, Norma Stickwood, Sisters Lole Fraser and Nina Embury were unable to attend on account of illness. After supper, Sister Mabel Gray of Parham conducted several contests, after which Sister McGowan presented each of the officers with a silver coffee spoon.

She also expressed her appreciation to her officers for the fine co-operation during their visits to the various lodges. Sister Blakely was presented with one half dozen spoons in appreciation for acting as Deputy Marshal. The installing team presented Sisters Lola Fraser and Marion Blakely with cups and saucers. The singing of "For They are Jolly Good Fellows" concluded a very pleasant evening spent together.

Engagement to be Announced At Sunday Tea-Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) My question concerns the announcement of the engagement of our daughter. We now live in this small community, which is about 20 miles from a large city where we used to live and where most of our friends live. Would it be correct for us to give an informal tea on a Sunday afternoon, say from 3 o'clock, to announce the engagement of our daughter? (2) If so, what to serve. . . small sandwiches, cakes, and what else? (3) How would I word the invitations?

R. D.

(1) Yes indeed . . . this is a delightful kind of party to announce the engagement of your daughter, entirely simple, friendly gatherings to tell this happy news are generally the most enjoyable! And I should think that the day and hours you have chosen would be particularly convenient for the friends who live in the quite-nearby city. (2) Yes, small sandwiches with simple fillings, perhaps made of various kinds of breads; small cakes; supplemented by interesting cookies; such food-accessories as heated potato chips (they now come in several flavors), popcorn, salted nuts, mints or other candies, and so forth; tea and/or coffee, with fruit punch or other cold drink for the drinking of the toasts. (3) For the invitations, write on your visiting-cards or the informals of informals (either engraved with your name and address, or on plain informals and write your name and address on the first page):

Tea
Sunday, December 18th
4 to 7 o'clock

Or on semi-note paper, write: Dear Elizabeth,

All of us here hope that you and Bill will come to a little tea-party here on Sunday, December 18th, from four to seven o'clock. Do say "Yes"!

Cordially,

Quick Change Tucks

By ALICE ALDEN

Well selected accessories enable a small wardrobe to put on quite a show. Here's a smart but plain little black jersey frock that would be right for the office and acquires after-five glitter by the addition of Coro's new Criss Cross places. Loops of gold criss cross a medallion of blue enamel studded with tiny rhinestones in checkerboard design. A matching bracelet, earrings, and a jeweled turtle complete the set.

British Plastics Fill Many Needs in Post-War Home

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, — (CP) — British women have become plastic-conscious.

More and better plastics in all kinds of household articles are finding a ready market in Britain. Sometimes they take the place of pre-war articles still in export only at other times they break new ground.

Take the place of china gone overseas are the tea, dinner and coffee set made in attractive opaque or transparent, pastel-shaded plastic.

Because these are so much more attractive than the heavy utility china allowed for the home market, they are becoming increasingly popular. But, according to shoppers, the one plastic product that will have a short life when good china returns to the home market. Every china export reject appearing in the stores is snapped up in a hurry.

Breaking new ground are the new sets of attractively-designed plastic cocktail shakers with glasses to match. Because of the propensity cocktail glasses have of getting broken, this product is making a place for itself—especially in the long-stemmed variety.

Another new product is the durable sheet of plastic-veneered plywood or stiff hardboard-type board that can be put to many uses. Two of its uses are for use in kitchen table and the draining board.

Fireproof, Washable

The sheeting is pastel-color, washable, heat-proof and fire-proof. A lighted cigaret can be left to burn out leaving only a brown mark that can be washed off.

It is especially useful because hot pots and pans can be set down on it without danger of leaving a heat ring.

There are many attractive plastic curtain materials that can be washed like any other material.

Popular for furniture is the plastic that looks like a good-quality leather. It is hard-wearing and washable, which makes it especially suitable for nursery furniture.

Plastic wallpapers — although still expensive—are finding a market because they are durable and washable. Plastic floor-covering has proved successful.

A new product with a big future, in this country of outside plumbing, is plastic pipe for cold water only. It will not burst in cold weather and has been successfully tested for a year.

Thank-You Card

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Whose name is signed on a thank-you card for a baby's gift.

A new mother.

You should not send a printed thank-you card for a gift . . . any kind of gift. Show that you have proper appreciation of the kind sense and generosity of a relative or friend by writing a friendly little note of thanks. And sign the note with your name.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Don't Get Old Before Your Time

It's perfectly true that people get old and ill, but sometimes I think they get that way, or think they have, before they really need to. In other words, they creep their own style and put themselves on the shelf too soon, by thinking of themselves as advanced in years, and from such a little gumption would keep them active and happy for years to come.

A woman of 54, who writes that she is "a very unhappy person" is a case in point.

It is true enough that she has reason to be unhappy. After 22 years of comfortable and satisfactory married life, things began to go badly. Her husband lost his job, became interested in another woman and the marriage ended in a legal separation. Under the separation agreement her husband was supposed to pay her $35 a week, but because he has no job he cannot give her any money. She herself lives with married daughter, her only child, where she had expected to have security and the kind of finished basement of the house. But because the basement is not quite ready for her she sleeps in a room with her two-year-old grandson.

"I have to work all day, and all I get for it is my room and board," she says. "My daughter loves me, but can't afford to give me any money, so here I am with no privacy, no money for my personal expenses and unable to solve my problems.

"It is not easy to find work. You need expensive dress for everything, and when you haven't worked for thirty-five years you just don't know what to do. Housework? It's hard to work for others, too much work and I am not strong.

"I am so tired of suffering. Can anyone suggest anything, any work I could do or any place I could go where work could be happy? I have forgotten how it feels to be satisfied and glad to be alive."

The first thing I would like to remind this woman is that it is not by any means too old to be independent if the will is there. She says she is not strong. But again, if she really had the will, it might be perfectly possible for her to improve her health.

She says she cannot get work because she has no experience that she can offer to any prospective employer. Well, she knows that many large department stores — and there are large department stores within easy reach of where this woman lives — are glad to take inexperienced women for and train them as sales girls! Right now, in this pre-Christmas shopping rush, stores are looking for extra sales people. If she had the initiative to pull herself together and go into the big city near which she lives, she could undoubtedly find herself a selling job which would give her some pin money at least, and it might be an opening to more permanent work.

What obstacles could there be to prevent her from doing this, if she really wished to? Her age? The stores are eager for extra sales help in this period that they are taking on women of all ages. Her health? The regular hours that she would have to keep might actually improve her health, and even though she did come home tired out at night, the

Pakistan Family Finds New Home Full of Wonders

Ottawa, — (CP) —She is so eager to find out more about Canada, that the Begum Mohammed Ali has quite forgotten to be lonely for her faraway homeland.

"I have much to learn about your country." The tiny dark-haired wife of Pakistan's high commissioner to Canada spread her arms to indicate the amount. "There are so many things that are new to me."

To date this quiet-spoken, but enthusiastic young woman hasn't done badly. In the few weeks since she accompanied her husband to his new appointment in Ottawa, the Begum has done a bit of travelling—chiefly in southwestern Ontario and to Niagara Falls, which, she exclaims, is one of the finest sights she has ever come across.

In addition she has seen some football and hockey and has come to the conclusion that she prefers the latter.

"It is fast," she said. Her brown eyes sparkled and she recalled how "very exciting" she had found her first hockey game.

Canadian football was not at all like the football played in Pakistan. "What you call 'soccer' is more like our football," she explained.

The interview with the high commissioner's wife took place in the pleasant drawing-room of the Pakistan residence in suburban Rockcliffe, a room furnished in bright colors and along modern lines. Distance and difficulty travel has not made it feasible for Mrs. Ali to bring many of her own furnishings to this country.

Home is Colorful

Yellow curtains create an effect of sunshine in this room, even in the dullest weather. The carpet is of soft green—the Begum's favorite shade, not necessarily because it is the Pakistan color, but because it has so many beautiful tones.

The conversation turned to the Canadian climate and Mrs. Ali recalled how surprised she was upon arriving here last summer to find the weather exactly as it was at home.

But temperatures in Pakistan don't drop below 45 degrees at any time during the winter and she is prepared for a colder season in Canada. In fact she is even looking forward to it with interest.

However, not any more so than her two young sons, 11-year-old Hammad, and nine-year-old Hamida.

"Early every morning they come running to me and say 'Mummy, will there be any snow today' She laughed. "You know they have never seen snow before and they are looking forward to it."

The boys are rapidly falling into Canadian ways. They attend Ashbury College, a boys' private school in Ottawa, and already have picked up several new games. Both have cowboy suits, and are learning to "twist" their toy guns, western style.

The Begum raised her hands from the folds of the pastel-toned sari she wore, and attempted to imitate their motion. "It seems a very popular game in your country—this game of cowboys," she said.

Polish Veterans in Fashion News of Fine Leatherwork

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Candian Press Staff Writer)

London, (CP) — "Little Warsaw," as London's Earls Court district is called by its residents, can vie with Paris and New York in the design and quality of its fashion accessories.

Its fame began about a year ago when some disabled Polish war veterans banded together under the leadership of Mrs. Bogna Szymanska, a fellow-countrywoman.

With her flair for design, she patterns all the latest fashion whims and the veterans turn out the handmade accessories in a well below most retail prices.

There are bags, gloves, shoes, belts, slippers and other leather goods. Also produced are handwoven materials, woolens and fancy jewelry.

Everything is individually designed and anything can be made to order to customers' requirements. Example: Red snakeskin bag, gloves, shoes, and belt to match would be turned out at less than £20 ($62) for a completely hand-made set.

More than 100 belt designs and dozens of novel handbags similar to recent Paris designs were shown at a recent exhibition and sale of work by Disabled Ex-servicemen—an organization whose patrons are the King and Queen.

"Because we have no overhead expenses and are able to buy up odd sackloads of leather and skins, our prices can be kept much lower than those of the average manufacturer," says Mrs. Szymanska, who sells the goods in her tiny shop.

Shop Space Free

This little shop with a window on Brompton Road, Knightsbridge is a corner of the famous Lord Roberts Workshops. The workshops provide accommodation, free of charge, for ex-service folk's goods made by all disabled ex-servicemen.

Twenty-six-year-old Mrs. Szymanska, a Polish refugee who left her native land at the end of the German invasion, spent the rest of the war in Britain raising a family and attending Cambridge University. Already an economist and political science graduate in Paris it was her intention to fit herself for diplomatic service in her own country.

When the end of the war brought this plan no nearer possibility Mrs. Szymanska started fashion designing. It was in this work that the plight of the disabled Polish veterans came to her notice.

She is now a voluntary, unpaid worker on their behalf and a happy and-busy woman. Her dearest wish is to find sufficient market for her goods to keep the men working the year round. She is trying to find export their production to North America.

A new line which was started for a United States buyer is an exquisite selection of baby dolls from the fairy tales. There is everything from gnomes and leprechauns to Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, Cinderella and the Wicked Sisters.

The dolls are made in chamois leather with special stuffing and paint to give an appearance of a rough, realistically tinted clay They are dressed with intricate

MORE SWITCHBOARDS give Belleville better Long Distance Service

Two new Long Distance switchboards have been installed in our Belleville telephone exchange during the past few weeks, to keep pace with the rapid increase in the use of Long Distance service.

Since 1945, Long Distance telephone calls to and from Belleville have grown by more than 50% in number. Three switchboards were added in 1947, and the two new switchboards now in operation are another step toward faster service.

The expansion and improvement of Long Distance is part of our continuing program designed to increase the value of your telephone and to give you more and better service.

St. Andrew's Day Celebrated by Supper, Scotch Program

White's District—One group of White's W.A. ladies under the capable leadership of Mrs. Lorne Hunt, Mrs. Frank Vanderzook, Mrs. Floyd Dudley, and the President, Mrs. Glen Meyers, put on a supper at White's Church on Wednesday evening.

Visitors were present from Wooler, Belleville, Trenton, Johnstown, Centenary, Aikens' district, and the surrounding district. The ladies cleared nearly $100. Thanks go to the young people who so capably assisted in the serving and the ladies of the community who helped with the cooking.

Following the supper, a Scotch program in keeping with Bobby Burns' night, was much enjoyed and the chairman, the Rev. A. C. McCallum, a native of Scotland, related a few Scotch histories, and why St. Andrew is remembered. Mr. Douglas Burns, of Belleville, gave two selections on the bagpipes, which was much appreciated. Miss Barbara Christopher, of Bayside School, sang "The Hop-Scotch Polka" accompanied by Mrs. Floyd Dudley; Master Bruce Hunt of Bayside School favoured with a piano solo and little Miss Gail Lohnes sang the "ABC Song", accompanied by Mrs. Alex Vanderwoerd, both of Johnstown.

Mrs. Hill of King Street Church in Trenton, produced gales of laughter with her renditions of "The Village Choir", and "The Presbyterian Minister". Mr. Pat Whaley of Wooler, with his accordion played "MacNamara's Band" and "Sault City Sioux", joined by the audience. Mr. Douglas Burns again favored with a bagpipe selection. Sheila Moore of Bayside, accompanied by Mrs. Dudley, gave a violin solo, and Miss Joan Cattery of Aikens' Church sang "Flow Gently Sweet Afton". Misses Gail Lohnes and Mary Rubick of Johnstown rendered "Forever and Forever", accompanied by Mrs. Alex. Vanderwoert while Mrs. Hill again favored with a Christmas reading "Oil on Troubled Waters".

Mr. Pat Whaley played "Irish Lullaby", "Annie Laurie", and "The Old Rugged Cross" on his accordion with the audience joining in.

The President, Mrs. Glen Meyers, thanked all who had helped to make the evening such a fine success.

Inflammable Toys Ordered From Sales Counters

Toronto, Dec. 2. (CP)— Fire bureau officials today ordered Toronto stores to remove a large number of highly inflammable toys from their sales counters.

The toys imported from Japan were said by the officials to be made of nitrocellulose composition and likely to burn with a burst of flame if they come near a flame or other heat.

The bureau's action follows an investigation of certain stores and warehouses. Similar action was taken a year ago against dolls held together by a highly in-

PARRAKEET MISTAKES GARAGE FOR HOME

Toronto, Dec. 5 — (CP) — A white parrakeet missing from the Riverdale zoo since last September mistook an open garage door for its home Sunday and flew back into captivity. The bird was turned over to the Humane Society by the owner of the garage.

Flood waters on the west coast have washed out bridges, railway tracks, roads, telegraph poles and home foundations. Weary workers in the Vancouver area, repairing public facilities caused by last week's storm and flood, are faced with a prodigious task. Here, the eastbound C.P.R. train lies on its side two miles east of Penticton, after being toppled by a washed-out section of the roadbed.—Central Press Canadian.

Prominent Surgeon Dies at Edmonton

Edmonton, Dec. 5 — (CP)—Dr. W. Fulton Gillespie, 57, prominent Canadian surgeon and 1941 president of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada, died Sunday. Born in Manilla, Ont., he received his early education in Lindsay, before moving to Edmonton in 1906. He is survived by his widow, the former Ethel Cory of Trenton, Ont., three children and one sister.

CO-DISCOVERER OF TECK – HUGHES DIES

Toronto, Dec. 5 — (CP)—Edward Chappel, 70, co-discoverer of the Teck-Hughes gold mine at Kirkland Lake, Ont., died at his home here today of a heart attack.

One of the earliest pioneer prospectors of the Ontario and Quebec northland, he was active for 40 years in the mining fields. He preferred to be called "Chappie."

R. F. Tardy, his solicitor, recalled today that "Chappie" always used to tell him that he hoped he would die with his boots on.

RECLUSE'S DEATH REVEALS FORTUNE

An unestimated hoard in diamonds is scattered among hundreds of other jewels discovered in the false bottom of a trunk in the crumbling mansion of Mrs. Linda Belle Titus Knox, 94, who died in Chicago. Investigators found more than a million dollars worth of jewelry, paintings, chinaware and other valuable objects in the 20-dust-filled rooms. Mrs. Knox had been a collector of antiques.—Central Press Canadian.

Bodmin, Cornwall, England—Judge Scobell Armstrong dismissed a divorce petition saying that after all, a man should consider the faults of his wife-to-be before their marriage.

"A wife with a rasping voice," he told William Trembath, "may in time send her husband to bedlam. But he heard her voice in the courting days and chose her despite it.

"She cannot help her voice, or be expected to assume the perfect silence of the trappist."

To Trembath's plea that his wife's dirty habits endangered his health, the judge repealed the moral.

"A woman who is by habit and nature untidy will remain so. A woman who is by habit and nature dirty will remain so."

He didn't think this case amounted to knowing indulgence in filth simply to injure a fastidious husband's health.

"And by the way," concluded his lordship, "this is the first defended case to come before the divorce court of this country in which cruelty alleged has consisted of infection by lice."

Prince Frederick, Md.—Two prisoners escaped from the Calvert County jail Saturday night by pounding a hole through the wall of their cell with an ax.

But the alarm hardly had been spread before they crawled back in again.

"Too cold out there," they explained.

Frankfurt, Germany—Do you want to spend Christmas alone? A Frankfurt newspaper set out Sunday to make sure thousands of unmarried Germans won't do so. It published two full pages of "marriage ads."

"Old prejudices are forgotten", the Frankfurt Abendpost announced. "We present our readers these pages with our best wishes."

It carried 220 ads, and said it had hundreds more on hand for daily publication.

"Lover, where are you?" asked a 23-year-old, six foot tall salesman who said he was looking for a comely young lady to marry.

There are 16 women to every 10 men in Germany, but 165 of the advertisers were men.

The average age of the women advertising was 40.

BORN WITH TWO FRONT TEETH

Richmond Hill, Dec. 5 — (CP) — A baby girl was born with what appears to be two front teeth in a nursing home near here. Now 13 days old, Linda Susan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Burns, was examined by Dr. W. Rose, who took x-rays of the baby's mouth.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Those of your guys and gals who have voted and want to put in a couple of hours before hearing the news that your favorite aspirant for mayoral or aldermanic honours has been elected, or vice versa, should trip down to Memorial Arena tonight where the Belleville Diesel Electrics and Peterborough Lions meet in Senior "B" combat. A tidy tussle awaits you, m'lads, and don't say you weren't warned about the business.

* * *

These pesky Peterborough Legionaires made it plenty tough for our prides last season and they've been raising ruckuses in and about the loop this year. It is the first time the clans meet, and from pre-season talk, these guys from the jungles of the Kawartha are some punkins with a shinny stick and a puck. True, they met defeat at the hands of their arch rivals from their own village, but that was an exhibition affair, where Connie Koe wasn't going to step on Connie Bill's tootsies and disable him so he couldn't play in the six Bill's tootsies and disable him so he couldn't play in the more important clubs — down Senior "B" shrine. Don't be misled by exhibition game scores. Look what our prides did to the Peterborough Petes, and look what happened when the teams met in the money series.

So if you can take the mind off who's going to be the chairman of public works next year, or if you're not overanxious about election results, you'll get them in plenty of time anyway, his yearself down to Memorial Arena and watch these Senior "B" squads in action. The fire and fury of election will be over and all results known by the time the referee's whistle toots "Taps" so you won't miss a thing.

* * *

Those of you fellas out there who did not think that the kids of this village are interested in hockey should have been at Memorial Arena Saturday morning. For those of us who believe that the hoppers should be given every opportunity to play their favorite winter sport, and who were there, it was a heart-warming sight. Cliff "Doller" Lloyd, Don Barrett, Deo Stanton, Dan Cowley, Walter Gerow, Claire Williamson, Speedy St. Louis and a lot of oldtimers we didn't know got a tremendous "kick" out of the affair.

* * *

Upwards of two hundred kiddies, starry-eyed, excited, enthusiasm sometimes getting the better part of them were there trying to make one of the four teams which will comprise the Belleville Service Club Hockey league. Thanks to the grand fellows of those outlets and sources of community service the Rotary, Kinsmen, Kiwanis, and Optimists of the service clubs this grand thing has been made possible. Under the supervision of the Belleville Hockey Association who has undertaken the administration of this league, those youngsters will get every chance and opportunity to develop what hockey talents they possess.

* * *

And there were some disappointed kids there too. The bantam age is under fourteen, not "fourteen and under" and as the latter was generally understood by the moppets to be the case a large number of 14 and up lads turned out, only to be disappointed. Then there were several youngsters scarcely out of their diapers, one seven-year-old included turned out for the test. These too, were turned down because of tender years, but it is to be hoped that something can be done for their hockey welfare and future. There's enough midgets in town, or at least kids of midget age, to form a four-team group. Maybe, if the task is not too weighty the Belleville Hockey Association could do something about it.

In any event the coaches of the four teams in the Belleville Service Club Bantam League sponsored by the Rotary, Kinsmen, Kiwanis and Optimist clubs had a very busy morning trying to separate some of the hockey wheat from the tare. Don Barrett, Dan Cowley, Claire Williamson and Deo Stanton, centre ice star of the Rockets Juniors, will assemble their proteges, the Black Hawks, Maple Leafs, Canadiens and Red Wings again next Saturday morning starting at 8:30 in an effort to get things organized. It is not likely the league will get into active operation for a couple or three weeks.

Dan Cowley's squad and that coached by Don Hogan are requested to report at the Arena next Saturday at 8:30 a. m. while those coached by Barrett and Williamson are requested to be on hand at 9:30. The staggering of hours will relieve the player congestion on the ice and give the various coaches a better chance to size up and select their players.

* * *

Fifteen players will be selected for each squad and each player will be chosen strictly on his merits. At the end of the schedule season and playoffs, an all-star aggregation will be chosen from the league teams which will represent the city in the Bantam "A" Ontario Minor Hockey Association playdowns. Rumor has it that yours truly has been or will be named convener of minor hockey in the city, and if such is the case we'll have something more to say about that in the future.

* * *

The four teams will wear the same color sweaters as the National Hockey League bantam and midget clubs have adopted. Sweaters and socks will be furnished free to the players, while The Ontario Minor Hockey Association will furnish a dozen or so hockey sticks free to each club. It is the association's policy to present sticks to every new minor league entry.

* * *

"Beller" Lloyd told us Saturday morning that the bantam loop will need competent referees, who are willing to donate their services free to the kids' cause. Surely there are enough senior or higher bracket players who would be willing to go down to the Arena for an hour or so Saturday mornings and give the boys a hand. The league, the sponsors and the players themselves will appreciate any assistance along the refereeing line from competent men in the city.

* * *

Those rampaging but luckless Sixardee Tigers, who have been basking in the frowns of Lady Luck all season face an important task in the District Hockey League tomorrow night when they meet Rockets Juniors in the curtain raiser of the regular Tuesday doubleheader. Tigers have yet to win a game while Juniors have won one and with the Tigers have tied one. Sixardees must win tomorrow night to grab that playoff spot and then they can only tie the Rockets who play their last game of the schedule against CNR Diesels on Thursday. Looks rather hopeless for Tigers since goals for and against are the deciding factors in teams tied in the final standing, unless Diesels swamp the kids under a heavy score on Thursday. In the second game RCAF Flyers, now in second place meet the Diesels tomorrow night in another important tilt.

Canadiens Beaten Twice, But Toronto Emerges From Slump With Two Victories

By HARRY ECCLES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal Canadiens' Coach Dick Irvin may be wondering today if he could use the same tactics that Conn Smythe of the Toronto Maple Leafs used with such good results.

While the Leafs came out of their slump with a bang, following Smythe's blasts at overweight and temporary benching of veteran goalie Turk Broda, the Montrealers are not getting any better.

Canadiens a week ago were on their way to challenging Detroit Red Wings for leadership of the National Hockey League, but today the Canadiens are tied with Toronto for second place, each 11 points back of the Red Wings.

And the rest of the league is practically breathing down the necks of the two second-place teams. Chicago is two points farther back. In fourth place is fifth-place Boston another point away and New York Rangers the last position, only a point below them. Four points separate the tail-enders from the second-place teams.

Toronto and Boston were the only squads winning a full four points in the weekend games. Saturday Leafs blasted Rangers 7-0, ending a stretch of seven games in which Leafs lost six and tied one. Detroit beat Canadiens 5-3 and Boston beat Chicago 3-3. Sunday the Leafs edged Detroit 2-1, Canadiens lost 4-2 at Boston and New York blanked Chicago 4-0.

Record Crowd

A record crowd of 14,511 in the Montreal Forum saw the Canadiens beaten in the late stages by Detroit Saturday night. Canadiens couldn't hold the big line of Sid Abel, Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay. Abel and Howe each scored two goals, Jimmy Peters getting the other. Elmer Lach, Maurice Richard and Calum MacKay scored for Canadiens. The teams were tied 1-1 at the end of the second period and still tied 3-3 with less than five minutes to go in the last frame, when Howe got his pair.

At Boston last night the Canadiens led 2-1 in the first period but they were on the wrong end of a 2-2 count at the end of the second and Boston scored the only goal of the finale. Pete Horeck scored two for Boston, Creighton and Peirson getting the assists. Leo Gravelle and Maurice Richard scored for Montreal in the first period and no Canadien beat Jack Gellneau in the Boston goal after that. Bruins played without Captain Milt Schmidt, whose old knee injury had been aggravated in Saturday night's game.

Joe Klukay scored both Toronto goals as the Leafs beat Detroit last night. Ted Lindsay scored the only Detroit goal, as Walter Broda barely missed his record straight shut-out. Lindsay's goal was the only score in the first period that saw 11 penalties including a 15-minute misconduct to Bill Ezinicki, who protested too vigorously over a charging penalty he got for mixing it with Detroit's Gord Howe.

Klukay Got Winner

Klukay tied it up in the second period and his winning goal came in the last three minutes of the final frame, a close-in shot.

Broda got back to his cage at Toronto Saturday and turned in his fourth shut-out of the season as the Leafs beat New York. Max Bentley and Bill Ezinicki did the scoring, but the crowd gave most of its attention to the pudge goalie who had reduced to style 180 pounds, eight below his mark last Tuesday when he was benched for overweight.

The defeat at Boston Saturday was the first for Chicago in five starts and Boston launched all their scoring in the final frame. Johnny Peirson, Paul Ronty, Ed Harrison, Milt Schmidt and Dave Creighton scored for the Bruins, and Metro Phystal, Roy Conacher and Red Hamill got the Chicago markers.

On Sunday at New York the Hawks were the victims of the first shut-out recorded this season by goalie Claude Rayner of the Rangers, Little Dunc Fisher opened the scoring and Norman Polle made it 2-0. In the second period Pentti Lund, a year ago the rookie of the season, faked Brimrek out of his cage and scored a clean shot. Big Slowinski got the other.

Next game come Wednesday, with Detroit at Boston and Chicago at New York.

Williams Puts Title on Line With Dawson

Philadelphia, Dec. 5— (AP) — Ike Williams, with everything to lose and little to gain, defends his world lightweight boxing championship fight tonight in a 15-pounder with Chicago's Enrique Dawson.

Williams is risking his crown against a boxer he already has licked twice in title matches and for a share of the cheapest priced title fight in recent years. Price for the bout is $8.50.

In previous matches between the two contestants, Williams knocked out Dawson in four and won a disputed decision. Dawson earned a draw in the other.

This may be the last time Williams defends his lightweight laurels—win, lose or draw. The Trenton, N.J., socker has had lots of trouble getting down to the 135-pound weight limit in recent bouts.

The champion is a 2-1 favorite. Ike is a sharp puncher and loves to stand toe to toe and slug it out. Not so Dawson who works close, jabs and then dances away. Dawson's style isn't exactly crowd pleasing but it has brought results for the Chicagoan.

Since taking undisputed command of the lightweights by knocking out Bob Montgomery in 1947, Williams has defended his title successfully against Enrique Bolanos twice; Beau Jack and Jesse Flores.

TIRE PRICES UP

Toronto, Dec. 5—(CP) — An average 10 per cent in the price of tires and tubes, effective Saturday, was announced today by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Canada, Ltd. C. B. Cooper, general sales manager, said the boost was due to increases in taxes, labor and material costs and freight rates and to the devaluation of the Canadian dollar.

HAD CLOSE CALL

Galt, Dec. 3 — (CP) — A local couple had a close call from asphyxiation early today. Reg. Soutar was awakened by a noise and found his wife on the floor overcome by coal gas.

He called the police and fire departments and then "passed out." Firemen used an inhalator pump for 20 minutes to revive Mr. Soutar. His wife was less seriously affected and their three children were not affected.

Two or Three Baseball Deals Are Cooking

Baltimore, Dec. 5 — (AP) — Not a single big league trade has been announced at the 45th annual major league baseball convention that opens here today, but that doesn't mean that none will be consummated.

It is almost a certainty that at least two, perhaps three, player deals of "sizable proportions" will be ready to be announced at the major league sessions in New York next week.

One concerns the world champion New York Yankees and the American league's cellar dwellers, Washington Senators. The Yankees, since the close of the 1949 season, have been toying to wrangle pitcher Ras Scarborough and first baseman Eddie Robinson away from the senators.

"They (the Yankees) cannot have Scarborough," Washington manager Bucky Harris emphasized last night. "He is not for sale or trade."

Asked whether the same applied to Robinson, Harris replied: "Well, we'd have to get some real good ball players in return."

It was learned that the Yankees had offered George Stirnweiss, reserve second baseman, and outfielder Johnny Lindell. Both are well liked by Harris but he is holding out for another player.

Make Cash Offer

New York Giants have made a cash offer to the Boston Braves for veteran second baseman Eddie Stanky. The Braves would like to have New York outfielder Willard Marshall thrown into the deal which also would transfer a Boston pitcher to the Giants.

A member of the Boston party revealed that Southworth is not including Stanky in his 1950 plans.

The third deal that may jell involves St. Louis Browns and Detroit Tigers with Brownie second baseman Gerry Priddy as the key figure.

The news that minor-league head George Trautman was too ill to preside at the convention was announced to the 2,000 delegates from the 59 minor leagues. Frank Shaughnessy of Montreal, president of the International league and head of the executive committee, will preside.

Both Marlboro Teams Continue To Lead Loops

By The Canadian Press

The Ontario Hockey Association was really popping Saturday under force of a full schedule of six games.

The favorites emerged on top in all but two contests. Toronto Marlboros, both senior and junior, continued to lead their leagues by comfortable margins. The junior Dukes rapped in three last-period goals in besting a game band of Galt Black Hawks 5-1 and the senior edition slapped down the Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen 8-1.

In other games, St. Catherines trounced St. Michael's Majors 6-3 in a Junior "A" encounter after losing to the Irish 10-2 the night before in the garden city. Windsor ran their winning streak to seven games by virtue of a 6-2 verdict over Barrie Flyers. The win kept the Spitfires within five points of Marlboros. Oshawa squeezed by Guelph 3-1 to beat the improving Biltmores and in the other senior contest, lowly Hamilton Tigers reached down in their bag of tricks and came up with the right solution to whip Owen Sound Mercurys 5-1.

Galt gave Marlboros a scare in their game. Jack Lumley gave the Hawks a one-goal lead in the first period and it looked for a while as if it might have stood up. The Dukes returned in the second with a pair of counters to go one up, Danny Lewicki and Larry Regan potting the markers.

The score remained at 2-1 until the final five minutes of play when Marlboros rapped home three tallies to salt away three points. Murray Grenke counted a fluky marker and was followed by Danny Lewicki with his second goal. Jack McKenzie notched the final counter with seconds remaining.

Started On Right Foot

Bob Hassard started the Senior Dukes off on the right foot in the Hawks' net and was a tower in the middle period. Don Baver evened it up with less than a minute remaining in the session.

Marlboros came back strong for the final frame. Howie Lee notched this icebreaker and Chuck Blair settled the issue three minutes later to give Marlboros the verdict.

St. Michael's and St. Catherines were tied 3-3 going into the final period but three markers in that frame gave Teepees a tie for third place in league standings. Leo Labine and Red Ingoldsby counted for the collegians in the first frame, while Obie O'Brien and Norm Corcoran were the Teepee marksmen.

Will Marshall scored for the Irish in the second session, Jack White turning the trick for the garden-city crew.

It was all Teepees in the last period, O'Brien clicked for two to bring his personal total to three and Buck rapped in another for insurance.

Windsor, performing for the home fans, pushed a single into the Barrie cage in the opening stanza, let Barrie take a one-goal lead in the second, and blasted in five tallies in the final.

Jack Bailey and Glen Skov were two-goal men for Spitfires while singletons were counted by Bob Rawlyk and Bob Bailey.

Warner Wins Contest

Oshawa Generals and Guelph Biltmores played a scoreless first period and split tallies in the second. Walter Clube clicked for Biltmore and Lou Jankowski potted one for Oshawa.

Gord Warner won the contest for Oshawa early in the third period to give Generals a hard-earned 2-1 victory.

Only one goal was scored in the first game of the senior encounter at Owen Sound, that by the aging Hamilton Tigers Johnny Conick, a real veteran, counted that one mid-way through the period.

Tigers ousted Mercurys 2-1 in the middle stanza, Bill Dinning getting his first for Hamilton and Jack Ingoldsby tallying the initial Owen Sound counter. Jack Taylor got the other Tiger tally.

Dinning rapped in another in the final frame and was followed by Harold Hursely with the final score.

No games are carded for the O.H.A. tonight but four games are due for presentation Tuesday. In the senior loop, Marlboros travel to Hamilton and Kitchener play at Owen Sound.

BIG SEVEN

(By The Canadian Press)

Ted Lindsay, Detroit's swivel-hipped leftwinger, fired a goal and an assist in two weekend National Hockey League games to retain a commanding lead for individual-scoring honors. With 13 goals and 17 assists for 30 points, he holds a five-point lead over teammate Sid Abel and Doug Bentley, Chicago. The Red Wings, Gordie Howe putted into third place with 23 points, one ahead of the league's top goal-getter, Maurice Richard of Montreal. Tied in fifth place, each with 21 points, are John Peirson, Boston, and Chicago's Roy Conacher.

OHA Waiver Rule Thrown Out At Annual Meet

Toronto, Dec. 5 — (CP) — A section of the Ontario Hockey Association's waiver rule has been thrown out. That was the overwhelming decision of some 200 delegates to the association's 50th annual convention here Saturday.

In winding up the meeting, the delegates, representing most O.H.A. clubs in the province, returned their 17-man executive board by acclamation and approved 20 minor changes in the league's constitution for the 1950-51 season.

The waiver rule, came up for brief, but hotly-disputed discussion Saturday when representatives of Paris, Ont., asked that a section of the rule which expired at the end of the 1948-49 season again be put in effect this season.

Delegates turned down the request. The section stipulated that any player residing in a rural district, hockey in a town or village must play with the nearest club in his own category. If the player waived he may play with a 25-mile radius of his district.

The opposing group said the section prevented some players from advancing to better clubs and limited a club to one small an area from which to pick a team—particularly in areas of Western Ontario.

Following this season's executive is James J. (Tiny) McFadyen of Galt, who was elected president for the second time. George S. Dudley of Midland is treasurer, W. J. Hewitt of Toronto is secretary and George Panter of Gravenhurst is assistant secretary.

Other members of the board include J. M. Roxburgh of Simcoe, Frank Buckland of Peterborough, Evan D. Brill of Guelph and John B. Bromley of Toronto.

29 Amendments Approved

In all, 20 of 23 minor amendments were approved by a show of hands. One of the chief issues was a ruling on what constitutes a full game, McFadyen said that in the past when games were called — particularly in the Junior "A" division — because of weather or other conditions, it involved considerable trouble to play the remaining time.

The new rule: If a referee calls a game after two periods of play it will constitute a full game for the records. If it is called off before the end of the second period it will be declared "no contest" and spectators will be given free admission to the next scheduled game.

Referees' Fees Boosted

A motion to have referees' playoff fees boosted was also approved. Referees now will get $30 and mileage for Junior "A" and Senior "A" games, $15 and mileage for Intermediate "A" and $12 and mileage for Intermediate "B". This is almost double the previous fee.

Mr. McFadyen said the association will recommend to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association in Regina in May that the Northern Ontario Hockey Association be given direct representation in the C.A.H.A. in regard to operation of Canadian intermediate playoffs.

The northern association has also been given approval, by the C.A.H.A., that the North's junior finalists play the Ottawa and district association winners before meeting the O.H.A. champions. For years the northern champions have been trounced by the O.H.A. winners.

Delegates decided to hold next year's convention on the last Saturday of April rather than in December.

Sound Financially

Mr. Dudley read the treasurer's report, which showed the O.H.A. had $21,587 on hand at Sept. 30, as compared with $29,904 for the same period the previous year. Receipts from all playoff games totalled $26,646 and annual fees were $7,467.

To celebrate its 50th consecutive season in operation, the O.H.A. donated $5,000 to Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children.

Said Mr. McFadyen:

"It's the least we can do . . . the last season has been one of the greatest in the history of the association from the point of view of interest in the game and financial returns."

The executive approved a recommendation that Angus Campbell, mining engineer from Schumacher and founder of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, be considered as an entry into Hockey's Hall of Fame. N.O.H.A. officials made the recommendation.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP

is a lot of little things

REPAIR WORN OR FAULTY STEPS

It is sometimes surprising how we neglect the most needed repairs. Take for instance porch steps or hall stairways. Constant usage can weaken supports, loosen treads, and make stairs unsafe. Yet, too often, we are unmindful of such dangers until someone gets hurt. Hospital statistics bear witness to the number of unnecessary accidents caused in the home, often by faulty steps. Prevent injury to yourself and others. Eliminate such hazards before an accident occurs. It's proof of your "Good-Citizenship".

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The stability of a bridge contract usually depends on the pair having at least half the high cards in a pack. High cards are aces, kings, queens. Of which there are a total of 12.

An opening one bidder promises at least four high cards. If his partner has less than two highs, opponents are likely to have the majority. So, partner of opener should pass with less than two.

A simple defensive overcaller may show as few as two high cards if one is a sure trick. His partner, therefore, must not place too much confidence in a trick from. They may not have enough highs.

Thus, a defensive pair reaches for a game contract with a great deal of care. Unless one of the pair shows plenty of high cards the best they can hope for is a part score.

South opens with one heart in this deal:

	NORTH
	♥ 10 9 7 3
	♦ 8 3
	♣ K 10 8 7 4 2
WEST		EAST
♠ A 10 4 3		♠ Q J 8 7 6
♥ None		♥ K Q 8 4 2
♦ A Q 6 5 4 2		♦ K 10
♣ J 5 3		♣ A 5
	SOUTH
	♠ K 9 2
	♥ A K J 5
	♦ J 9 7
	♣ Q 9

West bids two diamonds. It shows six probable tricks. He is failed to double for a takeout. It does not promise many high cards. He may have as few as two of them.

With no more than one high, North should pass. He lacks a high card of having a true responding bid. This does not mean he will always pass. Only his first response is a pass.

Though would like to show what he holds. But he should first warn partner of his high card lack. While he does with a pass. He must wait for a later round to show anything else he may hold.

East has a couple of five tricks but thus sees 11 probable in his pair. His only fear is lack of high cards between them. Not enough of these may prevent 11 tricks from making in some enough.

So east modestly bids two spades in this spot. He must await more information before high cards before attempting game. If you are a waiter, be a good one.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 5 (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor is learning that the life fo a movie star can be bitter as well as sweet.

Her education has come during the last few months. Her two "engagements" plus her other romantic didoes have made her the target of critical comments by columnists, comedians and commentators.

"If I had known it would happen like this," said the star's attractive mother, "I never would have let Elizabeth go into pictures. The situation has us so worried that we both are sick about it."

As an example, she cited a column item that Elizabeth was making a nightly spectacle while listening to crooner Vic Damone at the Mocambo.

"Why, she was only at Mocambo three times," Mrs. Taylor explained. "One night we took her there after Jane Powell's wedding. Another time she went with friends and once she saw the first show and Vic brought her home by 11:30."

She also mentioned a radio gossiper's report, which had the Taylor's scurrying to their lawyers.

"Why do they have to make up bad things about Elizabeth?" asked her mother. "She is a sweet young girl who wants everyone to love her. She isn't capable of doing anything that is mean or small."

Mrs. Taylor said movies have become too much a part of Elizabeth's life to take her from it, although the family has discussed that.

"We have even seriously considered going back to England," she said, (Elizabeth was born there to her American parents).

"Elizabeth has had offers from there and in some ways they would be attractive. In England stars can do both stage and have private lives too. The English do not print every little thing of the stars' lives and are ruled by stricter libel laws, too.

Capsule Review

"My Foolish Heart" (RKO-Goldwyn) is that rarity—a fine, well-done romance. It's a tender and original love story between a soldier (Dana Andrews) and a girl (Susan Hayward) in wartime. Director Mark Robson and realistic playing by the two leads make it a stand-out film of the year. Take along your hankies.

Taximan Held up, Robbed and Tied By Bandit Trio

Toronto, Dec. 5 (CP)—Three men, Sunday night held up a 62-year-old taxi driver, drove him through suburban streets for almost an hour, then slugged him and robbed him of $25.

The taxi driver, George Rogers said the three men, one of whom was armed, left him tied to a tree on a side road and fled in the stolen taxi. Rogers freed himself and staggered to a nearby farm house. He was taken to hospital here where he received 18 stitches to wounds in his head.

Rogers said the gunman resembled descriptions of a man wanted for questioning three months ago of Alfred Layng outside an east-central grocteria. He said the three men hailed his cab and ordered him to drive to a Clarion boulevard address. One man sat in the front seat, the others in the rear. When they reached the address the gunman struck Rogers on the back of the head with a gun he had threw him in the back of the car.

JUMPED TO DEATH

San Francisco, Dec. 5—(AP)—A well-dressed woman identified by the coroner as Mrs. Whitely Smith jumped to her death Sunday from the eighth floor of the Palace Hotel. The coroner said information received from Seattle indicated she was the divorced wife of Bill Boni, one-time Associated Press war correspondent and now a Seattle Times sports writer.

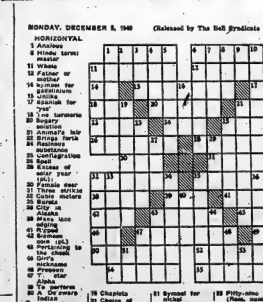
Wail, I'll admit that you can get rich without making a lot of money, and you cant make a lot of money without getting rich, pop said. The ruff outline of your plan sounds quite logical. Now the point is, is it practical? he said, and I said, Well, it's a invention I'm working on.

Well, there have been younger inventors than you, pop said. In fact a more baby invented the safety pin, indirectly, of course, he said, and I said, Everybody is always complaining how expensive it is to heat houses in winter, ant that's what the invention is about.

You intrist me strangely, pop said, and I said, The idea is to save the sun's rays in summer, when they're the hottest, and let them out in winter, in peoples houses.



Just how do you plan to save them? pop said, and I said, That's the part I'm waiting to get ideas about. How's it strike you, pop? I said.

Well now, men have failed in small ventures because they lacked vision, and others have failed in big ventures because their vision was bigger than their reach, pop said. Dont you think this project is a trifle large for you to tackle all alone? he said, and I said, But G roosalem, pop, Puds Simkins and Shorty Judge are in it with me.

Oh, that's different, pop said. Put me down for a block of stock as soon as you get it patented, he said.

Which I will.

Montreal, Dec. 5 — (CP) — The question whether schoolboys are shelving their books in favor of hockey sticks came up again here last week and, to quote Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson, "nothing hapoened."

Representatives of several Montreal schools met the heads of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association and painted the picture as alarming.

Fergie wrote that a sensible solution to the problem, "if one exists," was offered by Frank Selke, general manager of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League. Selke suggested that the hockey association and the school leaders work together. If a hockey-playing student had low marks, attributable to hockey activities, and consequent neglect of studies, his activities would be curtailed.

No action was taken at the time of the suggestion.

Continued Fergie: " . . . We do know that similar charges made in Ontario a few weeks ago, and stoutly backed by educationists and others, apparently anxious to take a fling at professional hockey, proved grossly exaggerated.

Professional hockey leaders are sound and sensible folk, jealous of the reputation of their game and its background. The laws governing affiliations in professional hockey would not permit clubs to deal with juveniles and even with those schoolboys of more advanced age. The consent of parents is absolutely necessary. hockey has paved the way for many educational opportunities and has brought boys from remote spots to attain a first-rate education while developing their hockey ability to a standard which might, later, reach N.H.L. proportions."

The Herald columnist said the Selke suggestion seems "sound and constructive." "So long as the schools and the hockey leaders work together, there will be none of the abuse feared and inaccurately pictured," Fergie wrote.

Hamilton, N.Y., Saturday night for the Red Raiders' second straight victory of the season.

Colgate was never behind and never in trouble after the first three minutes. The Raiders led 29-0 after seven minutes of play and increased this to a 50-25 halftime margin.

At Bale Switzerland, the touring Hull Volants hockey team Sunday defeated the Swiss National team, 5-3 before 11,000 fans. The Canadians topped a 1-1 tie with four goals in the final period.

University of Western Ontario Mustangs scored their first victory of the 1949-50 college basketball season Saturday night by defeating Wayne University at Detroit, 40-38.

Harry Wade, Doug Horne and Paul Thomas were major cogs in the Western drive. Thomas was the game's leading scorer with 14 points on six field goals and two foul shots.

University of Toronto took a four-point lead in the Intercollegiate water polo championship when they defeated McGill University 6-2 at Montreal Saturday.

The second game of the home-and-home total-point series will be played at Toronto next Saturday.

Executive of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association meeting at Hamilton during the weekend reported record gate receipts of $11,000 last season. Some 30,225 players were registered, with in 936 teams. George Campbell of Oshawa, president of the OASA, presided.

Ross Formally Enrolled in Hall of Fame

(By The Canadian Press)

General manager Ari Ross, who launched the Boston Bruins in the National Hockey League 26 years ago, was formally enrolled in the International Hockey Hall of Fame Saturday night.

During a ceremony before the Bruins-Chicago game at Boston Garden, Ross was presented his official membership scroll by James R. Garvin of Kingston, Ont., president of the hockey shrine.

On behalf of the N.H.L., its president, Clarence Campbell, presented Ross with a huge silver plate that bore the crests of the circuit's six clubs.

The Boston hockey public's tribute was a silver service presented by a committee of the Bruin's most rabid followers, the "gallery gods" of the top balcony.

Some 55 of Ross' friends continued the formalities at a hotel after the game. A shower of gifts were given him by the Boston management and players, Boston hockey writers and radio announcers and personal friends.

If any of the Grey Cup champion Alouettes are hankering to head west some football season, it'll all news to coach Lew Hayman.

A report Saturday from Calgary had it that Bobby Cunningham, star half-back and pass-receiver, and Herb Trawick, hefty Negro lineman, may be with the Stampeders along with Royal Copeland of Toronto Argonauts.

Hayman didn't appear unduly alarmed.

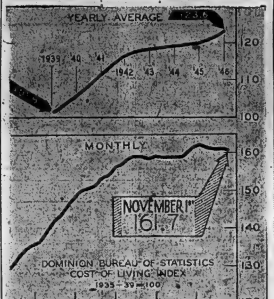
"News to me," was his brief comment at Montreal. "Of course there are changes all the time in football but if any of our boys are contemplating a move certainly am not aware of it."

There's a possibility that two McGill football stars together with a couple more will be with Montreal Alouettes next season. They are Rocky Robillard and Johnny Newman, and coach Hayman said at Montreal he would be willing to take them for a 1950 tryout.

Coach Vic Obeck of McGill had figured on Robillard, an Ottawa resident, returning as an assistant coach at McGill. But when informed of Hayman's desire to have the University's backfield coach with the Alouettes, Obeck said he would not stand in Robillard's way.

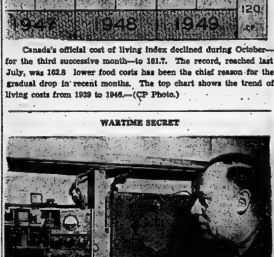
San Francisco 49ers went outand won Sunday in a game that nearly didn't come off, defeating New York Yankees 17-7 at San Francisco to move into the final championship playoff of the all-America pro football conference.

The 49ers had threatened to strike early in the week over demands for a bonus payment for Sunday's game, but after the club owners threatened to disband for the year the players withdrew their demands.



The 49ers meet the defending champion Cleveland Browns for the title in the latter's stadium next Sunday.

Tom Lockhart, president of the Eastern Amateur Hockey League, announced Sunday at New York that the Baltimore Clippers had dropped out of the two-division league.



Baltimore's decision to check out following hard on the heels of the withdrawal of the Cleveland knights from the league. Teams remaining in the league are New York, Boston, Atlantic City, Toledo, Milwaukee and Grand Rapids.

Lockhart said "lack of public support" was the reason for the two teams to disband.

2. He was not prepared to announce government policy on whether the federal treasury will pay a share of relief costs. Ross Thatcher (CCF — Moose Jaw) said such action should be taken against the possibility of a depression and increasing unemployment.

3. The government favors contributory pensions under state direction rather than the private pension agreements by workers and employers.

Disciplining of Reds

Mr. Mitchell agreed with A. L. Smith (PC — Calgary West) and Angus MacInnis (CCF — Vancouver East) that Canadian labor had done a good job in disciplining communists. It was up to the unions to do the job. The government did not intend to pass legislation involving it in the clean-up.

Heaviest criticism was directed at the increased price of annuities resulting from the decision last year to lower interest rates.

Mr. Mitchell said that actuarial studies had indicated the annuities fund would have suffered a $100,000,000 deficit in 10 years at the old rate.

L. E. Cardiff (PC — Huron North) objected to the government policy of bringing displaced persons to Canada and putting them on farms whether they were farmers or not.

A lot of the D. P.s he said, were not worth much as farm labor. Many were interested only in filling out the contracted period on the farm before turning to other work.

Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Thatcher said they have found that D.P.s have been satisfactory. Mr. Thatcher added that immigration policies should be expanded to permit German relatives of Canadians to come to Canada.

Number of Births In Canada is Still Going up

Ottawa, Dec. 5. —(CP)— The number of births in Canada is still going up.

Birth in Canada for the month of September totalled 30,594, an increase of 713 over the 29,881 babies born in the same month in 1948, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Saturday. It marked the fifth successive month that an increase has been recorded.

The cumulative total for the first nine months this year showed 382,971 births, up 1.6 per cent from the corresponding 1948 figure of 259,167.

The number of deaths in September, 1948, but the total for the first nine months this year was lower at 99,23 compared with 89,465 in 1948.

Marriages fell off in 14,154 in the month under review, compared with 14,561 in September, 1948 and also showed a drop of 4,309 for the nine-month period with 87,82 marriages reported up to the end of September this year, compared with 91,891 the year before.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Dec. 5 (AP)—Frank Boucher, New York Rangers' manager, says there aren't enough good hockey players around . . . Even in the National League, he says, he can name on each team only three to five players he terms outstanding. . . "And no quotes, please—the other teams might get mad at me."

Each team is carrying four or five players just good enough to hang on, wh', would be replaced if better players could be found he says. If the league tried to expand, it would mean each team would have to carry more of these ineffectives . . . I've been out west lately, Boucher said, and the boys who are playing junior hockey look like juveniles." Boucher says there are only 28 clubs to draw from, the minor league prospects aren't any better than the ones we have." . . . Frank Blamey the war for retarding the development of talent

A former soccer player, Zawadiwski sometimes kicked the ball instead of dribbling it, but the coach and Clinker was sorry to put his name on the list of candidates to be dropped . . . Boy Danny couldn't read enough En,lish to know what the list meant and Clinker couldn't speak enough German to tell him. . . He continued to report and when the first game came Danny was given a uniform . . . Now Clinker says he could make a basketball player out of the kid if he only could talk to him.

BRANTFORD MAN HELD

Brantford, Dec. 3 — (CP) — (former Brantford man) Weayl Gajic, is being held at Collingwood on charges of passing bogus U.S. $10 bills, police here said today. He is also charged with passing bogus bills at two Brantford tourist homes and a tobacco store.

Mohawks Win And Tie Over The Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Cincinnati Mohawks came up with their most impressive showing to date in the American Hockey League over the weekend with a victory and a draw in two outings.

Saturday, the western-division tail-enders scored a last minute goal that enabled them to tie Hershey Bears 3-3.

And Sunday they gained their fifth victory of the season, all at home and on Sunday, as they downed New Haven Ramblers 4-1.

Meanwhile, Providence Reds strengthened their hold on first place of the league's eastern section with a 6-4 decision over Springfield Indians. They now lead Buffalo Bisons and New Haven, who are deadlocked for second, by three points.

The Bisons edged Indianapolis Capitals 3-2 in the only other game Sunday.

Other Saturday contests saw the western division leading Cleveland Barons battle to a 2-2 draw with Pittsburgh. Hornets while Springfield blanked Providence 4-0 and St. Louis Flyers defeated New Haven 3-1.

CRIME COMICS

Before going into labor estimates, the House passed four bills.

They were measures to enlarge the Act to subsidize to gold mines, establish the Canadian Overseas Telecommunications Corporation as a government — owned company, and amend the Dominion-Provincial Taxation rental agreements and the Customs Act.

During the labor debate, Labor Minister Mitchell announced that a government committee is studying unemployment in Nova Scotia.

Mr. Mitchell also said:

1. He will consider opposition members' suggestions that a Commons committee be set up next session to inquire into the government's 1948 action in raising the price of government annuities. He said annuities sales had dropped 50 per cent since this deaths from burns, one from an accidental shooting and one from injuries suffered from falling from a tree.

Adelard St. Denis, 59, died when his home in Windsor was destroyed by fire and at Niagara Falls, Ont., Mrs. Hildegarde Schmidt, 33, was fatally burned when she poured oil over her kerosene and lit a match.

Lightning Kills

At Sarnia, James Ross, 31, was killed when the car he was driving collided with another, and Douglas Martin, 23, died after his car struck a hydro pole at Oshawa.

At Montreal, Roland Lapointe, 25, died in hospital from head injuries when his car went out of control and crashed into a pole. Jean LeClair, 18, of Longueuil, Que., was killed when the car he was in crashed into the rear of a bus.

Jules Raymond, 7, of Abrams River near Yarmouth, N.S., was shot dead accidentally by his 11 year-old brother Flavean. The boys were playing with a loaded shotgun.

At Union Road, R.R.1, Thomas Waldron Prowse, 77, was killed when a felled tree struck him while he was cutting wood.

Planning Board Report Urges Unification

Toronto, Dec. 5 —(CP)— After a three-year study, the Toronto and York planning board has released a report recommending sweeping changes in the jurisdictional set-up of Toronto and seven suburban municipalities.

Of four alternatives studied, the board favors unification of Toronto and the seven suburbs, with a combined population of 900,000, under one municipal government.

The three other alternatives studied were: A board of management; a borough system; creation of a metropolitan county of Toronto.

Under the unification plan, the seven municipalities that make up Toronto would be East York, Leaside, Forest Hill, York Township, York Township, Weston and Swansea.

The board cites problems which it says are remaining unsolved because of conflicting jurisdictions as: the equitable distribution of land use; the financing of capital highways; public transportation requirements: supply of sewage and water facilities.

Process Tax

A $10 tax on automobiles and up to $25 on trucks to provide up to $3,000,000 annual revenue for the construction of arterial highways was recommended. The proposed tax would apply to all cars and trucks within a certain radius of downtown Toronto.

The transportation system also came under the board's scrutiny. It said that under the present charter of the transportation commission, the one fare set-up could only be used within the municipal confines of the city.

Present development of sewage and water facilities was described as "haphazard" and a situation of serious may arise, it continued, that unified control will be essential not only for reasons of economy and efficiency, but for health. It also suggested that seven municipalities join their systems with Toronto's.

11 Fatalities In East Canada During Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

A double drowning fatality—the death of two brothers—were the only today reports in the fatalities reported in Ontario during the weekend, but still was one of the lightest in the province this year.

Altogether, a Canadian Press survey showed today, there were 11 fatalities in Eastern Canada during the weekend. Besides the seven deaths in Ontario there were two in Quebec and one each in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

The brothers who lost their lives in the double drowning accident were Martin Dodette, 7, and Gerald Dodge, 4. They drowned Saturday in a stretch of open water in the Ottawa River near their home at Canal Basin, on the outskirts of Renfrew.

Another drowning took the life of Leonard Dufresne, 16, of Lancaster, Ont. The accident occurred in the St. Lawrence River at Lake St. Francis in Eastern Ontario while he was duck-hunting.

Besides the drowning fatalities accidents accounted for four of the total of 11 fatalities in Eastern Canada. There were also two

Martin's Summer

By Vicki Baum

"We've seen what comes of that," remarked Herr Kegenhofer. "There's that crazy young baroness drowned herself in the lake for him."

"Yes—but do you know the latest?" said the postman, taking his pipe out of his mouth. "The crazy young baroness never went into the lake at all. She's alive all the time."

"What are you talking about? Don't tell me tales like that," said Herr Birndl severely.

"It's the truth. I heard it from old Viereicker. I met him early this morning behind the Zirkin. He had been guide to a party over the Iron Tooth, and he met Schlinz on the far side of the hut up there, just over the Hirzinger-Kees and Schlinz had had the baroness roped and climbed with her up the Iron Tooth, and they had been kept a day in the hut owing to the mist. The baroness had yodeled and she was lurking about; she can climb with the best of them. We know that already. I dare-say she'll be down from the Iron Tooth this evening. I've told them at the Zirkin."

"Well, that's the limit," said Herr Birndl, and he spat eager and excitement. "She ought to be shut up in a lunatic asylum, that's all there is to be said. A nice farce! There we were rowing up and down the lake like a pack of fools, and then we hear she was climbing all the time on the Hirzinger-Kees. That finishes it. That's enough for me. And the swimming instructor, poor fellow, what that'day cost him! Diving in like that, time after time, was enough to make him bad, and what he must have endured when he was bad already.

"Hats off to him, I say, to go through all that with blood poisoning. He's a sportsman; he made nothing of it, you see. And he doesn't give up now. He's not just going to lie there and die. He's as strong as a wild pig, Dr. Mayrederer says 'perhaps his constitution will pull him through,' and we must wait and see. We must tell him now, as soon as he comes round after the morphia, that the baroness has been seen on the Hirzinger-Kees. That'll be a consolation to him."

"Yes, and what am I to do with this registered letter?" asked the postman.

"There'll be something of importance in it, no doubt. No good waiting till the man's dead and gone. Better give it to me, and I'll sign for it. Matz can wait till he comes round and be there to give it to him. Matz sits all day at his bedside like a dog, and I have to collect all the lovelets myself, but what can I do? He'll just have to wait there with the letter. A nice business, the whole thing, I must say..."

Martin meanwhile lay in the hospital bed. He lay extended on his back, with his bandaged arm beside him, and the white coverlet rose and fell with his faint quick breath.

"His pulse is good," said the mother superior, cautiously feeling it with her left hand.

Martin wondered why so many gigantic black birds flew over the sea with white heads looking like nuns. His forehead wrinkled over his closed eyes, and he gave a tremulous sigh. He had no pain. He felt very comfortable. He had been swimming for several hours with May in the sea. The water was blue and transparent. The waves broke in foam and hissed with an indescribable freshness about their ears. The warm water bore them up and they were carried along by each wave as it came. It was the Bay of Waikiki. Martin recognized it, with its palms and mountains ranges and the long gentle waves running up to a reach of inconceivable loveliness. "Arne Borg trained here for his world record," Martin said to May. For a moment it all looked like a photograph in a book he had read, and then it became real again.

May lay flat in the water. She swam beside him like a strip of gold—with a slow stroke. Martin had never experienced so deep a calm and joy as this—to be swimming hour after hour with May beside him through the sea. It is true that a shark came along now and then and bit him in the arm, but he said nothing to May for fear of alarming her and it did not hurt very much. On the beach the "Honolulu Shimmy" was being played. "I always wanted to spend my honeymoon in Honolulu," said May.

Martin thought about this for a long time while he swam. So he was on his honeymoon with May in Waikiki. He hadn't known that. They had been swimming for such a long time together that he had forgotten the wedding. "You see," he said to Herr Lyzenhoop, who came to pay them a visit, "you can live in castles in the air." They were sitting in a large room in this castle of theirs which swayed gently to and fro because it was made of water. May took out a handkerchief and wiped the moisture from Martin's forehead He felt it quite distinctly and it did him good for he had got very tired. He felt the shark bite growing more painful. He opened his eyes.

How did Matz get to Waikiki, was his first thought. Everything was dim, and through one or two holes in the dimness he looked out into the world. At first he saw Matz sitting, small and motionless, in a chair. Then he saw a piece of yellow wall. Something brown, spotted with damp, hung on it; a mountain and a woman could be made out. "St. Ursula, pray for us," Martin read. The letters approached and then retreated and became dim again. Circles revolved in the air and everything became obscure and fragmentary and unintelligible. May was there no longer. Martin saw someone stretched out in bed as if dead, with straight knees under a white coverlet. He recognized the red crops worked in the coverlet. "Of course," he said wearily as he remembered.

He came round out of the haze of morphia. It became thinner and thinner and left him in great pain and weakness. He moved feebly. "Don't move, please," said someone at the head of the bed. A hand came from there and once more wiped the sweat from his brow. Matz jumped down off his chair and put two letters on the blanket.

"Herr's your post, Herr Hell," he said, and then climbed back to his chair and set there like a little figure in wood.

Martin turned his eyes to the two letters. One was from May. He made a great effort to focus his attention and grasped the letter with his left hand. He forced his mind to clear. He realized once more that he was ill and had had trouble with his arm. He had scratched it and now he was in a hospital in Frauensee. This was his own hand, this the bed cover ing and this, that he hold of a letter from May. He held it close to his eyes, and recognized the writing. But the letters turned over and over. He waited helplessly for a moment with the letter in his hand. Then he put it to his mouth and tried to open it with his teeth. He was tired but put before he had done it and sadly gave it up.

Canada Being Squeezed Out Of UK Market Says Gardiner

Ottawa, Dec. 6 — (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner today reiterated in an interview the claim he made in a speech at Brantford Monday night that British officials are "squeezing us out" of the United Kingdom food markets.

Mr. Gardiner said the British public "appreciate what we are doing and that the quality of our food but officially we are being squeezed out."

The minister said he "presumed the reason was a matter of dollars with which to pay for Canadian imports.

"That is what they have been saying for two years," he said. "The British want to establish sterling as the medium for international trade. The United States want it to be the dollar."

Mr. Gardiner declined to mention names or go into any details of his feeling about the British official attitude toward Canada.

He said his speech Monday night and what he was saying today was "not new."

He was talking about it just now because negotiations for new food contracts with the U.K. are approaching conclusion. All existing food contracts except for cheese, expire the end of this month.

He expressed the belief that the contracts would be renewed, but could not say what they would be.

Two years ago, he said, a British mission came to Ottawa and said it proposed to buy all the food it could in sterling countries and would not want anything from Canada except wheat.

He said the British were told that if they bought only wheat it would have to be at the world price level. That is a reasonable price at which Canada has sold wheat in Britain in the last five years.

He intimated also that the British were informed that if they restricted Canadian food imports to wheat alone they might not get the wheat.

Later, discussions negotiations "started all over again" and general food contracts were renewed.

"Last year they said they wanted wheat and cheese and said they had dollars apart from Marshall aid funds, to pay for the cheese.

"But when the cheese price fell to the United States they bought from there and would not take the surplus we had over the contract amounts.

"But they had some justification for that because we had not delivered the full amount the year before."

He said the United States was selling eggs to the United Kingdom at "half price" but he added, "we can't kick about that. We are doing the same thing with apples."

Mr. Gardiner was questioned in the Commons about the reports of his Brantford speech, but he referred his questioners to the local newspaper reports and did not amplify.

Lack Dollars

London (CP)— A charge by Agriculture Minister Gardiner of Canada that there is a "very deliberate official effort" to drive wheat and some other Canadian foods from the British market failed today to bring a word of direct comment from food ministry officials here.

"We could not comment on a statement of that kind without having the full text of the minister's remarks," one official said. "But as various ministers have pointed out recently, we would buy more from Canada if we had the dollars."

A spokesman pointed to recent statements by Food Minister John Strachey that Britain is cutting food imports from dollar sources not because she wants to but because she has to.

HOUSE ENTERING FINAL WEEK OF 21ST PARLIAMENT

Final Approval Given Two Contentious Bills

Ottawa, Dec. 5. (CP)— The Commons palsied from sublime harmony into familiar friction and finally into utter and at times hilarious confusion Monday as it entered probably the final week of the first session of Canada's 21st parliament.

Harmony reigned during the morning session. Justice Minister Garson found broad approval as he piloted government amendments to strengthen a private bill by E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) designed to curb the sale of crime-comic books and obscene literature.

Mr. Fulton found the amendments most acceptable and said the government's co-operation made him proud of Canada and her democratic parliament.

The afternoon session brought forth some of the more familiar political strife as Transport Minister Chevrier championed a government bill he said should be enjoyed by the Red-led Canadian Seamen's Union, sparking of left-wing activity within that body.

It went even further and advised all affiliated organizations to bar communists from office and throw them out of the local unions. It called for a non-communist affidavit for Congress officers.

The C.C.L., which has been battling Reds longer than the T.L.C., this year expelled the International Longshoremen's and Shipmen's Union, which had been second only to the Electrical workers' group in furthering the party line.

While the basic reason for the dropping of both C.C.L. unions was their communistic leadership, differing official reasons were given in each case.

The Mine-Mill Union was suspended originally by the C.C.L. council because it refused to withdraw from the Ontario organizing field when the council contended it was doing an unsatisfactory job of organizing. The C.C.L. convention this fall transformed that suspension into outright expulsion.

Reason given for the electrical workers' expulsion was non-payment of the union's per capita tax to the C.C.L. The Canadian director, Clarence S. Jackson, denied that the union was in arrears and said that the U.E.W. would fight by every means—including legal action if necessary —the move to toss it out of the Congress.

Jackson and four of his top henchmen had been under personal suspension from the Congress several months. He was for an attack on the Ontario Federation of Labor, affiliated to the Congress.

There appeared scant chance that the U.E.W. would be readmitted to the Congress. The C.C.I. executive could go no further than suspension. But this year it had begun affiliating units of the new anti-Communist Industrial Union of Electrical Workers, formed in the U.S. after the C.I.O. and U.E. had been suspended last month.

Only remaining Red-dominated union in the Congress is the small Fur and Leather Workers' Union, with something under 5,000 members. Scattered left-wing elements are to be found elsewhere in any strength only in the United Automobile Workers of America, and the bulk of their membership is anti-Red.

Voice of Communism Fades to a Whisper In Labor Congresses

Ottawa, Dec. 6 (CP)—The voice of communism in Canada's big labor congresses is fading to a whisper.

On the heels of a long series of jolts to union Reds, the latest wallop has been administered to the communist-influenced United Electrical Workers of America.

One by one the government bellwethers of left-wing policy in the Canadian Congress of Labor and the 22,000-member U.E.W. has been dropped from the C.C.L. and the door of its re-entry appears closed.

Following the lead of the Congress of Industrial Organizations in booting out the United State parent of the Canadian U.E.W. branch recently, the C.C.L. announced Monday its executive council had suspended the Electrical Workers.

All the signs pointed to permanent expulsion at the next CCongress convention in about 10 months from now.

The C.C.L. action was the newest in a long series of moves undertaken against communists in labor ranks by the country's two big worker bodies—the 350,000-member C.C.L. and the 96,000-member Labor Congress of Canada with 410,000 members.

After getting away to a slow start in putting communists on the run, the T.L.C. this year tossed out the Red-led Canadian Seamen's Union, sparking of left-wing activity within that body.

It went even further and advised all affiliated organizations to bar communists from office and throw them out of the local unions. It called for a non-communist affidavit for Congress officers.

The C.C.L., which has been battling Reds longer than the T.L.C., this year expelled the International Longshoremen's and Shipmen's Union, which had been second only to the Electrical

COMMITTEE EYES HENRY WALLACE IN REVIVED HUNT

Uranium Shipments To Russia Issue

Washington, Dec. 6, (CP)—The House of Representatives committee on un-American activities today eyed Henry A. Wallace, former vice-president of the United States, and many others in a suddenly-revived hunt for persons who aided wartime uranium shipments to Russia.

Wallace commented Monday night that a statement alleging that he was involved in false, and a part of "a vicious, unending effort to tarnish the name of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Chairman John S. Wood (Dem. Ga.) promised there isn't going to be any secret left unchecked" as the House committee digs into the story that persons in high places helped Russia get uranium and atomic information.

Much of the story is old, particularly the part about several shipments of uranium compounds to Russia back in 1943, by way of Great Falls, Mont., and the Alaskan air route. Testimony also has been repeated concerning shipment of black uranium ore and nitrate to the Soviet Union the same year from a Canadian firm.

Juveniles Taken In Wild Chase

Windsor, Ont., Dec. 6. (CP)— Five juveniles awaited trial today on charges of theft and assault arising from a wild chase through Windsor city streets late last night in a stolen car.

Police said they first received reports of an automobile theft and stolen from a London street paint shop. The car was reported the property of Murray Hockman of Chatham.

Police soon located the car and together with five cruiser cars took up the chase. Shots and sirens reached 80 miles an hour, police said.

The group was caught when a police cruiser crashed into the side of the fleeing automobile and sent it over the curb and into a tree. All five juveniles, two of them girls—escaped injury.

DENIES REPORT

London, Dec. 6. (Reuters)— A Foreign Office spokesman today denied reports that Britain's Foreign Secretary Bevin has told Prime Minister Attlee he intends to retire after the 1950 general election. On the contrary, the spokesman said, Bevin had discussed with his friends plans for future British foreign policy if the Labor government is re-elected.

Wins Over Trudeau By 1,026 Majority; 5 New Aldermen

Two Members School Board Returned, By-laws Defeated

Electoral records went by the boards in the city elections yesterday when the voting populace deluge with polling booths and ballots that, it is reported from authoritative sources, constitute an all time numerical high. Nearly 6,000 votes were polled in the mayoralty race while the aldermen who led the polls chalked up another record for votes cast in his favor.

That the voters decided to have a new change of faces at the aldermanic table is seen in the majority of this city was evidenced in the fact that five of the seven aldermen elected are newcomers with two candidates who led the polls being ing without former council experience, as is the case with Mr. Rudell's seventh position. Two councillors are veterans who sought re-election while the remaining two have had experience in city councils of the past.

Definite in Attitude

The electorate was definite in its attitude regarding the three proposed city by-laws one to provide a grant to the Parks Board, another to provide funds for the novation of the City Hall and the other to increase the personnel of the Public Utilities Commission from three members to five.

All three bills were swamped under a negative vote. From the figures it is quite evident that the by-laws were in for a slashing defeat, and that is what happened.

Public opinion was split on the question of four new faces on the Board of Education. Two veterans of this body were re-elected and two new ones will take to board at its first meeting under the new order. There was no election as far as the Public Utilities Commission is concerned. Commissioner Russell Wotten being given an acclamation at the nomination meeting held in November.

Defeated Former Colleague

Alderman H. Jack Allin, a former councillor of ten years experience will be the mayor of Belleville for 1950. He defeated a former council colleague, Jack J. Trudeau in one of the largest votes ever recorded in the city and won by a majority of 1026 according to unofficial figures released by city tabulation officials last night. Mayor-Elect Allin received 3443 votes against 2417 polled by his opponent. It was also following the returns that these figures constitute an all-time high in the city.

Ritual Murders in Basutoland Difficult Problem for British

Johannesburg, South Africa, Dec. 6 (AP)— Ritual murders in Basutoland are presenting British authorities with one of their most difficult problems in African administration.

In this normally law-abiding country, where half the population are Christians, the bodies of 293 victims of ritual murders have been found by police in the last seven years. There is reason to believe at least twice as many cases have not been reported.

In the same period 121 Basutos have been convicted of ritual murder and executed 73 acquitted. Judges of the Basutoland high court have frequently told juries that witnesses to death in batches from five to 17, but it has made little impression. The gruesome killings go on.

A ritual murder, as practiced by the Basutos, consists of seizing a victim and cutting various portions off his body, possibly skinning and scalping him, while he is still alive. "Medicine" made from the blood or the body after death is considered useless.

In trying to stamp out these crimes colonial authorities find themselves up against a basket of silence. Villagers will not testify or give evidence against one another and refuse to incriminate the witch doctors and chiefs believed responsible.

The natives are tongue-tied by fear and superstition. This makes convictions so difficult that Mr. Justice C. Kruse, who is sentencing one Basuto to death and acquitting four others recently, suggested provision be made in the law for a verdict of "not proven" to enable juries to choke a man a second time if additional evidence becomes available.

The motives behind the murders are obscure, but generally are attributed to the desire of chiefs and witch doctors to regain their former powers, weakened under Christianity and modern progress. To do so they have fallen back on age old customs and superstitions that are still part and parcel of the surface of most Basuto akins.

REGION UNION IN NORTH PROPOSED

Copenhagen, Dec. 6. (AP)— Well-informed political sources said today Britain has invited the three Scandinavian countries to join her in a regional economic union.

The sources predicted the three countries—Denmark, Sweden and Norway—would agree to preliminary economic talks. But they pointed out that opening of negotiations would not inevitably lead to establishment of a region economic union.

Britain made the proposal last night in notes handed to Foreign Ministers in Copenhagen, Stockholm and Oslo, it was reliably reported.

Douk Leader Appeals for Mass Migration

Claims Four of Followers Instructed to Destroy Home by Fire

Nelson, B. C., Dec. 6 — (CP) — His Holiness Peter by singing, chanting followers less than 24 hours from their leader John J. Lebedoff appealed today to the Doukhobors Monday to join a mass migration to Turkey, if

The Labor Progressive federal sons of Freedom group said in an interview that he knew four of his followers had been convicted sections by a fifth to burn his home at Krestova, 15 miles northwest of this south-central British Columbia town.

He said he did not know why the instructions had been given.

Meanwhile, 3b R.C.M.P. and Provincial Police combined today to augment a normal regional force of 20 officers. Motorists driving through the Brilliam and Slocan areas, roughly 20 miles west of Nelson, are stopped in a search of safeguards from "any flaming torches" being carried once more in violence-ridden districts.

The move is the latest in a crackdown ordered by Provincial government leaders after conferences with federal authorities.

More than 100 miles of Canadian Pacific Rail lines are under guard after three attempts to blow up the rails. Extra train crews guard trains moving at night.

Irate Nelson citizens threatened vigilante action unless protective measures were enforced.

Lebedoff has been visited how he and his wife Florence were told late Sunday afternoon to leave their home. Mrs. Lebedoff snatched up their infant child before flames destroyed the two-room shack valued at $500. Belongings were valued at $300.

He said he knew of no reason for the attack. Other instances of homes being burned—often by their owners—are numerous.

SENATOR DAVIES URGES CHANGES IN CENSORSHIP

Objects to "Anonymous" Official Deciding What Canadians Should Read

Ottawa, Dec. 6 (CP)— Objection to an "anonymous" official deciding what Canadians should not read, Senator W. Rupert Davies (L-Ontario) called in the Senate today for a change in the system by which books are banned.

He said that section 1201 of the criminal code under which 40 books and 23 newspapers were refused entry to Canada in 1948 and 31 books and 22 magazines this year, "gives to one very dangerous power to someone in the background."

"I strongly object," said Senator Davies, "to any officer of the department in charge of censorship deciding what are the right and proper books for Canadians to read.

"The present system should be changed. Let us bring it right out in the open. Let us know who is doing the banning. Let us know what books are banned. And by all means let us know the reasons against a person or persons who are acting as our moral mentors."

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Dec. 6 (CP)—Synopsis: A deep low is moving into Southern Ontario tonight, with rain spreading over the province. Rain is the extreme southwestern sections early Wednesday morning.

However there is little promise of any lasting let up in the current cold weather. As the storm moves eastward winds will shift to a northerly direction and again cause polar air to stream over the southern sections of the province later Wednesday.

Aeronautic Experts Hope to Take A Page From the Pigeon's Book

Winnipeg, Dec. 6 (CP)—Modern aeronautic experts hope to take a page from the pigeon's book.

Eight men and 70 homing pigeons now "in training" in northern Manitoba may lead to scientific discoveries that will have far-reaching effects on airplanes, ships—and possibly even missiles.

Maj. Otto Meyer, chief of the pigeon service, United States Army Signal Corps, said in an interview Monday before he boarded a train for Churchill, Man., that he will conduct experiments with the pigeons to see why they have more trouble navigating in cold weather than in warmer climates.

"They fly at greatly reduced speeds in the northland and navigate smaller distances," he said.

The tests will cover six weeks' experimenting under Arctic conditions.

"We have found that the magnetic force of the earth is one of the most important factors giving the pigeon its uncanny ability to return to the starting point," he said, "but the sunspots up north tend to disrupt the pigeon's flight and decrease its speed."

The army will also try to determine why a pigeon can fly back to a starting point "on the darkest night without the use of their eyes until they reach a point near the station."

Solution of this problem may lead to scientific changes in aircraft and guiding that will allow them to go pilotless over any distance, and like the pigeon, return to their original starting point.

A man experiences the same effect as a pigeon "when he is lost in the woods and circles 'round and 'round, always returning to the starting point," he said. "Thus the makers sense scientific believe man has the same qualifications as a pigeon for returning to a starting point.

PRIMARY BALLOTS FOR C. OF C. DIRECTORS NOW IN MAILS

Primary ballots for the election of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce were placed in the mail yesterday. Members of the chamber are asked to select the names from the membership and submit them to the secretary not later than Friday, December 9th at 4 p.m.

Six directors who were elected last December and will be completing their two-year-term in 1950 are eliminated from the primary ballot. These include R. D. Boyce, W. J. Brown, A. B. Hunt, C. L. Jewell, W. B. Lattimer, J. A. McIntosh and H. C. Seldon. Also the name of G. A. Freeman who completed his two-year term is omitted from the primary.

FORMER REEVE RETURNS TO COUNCIL

Former reeve of the combined township of Montcalm and Herschel, Mr. Joseph Davis was elected reeve of the municipality at elections held Monday. He defeated Reeve Hamilton who headed the township council during 1948 by 30 votes. Mr. Davis for many years had acted as reeve of the two northern townships but was defeated by Mr. Scott at the polls last year.

BOYS IN WRONG HOUSE LOOKING FOR GIRL FRIENDS

When a fellow goes to see his girl friend he should at least try to learn the correct address at which the girl lives.

At least that is what two Stirling young men found out in the early Monday evening, when they apparently got mixed up in their directions with result that a compliment of prowlers was lodged with the city police.

The two young men apparently got into the wrong hallway of a Front Street apartment and residents became alarmed and turned in the complaint. Investigation by police revealed the two young men were merely looking for their girl friends.

FIREMEN CALLED TO TWO FIRES

Firemen were called to two chimney fires during the past 24 hours, both of which were extinguished without trouble and no damage resulted. The first alarm was to Coleman Street at the rear of Curtin Lock building, while the second was this morning to a George Street address.

Scientists Kept Busy Developing New Methods to Control Insects Ravaging Our Crops and Forests

Battle between the forces behind insecticides and biological control workers in the form of laws or government forces recently, and according to Dr. A. Willes, of the Parasite Laboratory here, there is every indication that the biologist will win out.

The struggle started when scientists discovered that insects had built up a resistance against D.D.T. and had developed into a hardy race immune to the effect of the deadly spray material. It was found that D.D.T. used in stronger forms would not only be lethal to insects but would be dangerous and fatal to animals and mankind as well. One insecticide named parathion employed in the United States in past control is reported to have killed a workmen handling it and consequently is only available in diluted quantities for use.

The biologists have made some headway with pest control by the parasite, but the movement was struck a great blow with the introduction of D.D.T. Combatting with their apparent far reaching results in the DDT. insect pests in some corners it was believed that D.D.T. products would eventually annihilate the bothersome insects as the common house fly and the mosquito.

Pests Survive

Much to the discomfort of man the fly and the mosquito have survived the spray, and in the southern United States especially have grown into a super species defying all efforts at exhibiting poison spray guns and aerial attacks. Gun-carrying flies and mosquitoes are on the march again according to Dr. Willes.

Another factor supporting biological control opposed using sprays is the fact that experts are maintaining that the timber areas of Canada were much too large to warrant a levy of $2.50 an acre for spraying by air. A woodsman in Quebec province failed to agree his area effectively would cost in the neighborhood of $3,000,- 000, an amount more than the actual timber was worth.

Thereupon the biologist encouraged by the apparent failure of insecticides went to work with greater enthusiasm and established field collection teams headed by entomologists in forests of the great European countries. This work was declared considerably until this year when permission was granted Canadians to set up their teams in the various foreign countries.

Carrot Growers Assisted

Apple growers in the Belleville district, fruit growers in the area around Holland Landing north of Toronto will be glad to know of the progress that is made by biologists here. The rust fly has made such inroads into the march farmers' carrot crops that it is necessary to give this problem priority consideration.

A parasite is a form of life that lives at the cost of another form of life eventually destroying it.

By developing and promoting a parasite partial to hosts such as the corn borer, spruce budworm, carrot rust fly or the white pine weevil the entomologists figure they can control crop and forest damage to an extent where the annual loss will be negligible. On the other hand the pests would finally destroy trees and vegetation entirely if they were allowed to multiply at the present alarming rate.

It is the work of the field teams in Germany, Belgium, France, Czechoslovakia and Switzerland to gather parasites and hosts that together have kept down potential plagues in those countries. The host is a stage of insect life which provides food for the parasite which deposits eggs in the host while it is undergoing a change and actually inactive. The host eventually ends up providing a protective shell for the larva of the parasite in the evolution to the winged phase of its existence.

Developed in Laboratory

Both the parasite and host find their roles in the fight against pests on arrival at the Parasite Laboratory here.

That is the way the parasite has of controlling the pest by destroying it in the host form. It is, therefore, the job of the biologist to encourage the parasite and provide it with conditions under which it will increase. Success however, has to be careful that it does not introduce a parasite that will finally become worse that the pest it suppresses or annihilates.

The task being tackled by Dr. Willes and his staff of 60 at present is the work of creating a super parasite — a parasite that will be able to withstand poison sprays and at the same time go about ridding the orchards of the oriental fruit moth wreaking havoc on peach crops in both Canada and the United States. American fruit growers are sometimes spraying their trees as often as seven times, have been warned by health officials that too much spray will leave fruit and maybe fatal to human consumers. Naturally fly power will be further invested in his peach orchard turned to the scientist to help him in his fight. The scientist agreed they would attack the peach pest with both spray and parasite but lacked an insect killer that would stand up to man-applied poisons.

Forests Given Attention

Special attention, too, is being given the forest industry since it is not economical to spray forests. The biologists are drawing their knowledge and forces against the spruce bud worm in particular now causing millions of dollars a year in damage to Canadian spruce and pine plantracts. The eggs of a parasite from Europe are being brought in to control this destructive pest.

Other insects against which the biologists wage war are the white pine weevil and the balsam sawfly that has ravished the New Brunswick woodlands and continues to ravage almost unchecked its entire feeding area of this maritime province. The pests ruining both of Muskoka and Northern Ontario have caused similarly considerable concern.

Prof. Jury Speaks At St. Michael's Commencement

The recent findings of the archeologists exploring the site of what is believed to be a Huron Indian village, Ossossane, near Midland, Ontario, will be disclosed in an address at St. Michael's High School commencement exercises being held in the auditorium of the Belleville Collegiate tonight.

The speaker will be Professor W. Jury, curator of the Museum of Indian Archeology at Western University at London, Ontario.

According to reports the Western University has been seeking the exclusive rights to excavate an prove the historic site near where a mystic spectacle was presented this past summer at the Martyrs Shrine near Midland. Here the Canadian Martyrs and pioneers who died for Christianity in order to bring civilization to the Indians.

During a recent visit to the scene of the excavation, Governor-General Viscount Alexander heard a protest from Professor Jury who complained that souvenir hunters were taking relics from this country and depriving Canada of a great deal of its national history.

Obituary

G. GLENCOE HULME
(Formerly of Belleville)

(Contributed)

G. Glencoe Hulme died in San Francisco, Calif., on Saturday, Dec. 3rd, in his 77th year. He was born in Belleville in 1873 his parents being Lieut Col. N. Scott Hulme and Mrs. Hulme, the former Annie Henderson of this city. For twenty-two years he practised law in the first Division Court of the County of Hastings and later city engineer and manager of the water works. Glencoe was reversed in South Africa with the contingent from the 15th Battalion A.I.I. in 1899, and on his return home, after a short stay in England, he was given a warm reception at the Belleville station by the mayor, Colonel Ponton, many prominent citizens and headed by the drill hall where he was presented with a gold watch and chain by Mrs. Fred Lingham for having placed her Union Jack over the Pretoria jail where her husband and Dr. Jamieson had been incarcerated. Having recuperated from an alight wound in England on his return from South Africa, Glencoe the following spring a guest of the Duke of Argyle, honorary Colonel of the 91st Highland Argyle Light Infantry, and former Governor General of Canada, at the luncheon at Argyle, Princess Louisa, and while their guest he was presented to the King.

After a short stay in Belleville he left for Dawson City to join his brother Herbert in the Yukon and when the Great World War broke out he joined the Yukon contingent and proceeded overseas as Lieut. Quartermaster, command of Captain Black. He was with his regiment when they marched into Germany the day the armistice was signed. They had their Christmas dinner in Bonn shortly after.

On his return to Canada, he settled in Calgary with his wife and son Bob and has since been engaged as an accountant for a large firm of contractors.

His wife predeceased him in 1945.

He leaves a sister, Mrs. R. C. Hulme and a brother C. Stanley Hulme, both of Montreal.

The funeral took place in San Francisco on Tuesday of Columbarium of Immortality Woodlawn Cemetery.

LATE
BRUNO HERMAN MILLER

The funeral of Bruno Herman Miller, late residence, 82 Brown Street, was held Monday afternoon from the Belleville Burial Home, Coleman Street, Campbell Street. The service in the chapel and at Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. F. R. Harbord, minister of the Tabernacle United Church.

The bearers were Daniel Miller, Emil Miller, Carl Mollenhauer, Herman Niesan, Eugene McAlpine and Garhart Nieman.

WALTER MORRISON
(Trenton.)

Walter Morrison, Dundas St. West, Trenton, died in the Belleville General Hospital, on Sunday. He was 76 years of age and was a patient in the hospital since Nov. 19.

ERIC SEWELL GROUT
(Ottawa)

Ottawa, Dec. 6 — (CP)—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for Francis Eric Sewell Grout, 53, assistant superintendent of the money order branch of the post office department, who died Saturday.

Born in Stirling, Ont., Mr. Grout was educated in Brockville. He came to Ottawa in 1892, and was a member of the civil service for 52 years.

LATE
JAMES MAYBEE
(Stockdale)

Frankford, Dec. 6. (Special)—The funeral of James Thomas Maybee was held from his late residence at Stockdale on Monday afternoon to the Stockdale United Church where service was conducted by the Rev. J. W. Fisher who conducted the service at Stockdale Cemetery.

The bearers were Ray Plumpton, Alex. Smith, Klein Ketcheson, Bert Bush, Samuel Nicolson and Aldon Arthur.

E. Wood Pres. C.O. Ayrshire Breeders Club

The Central Ontario Ayrshire Breeders' Club held their annual meeting at the Y.M.C.A. with a good attendance.

It was decided to hold a field day at the farm of the Ontario School for the Deaf in June, and also a red and white day in connection with Belleville Fair.

The officers elected for the coming year are as follows:

Hon. President, W. E. Tummon, Foxboro; President, Elmer Wood, Crookston; Vice President, Chester Sills, West Huntingdon, and Secretary-Treasurer, Ross Ketcheson, Moira.

600 Persons Unemployed in The District

There are approximately 600 persons unemployed in Belleville and immediate district at the present time, it is estimated, with 30 to 35 per cent over the same period last year. This was stated today by Mr. H. H. Reed, manager of the local national employment office.

Last week there were roughly 500 persons receiving unemployment benefits at the local claims office, for the roughly 600 persons out of work at the present time about 135 are from outside the city.

Slacking down of the construction trades as a general at this time of year, was given as the principal reason for the increase in unemployment, although it was admitted the same thing occurs at this period every year. Unskilled workers make up a large percentage of the persons unemployed but there are also a number of carpenters out of work.

The annual Christmas rush has taken up some of the unemployment slack. Very little of the present unemployment is as the result of factory lay-offs in the city.

Many Applications For Citizenship

Following are the applications for Canadian citizenship which were approved yesterday by His Honor Judge J. C. Anderson at Judicial Court sitting in Belleville for Hastings County being held this week. The applications were published through the office of H. C. Donnan, clerk for the General Sessions.

Plaintiff Wins Damage Suit

At the Supreme Court Sittings at Cobourg held last week before Mr. Justice LeBel, the damage action of Wette vs. Ferguson was decided in favor of David J. White, the Plaintiff.

The action arose over an alleged assault which took place at Smithfield, over a year ago. The Plaintiff, Mr. D. J. White, retired merchant of Smithfield, was proceeding to his property along Railroad Street when attacked by Kenneth Ferguson, the defendant, who also owns land fronting on Railroad Street.

His Lordship assessed damages of $3235.00 against Mr. Ferguson together with Mr. White's out-of-pocket expenses, and court costs. Mr. Edward E. Followell of Belleville, and Mr. Fred Ward, K.C., of Picton, acted for Mr. White and Mr. J. C. M. Gerrow, K.C., of Cobourg, acted for Mr. Ferguson.

Thinking of the days gone by,
When you were with us dear,
To those who have a father,
Prize him dear,
There will never be another
To fill that vacant chair.
We cannot forget you dear daughter
Nellie, son-in-law and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Les Harrison. D6

UENS — In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Frederick Arthur Uens, who passed away three years ago, December 6th, 1946.
Three years have gone and gone
Your loving memories we'll always keep.
Sadly missed by your daughter-in-law, Mrs. Fred Uens and children. D6

AYLESWORTH — In loving memory of my dear daughter and sister Beatrice, who passed away December 6th, 1922.
Sweet Beatrice, you left us one day
And gone
Since one we loved so well
We take this sad means to do earth,
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The tongue cannot tell how her grave we miss,
But the love for her who sleeps
Will never die with this.
Sadly missed by mother, sister and brothers Harold, Garfield and Edwin. D6

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Dec. 6 (CP)— Prices backed down slightly from recent gains on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Activity continued at Monday's rapid rate but again much of the trading was confined to a handful of mining issues.

Volume for the first three hours was 859,000 shares.

Industrials opened higher but began to weaken toward mid-session. Early fractional gains were wiped out and most issues soon appeared. Papers brightened from Monday's profit-taking pressure. Imperial oil dipped 5-8 at 22 3-8 in a week refining oil list. National Steel Car was a feature, jumping $4 at a new high at $41.

Quemston Mines, with property in the Northland Lake district, Northern Ontario, turned heavily for a slight advance in golds. Moyear continued a brisk performer but profit taking cut into recent strong advances. MacLeod-Cockshutt, Upper Canada and Jollet-Quebec continued trading heavily. McIntyre added $1 at 60 in the senior list.

Base metals were bright in early dealings but fractional losses in International Nickel and Quemont pulled the group down slightly from the early gains.

A few issues ranging from five to 10 cents appeared in western oils.

MARMORA

A. Sheridan Heads Marmora, Lake Poll

Marmora—Monday's election in Marmora and Lake township, in which the voting was light in most polls, furnished some interesting results. Heading the poll was Arthur Sheridan, by a sepiarat o ection, with 229 votes. Gordon Street United Church and Newt Thompson.

The executive organized a membership drive and to date have listed 200 members including all nationalities in the city between the ages of 13 and 19 years old.

Although many of the members are ardent followers of sport and take part in all branches of athletics the organization sponsors charity dances and social functions as their means of recreation.

Charles Kelly, councillors of several years' standing, were defeated. Ex-councillor Irwin McCoy was accorded the reverse by acclamation at the nomination meeting on November 25.

Co-Discoverer Of Teck-Hughes Mine is Dead

Toronto, Dec 6 — (CP) — The death here Monday of Edward Chaput, 70, has severed a link with pioneer days in Northern Ontario mining.

Chaput, one of the first mining prospectors in the north, was co-discoverer of the Teck-Hughes gold mine at Kirkland Lake.

Born at Le Passe, Que., he started prospecting while in his late teens. With James Hughes, he discovered the Teck-Hughes mine in 1914. He gave his nickname of "Teck" to the name of the mine.

Teck township embracing Kirkland Lake, and one of the richest gold areas in the world, also is named for him. So is Chaput-Hughes, an area adjoining Kirkland Lake.

With his profit from the Teck-Hughes discovery, Chaput entered the lumbering business near Kapuskasing. There he did contract work for the Pures Falls Pulp and Paper Company.

After a short retirement, he again became a prospector, when the Noranda mining ares in northwestern Quebec were opened about 1927. He was president of three companies in that area.

Following the outbreak of the Second World War, he entered the copper mining field, becoming president of the Webbwood copper firm that bears his name.

More recently, he was interested in development of zinc deposits in the Gatineau Valley of Quebec, just north of Ottawa.

He fit the description of the fellowing a heart attack, Chaput, "Chappy" to his friends, was a Monzart Mining Company, the Moosecur Mining Company and the East-Webb Mining Company.

Election Returns Quickly Given By New System

By far the best system of rapid compilation of returns was instituted at the city elections in the City Hall Council Chambers last night.

In former years, returns were taken by telephone and carrier, jotted down on large cards and hurriedly added when time permitted.

The new system, devised by County Treasurer Percy Denyes, assisted by County Assessor Leighton Thompson, was not only simpler in execution but far more rapid in promulgating accurate returns.

It is so simple as it is effective. The returns were taken by Thompson via telephone and given to Denyes, who simply added the returns to former totals. In this manner complete returns were available at all times.

Another new feature, one that worked in conjunction with the new system, was the posting of up-to-the-minute returns on a large blackboard placed in a conspicuous place at the back of the chambers. With Dr. Jack Marshall blocking the "chalk" spectators not only heard the returns as they came in, but in a few seconds were given totals to-date on the blackboard.

The new system not only facilitated ways and means of getting up-to-the-minute reports at the city hall, but was a great aid in the relaying of returns to the outside public through the media of newspaper office telephones and radio.

SENATOR FOR LIFE

Rome, Dec. — (Reuters) — Arturo Toscanini, 82-year-old conductor of the NBC Symphony was nominated a Senator for life Monday night in the Italian parliament. The appointment was made by President Luigi Einaudi under the Italian Constitution which allows the president to create five senators for life, chosen from the fields of music, art and science.

Home and School Assoc. Holds Attractive Bazaar and Tea

Shannonville—The Home and School Association held their yearly project in the form of a bazaar, supper and dance in the Orange Hall on Friday afternoon and evening. The results were indeed most gratifying to the Association and judging from the appearance of the supper table, no one went away hungry.

Supper was served cafeteria style from 4.30 to 8.30 p.m. in charge of the tables were Mrs. Norman Marsolier, Mrs. James Vesterfelt, Mrs. Jerry Parlee, Mrs. Boyce Cook and Mrs. Gordon Johnson. The meal was carved by Mrs. Kilburn and Mrs. Peter Marion had charge of the kitchen. The tables looked most attractive with the various colored serviettes against the white cloth.

In charge of the fancy work table was Mrs. Ernest Juby, Mrs. Stanley MacDonald, Mrs. Helen Louis, and Mrs. Herb Brant. This was indeed a mecca for Christmas shoppers and was a fine sample of the amount of work accomplished by the Sewing Club of the Association. Noted on this sales table were hand-painted pictures, stuffed animals, aprons, quilts, flowers, dresses, embroidered towels, and tea cloths, tatted hankies, laundry bags and crocheted chesterfield sets. The appearance of the table was enhanced by a tiny decorated Christmas tree.

Most Attractive Display

The "White elephant" sales table was most attractive with its beautifully decorated Christmas tree and the varied articles for sale. On view were articles ranging from clothes to potted plants; also noticed were pictures, magazine racks, glassware, toys and articles of clothing, all of which were most reasonably priced. In charge of these sales were Mrs. Gordon Johnson and Mrs. Boyce Cook.

Mrs. Margaret Hill was the convener of the home cooking table. This table was graced with a Christmas tree and an attractively decorated Christmas cake, which had been made by Mrs. Percy Hollowell. Needless to say, this table was soon sold out of its delicious appearing cakes, tarts and cookies.

In charge of the receipts for the afternoon were Betty Parlee and Mr. Walley Brant. Mrs. Fred Louis was treasurer for the dance, and Mr. Carman Brant had charge of the refreshment booth.

The home made chicken pie served furnished the music for a very enjoyable dance. Members of the orchestra were: Mrs. Herb Brant, pianist; Mrs. Ruby Louis, guitar; Mr. Marshall Louis, violin, and Mr. Carl Fuller, guitar.

Credit for this fine project is due the president, Mrs. Kilburn, and all the members of the Association who gave so freely of their time and effort.

Students Council Project Presented To Home, School Club

Last evening at the meeting of the Collegiate Home and, School Association the Students' Council presented their project of securing and developing a suitable athletic field for the pupils and school. Mr. Homer Townsend, athletic director aided Leo Marcoux, president of the council, in outlining briefly the urgent necessity for the project. Many of the mothers and fathers voiced their opinions and asked questions.

Several locations were suggested, but location was not important—for the real emphasis was definitely put on the unanimous decision of accepting the project. The athletic field would not only accommodate school athletics but could easily be used for city and district interest and that should prove a real asset to the city. In the interest of smaller children sufficient space is hoped to provide them with the playground swings and slides and the real healthy time passing apparatus.

Such a field is definitely needed to make the friendly city which is developing at such a pace in size and true sport appreciation spirit, one of the best.

MONDAY'S VOTING

Voting on Monday set a record for the number of ballots cast which was to be expected as the voting population now is the largest in the city's history. There were spirited contests in every phase of the election. In the mayoralty no fewer than 5,898 ballots were cast, Ald. Jack Allin winning by a majority of 1,026, his election being early forecast as he was seen to be piling up a steadily mounting lead from the earliest polls reported. Heavy polling took place for the aldermanic seats and in this contest the feature was the leadership early taken by Dr. Richard Potter which grew as the reports of the polls continued to pour in. He secured 3,212 votes. Second came Fred H. Deacon with 2,606 votes. In third place was a veteran alderman, Charles L. Hyde, followed by a former member of the city council, ex-Ald. McLean Haig. Ald Claude Tice, another veteran of council who has served four years, was returned in fifth place. Ormonde Butler, an ex-alderman, was the sixth elected and Ald. William Argue, who made his first trial, was chosen for the seventh place.

In the Board of Education elections H. C. Seldon, long a member of the board, was re-elected at the top of the poll. A newcomer took second place, A. C. Wilkin, a retired principal of Queen Victoria School. Third came Fred Symons, who made his first entry into an election for the trusteeship and Miss Josephine Tickell, a member of the board for a number of years and chairman for the year now closing, taking the fourth seat.

Opposition at the three by-laws was overwhelming. That to increase the membership of the Public Utilities Commission from three to five commissioners lost by 3,469 to 917. The proposed increased grant to the Parks Board went down by 1,800 to 418 and city Hall renovation project was all lost by 1,973 to 315. The voters seemingly took a realistic viewpoint feeling that the present time was not opportune and the scope of the plans were not such as to satisfy the bulk of the people.

BRITAIN'S TRADE WITH CANADA

Revised figures by the United Kingdom Board of Trade show that exports to Canada in October exceeded the September figure by more than £1 million—with a value of £6,400,000.

The vehicles group made a big contribution to this trade expansion, the total exports of locomotives, ships and aircraft having a value of more than £1,000,000 (bringing the total for the year to date to £13,800,000). Exports of woollen goods were the largest of all at £1,159,000—against £974,000 in September.

Pottery showed a sharp rise on September of 33 per cent — £542,000 in October against £407,000 in September, followed closely by the non-ferrous metals group which exported £508,000 worth against £147,000 in September.

Other principal export items were cotton yarns, £249,000; chemicals, more than £200,000; and iron and steel manufactures at £205,000.

The biggest item on the list of imports to the United Kingdom from Canada was grain, with a total value of 29,000,000, which brings this group to more than £85,000,000 for the first 10-months of 1949. Imports of dairy produce totalled £1.4 million, bringing the total for the year to date to £8,400,000.

Shipments of wood and timber to the United Kingdom valued at £3,500,000 brings this group to £23,900,000 for the first 10 months of this year.

Imports of non-ferrous ores, and manufactures therefrom were £3,700,000, bringing the total to date to £27,800,000.

It is important to note that the United Kingdom imported from Canada vehicles to the value of £1,500,000 bringing the total to date to £8,100,000.

ORGANISTS' GIFT A TRIBUTE

The Cathedral of Coventry which passed through the disastrous air raid of November 14, 1940 and was destroyed except for the glorious tower and spire and bese walls of the nave, has received from Canadian church organists the gift of more than $60,000 raised for the purpose of furnishing a new organ. Announcement of the gift was recently made. Rubble has been cleared from the Cathedral ruins and the site is now laid out with lawns and rock gardens.

The gift is a magnificent gesture on the part of church organists in this country as a tribute to the Church of England in the Motherland.

BOW TIE PIONEER

I was the lonely man at whom
Went titters round the living room.
"A bow-tie chap — a little mad —"
When grosgrain neckwear could be had
They'd say, "Afraid of gravy spots,
He sticks to bows with polka dots."

I hear the laughter and the sneer
From many a friend for many year
"Who ties it for you?" they would ask,
As if it were a tricky task.
"I do," I'd say and then remark,
"And I can't do it in the dark."

I was the bow tie pioneer,
Subject to every jibe and jeer—
Cutting or dull, at the command
Of those who wore the four-in-hand.
But, time has changed all that now
— and how!
The governor's wearing bow ties now!

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE AMERICAN DOLLAR

The most sought after medium of exchange in the world is the American dollar. Of course there are reasons for this that are obvious. It is a stable currency and has a national character background, solvency, inventive genius, freedom of opportunity, and a will to achieve, have made the American dollar a symbol of hope all over the world.

There are five significant words on this dollar, as well as on most of its lesser portions, and these are: "Liberty" and "In God We Trust." These words are typical of what have made America great, and the envy of all other nations. Any nation can be great and powerful that will give Liberty to its people and trust in God. No nation can long endure otherwise, no matter how rich its resources may be.

I go into a book store and see thousands of books, expressing the thoughts at endless numbers of human beings, covering every topic conceivable— freely written, and for sale to whom each may most concern, and those words run through my mind — Liberty, in God we trust. I look out from my office, high above the street, the street teeming with humanity, and I see the great structures in the most modern fashion, climbing high into space, and again I have those words rushing through my mind — Liberty, in God we trust.

At night time I stand and look out upon the lights of the great city in which I live, and the sight is almost unbelievable. Millions of lights and millions of people moving about unmolested and in their homes, and the machinery of the "unbelievable city" running as smoothly as if it were a mere clock ticking off the hours. Simple, yet so miraculously efficient. Underground and overhead, rolling billions of miles of wire, water pipes and other essentials to the life of a city.

The American dollar—yes, but behind each dollar have been its genious minds, working hands, muscle and might! Things of enterprise and pride, because of Liberty, and in God we trust. The American dollar—a symbol of work and doing a job for freedom, abroad, as well.

BILL DAMAGED

Trenton, Dec. 6 (CP)—A two-dollar bill was given a going over in a bottle-washing machine here Monday—but still is the same value. The bill was completely blank on the reverse side and badly faded on the face. To redeem the bill, the owner must make a statutory declaration, telling how the bill was damaged.

Old Country Letter:

Blast at 'Tea Breaks' in Britain Causes Surprising Little Reaction

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

It sounded like blasphemy, but by jove! There it was in black and white.

Stilling the cosy chatter of tongue in a cuppa, British officialdom made this broaen charge!

That drinking in doing this country more harm than whisky drinking ever did!

Who was stirring this latest tempest in a teapot? Britons blinked and took a second look. The article appeared in the Express under the byline of John Gordon, that blighter had covered his tracks.

He attributed the statement to "knowledgeable, experienced" man, but gave no other clues.

Collective Culprit

If Britons worried setto for collective blame there was no end available. In Nottingham, the Royal Institute of Public Architects estimated that "tea breaks" by workers added £30 (963) to the cost of building a house.

Gordon himself shyly implied that British coal is a long way further toward bridging the dollar gap if people would cut out morning and afternoon breaks for tea.

Slender reaction to this unexpected assault on that thoroughly English institution "a nice cup of tea," was surprisingly mild. True a Watford grocer-tea lover wrote the Daily Telegraph that tea breaks save time in the long run because "workers return refreshed" but she seemed to be a minority of one.

Wrote Marjorie Barton from Mundon, Essex:

"I drink much of the 44-hour week but nobody admits that it is really the time it cut down to 3-4 hours per week by morning and afternoon tea breaks."

This habit—unknown, I think, in America and on the continent —seems to have become universal throughout England . . . there seems to be nobody today in factory, shop or office who has not more than two to three hours' work without a stop for refreshment and gossip."

Tea Tax

Another correspondent estimated ten intervals cost a firm employing 1,000 people £1,000 or 500 a year.

Meanwhile, Sir Alan Herbert purred contentedly. The noted playwright, parliamentarian and scribe had forecast the whole thing four years ago when he told Commons he planned to be buried in the same extent as whiskey. «

"If this country is going to go on drinking £50 million worth of whiskey and gin which are available to people—it will go down in a cataract of tea."

World Stock-Pile Of Wool too Low For Requirements

By FORBES RHUDE

A picture of Canada, province-by-province, is expected to be a feature of the Canadian International Trade Fair, May 29-June 9. Provincial exhibits call for exhibits depicting the resources, products and industrial development of each province.

These will be directed especially to catch the attention of foreign exhibitors who may be interested in setting up branch plants in Canada.

Fair officials now are making a country wide tour to find out how the fair may best serve the interests of each province.

H. Roy Jones, fair administrator, is visiting Western Canada, while Col. R. F. Parkes, another fair official, is touring the Maritime provinces and Newfoundland.

The fair will be held on the third since its establishment in 1946 at the Toronto Canadian National Exhibition grounds at Toronto.

Canada News, publication of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers, Ltd., states that world carryover reports indicate that world wool production in 1949 was approximately 1,944,000,000 lbs. There will be no suggestion that production will meet consumption needs. It adds:

"The picture presented is that the world's supply of wool by the 1951 will be reduced to less than 1,000,000 metric tons, which would certainly fall far short of only a little more than half a year."

Wool News also comments:

"Competition in the sheep classes at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair held in Toronto Nov. 18th to 26th, has been keen; there has been a deplorable decrease in Canada's sheep population, and the few sheep breeders left have concentrated themselves in pure-breds have not much faith in the sheep industry.

"Not a few deplored the continued slaughter of choice ewe lambs at a time when breeding ewes are so scarce. The need for a policy of encouragement was emphasized and several point out that it was time to elevate sheep raising from the lowly position of a 'side-line' to its proper place as an important industry on most farms."

Mackenzie's Column:

British Lion Roaring Angrily Against U.N.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

There is no doubt that the British Lion is roaring angrily over what he considers the failure of the United Nations to be a knot of effectives.

This indignity was inflicted last Friday when the U.N. Assembly, overriding British opposition, adopted several measures calling for more information about the world's non - salt - governing peoples. The action came on the heels of a declaration by Hector McNeil, British Minister of State, that his country couldn't accept international interference with any areas now under the British flag.

This particularly outspoken reaction was voiced by Lord Beaverbrook's London Sunday Express which declared the British are "making its first move to pluck out the British beam in the eye." The paper urged Britain to withdraw from the U.N., and asserted:

"Britain is not feeding on the lion because they think he is starving. They feed on the lion because he is life, vigor and a good row in his throat."

There is, of course, no reason to think for a moment that Britain will withdraw from the U.N. in the peace organization. However, it is apt to apply its veto more and new remedies which extend to vicious circle.

SKIN TREATMENT OFTEN MORE DAMAGING THAN DISEASE

Belief in "healing" properties of various substances and chemical applications in skin disease, is more lamable today than it was in the days of old. Many ancient beliefs have not been similarly corroborated by the march of time and science.

The ancients took great stock in the combination of several ingredients as "healing" agents when applied to the skin or when swallowed. The theory behind this seemed to be that if one ingredient didn't do the trick, some other one might. Early in the present century, the "shotgun" prescription was much in vogue. This consisted of the administure of a great many different ingredients, all specified in the hope that the chief ingredient assumed to be much impressed by the ability of the doctor to know of all these ingredients.

In general, modern day prescribing is much more restrained but one main drug is specified, possibly with one or two others as more as "vehicles" or carrying media which serve to expedite the application of the chief ingredient. Thus ointments which may be made of a wide variety of greasy or oily substances serve to facilitate the spread and retention of the active ingredient over a considerable area of skin.

Many persons who suffer from skin disorders find it fascinating to experiment with various ointments, salves, powders and lotions, often with no concept whatever of the principles and ingredients. The printing of the formula upon the face of the package, if and when it appears, is of very little help if the name and action of the drug is unknown to the consumer, which invariably is the case.

The average person impatiently "shooting" for a quick cure often applies the self-prescribed medicament upon the assumption that if a little is good, more is better, and if it is "strong medicine" is advised, a vigorous application should be made to the skin. If quick results are not obtained, some other product is employed, perhaps with more vigor, and that failing, still another and another.

Many of these cases, finally coming to the attention of a physician, are found to be not true skin diseases, primarily, which have been aggravated or complicated by the patient's own administrations. Others are found to be skin diseases of such severity due to the application of irritating drugs. As the original disease progresses more complicated due to the patient's self-administered treatments, the patient not recognizing the cause and nature of the condition, is apt to apply even more and new remedies which extend to vicious circle.

In a little self-tinkering is perhaps harmless enough when a slight rash, blemish or lesion develops in the skin. A person can't be running to the doctor in fear of every trifling malady he may develop. Still the application to the skin of a "remedy" touted to be good for you in a stupid procedure unless you have some knowledge of what you have and what the proposed remedies. If the formula is all Greek to you and you don't know what you have, then may safely satisfy your lonsporary zest for research in dermatology, and possibly do yourself some good by resorting to Old Doc Sutherland's little booklet "Save Your Skin," which I s'll be glad to send upon receipt of twenty-five cents in coin accompanied by a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Several newly discovered drugs known as "antibiotics", of which penicillin is the outstanding one is example, have been found to be extremely helpful in some skin diseases caused by infectious agents. These drugs may be administered by mouth or by ointments, directly to the skin. In common with all drugs the antibiotics may occasionally give rise to unloward reactions tention of the user, and should be unusually sensitive to them. I offer no further use for this one of these drugs here, for the reason that I believe that they should be employed only by a physician on the scene following a personal examination and specific diagnosis.

Cramps in Legs

Want to thank you so much for advising me to take Ca and Vi for cramps in legs. I had been awakened many nights by these painful cramps and had in vain tried to get relief for many years...within two weeks I noticed wonderful relief and now have practically no trouble. (Mrs. C. A.)

Answer—It is tatsey. Available on written request (a clipping will bring the reply) is the pamphlet Adult Vetsey and Growing Pains, giving dietgof servings being your address.

Unfortunate Indeed

Several young mothers drop in at the tavern to see the television. Each has a child, one aged 9, 13 and 14 months, drink beer from their glasses and laugh at me when I express surprise about it. Indeed only the bartender... (S. K.)

Answer—Indeed it is unfortunate. Unfortunate for society that such mothers should be permitted to bring children into existence.

The PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

A book I have lost for years (Tiger Dunlop's "Recollections of the War of 1812," first edition) turned up in the mail the other day with nothing to say or anybody to indicate who had returned it.

The last time I remember seeing it was somewhere in the 1920's, but I had lost it by then and could recall. For the past fifteen years or more, I have had to get along with a reprint edition which, of course, is no good at all. You don't get the same thrill handed with old Tiger Dunlop, as it were, with a reprint of a reprint. The old book, with my father's and my grandfather's autographs in it, was something else. It was tremendous arrival at my house. You could almost hear the trumpets. I self had dropped in for a chat. All other plans were forgotten, suspended, while I sat down and re-read the book for the twentieth or thirtieth time. Then it took another half hour to arrange and re-arrange the book shelves so as to get the "Recollections" as nearly in its proper niche as possible—the one it had occupied twenty years ago.

This, naturally, resurrected the memory of other books that should have been next, next but one, next to "Recollections". And in a number of soothing half hours, I was in a state of suspicion and misery over the discovery that half a dozen others were missing. One absence led to another. . . .

Then came the usual entire arrangements of my book shelves had to be torn apart, the books had to be torn apart, or creeping over and lodging down in, behind, . . . with a result that I knew I was really have to look.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A GESTURE, AND A GIFT

In a most arresting book which has been published recently, entitled "THE GESTURE OF GOD," by GOUGH, by Schwarz, one of the many refugees who contributed different chapters tells of a gracious act of mercy conferred upon her one day by a German woman. The ex-refugee who wrote this account was being taken to a concentration camp, and although it was mid-winter, she was wearing only summer clothes. A German woman who was passing, stopped and looked at the pathetic spectacle. Tears rolled down her cheeks. She impulsively slipped her own fur coat over the shoulders and threw them to the Jewish refugee.

Sometimes we have the idea that the whole of Germany agreed with Nazi cruelty and applauded it. Probably the majority did, but there were still many kind Christians found in Germany during the war, and there are still a few left even on the sly.

What an impression that pair of woolen stockings made on the Jewish refugee! The unwearying pitying pathos she tells now of the kindness of the woman who gave her the woolen stockings. It was more than a gesture of friendliness. It was an assurance that somewhere in the world there still was kindness and sympathy in the heart of man was in misery and need.

That is what Christmas in world makes in our lives and in the life of the world if we all could be Christians. It would end the misery and suffering which is found about us all the time.

STIRLING

Dr. W.J. Johnson Tells Young People Today Is One of Opportunity

Stirling—The High School concert, commenced was held in the community hall on Wednesday evening and was attended by a large audience.

Principal J. L. Good acted as chairman and after his address of welcome introduced C. I. Hatton, chairman of the Board of Education, who thanked the parents for there co-operation with the staff in the education of their children. He urged the students to work hard for their teachers that success might be attained and gave a brief outline of the High School Area, and the work being done leading to the erection of a new public school.

Members of the Stirling High School choir under the direction of Mrs. R. Dorland rendered a group of three numbers "Bonny Charlie," "Song of the Thimble" and "Dry Bones," a Negro spiritual, with Miss Gena Vanderwater at the piano.

Short Skit

A short skit entitled "Posture College" was well portrayed by a group of girls of the senior classes with Douglas Lucy as master of ceremonies. Members of the cast were: Marilyn Vanderwater; Marilyn Eggleton, Ann Lavender, Barbara Roberts, Jean Green, Verna Sine, Lina Campbell, Donna Bateman, Ruth Welbanks, Roberta Good, D. Bartindale, M. McGee, Patricia Pollock, Helen Stapley, Laura McGee, Margaret Dyer, Eleanor Wells, Isabel Fox, Lois Mason, Mabel Seeney, Daisy Chapman, Eva Ann Bastedo and Doreen Sleeper.

Midway in the skit, three girls of the junior classes, Shirley Ackers, Shirley Rennie and Margaret Kent, danced the Highland Fling, with Miss Betty McConnell at the piano.

Guest Speaker

Dr. W. J. Johnson minister of Eggleton United Church, Toronto, was the guest speaker and delighted his audience with a humorous and thought provoking address on the subject "He who thinks he can, can." He was introduced by Mr. C. I. Hatton.

Following his opening remarks in which he related incidents of his travels to the United Kingdom, this past summer, Mr. Johnson said the present generation in certain limitations, and disabilities he who thinks he can, can. Illustrating this point he related the story of a young man, who, despite the fact that he was the sole support of a widowed mother and a sister, entered university, and through hard work and study eventually became the head of one of the largest universities of the United States. "We're all living in the same world, a busy, complex, and competitive world. But the big job for the right thinking people is to look beyond the life of competition to a greater life of co-operation. We need co-operation in every sphere of life.

Today, Great Opportunity

Speaking particularly to the graduating class Mr. Johnson stated there were those who were pessimistic as to the future but he preferred to look on the brighter side of life. In his opinion there will never be another opportunity as is offered the young people of today. Times were never more ideal.

In closing, he reminded the fathers and mothers present, that their boys and girls were the best crop they ever raised.

Principal Good voiced the appreciation of all to Dr. Johnson for a most inspiring address.

The training of the girls in the playlet and dance numbers was directed by Miss W. Ray assisted by Mrs. Gordon Bailey and Miss Barbara Roberts, while Mr. Garnet Ray directed the choir and Mr. Mahon had charge of the ushers.

The entire program was one of which the students and members of the staff may well feel proud. They are to be congratulated on its excellence.

MOIRA

Two Young Couples Honored by Friends

Moira — Thursday evening was spent by many Moira residents in welcoming by old fashioned chivari, two popular residents of Moira who have been lately married; Mr. Douglas Mumby and Mr. Clare Whitford.

The party, after gathering at the village store, proceeded to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Mumby, where a thunderous salute was tendered to Douglas and Joyce. Mrs. Mumby, having been forwarned, had delicious refreshments prepared and an exceedingly pleasant hour was spent by all. The party then journeyed down to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mullett's home, but as Clare and Shirley were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith of Holloway, they were visited there, where they were kindly received by a surprised young couple. Mr. and Mrs. Clare Mullett will reside in Moira; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Mumby south of Roslin, where Douglas has been engaged as cheesemaker for the coming year.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

White's District — Mrs. Gordon Gould, of Saskatoon, spent Monday with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Mooney, and the Rev. C. E. Manning and Bayside parsonage.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hunter, and Mr. Franklin Jones, of Belleville, also Mr. and Mrs. George Hillier, Sylvia and Larry, were last Sunday guests at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones, in honor of Mrs. Hilliam, who was celebrating her birthday.

Mrs. C. Rush was a Thursday visitor of Mr. and Mrs. D. Rush and family of Avondale.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dudley opened their home on Thursday evening for choir practice in preparation for the Christmas entertainment and Christmas day service.

Several from this district attended the shower at Bayside School on Friday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Christopher.

Mrs. D. Bowers opened her home on Saturday afternoon for practice for the primary and junior classes of White's Sunday School for the Christmas entertainment. She was assisted by Mrs. Leonard Young, and Mrs. Walter Sarles.

Sunday School and church services were held in White's Church on Sunday afternoon with a good attendance, despite the weather.

6TH TYENDINAGA

6th Tyendinaga—Over 80 people were at Moull's School house on Tuesday night at the showing of the films after which refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Mumby returned from their honeymoon Wednesday evening and the children gave them a very hearty, as well as welcome reception; the band consisted of shot guns, pipe shakes, etc., Mr. and Mrs McKenzie invited all into the house and served refreshments.

Mr. Wm. Boldrick is able to be out again after his recent illness.

Mrs. John Boldrick spent a couple of days in Belleville last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Beer and George, 4th Thurlow, were recent visitors at Mr. Walter Tyerion's.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Mumby, Moira, Mrs. C. Goodman and Alton spent Sunday at Mr. Lorne McKenzie's.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Lancaster and Ann spent one day last week at Hillier with friends at Mr. J. Goodman's, Frankford.

Mr. Wm. Boldrick threshed clover on this line on Saturday.

GOERING'S RISE

Wilhelm Hermann Goering rose from the German air force to become field marshal and economic director, second in official importance only to Hitler, and was designated as his successor.

COMMITTEE EYES

But now big names are being brought into it:

Wallace, who was fired from the cabinet by President Truman for siding too much with Russia on international policy, and Harry L. Hopkins, his intimate and adviser of President Roosevelt.

And tomorrow Wood's committee will question Gen. Leslie Groves retired, who ran the wartime atom bomb project. Committee officials said there may be 40 or 50 additional witnesses. But there is no indication yet when Wallace might be called.

Broadcaster Fulton Lewis, Jr., said Monday night that it was Wallace who "ordered the atomic materials sent to Russia" over Groves' objections.

Fabrication, Claimed

"Sheerest fabrication," Wallace retorted from New York.

It was a former U.S. Air Force major, George Racey Jordan, who brought Hopkins' name into the atomic tale. He did it first in a broadcast with Lewis Friday night and again in testimony to the committee Monday.

While he was stationed at the Great Falls air base during the war, Jordan said, Hopkins told him personally by telephone to hurry up atomic shipments to Russia and keep quiet about it.

Hopkins' son and the numerous former associates of the wartime land-lease administrator scoffed at Jordan's story.

Louis J. Russell, the committee's security investigator, revised the story of the Canadian uranium shipment in testimony Monday. It had been read in previous committee investigations.

Much of it was based on testimony given secretly in June, 1949, by German R. Rosenberg, a representative of a New York brokerage firm handling Soviet atomic materials orders.

Shipped From Fort Hope

Russell, reading a statement by Rosenberg, quoted it as saying that the Canadian radium and uranium corporation made shipment of uranium compounds through Rosenberg after an American firm could not fill the order.

Russell said the shipment, sent to a Russian purchasing agent in the U.S. directly from Fort Hope, Ont., comprised 500 pounds of black uranium oxide and 500 pounds of uranium nitrate.

(In Ottawa, Canadian government officials generally maintained silence on the uranium shipment, but informed opinion did not appear surprised at the suggestion.

(One Canadian informant, without identifying the specific instance mentioned by Russell, said it would not be greatly surprising if a small shipment of uranium oxide went to the Soviet Union in a year when large quantities of Canadian goods were flowing to Russia as a wartime ally.

(It was pointed out, however, that any shipment in 1943 would not be a private one since the Canadian government did not officially take over until 1944 when Port Hope refinery and the Eldorado Mining and Refining Company, Limited, and the company's uranium mines in the Northwest Territories.)

Sing Carols Without Mentioning Christ Child

Berlin, Dec. 6—(Reuters)—So-called school teachers in Saxony in the Soviet zone, have decided to take the "Christ" out of "Christmas" this year, the West German News Agency reported today.

Owl yfinee carols which make no reference to the Christ child will be sung—the teachers having passed a resolution that "the Christ child was officially abolished in Nazi days and should remain so now."

Local Christian democratic organizations have protested strongly, the Agency added.

Over 490,000 U.S. Tourists Used Centres

Toronto, Dec. 6 — (CP) — More than 490,000 United States tourists used the facilities of Ontario government reception centres this year, travel minister Louis P. Cecile revealed today.

The figure is well over that of 358,000 in 1948.

Busiest centre was that located in the Princess Elizabeth building at Niagara Falls with approximately 100,000 visitors, followed by that at Sarnia with 84,000, Windsor Tunnel 70,000; Sault Ste. Marie with 34,000 and the Windsor bridge 28,000.

Other centres in operation were located at Fort Frances, Pigeon River, Fort Erie, Ivy Lea, Prescott Cornwall, Kenora and Hawkesbury.

The travel department's staff answered nearly 18,000 local and long distance telephone calls on behalf of Ontario's guests and distributed through the centres more than 137,030 road maps.

Yule Dinner Party

The annual Christmas dinner party of the Soroptimist Club will be held Monday evening in Lattimer's Town Room. The tables were colorful with red, green and the yellow candles, and scintillating Christmas trees, making a very effective setting. Charades were enjoyed, and the familiar carols sung.

A short business period followed, when plans were finalized for the Christmas party to be held for the ladies at the County Home on Sunday afternoon. Assent was also given for the proposed piano recital to be presented by Neil VanAllen early in the New Year.

WEDDINGS

MUMBY—MacKENZIE

A pretty wedding took place recently at the home of the bride's parents, when Joy Alberta, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McKenzie, of Plainfield, was united in marriage, to Douglas Mumby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Mumby, Moira. The Rev. W. A. Cameron, of Belleville, officiated.

The pretty fair haired bride was lovely in her street length wedding gown of azure blue taffeta, with matching shirt long sleeves, and Peter Pan collar. Her Juliet headdress of pearls and white rose blossoms worn by her mother at her marriage, held in place the matching shoulder length veil. She wore a corsage of pink carnations and her only ornament was a string of pearls.

The bride entered the living room on the arm of her father to the strains of the Wedding March played by Mrs. C. Goodman.

Miss June Munns, Belleville, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, dressed in a floor length peau de soie gown with matching headdress and a corsage of pale mauve 'mums.

Mr. Lorne Mumby, brother of the bridegroom was best man.

During the signing of the register Mrs. Campbell sang "O Perfect Love".

The bride's mother received the guests, wearing a model of navy printed crepe and a corsage of yellow 'mums. The groom's mother wore a wine crepe with a corsage of cream roses.

The rooms were prettily decorated with pink and white streamers, white bells and potted plants. The dining room lace-covered table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake flanked with tall tapers in silver holders.

Delicious refreshments were served to about 25 guests consisting of the immediate families and a few intimate friends.

The Rev. W. A. Campbell proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom responded.

The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a chest of silver.

After the reception the young couple left amid showers of confetti for Toronto, Niagara, Buffalo and other western points. The bride chose for travelling a grey suit, and topcoat with red accessories.

They will be residing at Roslin cheese factory in the spring, where the groom will be making cheese.

U.S. Consulate's Right-Hand Woman Serves 20 Years

Montreal (CP)— Mrs. Louise deCourcy O'Grady, secretary to the United States consul-general here, has quite a record in the United States foreign service.

Mrs. O'Grady has served five consecutive consulo-general during her 20 years on the 10th floor of the Canada Building (not in downtown Montreal).

Her boss, Mrs. Ward H. Lawrence Groves, who retired recently after more than 30 years in the U.S. foreign service.

Mrs. O'Grady says she is sure that the consul-general will be just as interesting and as individual to work with as his five predecessors.

Born in Yonkers, N.Y., she came to Montreal with her father in 1927 after graduating from the Albright Art School in Buffalo. "Not that my artistic training has been of noticeable benefit to the foreign service," she adds with a grin.

Began in 1929

She took a business course in Montreal and came to the consulate in 1929, first as stenographer, later, in 1948.

Mrs. O'Grady says that the duties of a foreign general here, being mainly representative, are largely carried out by the behind-the-scenes work done by a highly-trained staff.

There are nearly 40-vice-consuls, secretaries, stenographers, clerks, typists and messengers beside the constant stream of daily business involving immigrants, exchange students, would-be American servicemen or the hapless who seem to have lost their passports.

However, the staff invariably has the effect of keeping equipment back to the amiable personality of Mrs. O'Grady, who has become something of an institution herself.

Her home is officially at Lake George, N.Y., and she usually manages a visit there once a month. She is a United States citizen—a state department regulation requires staff members of her position to be U.S. nationals.

But Montreal has become such a good second home to her that she is quite content to continue here.

Woman Hated to End 61 Years at School

Burwash, Eng. (CP)— Mrs. Mary Longley, 63, has retired after 61 years as teacher of the East Sussex village. She began as a pupil at four and stayed on as teacher.

"I enjoyed almost every day," said Mrs. Longley. "It was a terrible wrench to leave."

Overcome a Hollow Cheeked Look by Make-up, Right Now

To make your face look fuller here's a good trick: Apply rouge under the eye, then sweep it outward toward temple, down and back to starting point.

By HELEN FOLLETT

Fashion artists of the present moment are making their paper ladies look like famine victims; cheek bones prominent, faces gaunt. This is no consolation to the girl with hollow cheeks; she would much prefer to have a normally rounded facial contour. And she finds that in make-up she has a special problem.

To apply rouge low on the cheek bone, directly in the centre of the cheeks is a mistake. Rouge forms a shadow and this treatment will make the hollows seem even deeper. There is a special trick used by many beauticians that helps to give an appearance of health and facial fullness.

Under the Eyes

The rouge is applied directly under the eye. Then it sweeps outward toward the temple, descends, returns to starting point, leaving a fainter spot in the centre of the cheek. Natural blushes often take this form. By leaving the centre of the cheek lighter, the hollow is not accented.

Excessive thinness may mean that a girl is suffering from malnutrition. That is not surprising, considering the crazy eating habits of some of our over-active young ladies. There should be a medical check up and every effort should be made to bring weight to normal. More fat, sweets and starches should be added to the diet.

Breakfast should include fruit or fruit juices, a beverage, toast or bread, a soft boiled egg or several slices of bacon. The teeth of the finicky eater will go on edge at the mere thought of a maintenance breakfast, but after a few weeks, she will be ready for a man-sized meal and not enjoy it.

The doctor will order a quart of milk a day, rich, creamy milk, a glass with each meal, another at bedtime. Milk is not just a beverage; it is a food, containing many elements that are necessary for well being.

Social activities should be limited, exercise moderate, sleeping hours never less than eight.

Lost Problem Girls With War Marriages

Sydney, Australia (CP) —Sydney has never been so free of problem girls or had so few women charges under the law, says Sgt. Lillian Arnsfield, who is retiring after 34 years in the New South Wales police force.

Her reason? Many of the city's wayward girls are themselves deleted by a nine-day treatment. Scientists have discovered a drug, a butterfly or church bells.

One tatooer shaped a star on a woman's shoulder and Sgt. Arnsfield's knee cap and a flower in the middle of each petal. Price: £10.

Prices range from three shillings (40 cents) for a name to 15 shillings for a tiger or a woman's figure. Birds and butterflies cost 8s 8s., Indians 13 shillings and 8 handicap six shillings.

Boys Gather Acorns For British Forests

Berwick, Engl. (CP)— Suffolk children are filling their spare time gathering acorns for the British forestry commission.

The boys get threepence (four cents) a pound for the acorns, from which the commission is growing thousands of seedling oaks for the future forests.

The plan is for hardwood belts surrounding evergreen forests as protection against forest fires.

BRIDGE STREET W.M.S.

The December meeting of Bridge Street W.M.S. was held in the ladies' parlor on Friday afternoon with a good attendance.

The president, Mrs. W. H. Fields, was in the chair, Mrs. K. Bird led in the singing of Christmas carols.

Reports of the various secretaries and of the treasurer were read and passed.

Mrs. Erle Denyes and Mrs. A. J. Davis' group took charge of the program. The theme was "Our Faith in Jesus Christ". On a table at the front a cross had been placed in the centre with two white candles on either side.

Mrs. Davis read from the Christmas story from Luke 2; 1-20, with a background of soft music, and interspersed with a vocal refrain. The candlelight service was performed by Mesdames R. Howard, K. Bird, A. R. Denyes and H. Jeffery. After each candle was lighted a carol was sung. The lighted candles represented our faith in Jesus Christ, the Incarnate Son of God, the Light of the World, love, the Saviour of the world and the Risen Lord".

Mrs. J. Perrett and Mrs. Ryan delighted everyone with a lovely piano duet.

A Christmas recording "Why the Chimes Rang" in charge of Mrs. A. J. Davis was much enjoyed and showed the true spirit of Christmas.

The offering was received and dedicated.

Mrs. J. Houston sang "Thou didst Leave Thy Throne".

After the meeting closed Mrs. Denyes invited the ladies to remain for a social half hour.

BOWERMAN W.A.

Consecon — Bowerman's Women's Auxiliary met with Mrs. Cain on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alfred Broadbridge.

The president was called to order 15 minutes and roll call showed 11 members and 2 visitors present. Mrs. Arthur Morden gave the Scripture reading. Collection amounted to $3.90. Dollar day dues brought $9.00, a donation of $10.00 from W.A. was also handed in, proceeds of Christmas tea and sale of home cooking and for pillow cases made expense of $1.78.

A donation of $10.00 from W.A. was voted for Missionary and Maintenance also $10.00 was voted to Veterans of the Cross of $5.00. After the business the president, Mrs. Rae Ferguson, gave a reading and the Broadbridge sisters sang a duet. At the meeting closed delicious refreshments were served. Next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Rae Ferguson.

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. L. W. Scott, on Thursday with a fair number in attendance. The president, Mrs. Frank Doxtator, had charge of the opening service, which Mrs. Damon Hinchey presided at the piano.

The minutes of the last meeting were given by the secretary, and adopted as read. Mrs. Wilfred Sine sent her thanks by Mrs. C. Huntington for the shower of birthday cards she had received.

The treasurer, Mrs. E. Rickston, reported that the allocation of $190.00 had been reached, and Mrs. Percy Reynolds reported a balance of nearly $7.00 after buying organ and sending cards during the year.

Mrs. Doxtator thanked all for the help and co-operation during her term of office, and called on Mrs. Lloyd Hunting to read the slate of officers for 1950. Mr. Scott expressed thanks and appreciation to the retiring officers and her helper, Miss Winnifred Ackhardt for their faithful service in obtaining officers for the new year, which would be installed in January.

Mrs. Sam Elliott took charge and expressed her appreciation to the retiring president for her faithful and efficient work, recalled in the Christmas program, and the candle-lighting service, which followed, some lovely carols, and poems in which all took part.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Stanley MacDonald on January 5th. The following were appointed for office: President—Mrs. L. W. Scott; vice-presidents, Mrs. Charles Woods; and Mrs. William Houston; recording secretary and press reporter—Mrs. W. D. Masterson; treasurer — Mrs. Everett Stirling; pianist, Mrs. Fred Hinchey; Missionary Monthly secretary, Mrs. Sarah Bickneyer; assistant helper community friendship secretary—Mrs. S. MacDonald; temperance secretary, Mrs. Archie Greatrix; mite box secretary — Mrs. Russell Hinchey; literature committee—Mrs. R. Wescott; Mrs. K. R. Vivian; Mrs. Damon Hinchey, Charles Woods, Mrs. Everett Stratton, Mrs. Frank Doxtator, Mrs. Sam Elliott, Mrs. K. Vivian, and Mrs. Saul McFarlane.

After the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess and a social hour enjoyed.

AIKENS' W.M.S.-W.A.

A joint meeting of Aikens' Women's Missionary Society and the Woman's Association was held on Thursday afternoon last at the home of Mrs. S. Westover, with an attendance of 21 members and four Baby Band members. Mrs. C. Smith took charge of the W.A. meeting.

Several items of business were attended to. Mrs. Smith thanked all for their help in carrying on the work of the W.A. during her term of office as president.

Mrs. Westover moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Smith and the retiring officers for their efficient work during the year, and wished Mrs. W. Bush, the new president, the best of health and success in the W.A. for 1950.

Mrs. S. Westover took charge of the W.M.S. meeting. Reports of secretaries and treasurer were given and plans made for a white gift service to be held Dec. 11, at the church after the regular church service at 2:30 p.m.

Mrs. C. Grills was appointed convener of this service with help from the Mission Band.

The president thanked all officers and members for their loyal support and co-operation during her two years as president and Mrs. Westover and prayer closed. Mrs. Grills brought in the slate of officers for 1950. They were capably installed by Mrs. Westover in a beautiful and impressive installation ceremony.

Mrs. R. Marshal led in a fine Christmas service, with carols throughout "Our Faith in Jesus Christ". Scripture was read by Mrs. C. Keary, Mrs. K. Jones and Mrs. E. Hubble.

Several more sung and candles were lighted to represent our faith in Jesus Christ the Incarnate Son of God, The Saviour of the world and The Risen Lord.

Mrs. Jas. Stafford was at the piano solo in keeping with this service.

Mrs. M. Jeffery sang "Come Thou Long Expected Jesus".

Mrs. Marshall closed with the benediction closed this beautiful candlelighting service.

The president announced the allocation of $225 had been met for the year.

The hostess and the committee in charge served dainty refreshments.

Huntingdon East W.I. Holds Enjoyable "At Home"

Moira—Huntingdon East W.I., recently held a social evening in Thomasburg I.O.O.F. Hall. An interesting as well as entertaining program was conducted. Mr. Cecil Geen was chairman bringing greetings to the W.I. members, wishing them success and prosperity in their work. Previous to the opening, Misses Lola and Evelyn Emerson entertained with instrumental music on the piano followed by a sing song.

Mrs. Harry Harrison recited "An Afternoon Composition in School," which brought much laughter; she was also heard in a short encore. A duet followed by Messrs Norman McConnell and Eric Summers, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Mac Sharpe, all of Sawdon. They were heartily applauded, singing as an encore "Birmingham Jail." Mr. Gerald Chisholm, of Port Hope, gave two nice selections on his electric guitar, accompanied by Miss Geraldine Collins, Mrs. Harrison was heard again in a humorous selection "John Says," followed by a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Eric Summers, playing his own accompaniment on the guitar entitled "Lamp Lighting Time in the Valley."

Mr. Geen then called on the president Donald Holbert, who in a few words, expressed her appreciation to all who helped in any way to make the "At Home" a success.

At this time, the lucky door prize was awarded and little Elsie Martin drew the ticket from the box with Master Garnet Mumby of Thomasburg winning a lovely embroidered pillow centre.

Everyone partook of sandwiches, cake and coffee. This was followed by dancing, music provided by the Collins family of Port Hope.

Friends were present from Ivanhoe, Rawdon, Tweed and Trenton. Proceeds were $17.65.

Young People's Union

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Thompson opened their home on Tuesday evening to the Young Peoples Union. The president, Mr. Douglas Thompson, conducted the worship service. Misses Gwen Carter and Patsy Calbourg played a duet. Marie Cooney gave an interesting reading.

The discussion period on Missions was led by the Reverend M. Clarke. Interesting refreshments were thoroughly enjoyed.

Girls Hold First Meeting Of New Club

The first club meeting for the Winter was held in the home of the leader, Miss Betty Dempsey. The assistant leader is Miss Marie Hall. In spite of a severe snowy night, there were eight girls present. After the election of officers the club was informed the project was to be "The Supper Club" and each member was given her instruction book, and the "Home-making Club" pins. Each girl was also also how to keep the record books.

Miss Lont did an experiment which was outlined in the instruction book. Before next meeting the girls are to bring the name of a name for the club, and a theme song. The second meeting will be held at the home of Joanne Storms, early in December.

Mrs. Dempsey and Betty served delicious refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, tarts, jelly cake and coffee.

The following officers were elected: President, Margaret Adams; Secretary, Vivian Adams; Press Reporter, Joyce Storms; Leader, Betty Dempsey.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about Food ... What's Cooking?

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

Housewives could learn a thing or two about efficiency from business men.

Cooks who are guilty of contributing to the full garbage pail might observe the art of economy as practiced by butchers who use all of the pig but the squeal and all of the hen but the cackle.

It might be instructive to see poultry plants where they not only use every ounce of the chicken and carcass but go on to make colored trays, dishes, cloth and yarn from the chicken feathers.

In France the comb of a rooster is always saved to use as a garnish for sauce, while fat shanks and feet are boiled for gelatin.

No cook should ever be guilty of discarding chicken fat. It can be used in almost any sauce and even in some forms of pastry. Preparing chicken fat as shortening is merely a matter of cooking it over a very slow flame until it is melted down and then storing it in the form of cake. Such duck fat and turkey fat can be rendered in the same way.

Chicken fat is indispensable for imparting a chicken flavor to dishes like croquettes and cadercoles where left-over chicken is combined with other meats. Use chicken fat as the starter for making chicken and avocado; use chicken fat in the sauce.

Chicken and Avocado on Toast Serves 4

Melt 3 tablespoons chicken fat in a heavy saucepan. Don't let fat smoke. As soon as it is melted, add 1-2 pound of fresh mushrooms washed and cut in 1-4 inch thick slices. Use the caps and stems of mushrooms. Do not peel mushrooms.

Simmer slowly until mushrooms are tender about 5 minutes. Mushrooms should be golden brown. As soon as they are soft, remove mushrooms from flame and add 2 tablespoons flour, mix well.

Gradually add 1-4 cup dry sherry and 1-2 cups of hot chicken broth. Add 2 cups of diced cooked chicken. Chicken that has been boiled is better than roast chicken which is usually too dry. Simmer. Add 1 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Simmer slowly for 20 minutes.

Cut 1 medium size avocado into cubes about 1-2 inch thick. Add to creamed mixture. Simmer 5 minutes more. Keep hot in double boiler If not served immediately. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Serve on toast, on patty shells or on split warm biscuits.

Do you want a particular recipe, or have you a cooking problem? Write Mario, care this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope for his reply.—Ed.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Boys Prefer "Mr." to "Master"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have two godsons in their early teens, and several nephews, around that age or younger, and would like to know how to address the Christmas cards I am going to send them. That is, with "Master" or "Mr." before their names, or with just the name without a title before it?

Esther B.

All boys, no matter how young, like to have their letters and cards addressed to "Mr." Although "Master" is correct for very young boys, twelve and under, "Mr." is just as correct, and more acceptable to the boy. And I don't see why a very young boy shouldn't have "Mr." before his name, just as a very young girl has "Miss" before her name . . . the title before her name doesn't very just because she is "very young."

And concerning the last part of your question . . . always, on an envelope or card, write a title before the name of a boy or girl of any age. It is rude not to write the title before the name.

Informal Home Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A very dear friend of mine is going to have an informal home wedding in December. (1) Should the receptionist be dressed formally or informally? (2) How should the guests be seated?

F. A. E.

(1) I'm not sure what you mean by "receptionist", but whatever her social responsibility, she should be dressed informally, consistent with the type of wedding. (Usually it is the bride's mother who 'receives' the guests as they arrive for the wedding, standing near the entrance of the room in which the ceremony is to take place. (And since she is the hostess in her own home, she does not wear a hat.) (2) At a house wedding the guests usually are not seated . . . although several chairs should be left in place for any elderly guests who wish to be seated. After the ceremony the guests stand chatting together, and then, just before the entrance of the wedding party, the relatives and friends of the bride take their places at the left of the ceremony-place, and the relatives and friends of the groom take their places at the right.

To Wear Mink Scarf with Green Suit for Informal Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am forty-six years old, and am to be married soon in a Catholic church. I thought it would be more appropriate for me to wear a suit, and so I am wearing a forest-green suit, and a small green hat. For my wedding present by prospective bridegroom is giving me a natural mink scarf of dark shades. Would it be proper for me to wear this in church for the ceremony? And if not, would brown orchids pinned on the fur scarf be the right thing? Or would it be better taste for me to carry a prayer-book with an orchid on it?

S. W.

This question as to whether or not to wear your small mink scarf depends entirely on your preference, and the weather. Even if you do decide to wear it, I suggest that you wear your small brown orchids on your suit, so that if you take off the scarf, you will not need to transfer the orchids from scarf to suit. And yes, the brown orchids are an excellent choice, one of the loveliest variety of orchids, I think, and particularly lovely with the shade of green of your suit.) If you prefer, you may carry a prayer-book, but this although correct with a suit, is not customary as wearing a corsage.

Have to Have Trim Ankles

If ankles are too fat, massage may be helpful. Using a good hand cream, rub up and down from the top of foot to a point halfway up leg.

By HELEN FOLLETT

Skirts short, skirts long, skirts betwixt-and-between, it doesn't matter; a girl wants ankles slender and pretty like those of a deer. With smart stockings and perfectly designed shoes of the latest mode, she will feel as if she were putting both feet forward, instead of just the right one, as she marches along the good looks way.

Knowing that appearances below the knee line are precisely what they should be, and is bound to be a pretty stepper. Movements will be light and graceful. She knows that the habit of plodding along, locomoting casually, without spirit, will not keep leg and ankle muscles strong, resilient and snappy, as they should be.

If your ankles do not qualify as to appearance, let your slogan be: "Keep on your toes." Walk tip-toe whenever the opportunity offers. Up high on the toes; come down slowly. Come up on the toes of both feet, take a step forward, then down on the heels and so on. There will be a strong pull on the muscles along the calves up to the knees.

Massage Is Helpful

If ankle bulk is caused by fat, massage will be found helpful. If it is heavy enough, enough pressure used, adipose cells will evaporate.

Anoint with a cream that is heavy enough to offer resistance to the manipulations. Rub up and down from the top of the foot to a point midway between ankle and knee.

Form a bracelet with fingers and thumbs of both hands, clasping the ankle, rubbing one way with one hand, pressing in the other direction with the other, moving both hands up for a distance, then down again. The heavier the pressure, the better. Remove the cream, friction with an icecube.

Dark stockings will make large ankles look smaller, those of lighter shades are a happier choice for the skinnies. Lovely spions are a big help toward smart appearance.

Peru's Vicunas Yield Few Coats for U.S. Market

By RADER WINGET

New York (CP)— Coats made from a single rare that only 100 to 150 of them will be sold this year are coming on the market soon. They will be priced from $1,250.

The cloth is made entirely of fleece from the Peruvian vicuna —pronounced vee-coon'-ya.

The last batch of vicuna coats was offered two years ago. Nobody will venture a guess when there will be more.

Advertising writers tie themselves into knots when trying to describe what the cloth feels like, how light it is, how warm. One writer says simply: "It is the finest textile in the world."

Before you can get vicuna fleece you have to catch a vicuna. That's practically impossible. The cute, clumsy thing is to wait until the animal drops dead, and then find him.

The little vicuna lives high in the Andes Mountains in South America, mostly in Peru, Bolivia and Ecuador. It is akin to the camel, usually about 75 to 100 pounds.

South American Indians have hunted the vicuna since the days of the Incas. In the early part of this century they did it all too well, and the animals became alarmingly scarce. The government of Peru took the lead in conservation measures and enacted strict laws to preserve the animal and ration the fleece.

Shearing Banned

Trapping a vicuna is well nigh impossible because of the high altitudes of his home and the wildness of the animal itself. Shooting is illegal except under limited conditions. Domestication is difficult.

But when a Peruvian finds a dead vicuna, he shears the fleece and waits for the government to issue a permit for selling it. That's legal.

This year the Peruvian government permitted the sale of 1,600 pound of cleaned fibre to S. Stroock and Co. of New York.

The firm specializes in fine fabrics and vicuna is the prize of all its productions.

Assembling the fine down for the cloth is the first step in the difficult job. Only one-quarter pound of the fine hair is obtained from each animal after the coarse outer hairs are removed.

One vicuna fibre is 1-2300th of an inch in diameter. Sheep wool runs from 1-4000th to 1-2000th of an inch in diameter. Even with all precautions, only more than half of the weight of vicuna is lost in the manufacturing process. "It is the finest thing I've spears in the air," says Stroock.

The weight of the cloth is 17 to 18 ounces to the yard that is 56 inches wide.

This year Stroock is making 600 yards from the 1,600 pounds of fleece.

The wholesale price of vicuna cloth is $78 a yard, a price that the trade regards as nominal.

One retailer with a nationally famous name was allocated three vicuna coats one year. He spent more on advertising them for sale than he made in profit from the coats.

Letters for Santa Always Get Through

London— (CP) — When eight-year-old Pauline Webb saw her father put a form marked O.H.M.S. on the mantlepiece, she felt sure that the "S" had some connection with Santa Claus.

She got out her pencil, wrote a note to Santa, and tucked it in the envelope.

The form, the spring register of electors, was mailed to Lambeth Town Hall by Pauline herself just to make sure.

In her letter Pauline asked for a cooking set, please and a handbag, a spinning top, a ring and a bracelet and a box of crayons.

As a postscript she added ". . . handkerchiefs and pieces of material for my doll to keep her hands warm and a pair of socks for daddy."

Among Lambeth Town Hall's many departments is a missing persons bureau but even that didn't fell equal to trace Santa.

"So," said an official, "we have written to Pauline's father asking him to thank her for her letter, and we have passed on to him Pauline's list for Santa Claus."

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Wedding Plans

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 18 and engaged to be married. My boy friend and I had planned on getting married next April or at least the early part of the summer.

Last week when we were together he told me that he wants to get married this weekend. The only reason he gave for this quick decision was that he wanted to settle down now. But I don't believe that is the real reason.

Should I tell him that I want to stick to our original plan of getting married next April, or shall I ask him to tell me the real reason why he wants to change?

G. T.

Dear G. T.:

The best thing for you to do would certainly be to find out just why your young man feels as he does. You cannot even begin to work out a problem unless you know exactly what it is.

If there is between you and your fiance the type of mutual honesty that there should be between you and people alone, and are planning on getting married, he should be able to tell you exactly why he wants to hurry your wedding plans. Certainly you can't make any decision about what to do, without having this sort of talk with him.

How To Deal With Boys Who Want To Neck

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We are two girls with the same problem.

Whenever we have a date, the boys always try to neck with us the first night out. We do not consider a good-night kiss wrong, but we do like to get to know a boy first. We have the same trouble whether we double date or go alone, and we don't know how to cope with it any more. It is getting so we hate to date any more.

We do not think we give a cheap impression, and we try to keep a conversation going on a date because we have heard that boredom leads to necking.

Can you tell us how to stop boys from always trying to neck or at least how to control them pleasantly if they do try?

W. & L.

Dear W. & L.:

Somehow I think perhaps you aren't dating the right kind of boys. Moreover, any young men who are bent on necking are not going to be deterred by mere conversation.

Have you tried telling these characters plainly that you aren't interested? If they don't take that seriously, then you might try telling them that if they have not any better entertainment to offer, they can take you home.

What you do, of course, is to pick your friends from boys who are looking for good times and other good wholesome activities, so that when you go out with them you will find something planned for you to do instead of merely sitting around and talking. It is perfectly true that idleness can lead to trouble, and to turn you may result in the necking problem. Don't let yourselves be bored stiff by the boys you parked cars, either.

If you are clever enough to plan ahead how your dating time will be occupied, it should go a long way toward solving your problems.

Gets 300 Proposals Prefers City Street

London (CP)— The barrow girl with 300 proposals of marriage from all over the world cannot make up her mind about them.

It was her Rupert street stand in Soho that brought her fame.

When Eileen Cavalla handed in a 7,000-signature petition which has given Rupert street vendors she merely thought it the end of a "spot of work". Instead, her striking good looks stared back at her from newspapers and periodicals from all over the world.

"I've got over 300 proposals from America, Brazil, France, Holland and other countries," says Eileen.

A bumper Christmas parcel arrived from an Australian sheep farmer who wanted her to be his adopted god-daughter. A well-off Englishman wrote saying he was still young and lonely since his wife died. He went on to describe his estate, inviting her out at his own expense on a brief holiday.

A young South African liked her photograph and said he thought they could make a real go of it.

But in spite of all the luxury offered her, Eileen does not want to leave home and her mum and dad.

"I could have done quite a bit of globe-trotting in response to those lovely letters," she said. "But for genuine fun with plenty of happy laughter and friendly faces, I guess there isn't a spot in the world to beat our pitch." Eileen has also been offered a television appearance, a radio interview and work as a model.

Perennial Fashion Choice

By FRUNELLA WOOD

You can't beat a snowy white, hand embroidered shirt for winter suits . . . and mostly, we don't try to . . . we look for models like the tissue faille above, with its neat collas and cuffed sleeves, with its attractive spray and scroll design of embroidery worked lavishly across the front. Notice that the pearl bead buttons stop handily below the necklace point.

When Things Go Wrong

Even the best of cooks make mistakes on occasions, but the best cooks know how to correct their own mistakes and those of others or to disguise them. Many a poor cake has masqueraded as a very successful pudding.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, offer a few helpful suggestions for correcting some of these "kitchen accidents".

A custard sauce frequently curdles if it is cooked at too high a temperature or is cooked too long. The curdled appearance will disappear and the custard take on its accustomed velvety texture if the pan is set in cold water immediately, and the custard beaten vigorously with a rotary egg beater.

If the salt has been added to a cake batter too heavy a hand, a potato sliced into it will absorb some of the salt. The potato may be removed before serving.

The cold cooking onion stored under the kitchen sink may start to sprout. Don't throw it out. Set it in a jar or bowl with a little water, and watch the sprouts turn green. These fresh green sprouts will make excellent seasoning for salads, soups and some cooked vegetables.

Lumpy sauce or gravy is the bane of many a new cook. The lumps may be smoothed out by rubbing the sauce or gravy through a sieve. Better still is to make a sauce without lumps. If the proportion of fat and flour is correct and the liquid added slowly while stirring constantly, there should be no difficulty. 2 tablespoons fat, 2 tablespoons flour and 1 cup milk, water or stock is just right for a medium sauce or gravy.

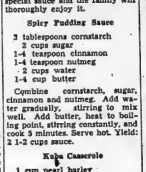
Seasoning is, of course, an individual matter but it also makes the difference between an insipid, and a delicately zest one, that calls for compliments.

Too much depends on salt, pepper and onion. This is one reason why left overs continue to be leftovers after a second appearance.

A bit of catsup, chili sauce garlic, horseradish, parsley or pickle will often transform an ordinary meat or vegetable casserole. Garlic and dried herbs add the unusual touch but must be added with a light hand.

Sometimes the cake that did not rise as it should may be reheated and served as pudding with a special sauce and the family will thoroughly enjoy it.

Spicy Pudding Sauce



3 tablespoons cornstarch
2 cups sugar
1-4 teaspoon cinnamon
1-4 teaspoon nutmeg
2 cups water
1-2 cup fat

Combine cornstarch, sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg. Add water gradually, stirring until well. Add butter, heat to boiling point, stirring constantly, and cook 5 minutes. Serve hot. Yield: 2 1-2 cups sauce.

Kuba Casserole

1 cup pearl barley
3 cups boiling water
3-4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons fat
1 tablespoons chopped onion
1 1-2 cups mushroms, cut in pieces
1 tablp. chopped parsley
1 teaspoon spicy meat sauce
1 cup left-overs (diced meat or stew)
1-2 cup milk or tomato juice

Wash barley and cook in boiling, salted water until tender and water is almost absorbed, about 30 minutes, drain. Melt fat, add onions and cook 2 minutes. Add mushrooms and parsley, cook until mushrooms are slightly browned. Add spicy meat sauce, meat, barley and milk. Mix well and, if not already covered, over low heat for 20 minutes longer or turn into a baking dish and bake in a moderately slow oven, 325 degree F., for 30 minutes. Yield: six servings.

A chair that offers support at the small of the back is a help, an insurance against a tired backache, since it does not permit a slouchy pose.

The knees should almost touch, feet be parallel, not more than a few inches apart.

Sitting with the body out of balance will eventually cause the muscles to ache and overwork. Thighs will thicken, hips will spread, that neat waist of which you may have been proud will take on an extra inch or two. That statement should scare any career girl into doing a little thinking. It has happened time and again, and there's no reason why it happen until all women show a greater interest in physical education.

Some form of daily exercise, preferably out of doors, is important if the youthful silhouette is to stay with one. Even a short, brisk walk, together with deep breathing exercises, will help a lot to ward off changes brought about by an accumulation of birthdays.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Every girl should be a pretty sitter

It is easy to be mindful of poise when one is walking. One is on parade, as it were. But many lovelies throw themselves entirely out of form when they sink into a chair. They seem to do an anatomical fold-up, spinal column losing poise, feet taking on ugly poses, knees crossed instead of the ankles. Grace and good lines disappear.

By this, teacher does not mean that there should not be repose, that a girl shouldn't relax and rest, or that the body should be upright and rigid. There are certain rules for sitting pretty that are easy to learn and should be kept along with other laws of pulchritude and charm.

Typists and desk workers who toil all day should become informed on this important subject. Not only because their figures are affected unfavorably by wrong poses, but because poor posture produces strain and unnecessary fatigue. Many career girls suffer from low-back slump every afternoon. They're all in, eager to beat it away from the job. Let them assume the correct position while working and they'll be as fresh as a daisy at closing time.

Sit far back in the chair. As much of the thighs should be on the chair seat as can be placed there.

The torso must be held high, as if it were drawn up by the head, though of course the body should not take on a rigid, unnatural rigidity. With the backbone curved in at the waistline, the chest lifts; it is impossible for the shoulders to fail forward, causing an awkward bulge on the upper portion of the back.

A chair that offers support at the small of the back is a help, an insurance against a tired backache, since it does not permit a slouchy pose.

Women Carpenters Kept Church Going

Winnipeg— (CP) — St. Timothy's Church in nearby North Kildonan is a church that women built.

Not that they constructed the building—but it was their prayers, hard work and money-raising efforts that brought the church into being and kept it going 25 years.

And when the church got a new coat of paint two years ago, it was the women and young girls who doffed their makeup and plitched in with paint brushes.

This summer the church was lifted and a basement constructed, complete with self-stoking furnace—much to the enjoyment of the woman janitor, Mrs. T. W. Norris.

A front porch was added and two women in the congregation, Mrs. H. H. Hooper and Mrs. P. Thomlinson, got busy with hammer and nails to help the men.

Mrs. Norris' mother, Mrs. J. Holland, and the late Rev. W. R. Johnson were two of the founders and helped erect the original church. When cold weather set in the congregation had to move out of their small, unheated church and meet in a nearby hungalow. Lately, through the efforts of several women's organizations, sufficient funds were raised to erect the present building.

And the women are still working hard to make their church the best "little one" in the city.

ALDERMAN

Mayor-Elect Allin's victory was never in doubt from the time the first returns rolled in. He received majorities in 16 of the 23 polling subdivisions and took a lead at the start, which never relinquished. His majority which started at six from the first seven easily mounted and midway through the receipt of returns, veteran observers conceded him the election.

Potter Heads Poll

Alderman-elect Dr. Richard T. Potter, a war veteran, and newcomer to municipal affairs astounded the crowd, that thronged the council chamber where the returns were received and tabulated with a phenomenal vote of 1212 that crashed all former "head-the-poll" records since Alderman and Mayor-Elect Allin led the vote a few years ago. Like the incoming mayor, Dr. Potter's majority increased by leaps and bounds and in twelve of the 23 polling subdivisions his vote was well over the 100 mark with some crowding 200. His lowest vote was 52. He led Alderman-Elect Fred H. Deacon who finished in second place and who polled 2,906 votes 907.

Further indication of the electorate that it was in favor of new faces was seen in the election of Alderman-elect Fred H. Deacon well-known business man of the city. Alderman-elect Deacon has had no former council experience but has definitely received the confidence of the voters is evidenced in his large vote.

Alderman Hyde Third

Another veteran of the council chamber, Alderman Charles Hyde received the third place accolade of the voting public with 2068 votes and like Potter and Deacon his electorate never in doubt.

Former Alderman of the city, A. McLean Haig returned to the municipal wars as an alderman and was recorded fourth place with 1930 votes. His election too, was foregone as he polled a steady stream of votes that kept him in the top four during the evening.

Some 80 votes behind Haig was another veteran of the wars and the council chamber, Alderman Claude D. Tice. Alderman Tice was suffering from an attack of laryngitis but he was a steady visitor to the tabulation tables where he learned that he had been elected to his third term of office with a vote of 1871.

In sixth place in the successful slate was Alderman-elect E Ormonde Butler who compiled 1796 votes and who led the seventh place winner by the comfortable margin of over 300 votes.

Alderman-elect Butler is no stranger to municipal government affairs. He is a veteran of years of experience and his victory was a popular one.

The fight for seventh and last place on the ascent list provided the excitement of the evening. Alderman-elect William A. Argue, a newcomer to the legal fraternity of the city and aspirant to his first municipal honors "nosed" out Alderman Urias "Sandy" Lammins after a close fight. With but one poll to hear from Argue led Lammins by a slim majority of 17 votes.

Close Fight for Seventh Spot

One could hear a pin drop in the council chamber when the final return filtered in which gave Argue an additional 11 votes and a margin of 28 to win the seventh place position.

Richard J. Shoebottom polled 1430 votes a scant twenty behind Lammins while Max Mayberry president of the Canadian Legion was accorded 1413. The veterin councillor Newton Wilmot went down to defeat with 1177 votes to end up in 12th place. The rest of the candidates votes graduated down to the low of 355.

Harold E. Seldon, long experienced in Board of Education matters and a former chairman of that body headed the polls in this phase of the election. Mr. Seldon piled up an early commanding lead and was never headed finishing with the large vote of 1975. The second place is a newcomer to board matters in the person of Mr. A. Clarence Wilkin, a retired school principal, who polled 1435 votes. Frederick T. Symons, another newcomer to educational matters, finished in third place with 1325 votes while former chairman Miss Josephine "Pickell took fourth and last place with 1225 votes. These figures are from 20 polls with three to hear from, but in official opinion the returns from these out-standing polls will have no direct bearing on those elected since Miss Pickell's 1225 are 275 in majority of Mr. Arthur L. Burke who received 950 votes.

Quartered in Chambers

For the first time in the history of elections here, or so it was stated, the tabulation officials, newspaper and radio men were quartered in the council chambers instead of the smaller office of the city clerk.

The Chambers were packed with a curious cross section of city life and keen interest was manifested in the returns as they trickled in by phone and courier. Many jotted down the returns as they were posted on a blackboard under the supervision of Dr. Jack Marshall after being compiled by City Treasurer Drury Denyes.

A brand new and welcome feature was the accumulative system of compilation devised by Treasurer Denyes. Figures were taken via phone by City Assessor Leighton Thompson and relayed to Mr. Denyes who added them to former totals. These in turn were posted on the board by Dr. Marshall so that up-to-the-minute complete returns were available a few minutes after receipt. The "idea" was greatly appreciated by spectators and especially by radio and newspapermen who under the former system were the centre of a crowd of jostling milling citizens intent on getting figures at all costs.

By-Laws Defeated

Chuckles, and at times loud guffaws were heard as the overwhelming negative vote against the three proposed by-laws came in. From the start it was evident that the by-laws were destined to defeat, but as they gradually went down under a deluge of negative votes, they evinced but little interest on the part of the spectators.

The most crushing defeat of the by-laws was that administered to the bill calling for approval of increasing the Public Utilities Commission to five commissioners from three. The electorate turned "thumbs down" on this bill to the extent of 3469 to 917. The by-law to provide an annual grant to the Parks Board amounted to a 1,950-418 vote while the by-law to renovate the City Hall "died" before a 1794-315 voters onslaught.

The usual post-election speeches, like the proverbial hen's teeth were few and far between. Due to the lateness of the hour the greater majority of the candidates departed from their homes after the final tabulations were made.

A few, however, lingered and under the chairmanship of Mayor D. L. Storey gave brief addresses to the range.

Thanked Electorate

Mayor-elect Jack Allin, the first speaker called said he was "awful tired" but felt he should stay and offer his thanks to those who supported and helped him in his campaign. "Two years ago," he said, "he believed he established a poll record when he led the poll as an alderman. "But tonight," he said, "I am sure that we have constituted an all time record for voting."

He complimented his opponent Mr. Trudeau on a clean hard fight "I am sorry," he added, "that Jack will not sit with me in council, but sometone must lose."

He deplored the fact that some 300 or 400 people had discovered that their names had been omitted from the voters list. "Something will be done about this. These lists should be put up on streets where people can see them, and not in a house." He promised that next year this condition would be remedied.

Mr. Trudeau did not appear when his name was called, Neither did Dr. Potter. Both had left for their homes earlier.

Alderman-elect Fred Deacon remarked that "I feel very good at the moment." He thanked his friends and those who had given him wise council, and he added, "Although this is my first experience in municipal life, I am proud of the confidence you have placed in me and will do my best to make Belleville a better place in which to live."

Alderman Charles Hyde also expressed his gratitude for the mat again reposed in him by the voters and, he said "I shall never betray that trust. We must keep in mind that we must practice economy in view of the heavy expenditures of the past two years."

"This is a distinct honor you have conferred on me," said Alderman-elect Ormonde Butler. "You could have picked seven good men from any of the twenty two who offered their services. I hope these fellows won't be disheartened and will try again. I am sure your new council will give its best for Belleville."

Alderman-elect Argue also thanked his supporters and promised all his efforts would go to the betterment of the city.

Can't All Win

School Trustee Harold Seldon said that "we must realize that we can't all win." I am gratified to see such a big vote cast, for it is indicative of the interest of the voters. The next two years will see big things come in the educational lines, such as high school areas and other problems. All these call for people of experience and we got plenty of that in the last four years."

There were no other candidates, elected or defeated, present and Mayor Storey adjourned the meeting.

A touch of humor was noted after the final returns of the marvelly battle were announced. Someone quipped that the final figures Allin, 2906 and Trudeau 2436 were the same, only "jumbled around a bit."

Whereupon another wag noted that "if you add these figures horizontally, pair of Jacks will end up in a tie."

Busy in Newsroom

One of the busiest spots in the city was the newsroom of the newspaper where an augmented editorial and business staff manned a battery of six telephones. For over three hours there was a steady telephonic demand on the part of those of the electorate who preferred to stay home and take their returns the more comfortable way.

Calls started to come in shortly before eight o'clock and from that time until near midnight, both rooms echoed to the shrill cacophony of bell and buzzer. It was estimated that hundreds of requests trickled over the wires from a restless-hungry populace.

Busy, too, was the switchboard staff of the Bell Telephone Company's branch here. The "belle" girls rendered yeoman service, one usually unsung, in relaying calls to these offices and enabling the newspaper to give out returns as promptly as they were received.

Win Approval

Both the crime-comics and the shipbuilding measures received final approval.

The confusion, sometimes embittered, sometimes humorous, came at night, Finance Minister Abbott, flanked by advisers, spent a frustrating evening trying to explain amendments to the income-tax act and foundered on one in particular, designed into effect a new principle of depreciation announced in his budget speech of last spring.

John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) and Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton) both charged that it represents the first request ever made to parliament to tax capital gain. Robert McCubbin, parliamentary assistant to agriculture Minister Gardiner, expressed "alarm" at its potential effect upon farmers and several members shared Mr. Diefenbaker's view that it would evoke more antagonism than revenue among farmers.

Mr. Fleming finally summed up the effect of the new principle as being that if at some future date a farmer sells an article—say machinery—at more than the depreciated value of that article he must pay income tax on the difference. He said the principle could, apply to all Canadians.

Mr. Abbott didn't quarrel with him. He already had told members who swarmed all over him with questions that it was the most complex section in the whole complex act. He couldn't explain it adequately. He just asked that members wait and see and they would find that the new section is more beneficial to farmers than the old one. His experts said so.

Bill Unreadable

Members waited about the language of the 53-section bill—Mr. Diefenbaker called it the "most incomprehensible" ever placed before parliament; they asked how a farmer could be expected to understand it when lawyers like Mr. Abbott couldn't; G. K. Fraser (PC-Peterborough West) cried "Horray" when Revenue Minister McCann said he understood the section and said "we have one man who does."

The amendents tidy up a major revision of the act last year, bring budget resolutions into effect and incorporate some changes caused by Newfoundland's entry into Confederation.

Just at 11 o'clock adjournment, members breathed more quietly when Revenue Minister McCann came up with a plain answer to a plain question by Mr. Fleming. He said the income-tax division will be caught up with all assessments of back tax arrears by March and will then be on a current basis.

Of the bill's 83 sections, 35 had been passed.

said he had no knowledge of any reported fix.

Palermo, asked why either he or his didn't report the matter to the Commission, replied:

"I didn't believe there was anything to it. It apparently was someone trying to get the mad and if it was, they sure succeed- ed. I never saw the more de- termined to keep his title."

But fix or no fix it looked for several rounds, especially in the closing sessions, that Dawson might lift the crown which Wil- liams won by knocking out Bob Montgomery in 1947.

The bobbing, weaving, in- fighting Dawson was a real pus- cle for Ike, who lives to stand up and punch. Not once did Wil- liams land his pay-off punch. He did get in probably the hardest blow of the fight — and that isn't saying much — in the fifth. It was a solid left to the head.

Dawson made his best showing in the 12th and final heats but his blows from the inside were not hard enough to make the champion give ground.

Montreal (CP)— McGill Un- iversity now is racing to keep up nuclear and electronic physics research, thrown wide open since the Second World War.

Along with expansion of the physical sciences buildings, Mc- Gill now has 97 students doing post graduate work in various fields of physics compared with a maximum of 15 before the war.

Next major move to expand research facilities will be the er- ection of the Eaton Electronics Laboratory near the radiation laboratory which houses the un- iversity's cyclotron.

Diesel Electrics Head Loop With 6 to 5 Win Over Legion In Fast, Exciting Contest

Bespectacled Art Plumley, the pint-sized homefront general of Belleville Diesel Electrics a 6 to 5 win over Peterborough Legion last night handed his team the second win of the Senior O.H.A. "B" race.

It looked like Belleville had the game in the bag after eight min- utes of the second period when quick goals by McDonald and Wardhaugh severed a one all tie established earlier by Greenlaw the Lifflock lineman. A series of equal penalties in either side seemingly turned the tide for the visitors and within two minutes and a half Fryia and Rochetti with two, had beaten a weakened band of locals to give the Legion- naires command for the first time. The end of the period saw both squads at full strength and the play racing up and down the ice.

At times in the second session the Diesels' goal had been men on the ice in front of Plumley but the Legion team was not much better off with at least two men in the penalty box for half of the time. The end of the period saw Plumley plenty of trouble before the bell sounded to close the frame.

Rally Paid Off

In the third period the Diesels steamed into the Soldiers' end with a last period rally that paid off when Tony Lover slapped the rubber in behind Nichols in the Lifflock cage. L. Goyer and Wardhaugh came in for assists on the play that sewed up the game and victory for Belleville.

Red Jones from Williams com- bined to put the locals in front for the second time of the eve- ning and McDonald scored what proved to be the winning goal, beating the visitors' netminder alone from close in.

Plumley holds forte

In the dying minutes of play the Legionnaires moved up every piece of heavy artillery available, firing round after round of rub- ber at the sturdy little cagesman before Rochetti counted his third goal of the evening on an assist from Burns and Godfrey.

Plumley did everything but stand on his head in keeping the charging Soldiers from tying the game in the last two minutes. Both sides knew they had been in a tough battle when the cur- tain rang down on the final frame.

The teams:—

Peterborough: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and Burns; cen- tre, Rochetti; wings, Vitarelli, Crowley; subs, Parnell, Stewart, Hill, Fryia, Cowles, Greenlaw, Mortimer, Montgomery.

Lindsay Ahead In Scoring Race For Fourth Week

Montreal, Dec. 6 — (CP) — Ted Lindsay of Detroit league-lead- ing Detroit Red Wings continues to lead the National Hockey League scoring race for the fourth consecutive week.

League statistics released to- day reveal that the swivel-hip- ped Lindsay scored two goals and an assist last week to boost his total to 30 points. He has scored 13 goals and assists in 17 others.

Theamus Sid Abel and Doug Bentley of Chicago Black Hawks are tied for the second spot. Abel has a total of 11 goals and 14 assists while Bentley has seven markers and 18 helpings. Gordie Howe of Detroit is third with 23 points while Montreal Canadiens' Maurice (Rocket) Richard fol- lows one point behind in fourth position.

Richard picked up two goals last week to boost his total to 17 in 22 games. The fleet-footed Montrealer holds a four-goal margin over Lindsay for the top goal-scoring spot.

Doug Bentley leads the assist division with a total of 18.

Defencemen Gus Mortson of Toronto Maple Leafs has taken over the top spot in the league's penalty parade with 64 minutes spent in the "cooler" in 21 con- tests.

Although he was scored on 34 times in three games last week, big Bill Durnan of Canadiens continues to hold an edge in the goals-against department with a 2.04 average for 22 games. Two net-minders, Harry Lumley, De- troit, and Turk Broda, Toronto, tied in the shutout department with four goose-eggs each.

Red Wings have moved in front of the pack with an 11- point margin. They have 15 wins, five losses and three draws for a 33-point total. Montreal Cana- diens and Toronto Maple Leafs are tied for second place with 22 points while Chicago is third with 20. Boston comes next with

Motion Pictures Uphold Decisions On Disputed Plays

(By The Canadian Press)

Official motion pictures of the Grey Cup football final don't shed much light on any contro- versial plays—but they show there sure was lots of snow cari- ed off Toronto's Varsity Stadium field.

If the turf looked bad when Montreal Alouettes and Calgary Stampeders clashed Nov. 26, you should have seen it the day be- fore when a mechanized force removed some 500 tons of the feathery stuff. That's a weather bureau estimate, based on a seven inch fall blanketing the field area of 160 by 75 yards.

Snow-removal operations are included in the full-color films taken for the Canadian Rugby Union by Varsity cameraman Art Chetwynd. The movies were giv- en a press preview Monday be- fore prints are made for distri- bution by the C.R.U.

Here's what the movies show on three controversial plays:

Rowe's run—the pictures ap- peared to confirm the official verdict that nullified Calgary halfback Paul Rowe's plunge to the Montreal one, where Stam- peders might have scored the opening touchdown. Lineman Riley Matheson was shown tak- ing out a Montreal player be- yond the legal 10-yard interfer- rence limit.

Kickoff calamity (for Calgary) —It isn't shown clearly whether Norm Hill was illegally blocked out, as Calgary supporters claim, on a Montreal kickoff that Al- ouettes recovered on the Calgary 45. Montreal went on from there for their second touchdown.

Pass interference—even in slow motion, the pictures provide no definite evidence on Montreal's third-quarter forward that was ruled completed over the Calgary 25. On that play, umpire Jimmy Simpson decided Calgary's Red Panages illegally interfered with Virgil Wagner in making the interception. Alouettes scored their fourth touchdown shortly after that to take a 23-7 lead went on to win 28-18.

Jean Richard of Montreal, Canadian featherweight champ- pion, won an eight-round split decision from Alan McFye Mon- day night at Toronto. Richard weighed 133, McFater 134.

The non-title fight was almost won by McFater in the sixth round when he nearly had Rich- ard on the canvas after a flurry of rights to the head. The deci- sion was unpopular, most of the fans thinking the Toronto boy had won by a comfortable mar- gin.

At Morcambe, Lancashire Eng., George Chenier of Toronto and the fabulous Joe Davis, playing a three-day 25 frame snooker match, stood even Monday night at 3-3. Chenier is Canadian snooker champion. Davis is the former world champion who re- tired undefeated.

Donald Campbell, 28-year-old son of the late Sir Malcolm Campbell, is planning another at- tempt on his father's world water speed record. The mark of 141.74 miles an hour for a measured mile run was set at Coniston, England in 1939. Young Campbell fell six miles an hour short of the record at Coniston in August, He said at Reigate, Surrey, Eng., he is using the Bluebird II, the same boat used by his father, which he fitted with a new 2,400 horsepower Rolls Royce engine before the summer trials.

Hull Volants Monday night wound up a triumphant hockey tour of Switzerland, defeating the Neufchatel Young Sprinters 6-2.

The touring Canadian club jumped into a 4-1 lead in the first period but were held score- less by the Swiss club in the se- cond. They got two more in the third to one for the Young Sprinters.

Sammy Angott, former light- weight champion, Monday was granted a license to fight in New York State again. August, 34, won the crown by outpointing Lew Jenkins in December 1941.

Angott retired from the ring some time ago, then decided to take up his boxing career again. The boxing commission refused to grant him a licence until he passed a physical examination. Three physicians described the former champion's condition as excellent.

Clubs Waiting For Southworth To Make Move

Baltimore, Dec. 6 (AP)—The spotlight was thrust squarely upon Boston Braves today as the rest of the trade-minded National League clubs waited to see what Manager Billy Southworth would do before making a move of their own.

The general feeling at this 4th Minor League baseball convention is that Southworth must dispose of at least three of his alleged "insurrectionists" before he restores active control of the club on the field.

Those supposed to be in the know insist that second baseman Eddie Stanky and pitchers Johnny Sain and Bobby Hogue are certain to be traded. They would not be too surprised if Billy were to trade either southpaw ace Warren Spahn or right-hander Vern Bickford, both of whom are said to have voiced their displeasure with Southworth.

Southworth, due here today, left the Braves in mid-season because of illness following seasoning reports of dissension on the club. Two of the alleged dissatisfied players, Jeff Heath and Phil Masi—already are gone.

John Quinn, general manager of the Braves admitted that Giants had made Boston an offer for Stanky, but added that so had several other clubs.

It was learned that the Braves had all but completed a deal that would have sent shortstop Alvin Dark, back to Stanky to the Giants for outfielder Willard Marshall, shortstop Buddy Kerr, a top-flight pitcher and a bundle of cash. At the last moment, President Horace Stoneham got in and called the deal off because he did not want to let Dark go.

Meanline, the American League clubs are lining up their lineups for the 1950 season with new players for Christmas.

New York Yankees are said to be after Washington Senator pitcher Rae Scarborough and/or Eddie Lopat. Eddie Robinson. They are prepared to give up second baseman George Stirnweiss, outfielder Johnny Lindell and first baseman Dick Kryhoski for the slugging Robinson. The Senators would want much more for Scarborough.

Sports Roundup

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Dec. 6—(AP)—If the National Basketball Association hasn't done anything else for the game, it has, as N.B.A. president Maurice Podoloff points out, provided a medium for experimenting with proposed rules changes, for instance, they're widening the foul lane from six to 12 feet for a one-month experimental period — which is just picking up a change which the International Federation adopted for a four-year stretch. . . If it doesn't work, Podoloff can pick up the phone and order a change within a few minutes. . . "With 17 teams playing as many as 30 games a week, we can tell in a very short time whether there's anything wrong," Podoloff explains. . . Ned Irish, picking up the explanation of the various NBA changes that will go into effect Dec. 15, says the whole idea is to keep teams from "trading fouls" in the closing minutes by eliminating some of the incentive to foul and by telling the referees not to call their whistles unless there's a real foul. Sounds good from here.

FRANKFORD
Top Hatters Lead Bowling League By Good Margin

5	Frankford—Frankford Bowling League brought about many changes in the standings when they tangled in their weekly competition Thursday night. Top Hatters took seven from the Greenbacks, dropping them into sixth place, while increasing their lead to a full seventeen points over the next team. The Aristocrats made it a clean sweep over the Unique, to take over second place, and to drop the Uniques from second to fourth. Merry Macs took five from the Head Pins, while the Happy Gang stuck tight in the running by taking five from the Skylarks. The evening of the teams is born out by the very few points separating them in the standings. Any team taking seven points in a night can make a great difference in their standing.

Radio Officer Shot in Back During Mutiny

New York, Dec. 6 —(AP)— A ship radio officer was shot in the back and slightly wounded Monday night as he tried to help the ship's captain subdue a group of mutinous crew members.

Police said the shot was fired accidentally by the skipper, Capt. Victory G. Diaz, of New York, as he backed away from the angry seamen.

The ship, the American freighter Nathaniel B. Palmer, was anchored in New York Harbor, and was preparing to dock when the trouble broke out.

Police said the captain told them he had gone down from the bridge to the crew's quarters to try to stop a disturbance that he was rebuffed by the rebellious seamen.

He returned to the bridge, police quoted him, obtained his gun, and returned to the crew compartment, accompanied by William Salamone.

Police said Diaz reported crew members again defied him when he tried to handcuff some of them. One seaman leaped at him and others started toward him in a menacing manner, Diaz was quoted. As he backed away, police said, the gun discharged.

A distress radio message from the ship, picked up at police headquarters, brought a small armada of police launches, fireboats and harbor patrol boats rushing to the vessel's side.

Four crew members were arrested and held on charges of third-degree assault.

Mrs. B. Cipolla Given Two Years

Brockville, Dec. 6—(CP)— Mrs. Blanche Cipolla, 25, of Guelph, was sentenced to two years less a day on charges in connection with passing counterfeit money when she appeared before Judge D. E. Lewis, A Brockville woman, Miss Edith LaFrance, 24, was sentenced to five years.

The woman had been in custody since last Monday when they changed their previous plea of not guilty to one of guilty. Mrs. Cipolla had been in custody ever since both women were arrested on Sept. 18 but Miss LaFrance had been released on prospective bail until her appearance last Monday.

Judge Lewis studied statements of the woman and evidence at a preliminary hearing. He said the longer term was given the Guelph woman because she had brought the money here. Police searched the room of the two women and found $1,500 in counterfeit bills. The pair had attempted to pass them at four Brockville business places.

SENATOR DAVIES

In reply to a question, he said he was not dealing with crime-comic books, which would be banned under a Commons bill passed yesterday. He told a questioner, Senator Norman Lambert (L-Ontario) that he felt "some judgment" should be exercised regarding crime-comic books.

He spoke on a motion by Senator Arthur Beaubien (L-Ontario) that an 18-article bill of rights, based on one drawn up by the United Nations, be presented to the forthcoming Dominion-Provincial conference on constitutional matters.

Might Lead to Confusion

He said he would not support the motion since it might lead to confusion of the main issues at the conference. In addition, he was not certain Canada was ready for such a bill of rights.

However, he referred particularly to article 18, which held that: "everyone has a right to freedom of opinion and expression; this right includes freedom to hold opinions without interference and to seek, receive and impart information and ideas through any media and regardless of frontiers."

Canada, he said, was growing up. She was abolishing appeals to the judicial committee of the Privy Council and was seeking to amend her constitution. However, she had not yet attained "adult stature" in the matter of book censorship.

In the commons recently a member has asked why certain of these books. He was told simply that "censorship in its broadcast sense is not exercised by the customs division, but the department is responsible for the administration of Ils 1201 of the customs tariff..."

No Examiner

Since 1942, Senator Davies said, there has been no examiner of publications.

It takes it, therefore, that some official of the Department of National Revenue who is not a censor of any kind, and Canada should be most careful in trying arbitrarily to control the minds of the people.

He mentioned a number of specific books about which he had heard complaints during a period of years because they had been banned. These included "Lady Chatterly's Lover," "A Rage to Live," "Anoboy Dukes," "The Palsied Vail" and James Joyce's "Ulysses."

Some Censorship Wanted

The "shameful" ban on "Ulysses" and perhaps on some of the others had since been lifted. He did not know if it still existed as regards "Lady Chatterly's Lover," but if the latter was still banned, it should not be.

Painted Veil" was banned years ago and no one now would find it the least objectionable.

He would not say there should not be some censorship of books but he objected strongly to it being done "by some unknown officials without any explanation or right of appeal, whose opinion becomes law for some 13,000,000 persons."

There was too much "paternalism" in the present system—too much fear that those who read books will not be able to judge for themselves."

If censorship were desirable, he suggested a board might be composed, for example, of Principal Cyril James of McGill University; B. K. Sandwell, editor of Saturday Night; Bishop Brockington, Ottawa lawyer; Dr. E. Fabre Surveyor of National Film Board and Dr. Chas. Hilton.

No Objection to Board

He would have no objection to such a board, because it would have the final word in reading it, and would be willing to state reasons for banning and perhaps hear appeals.

Regarding some other provisions of the bill of rights, Senator Davies said he was not sure Canada was ready. For example, one section suggested to protect citizens from "arbitrary arrest." Yet arbitrary arrest comes in handy sometimes to preserve order and good government.

Another article stressed freedom of thought, conscience and religion. He did not think that anyone had a right of freedom of thought. Canadians were "still narrow and prejudiced in some of these views." And he doubted if Canada had progressed enough to give the right to believe" the right to think as he pleased.

For instance, everyone had the "right" to be an atheist. Yet an atheist could be asked to share the evolving upkeep of tax-free churches. Senator Davies said he was a Presbyterian, but saw no reason why an atheist had to help in the upkeep of St. Andrew's Church in Kingston, which he attended.

He recalled that recently, in an Ontario City, the Jehovah Witnesses had been refused the use of a public hall. This was "very" She claims her keep-the-floor-clean policy gives her more time for her art.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Jibbister

G. T. Hazes always raises any time he chooses. Lacking stuff for tricks enough, no wonder that he loses.

South held this hand:

♠K 9 2
♥A K Q J 5
♦Q 9 7
♣10 9 7

The bidding in the first round went like this:

South	West	North	East
2 N.T.	Pass	3 ♠	Pass

What should south do now? He has a rebiddable heart suit. If he shows it here his bid will have to be three hearts. Does he have all the values needed for a bid of three hearts in this spot?

An opening one bidder admits having all the tricks. By his fifth each rules in the last partnership number is consumed in October bliss. The question is does he have enough tricks?

The last partnership number by his side was one heart. If he now bids three hearts it means two raises in number. This would show two more tricks. Or a total of seven tricks in his hand.

Tricks are high cards (aces, kings, queens) and short cards. He has five highs; an ace, two kings, two queens. These with a short card in clubs are a total of only six tricks.

Therefore, a bid of three hearts by him here would be an overbid of one trick. You may think this is not serious for his side. After all, you may say, not much harm can come of it.

Remember that south has a partner. His partner must assume that south has some tricks in reserve. If so, north is likely to carry him to a contract that he cannot make on south having seven tricks.

Despite this, there is the tendency to take a chance with such a hand. Should he gamble? Cheese it, Mr. Fallen, or get the back way. The jerrot is pinched.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 8 —(AP)— Judy Garland isn't going to risk another breakdown. Even over work.

The actress says she will follow a plan similar to that of Carl Gable, who toils four months, between pictures. Judy will take three months vacation after every film.

"I think it's important to have a rest between pictures," she told me on the "Summer Stock" set. "And it's important to get away from Hollywood. I plan to take a trip after every picture—to Europe or someplace else."

Cuff Notes

Kirk Douglas would like to do a western after "The Glass Menagerie." The main reason is to please his kids, who are avid Hopalong Cassidy fans. Friends are still hoping the couple will be the cause of a reunion between Douglas and his estranged wife.

Humphrey Bogart and Frank Sinatra are reportedly nominated Press Club list of "most cooperative" stars. This baffles me. Both have always been standoffish. Bogart especially. He is a better press agent than most publicity men.

The Sinatra publicity guild put on their annual panhandle dinner and roasted us columnists to a fare-thee-well. Among those were Frankie Fontaine, Gloria Dehaven and Martha Wilson, who surprised all by seriously reciting the declaration of independence. It was a fine, good, stirring piece. I only did say I looked like a quis kid.

Capsule Review

"Battleground" (M.G.) is worth all the ballyhoo it has been getting. It depicts a handful of men in the Battle of the Bulge with as much realism as Hollywood can muster. The film happily avoid nearly all the war picture clichees. The cast is fine, especially Van Johnson, Marshall Thompson and James Whitmore. One of the year's best films.

ALBURY

Albury — Several attended the euchre at the school on Monday evening with 7 tables in play. The prizes going to ladies 1st, Mrs. Roy Williamson; 2nd, Mrs. Ernest Russell; men's 1st, Mr. Cole, 2nd, Don Dempsey. Refreshments were served.

Around 80 attended the Redeemerville Women's Institute banquet at Albury Church on Tuesday evening. Everyone enjoyed the good program put on by three Cobourg men. Proceeds $33.00.

Mr. and Mrs. Barton Osterhout entertained a number of their friends to a party on Wednesday evening. There were 9 tables of euchre in play, with the prize going to ladies' 1st, Mrs. Hugh Wesse; 2nd, Mrs. Allen Osterhout; consolation, Mrs. Rae Hicks; Warner Brown. Games were enjoyed, delicious refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Williamson spent Wednesday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. George Young, Trenton, Mr. Young being ill with pneumonia. All wish him a speedy recovery.

Mrs. S. C. Peck left on Thursday to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Peck, Fort Erie and Hamilton.

Several attended the euchre at Carrying Place Hall on Friday evening put on by the Legion.

A number of ladies attended the cup and saucer shower for Miss Doris Bentley at the home of Mrs. Tom Thompson, on Saturday afternoon. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Carruthe spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wesse.

STILL A SWEDE

Gordon Spencer, of the RCAF, spent the weekend in Frankford, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Spencer.

Mr. and Mrs. James Brown of Regina, Saskatchewan, were guests last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gilmour, Simmons, and Mr. Simmons.

The Frankford Sea Cadets held their weekly meeting in the Community-Memorial hall Monday evening. They were given instruction in the tying of bends and hitches, and a period on Naval History. They parade each Monday night in the Memorial hall.

The Gair Company resumed operation in Frankford, following a close-down of several months, but in full operation, the Gair Company employs a complement of approximately 50 men. This is good news for Frankford, in view of the number that have been laid off from other places of employment in this district.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lohnes called on Mr. and Mrs. George Patrick, and Mrs. John Clements, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fehenkey, who purchased the business of Delyea and Kelly, report a good opening of business since their acquisition of the business.

The interior of Farrer's Grocery looks quite attractive in the new white and green finish which has been recently applied.

Miss Alica Fletcher and Mrs. M. Shannon, of Hamilton, spent last week visiting Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Dafoe, Mr. and Mrs. John Dafoe and other friends and relatives in the district.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Brinton of Trenton, and Mrs. Minnie Fox of Harmony, spent one day last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stocker.

Sorry to hear that Mrs. George Wilson suffered a fall on the ice on North Murray Street. Fortunately, she was not seriously injured.

Miss Sue Anne Wallace is confined to her home with the mumps.

The Young Peoples Union of the Frankford United Church are preparing a play to be presented early in the year. The play, a three-act comedy, is called "The Darling Brats." Regular meetings of the Young Peoples Union have been postponed until the first of the year, since the furnaces of the Rose-Lowery Hall is being repaired.

While the furnace of the Rose-Lowery Hall is out order, the United Church Sunday School has been holding meetings for the Primary and Beginner Departments in the Community — Memorial Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Nicolson, of Campbellford, were in town on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Rogers, and daughters, are spending a few days this week in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cage and daughter, Myrtle, spent Thursday of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wood, family, in Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold McLeod and son, Larry, and Mr. Arthur Smith, were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Chard.

Mrs. Hugh Patrick and daughter, Linda, spent Sunday with Mrs. Harry A. Gunter in Frankford.

The Young Peoples Union of the Bethany United Church attended the Organ Recital in Bridge Street United Church in Belleville, Sunday evening. This recital was under the sponsorship of the United Church Young Peoples Union, proceeds going for the extension of the building program at Camp Quin-Mo-Lac, Moira Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Howard were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lohnes in Johnstown.

Miss Carol Reid is confined to her home in King Street with the mumps.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Murdoch of Madoc, spent Sunday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Don Rogers, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Carlisle.

Presentations Made

The Fellowship Group of the Frankford United Church met at the home of Mrs. Walter Morrow, on Friday evening last. Mrs. Gerald Carlisle conducted the Worship Service which was based on "Christmas". Several Christmas carols were sung. Mrs. Carlisle was presented with a plaque from the group, in appreciation of her services as president for 1948. Mrs. Acton was also presented with a pair of towels from the group, in appreciation of her service as treasurer for many years.

Mrs. Gerald Herrington had charge of the program. Readings were given by Mrs. Mervin Dafoe, Mrs. Harry Montgomery, Mrs. Bert Bush, and Mrs. O. Carlisle. Mrs. William favored with a piano solo. Two contests were enjoyed. After the close of the meeting a pot-luck luncheon was enjoyed by the ladies.

Mrs. George Patrick has returned to her home on Murray Street, after visiting Mrs. John Casement is spending a while with her.

John Svoboda, of Batawa, was involved in an accident Sunday afternoon on the canal bridge in Frankford. An out-of-town car pulling out from the end of the bridge, after Mr. Svoboda was about two-thirds across the bridge. As the cars met both drivers applied brakes, but were unable to stop, due to the poor condition of the roads. The grill of Mr. Svoboda's 1949 model, was badly damaged, while the other car suffered slight damage to the fender.

Ernie Wallace, popular Frankford hockey player, will be in concert presented in the St. Peter's School, Trenton, Thursday and Friday evenings, by the St. Peter's Dramatic Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Babcock have moved into the apartment over the hydro office on Trent Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fehenkey have moved into the apartment over their store on Bridge Street.

Mrs. Letch has moved into the apartment formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fehenkey.

Sorry to hear that Wayne Arbuckle is ill with the flu at his home in Batawa. His many friends, particularly his bowling team, wish him a speedy recovery.

The Young Adult Class of the Frankford United Church Sunday School, has made arrangements for a mid-week recreational evening each week; they met at the home of their teacher, Mr. C. Bidwell, for instruction and practice in target shooting.

Many Frankford folks have been enjoying the new program over CJBQ, presented by Rowe's Furniture Store, on Sundays at 3:45 p. m.

The Frankford Lions Club are making plans for a Christmas party for the children of the village, similar to the fine Hallowe'en party which they sponsored in October.

Little Benny's Note Book

I started to eat breakfast with saying, G, ma, where's pop, he going to get up this morning?

Your father got up long ago, ma said, and I said, G, did he leave his breakfast alreddy?

No, but he'll be in for it any minute now with a nice big wholesome appetite, ma said. He's taking a nice brisk walk before breakfast, she said, and I said, G, he's been bragging he was going to do that ever since I've known him.

I know he has, and at last his good intentions are bearing fruit, ma said. That just shows if you stick to a thing, even in your mind, you're sure to succeed, and I hope you'll remember that, she said.

Which just then pop came in looking like smoothy feeling better instead of worse, and ma said, Congratulations, William.

Thank you, my dear, I congradulate myself, believe me, pop said, and ma said, it was very thawtful of you to get dressed so quickly, I never even woke me up. How do you feel now? she said.

I feel like another and better man, pop said. The whole thing was a falls alarm, he said, and ma said, Why, what do you mean?

I meen the toothake I thawt I had, pop said. It was just a passing fancy, but it gave such a good imitation of a toothake that I decided to get up and rouse the dentist out of bed. But by the time I got around there the thing was gone, so I decided to let the dentist mind his own bizness and I'd mind mine, he said, and ma said, Oh dear, hutch a man.

Meening him, and I said, Jimminies, pop, you even had your sely morning exercise.

I'm a brilliant man, there's no question, pop said.

Which there aint.

CHEAPER OUT WEST

Vancouver — (CP) — Co-eds at the University of British Columbia get through university more cheaply than women students at any other Canadian university, says a report by the National Federation of Canadian University Students. It costs a women student $813 a year, including $153 tuition fees.

FASHION IS SUPREME

London (CP) —The force of fashion is overcoming even the strongest rules in some of London's smart restaurants. Formerly the restaurants insisted on floor-length dresses. Now so many of London's smart women are appearing in the currently-fashionable shorter evening dresses that the rule is being relaxed.

House Studies Proposed Changes In Code to Make Publication Of Crime Comic Books Offence

Ottawa, Dec. 5 — (CP)—Proposed changes in the Criminal Code making it a crime to publish crime comic books were placed before the Commons today.

The legislation is a combined effort. R. D. Fulton (PC - Kamloops) moved the original bill. The government asked the provinces what they thought of it.

Today Justice Minister Garson introduced various amendments based on the recommendations of the provinces.

The effect of the legislation in amended form is to provide penalties of up to two years in jail for publishing, printing, circulating or having in possession for this purpose any comic books portraying crime.

This means that the publisher cannot plead in court that he had no knowledge of what the comic books contained.

A similar penalty is provided for anyone selling comic books which he knows picture the commission of real or fictitious crime.

In all cases it will be up to the jury to decide whether the books contain objectionable matter to excess.

The same provisions in the Act apply to publishers or distributors of obscene written matter, pictures or models.

Mr. Garson reviewed the reactions of the provinces.

All provinces expressed belief that if it had to be proved that a publisher "knowingly" distributed the objectionable matter the law would be practically unenforceable.

Curbing Crime Comics

Speaking briefly, Mr. Fulton said he found the amendment "perfectly acceptable." His main interest, however, in launching the bill had been to curbing crime comics. He had not dealt with obscene literature because it was so much more difficult to deal with as a crime.

John Diefenbaker (PC — Lake Centre), commended both Mr. Fulton and Mr. Garson for tackling the difficult job of stopping such literature from depriving the morals of Canadian youth. He supported the general principle of the government amendments but he was somewhat concerned over the possibility that they might be so stern or strict that juries would be prone to acquit those charged under them.

Mr. Diefenbaker said crime comics sometimes raised crime to the level of adoration in youth. They couldn't help but be continued. The proposed strengthening of the law, while it might be questioned on the grounds that it infringed on part of the democratic heritage of free speech, was justified because "obscene productions tended" not to elevate the spirit but had, in the conviction that wrong is right.

Difficulty of Proof

G. S. White (PC — Hastings-Peterborough) said a recent decision in an Ontario court (Brantford) had pointed up the difficulty there was in fact a book was obscene.

Mr. Garson had said that the question of obscenity was left up to the jury. It has not defined in the Act.

Mr. White didn't mention the name of the book which was on trial. He said it contained no less than eight serious crimes including rape of a 13-year-old girl and murder.

The claim of the defence was that the book portrayed realism and was not obscene. One witness for the prosecution, a school principal, had described the book as "filth."

Mr. White said that if the act was to be effective so far as it applied to obscene literature, it would have to indicate more clearly what obscenity is.

George Fulford (L — Leeds) told the story of a 12-year-old Brockville girl, Nancy Howard, who delivered a "stinging indictment" of crime comics in a school debate.

Winner of an Eastern Ontario debating contest, Nancy had argued that young people are in position to decide what is good and what is bad.

If, said Mr. Fulford, a child had to point out the dangers of crime comics books, it was certainly time parliament did something about them.

Mr. Fulford said a Brockville school had curbed the use of crime comics by taking the children to the public library and explaining to them the sort of book that should be read and the joys to be found in them. Already the pupils were reading books such as Huckleberry Finn and Tom Sawyer and quitting crime comics.

Biography Traces Mackenzie King's Eventful Career

By R. J. ANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto (CP)— Perhaps it is too soon to write the story of Mackenzie King and the things he did when and their effect on Canadian history. But H. Reginald Hardy has laid solid foundation for the thorough going biography that some day must be written of the "Odd Man."

Mr. Hardy's "Mackenzie King of Canada" Oxford University Press is the latest of several books that have been written about the man who for nearly 22 years was prime minister of Canada and who some day from the vantage point of time—say 50 years hence—may be appraised as the greatest Canadian since Sir John A. Macdonald. It is a fine reporting job.

Any biographer of Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, O.M., sets himself a difficult task. Here is no sad Lincoln, no spellloving Franklin D. Roosevelt, no Churchill of ringing phrases and spectacular action. Mr. Hardy labels it simply: "an effort to give a complete chronological story of the life of W. L. Mackenzie King."

A veteran newspaper man who from the press gallery of the House of Commons in Ottawa saw Mr. King against a background of parliamentary ups and downs, Mr. Hardy says frankly in the foreword to his first book, that he is an admirer. Therefore he praises freely. Yet he has not hesitated to cite the heavy criticism levelled at the former prime minister during a tenure of office unexceeded in Commonwealth history.

The "real" biography of the bachelor prime minister, to many Canadians a lonely figure as he led a nation through the ordeal of history's greatest war, may not be written until Mr. King's private papers and intimate letters are collected and made available to students of history. Mr. King, now 75, is engaged in collecting some of the material for his memoirs. Mr. Hardy says.

Valuable Memoirs

"Will King, in writing his memoirs, produce an intimate, human document which will reveal the secret recesses of his mind and heart; or will it be merely a serious, analytical and historical study of his own career as a public servant, political leader and prime minister? King has promised that it will be both.

"There are those who will say that King is emotionally incapable of baring his private life to the world. Will he write about Billy King as well as W. L. Mackenzie King, the statesman?"

It fell to Mr. King's lot to lead the government during the most trying period in Canada's history —the days of the Second World War. Forty years in politics, he had been in power in times of prosperity and in times of depression. He had been 4n and out of office. Through it all, he commanded the respect of both friend and political foe. Yet few Canadians can say they really know Billy King, the suave parliamentarian, discerning statesman and man.

Mr. Hardy is most interesting in his accounts of the many crises that faced the former prime minister. Dealt with at length, for instance is the battle in 1944 over the conscription issue that almost split the unity so painstakingly built up by Mr. King between Canada's English and French-speaking population and rent the cabinet. "Mr. Walt-and-See," as Mr. Hardy Calls him, came through triumphantly.

Scattered through "Mackenzie King of Canada" are some previously unpublished anecdotes and revelations of Mr. Kings likes and dislikes. For instance "Tillie the Toiler" is his favorite comic strip.

Sen. A.B. Copp Of Sackville, Dies

Newcastle, N. B., Dec. 6—(CP) Senator A. B. Copp, 79, of Sackville, N. B., died in the Miramichi hospital here Monday night after a long illness.

He had left a train while returning from Ottawa and entered the hospital Sunday morning.

The illness was described by Dr. R. H. Morrison, the attending physician, as gastro-intestinal.

Senator Copp became ill after stopping off here to visit a sister-in-law, Mrs. G. G. Stoddard.

He ended a public career dating back almost half a century. A former Liberal member of the New Brunswick legislature and House of Commons, he became Secretary of State in the Mackenzie King government in 1921 and four years later was summoned to the Senate, where he led the Chamber in absences of the Liberal leader, Senator Wishart Robertson.

Born at Jolicure, between Sackville and Port Elgin, Arthur Bliss Copp studied at Mount Allison and Dalhousie Law University.

Mr. Copp entered public life in 1901, at the age of 31, when elected to the legislature as a member from Westmorland.

First elected to the Commons in 1913, he was re-elected in 1917 and 1921 as representative for Westmorland. Re-election by acclamation followed his appointment as Secretary of State.

INDIAN OCEAN SHIPPING

Durban, South Africa—(CP)—A new South African shipping company has been formed here to carry cargoes to Indian Ocean ports. The service will link Durban with Madagascar, Mauritius, Reunion and the Seychelles Islands.

AN IMPASSE

Melbourne, Australia — (CP)— Unless a newspaper is published seven days a week it can't be printed on its daily under the act of the state of Victoria, a magistrate decided recently. But his decision is to be challenged. The law in Victoria doesn't permit Sunday newspapers.

Martin's Summer

By Vicki Baum

"Shall I open the letter and before he gave up May's letter. read it to you?" someone asked shyly.

"Yes," said Martin, after a moments hesitation.

He began to smile and was not surprised when Puck appeared and laid out her hand for the letter.

"So, that's you, Puck," he said very pleased. "I've been dreaming such funny things about you."

"Yes, I know. And not only dreaming, you looked for me in the lake till you got very ill," said Puck, with lowered eyes. She had lied on one of the sisters' white aprons which was much too large for her small form. "But I wasn't in the lake at all. People are so silly! As if I would go into the lake!"

"Where were you, then?"

"Up in the mountains—to get rid of my foolishness. It is good up there and you don't give way to your little troubles, I went up the Iron Tooth. I was away three days and two nights."

"Yes. Two nights it takes. I know. Are you better now?" asked Martin kindly, though he felt very bad and it was an effort not to lose consciousness. Puck nodded gravely. "Yes. Now I am all right again. Shall I read you the letter?" she asked with embarrassment. Martin hesitated. I began some time ago on your behalf with the Fimorag Concern. I am glad to say, I have excellent news for you. The patent has now been obtained for your non-inflammable celluloid film, with the trade name of Pulzcliff, and I have equally good news from America. The Fimorag concern—which, as you know, has big interests over there too—is ready to take up an option to manufacture and market your Pulzcliff film, and offers you for a start the sum of two thousand dollars. If they acquire the patent rights they will then pay you one hundred thousand, further."

Puck paused in her reading to look at him. He lay perfectly still, his eyes closed.

As Martin lay very still and quiet, Puck resumed reading:

"Further, you would have five per cent of the turnover as long as the patent rights are in force. A managerial post is of course reserved for you, so that you could superintend the enterprise, and this would be a separate arrangement between yourself and the Fimorag concern. The first thing is your immediate presence in Berlin, so that you may conclude the negotiations in person. I will gladly give you my assistance, for I know that you play a good game of billiards but are a poor hand at business. I enclose a check for two thousand marks and hope for an early reply.

Yours sincerely,
Dr. Hans Klaus Meyer"

Puck let the letter fall on to her white apron and shook her head.

"What a silly letter," she said "What a lot of rubbish—U.S.A. and Pelzcliff and patent rights. Double Dutch—you can't understand a word of it. And here's a bit of paper for you. It is like the wonderful letter you've waited for all this time!"

Martin felt his mouth quiver. It was a mere involuntary spasm not a smile. He stared at the damp-flecked St. Ursula riveted his attention upon her to prevent himself getting dizzy and slipping away into vacancy.

"You—that's the letter," he said. His heart,which for a moment had seemed not to be there, started with a jerk like a motor engine. Puck wiped the tears from his brow.

"Well, there, you've got your letter now. I always took it for a fairy story, I always thought the letter would come from Tulip Land. Is it a good letter? I didn't understand a single word of it."

"Yes. Oh, yes, Puck. Very good.

"It's all good," Martin murmured.

Two thoughts raged in his head, as large as the world and with a noise like a dynamo. Work at last! roared the first, the first thought of all. And then immediately after, the second one—May at last. Martin's chest expanded in his hospital nightshirt. It swelled up, and his neck swelled too. His ears became red, and the veins in his forehead started out like whipcord.

He was within an ace of exploding and flying to atoms. Suddenly he shouted.

He was very weak, but he shouted as if he had all his strength. He roared and swelled and shrieked like a fog-horn, and on this primeval note he ejected all that he had had to swallow all the summer long. His throat forced the air and the noise out of him till he was rid of it all, and then Martin, slowly deflated, quivering and running with sweat but utterly content.

Puck was horribly frightened by this bellowing; but Matz, man and comrade, understood it at once. He began to laugh. He drummed his grubby little fists on his shins and joined in the bellow with his childish treble.

"Hooray." The shout had been heard in the portress's lodge at the gate, and everyone was greatly alarmed. They all set in navy round the walls and were in an agony of fear for Martin. There bumpbacked Real and Veal from Schweissenschackel's and large Frau Birndl and short Frau Bayreder.

"He's dying," they all thought at once, each in her own dialect. And the mother superior, in spite of her seventy-four years shot out of her cell and sprang up the wooden stairs, two steps at a time. Black, bird-like nuns with white coifs followed her and filled Martin's room with their leisurely movements.

Martin sank in a slight faintness. The stir of people confused him, a stout man with a big head and plum-jam. This man, who, as Martin knew quite well was afraid of the water but otherwise a good fellow, held Martin's hand in his and looked at a watch. Then with a worried air he vanished in a swirling black mist that swept past before Martin set off again on his trancelike journey. Another time the room was full of bustling people who were speaking about him in angry undertones.

"The carriage is full," he said indignantly.

"Quite right. Very good. It will soon be better," he was told cunningly.

"My mother must come," he demanded, and this seemed to sadden the people who were present.

Martin settled to sleep again in ill humor. But they wakened him again. This time there was a man there whom Martin took to be his old head master. He had a white beard and gold spectacles. Martin at once comported himself as if he were still at school.

"Good evening, sir," he said respectfully. They used to call him Old Owl, when they were boys. Old Owl had always interfered in matters that did not concern him, and this time, too, he proceeded to remove the dressing from Martin's arm. Then he looked at the arm and tapped it with an object resembling a fountain pen. This was decidedly unpleasant. Martin had large, broad teeth in his shrunken face and at this he clenched them with a snap.

"Courage, my dear boy," Old Owl said cheerfully, as if it were a school examination.

Dr. Mayer—yes, that was the name of the stout fellow—put a brilliant light nearby. It was evening or night. Then he said: "The professor has come from Salzburg to get you well, Martin. So don't be afraid. You'll come through all right."

Martin was not in the least afraid. "Oh, rather," he said, and grinned with all his white teeth. "I'll get through. I'm through already. I've had the letter now."

"That's right, my dear fellow," said Old Owl, benevolently. "We shall have to make a little incision. You won't mind that. You won't feel anything. We shan't be long about it, you'll see."

Martin became a little more alert at the words "long about it." He made no answer. He was silent for a minute perhaps, and during this minute he woke up completely and his perceptions became extremely clear. There were four people in the room—whitebearded professor from Salzburg, Dr Mayrader, the mother superior, and a nun. All four were white aprons and had the wide, excited eyes of people called up to do something in the middle of the night. Martin recovered all his sense and went white.

"Are you going to take off my arm?" he asked in a low voice.

Driving Snow Indirect Cause Of Three Deaths

Highways in South Ont. Covered With Six Inches

Toronto, Dec. 7 — (CP)—A driving snowstorm which swept eastward across southern Ontario today indirectly caused the death of three persons and a variety of highways with one to six inches of snow.

The storm centered over Toronto shortly before noon and extended over a 300-mile radius. Sweeping eastward, the heavy snow and driving wind was expected to blow itself out over the Atlantic by tomorrow morning. Southern Ontario temperatures would drop tonight in the storm's wake to 15-25 degrees above zero, weathermen said.

Mrs. William Gore, of suburban Long Branch, was killed Tuesday night when she crossed a street, her head bent against the wind, and walked into the path of a car driven by J. Varndell, 50, of Wallaceburg and Cecil A. Regan, 23, of Wallaceburg, who were visiting Wallaceburg when their car skidded and jolted back on an icy highway covered with fresh snow.

May Cancel Flights

Toronto street-cleaning commissioner Harold Bradley said the snow is not yet deep enough to warrant plowing, but he would like the streets free for work anyway.

Concentrated clearing and removal operations are usually started when the snow reaches a depth of four inches. "We haven't three inches yet," Mr. Bradley said.

Two Inches at Ottawa

Ottawa—Wind-driven snow began falling here at dawn today and transportation officials were in and out of the city were operating normally.

A little less than two inches of snow had fallen by mid-morning and temperature during the night was three degrees above zero. The storm was expected to pass by afternoon. Trains, buses and air lines reported uninterrupted schedules in and out of the city and buses and street cars were operating as usual.

KOSTOV ON TRIAL WITH 10 OTHERS ON PLOT CHARGE

Bulgarians Accused Of Unfriendly Policy Toward Soviet Union

Sofia, Bulgaria, Dec. 7 (AP)—Traicho Kostov, former deputy premier and once a top-ranking communist, went on trial today with 10 others charged with plotting to turn Bulgaria into a vassal state of Premier Tito's Yugoslavia.

Kostov, kicked out of the Bulgarian Communist Politburo, was arrested last April and accused of carrying on an "insincere and unfriendly policy" toward the Soviet Union, treason, espionage and sabotage.

In a 20,000 word indictment Kostov and his co-defendants were said to have plotted with Yugoslav leaders and the instigation of American and British intelligence agents.

Kostov also is accused of plotting to murder the late premier Georgi Dimitrov and to take over the Bulgarian government himself. Dimitrov, former communist chief and hero of European communism, died of a liver ailment in Moscow last July.

Some of the charges against Kostov are similar to those which sent the former Hungarian foreign minister, Laszlo Rajk, to the gallows in Budapest recently.

Kostov and his fellow-accused are quoted as admitting that in having confessed their guilt to many of the charges before investigating police during preparation for the trial.

On the dock with Kostov are five former high-ranking members of the government and five security officials who nevertheless are important tasks in the country's economic affairs.

They are:

Nikola Pavlov, former administrative secretary of the Bulgarian communist politburo; Ivan Stefanov, former finance minister; Nikola Nachev, former deputy committee chairman; Boris Christov, former deputy of the economic and finance committee of the ministry of agriculture and co-operatives; Tsvetan Tzonchev, former commercial representative in Moscow; Ivan Gevrinov, former director of the state-owned Bulgarian industrial bank; Blagoi Hadjipanov, former foreign trade director; Vassil Ivanovsky, former commercial agent in Bulgarian embassy in Belgrade and Ilia Serafimov, former director of mining enterprises.

Will Remove Snow From Front Street, Keep Cars off

The city engineer stated today that snow will be removed from Front Street this evening so that all will be able to use the street freely for Christmas shopping. But in order to do a good job it is necessary that all vehicles be taken off the main street and it is his request that cars be not left on Front Street after eight o'clock. He also requests that cars be not left on the Market Square. A full gang of workmen with all equipment will work all night.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Dec. 7 (CP)—Synopsis: A storm swept across southern Ontario yesterday and today and was spreading eastward towards Lake Ontario today. Snow associated with it extended northward to the Georgian Bay and Haliburton regions, and amounts of about three to four inches are reported. Along the north shore of Lake Erie, to the south of the storm path, rain fell and temperatures rose to about 40 during the night.

CANADA'S SYSTEM BANNING BOOKS UNDER ATTACK

Prairie Teacher Leads the Debate

Ottawa, Dec. 7, (CP)— Canada's system of banning foreign books was attacked bitterly in the house of commons tonight by a school teacher from the Prairies — Roy Knight (CCF-Saskatoon).

He said they were handled by officials of the Customs Division in the same way as they are any other import.

The House also saw three other developments as it moved to within a few days of prorogation:

1. Finance Minister Mayhew announce a long-range, three-pronged program to help the fishing industry—keyed to market areas to the retail trade—capture an "excellent" potential market in North America. It was given a broad approval from all corners of the House.

2. A filibuster that has been going on since Tuesday 26 once again held up final consideration of two private bills that would build pipelines. They may or may not come up again. Opponents of the bills contended that the lines should serve Canada first, not the United States.

3. A debate on the fishing county's representative, A. Wesley Stuart (Lib.-Victoria) on recent statements by Agriculture Minister Gardiner that British officials are trying to undermine goods out of the U.K. market.

To Receive Cheques

Finance Minister McCann said 771,000 Canadians within a few days will get cheques to help out their income. The cheques were cut off the taxation rolls last spring.

S. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, charged that the R.C.M.P. is screening those persons in the CBC's international service who could communicate messages behind the Iron curtain. Revenue Minister McCann confirmed the screening and did not deny the allegation.

Dr. Austin Smith, Born Here, Becomes Editor of Journal Of American Medical Assoc.

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Dec. 7, (CP)— A brilliant young Canadian who came to the United States before the war has become editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, one of the top-flight spots in the field of North American medicine.

He is 39-year-old Dr. Austin Smith, native of Belleville and graduate of Queen's University, whose appointment was announced Tuesday by the Board of Trustees of the association.

He succeeds Dr. Morris Fishbein, 60, whose occasional conflicts with leaders of the North American medical world during his 25 years of editorship brought him to the public attention. Dr. Fishbein is retiring after 37 years with the association.

Dr. Smith is dapper, sandy-haired and youthful in appearance. He joined the A.M.A. in 1949 as a medical associate of its council and rose rapidly. In 1942, he was named secretary of the council and later became assistant editor of the journal, one of the world's outstanding medical publications.

Recognized Medical Leader

Though comparatively young, he already has become a recognized medical leader in his continent. He now is director of the division of therapy and research of the A.M.A. He is also a member of the editorial board of the Council on Pharmacy and Chemistry. Considered one of the leading American authorities on drugs and treatment, he touched on this field Tuesday in his first press conference, held shortly after his appointment was announced.

He told reporters that present information fails to justify the widespread use of anti-histaminic drugs now being advertised and used for a cure without prescription in the United States as treatment for the common cold. Some persons, he said, have broad possibilities of danger associated with these drugs. In that some persons become drowsy and less alert. Some have fallen asleep at wheels while driving a car.

Dr. Smith was graduated from Queen's in 1935, receiving his post-graduate degree there two years later. He was then clinical training in New York and later served as a staff member at Queen's and at the University of Illinois College of Medicine.

Prolific Writer

He became a United States citizen seven years ago.

He has written scores of articles for books, both popular and scientific. He helped at the University of Chicago Medical School and has published popular and scientific groups throughout the United States. He is a noted public speaker.

Much of the A.M.A.'s scientific work has been in the fields of therapy and research, which Dr. Smith heads, and fellow physicians say he will continue to energize the practical with the ideal which has been a distinctive place in the research and administrative phases of medical care.

50 Million Anti-Communist Trade Union Workers of 53 Nations Form World Body

London, Dec. 7 — (CP) — Leaders of 50,000,000 anti communist trade unions workers in 53 countries formally organized the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions today.

By a lopsided majority, the delegates adopted a constitution pledging the confederation to fight for job security for members and for their right to strike when they choose. No negative votes were cast.

The new organization will carry the fight to communism and the world Federation of Trade Unions. They quit the W. F. T. U. early this year because communists dominated it.

A 29-man executive board along with a president and general secretary will be named later today.

Paul Finet, of Belgium, chairman of the conference which formed the confederation, received assured of election as president. J. H. Oldenbroek, of The Netherlands, led in speculation for the executive secretaryship.

The Netherlands, Swiss and Austrian Catholic and Catholic Workers Union rejected invitations to attend the conference.

The Canadian international, it was learned today.

The Canadian and Catholic confederation of labor decided to send a message of support but not to send delegates because because the sessions end Friday.

The Canadian Catholic and Catholic International said.

Both were asked with the condition that if their unions joined the new international they must quit the Catholic International within two years.

The leaders of Belgium and French Christian (Catholic) Workers Unions abstained from voting but have been invited to send observers to them and their membership in the new international still is undecided.

Pain, Vibration, Heat Taken Out Of Dentistry

Montreal, Dec. 7. (CP)—A United States professor of dentistry Tuesday predicted pain will not only painless, but heatless and vibrationless dentistry for the future.

Speaking to a meeting of Montreal dentists, Dr. Ralph Summer of the University of Michigan referred to a new invention called the air abrasive jet as one of the greatest achievements in the dentistry for many years.

Airdent, less than a month old, is an abrasive machine allowing a man to drill without feeling teeth, Dr. Summer said.

"It removes all vibration, pain and heat from the operation."

"Aluminum oxide, the abrasive is projected from a fine nozzle under high pressure and comes out like a stream of sand drilling teeth, Lula Arroyave, inventor of the quiniptiet story. He told audiences that the device will be wanted to get out to visit his "five nephews."

Call Story of Birth Of Quintuplets in Colombia Hoax

Bogota, Colombia, Dec. 7 — (AP)—Two Bogota newspapers reported today the story of the birth of quintuplets in a remote Colombian village was a hoax.

Medellin reported it had been installed at length the story of the birth of five sons to the wife of an illiterate muletto farm laborer in the village of San Alejandro.

Today Medellin correspondent Hernando Gomez Buendia gave his children, all right — but their ages range from five to seven.

The correspondent of El Liberal said authorities in Medellin jail, Luis Arroyave, invented the quiniptiet story. He told authorities that the device he wanted to get out to visit his "five nephews."

"And it can be directed against the gum tissues without harm," he added.

Compulsory Voting Will be In Force in Australian Elections

Sydney, Australia, Dec. 7 (CP)—Nearly 5,000,000 eligible voters can cast ballots Saturday to fix a new Australian government for the Senate and house of representatives.

The federal government has placed great emphasis on public expression before elections, but has nothing to compare with the new South Wales State Government Act prohibiting newspaper comment for 72 hours before state polling days. Federal restrictions order every newspaper report concerning the election to be signed by the reporter. Nowadays blanket responsibility for such reports usually is taken by the editor.

Most countries elect men to parliament on the "first-past-the-post" principle. The voter puts a cross against the name he wants gets the rest. But in Australia he must allot his preference to candidates.

The voter puts "1" in the little square beside his favorite, "2" beside the next and so on. If he forgets to fill in every box, the ballot is invalid.

This is how preferential voting is supposed to work: The candidate has more first-preference votes than any other candidate he has won straightout win. But if he hasn't a clear majority, the counters discard the lowest-polling candidate after adding the second-preference votes of his papers to the other votes. These then count as full-value votes, and may thus give one candidate a clear majority. If not, the lowest candidate is again dropped and his preferences allotted.

60 PERSONS FLEE PEMBROKE HOTEL AS FIRE STARTS

Rear of Building is Gutted, No One Hurt

Pembroke, Dec. 7 — (CP) — More than 60 person fled to safety early today when fire gutted the rear end of the three-storey Pembroke hotel.

More that 50 guests were in the hotel when the fire broke out shortly after midnight. Cookheaded section by the hotel staff was credited with averting a possible major tragedy.

No one was injured, but damage to the building is expected to run into thousands.

The blaze broke out in a furnace room at the rear of the building and quickly swept through the back portion of the building. By the time firemen arrived, quarters housing eight women staff members were evacuated in flames and the blaze had been into the adjoining confectionery sweage room and had spread to the third floor of the building.

The women's staff quarters were completely gutted as were a number of sample rooms, while the beverage room suffered heavy damage. The remainder of the hotel, including guest rooms, suffered water and smoke damage.

Hotel manager Neil Foran telephoned all guests, advising them to get dressed and "meet me down in the lobby." He then visited each guest room to be sure he had overlooked that all guests had vacated their rooms.

Exact cause of the fire and a full estimate of damage still is not known.

Rex Beach, 72, Found Dead Of Pistol Wound

Sebring, Fla., Dec. 7 — (AP) — Rex Beach, 72, famous Alaskan novelist, was found dead of a pistol wound in his head at his home near here this morning.

His death was pronounced suicide by Judge J. Seward Colegrove and Sheriff Broward Coe.

Beach had been suffering from a throat ailment for three years. A friend, Ralph Pierce, a nurse who brought him breakfast, the said he is dead.

Medical authorities in Miami said the noted novelist suffered from cancer of the throat. No mention of his ailment was made previously because Beach wanted it that way.

Beach was a frequent visitor to Canada, particularly Ontario. He fished in most of the best spots in the province and wrote stories giving the province much publicity in American magazines.

About 10 years ago he wrote a magazine article on the late Dr. W. M. Gamble, Williamsburg, Ont., which brought thousands of United States visitors there for treatment of foot ailments.

The writer arrived in Miami in an ambulance and was carried to treatment and walked out to return to his home.

Beach's Miami doctor said the author "had no chance for complete recovery" from a throat ailment which afflicted him for two years.

Investigators Call General Who Ran A-Bomb Project

Hopes of Filling Gaps In Story of Shipments

Washington, Dec. 7 — (CP)— United States Congressional investigators today examined the General who ran the wartime atomic bomb project as a witness in hopes of filling in gaps in the mysterious story of atomic shipments to Russia.

Among other things, the House of Representatives committee on un-American activities planned to ask Major General Leslie Groves, retired, whether it's true that the former U.S. vice-president, Henry A. Wallace, and the late Harry Hopkins helped push through atomic shipments to the Russians over Groves's objections.

Wallace has denied it, and Tuesday demanded a chance to testify before the committee. Groves also have come from associates of Hopkins, who was a close friend and adviser of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The House group on inquiry was set off by a broadcast by radio commentator Fulton Lewis, Jr. The broadcast, a former air force officer said Hopkins had agreed to ship atomic bombs and materials to Russia over a wartime lend-lease route, when he was lend-lease administrator.

The former Major, George Racey Jordan, testified in secret Tuesday that the Russians also slipped American radar equipment out of the country by a ruse, after he had balked four times at doing it.

The committee's chief-investigator, Louis J. Russell, testified Monday that evidence has been uncovered that there were shipments of atomic matter, that Russia back around 1943 and 1944.

The first two shipments, he said, were of uranium compounds.

Russell gave testimony in the hearings which had been previously reported a year ago, to the effect that a Canadian radium and uranium corporation had made one shipment to Russia through a New York broker after a firm in the United States could not fill the order.

Sent to Russia

The shipment, according to Russell, comprised 500 pounds of black uranium oxide and 500 pounds of uranium nitrate. It was sent to a Russian purchasing agent directly from Canada, the plant at Port Hope, Ont. The time of the shipment was alleged to be in the fall of 1943.

(Questioned about the shipment, Tweedsmuir, Chief of Canada, The Dominion's atomic spokesman for years, said in New York Tuesday night that he has no knowledge, no shipments of uranium or anything else from Canada to Russia in 1943.

(Howe, who returns to Ottawa today, was guest at a dinner meeting in New York Tuesday night. He spoke to guests over the records of the private company that handled uranium in 1943.

(Even had there been a shipment, Howe added, "I don't think that the Russians then knew uranium had any importance. In fact for six months at 1943, one have purchased uranium for nonmilitary purposes because there was largely considered just a by product of radium, which was used in medical treatments.)

Tenants Name Polish Jew Best Toronto Landlord

Toronto, Dec. 7—(CP)—A Polish Jew who ran the first three dollars he made in Canada in 1930 up to more than $800,000, Louis Mayzel is a candidate for Toronto's best landlord.

Tenants at the Trinity apartments nominate him. They received an advance Christmas present Tuesday in a notice saying that, government permission notwithstanding, rents won't be raised for at least 12 months after rental controls come off.

Nearly all the tenants are veterans, single or ex wife or partially blind, and Mayzel is a paraplegic and another an amputation case.

Mrs. Mayzel, who has a prosperous merchandising business, said in an interview that he has no time for people who gossip every cent out of tenants.

Officers or rehabilitation services with problems of placing their wards in decent accommodation have worked with Mr. Mayzel. In one instance, working with the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, he remodelled a room in the basement of his apartment house so that a blind lottery could run a shop and earn himself a living.

Fifteen States, District of Columbia Take Steps to Fight Sex Crimes

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)— Fifteen states in the United States and the district of Columbia have acted recently to crack down on sex crimes.

One U.S. Congressman wants the Federal Bureau of Investigation to keep dossiers on these sex crimes.

Thirty-three states have not done anything of late to deal with sex slayers, perverts and other sex criminals.

An Associated Press survey of the 48 states and the District revealed a recent wave of, rape, sex murders, and weird sexual crimes. It showed that of the 15 states which have taken no recent action, at least 13 plan no steps in the immediate future.

In other states, initial or further action to fight sex crime is expected.

During a single week-end last month, police were facing sexual outrages in New York, Pittsburgh, Newport News Va., Detroit (where the News has offered $40,000 in reward for the slaying eight Michigan sex killings), Los Angeles, Twin Falls, Ida., and Huron, Calif.

The F.B.I. has reported an increase of 1.2 per cent in rape throughout the United States for the first six months of 1949, compared with the same period last year.

The bureau added that their statistics deal only with "rapes known to police" and do not include crimes shot up 50 per cent in 10 years.

Many of the recent crimes involve little children as victims.

Attorney General Frank Child (Dem. Ky.) said recently that he will try to make it a federal offence to molest a child.

In several states efforts are being made to have the sex offender treated as a mental case, subject to care by physicians, rather than to cold, punishment sentence with no rehabilitation chances.

DREW INVITES GOVT. DENIAL BUT GETS NONE

Claims CBC Employees In Russia to Convey Information

Ottawa, Dec. 7 (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, charged Tuesday night that RCMP screening of employees of the CBC's International Service is directed at a group "who are L. a position to convey trade secrets to countries beyond the iron curtain." He invited government denial but got none.

Revenue Minister McCann declined in the Commons that the check is being made of permanent employees of the service whose station CBA at Sackville, N.S., broadcasts around around the world daily. Some others who made broadcasts and all scripts of broadcasts also were screened, he said.

Mr. Drew said, rising during the last five minutes of the daily question period in the House:

"Is it not correct that the screening is being conducted in connection with a suggestion that there has been certain broadcasting conveyed to European countries which was not in accordance with the purpose or setting up this station?"

Dr. McCann said: "I am informed that the answer is no."

The discussion on screening of the CBC's International Service produced statements by Dr. McCann that all permanent employees have been cleared, that they are still active in their work, and that no report has yet been made which 'could lead to action.

COUNCIL CONCURS IN RESOLUTION

Hastings County Council in its opening session of the December sitting yesterday afternoon, concurred in a Simcoe County Council resolution that Daylight Saving Time start on the last Sunday in April and end the last Sunday in September.

The resolution requested the government of Ontario to make this universal all over the province to avoid unnecessary confusion resulting from one municipality being on standard time and another on daylight saving time.

SLIPPERY STREETS CAUSE OF CRASHES

Slippery streets caused by the heavy snowfall during the night and early morning were responsible for at least two motor accidents today. No injuries were reported as result of either accident.

Gerald Redford, R. R. 5 Belleville, was proceeding south on Coleman Street when the traffic light changed and he could not stop and skidded into the intersection, crashed by a southbound vehicle driven by Douglas Calpin, also R. R. 5, Belleville. Calpin had been waiting on the bridge approach for the traffic light to change and crossed the intersection when the green light showed.

RESIDENT OF CANADA FOR THIRTY YEARS

In the thumb-nail sketches of those aspiring for council, Christian F. Leggat was given as residing in Canada for six years. This was an error. Mr. Leggat served with the Imperial Army in the First Great War for four-and-one-half years and at the end of hostilities came to Canada, which makes his residence in this country longer. He was employed with the C.N.R. at Horseshoe Lake and later joined the Customs department moving to Sault Ste. Marie, where he served for eight years and then was moved to Belleville, where he has been for the past six years. At the present time Mr. Leggat is Excise Officer at Corbyville. He is a member of the Canadian Legion, Christ Church, is married and has one son.

Children of Mary Give Playlet

The monthly meeting of the Children of Mary was held in St. Michael's High School on Monday evening.

Following the singing of Mother Beloved and the reading of the minutes of the last meeting, the committee reports were given as follows: Eucharistic committee had each sodalist choose a day for hearing Mass, followed by two very interesting reports on our Lady of Fatima. Reverend Sister Mary Leonore then enlarged and explained more fully upon the apparition of Fatima. Several of the other committees having given their reports, the sodalists retired to the assembly room.

A dramatization of "The Highwayman" was very capable enacted by the following girls: the highwayman, Vy Graham; his horse, Helen Hudon and Helen Grant; Bess, Catherine Grant; the soldiers, Joan McIntyre, Lenore Bradden, Shirley Evans and Joan Foley; Tim the Hostler, Terry Messgher; Miss Barbara Forbes rendered music suitable to each scene. The narrator was Pat O'Grady.

Sketches of New Members

On Sunday several new girls received into the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin. The girls wearing their new blue gowns and white veils, made a very effective picture.

Father C. B. Baker, in the absence of Rt. Rev. Monsignor Nicholson, who is ill in Kingston, received the new members. After a procession through the centre aisle the girls returned to their places after which Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament took place.

Garagemen's Assoc. Holds Annual Chicken Dinner

Shannonville — The Garagemen's Association of Hastings and Prince Edward County recently held their annual chicken dinner in the Shannonville Orange Hall on Wednesday evening. Thy attendance was excellent at around 175 and due to the delicious dinner catered to by the United Church Women's Association of the president, Mrs. Sam Elliott.

After the sumptuous repast, the gathering was entertained by members of the Rhythm Ranch Riders orchestra, with musical selections on the guitar, violin and base fiddle. The young "songtress" sang several pleasing selections.

The meeting followed with the president, of the local association Mr. Percy Wood, of Belleville, presiding. Regret was expressed that Mr. John Robbins, of the head office in Toronto, could not be present, due to a recent illness.

Mr. Kenneth Vivian, Provincial Director for Ontario, gave a brief report of recent meetings.

Robert McAuley, Guest Speaker

The guest speaker of the evening was Mr. Robert McAuley, a prominent Toronto lawyer, and the legal advisor to the Garagemen's Association, who delivered his interesting address.

The Women's Association was extended a vote of thanks for their fine repast to which the president, Mrs. Elliott fittingly responded.

KILLED THREE CHILDREN

Alexandria, Va., Dec. 7 — (AP) — Shortly after reloading a single shot, .20-gauge shotgun, a father today killed his three children in his home here.

The man, John Conner, 40, then surrendered to police accompanied by his wife who ran screaming to a neighbor's.

The children were Stephanie, 11; Michael 8, and Celia, 5.

100 New Canadians Taking English Classes in City

Integrating large numbers of displaced persons into citizenship in Canada is a challenge to all, it stated Earl Webster of the Community Program branch, to members of the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon at the Kiwanis Centre on Tuesday. He stated there were more than 78,000 who had come to Canada to seek a new life and of these about 20,000 are enrolled in citizenship classes throughout Canada, the majority in Ontario schools.

The speaker stated there were 100 new Canadians taking classes in Belleville with others at Marmora, Batawa and other places in the county. "Most of the work is done in night classes" said the speaker "and they are trying to overcome the handicap of not being able to speak English. They are trying to learn something about the democracy of which we preach and to the teachers of this province, who are giving their time and energy too much praise cannot be given them." He said that teachers work after hours and they have to learn the text books .. from which the basic English of the words is taught. We should invite the newcomers to our homes, show them our way of life and I am sure there will be a large percentage make fine citizens."

The meeting was under the direction of Norman Edwards and the James Musgrove, chairman of the Education Committee, being in the chair. Norman Smith introduced the speaker and Bill Colville expressed appreciation while Gordon donated the attendance prize, which was won by Taylor Franklin. The successful candidates from the club were heard in short addresses.

First Shipment Of Gas Deposited In New Tanks

Having already established a marine storage for 1½ million gallons of gasoline and fuel oil products to be brought to annually by water Trinidad Leaseholds (Canada) Ltd. with offices in the Warren Building on Front Street plan to erect additional storage space for another 850,000 gallons within the next year according to a company official yesterday.

One of the first shipments of the company's products comprising some 250,000 gallons arrived here recently and was unloaded into the new storage tanks from the tanker Transtream out of Port Credit, Ontario, where the company has its head office and refineries. The tanker followed the Lake Ontario route and returned light through the Bay of Quinte and the Murray Canal.

Growth of the Canadian here reflects the demand for the valuable petroleum products marketed by the Trinidad Leaseholds .. producing, refining and distributing Regent products through an organization rated among the largest in the British Empire. Through the building of the extensive storage here the company is in better position to service ever-increasing consumers in the city and district.

Construction of the new waterfront tanks was started about the middle of September, the actual erection of the tanks being made by the Horton Steel Company of Windsor.

Initially the company opened a divisional office here to facilitate better business coverage in the area east of Toronto. This year however, it was found necessary to again enlarge the facilities in order to handle the increased volume of new sales.

R. D. Scripture is the manager of the Belleville plant for the company while the divisional superintendent is F. Hopkins makes his headquarters here.

Labor-Religion Council Will Be Instituted

At the Kiwanis Centre this evening at 7 o'clock a meeting will be held to institute a Labor-Religion Council. Rev. F. R. Harbach has been appointed by the Ministerial Association to be the liaison officer between the two groups. The Institute has progressed so far that a Sunday will be set aside in Belleville for the Baptist, and three United Churches, who are participating, and the pulpits on that occasion will be occupied with either labor or religious executive of the institute. In the early part of January Rev. E. Harold Toy will be the guest speaker at Kiwanis and Rotary on the particular subject.

Several meetings have been held in Toronto and elsewhere on Industrial Evangelism, it being considered that there is too wide a gap between labor and religion. Leaders in the ministry are asked to challenge their young people to consider the opportunity presented by the labor movement for effective service in the interest of justice, brotherhood and human well-being.

Money, Wallet Returned to Boy

A lost and found ad appearing in the Ontario Intelligencer this week not only brought results but went one better.

The ad reported the loss of a local boy's wallet containing $20 and asked the finder to return it giving the phone number of the lover's parents.

Soon after the afternoon edition was on the newsstands to the little lad's surprise and joy the pocketbook with the money inside was returned by some honest citizen who picked it up earlier.

To the little lad's parents that same day came a telephone call from a local merchant whose feelings were touched when he read of the little fellow's plight offering to duplicate the lost wallet and the $20 in the event either was not located.

IN MEMORIAM

DEAN — In loving memory of our dear father, Adam Dean, who passed away December 7th, 1945.
Your presence is ever near us,
Your memory we treasure still,
We were the kind of a father
Your loved ones would never forget.
Ever remembered by sons and daughters.

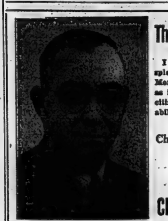
FICTON

Picton—Though their car crashed through a fence and rolled down a 50 foot embankment, Gordon Wadford, 24, and William Lobb, 23, escaped serious injury. The accident occurred on a filled-in road which forms a bridge near the village of Milford. The couple were in Wadsworth's car and proceeding down the steep hill. In turning out to pass a car coming up the hill, Wadsworth lost control of the car. It crashed through the wire fence and rolled down the hill. The young men were thrown clear. Wadsworth suffered a severe cut on the forehead, while Lobb has a lacerated knee. The car was almost a total wreck.



Capt. John Morrison, officer-in-charge of the local Salvation Army, and Major Mercer of territorial headquarters, Toronto, were badly shaken up Monday night, when their car overturned twice. They were rounding a sharp corner near Northport when the car skidded on ice on the road.

Struck by Car

Robert Smart, 17, is in hospital here suffering from a dislocated shoulder, torn ligaments of the spine and contusions about the face. He was riding his bicycle which was struck by a car driven by Keith Pearsall of Picton. The accidents occurred on the Picton-Bloomfield highway. On another bicycle was Henry Zechariah whose machine was not hit. Police were advised that the bicycles did not carry lights and that Smart was riding two abreast with his companion. No charges have been laid against Pearsall.

Roy Williams, 33, Picton, suffered a broken ankle and cuts on the face, when his car collided with one driven by Carl Sills of Belleville, on Highway 33, near Bloomfield. Sills was cut about the face and knees. A passenger with Williams suffered facial cuts.

Picton-Bloomfield highway was the scene of another accident when a car driven by Helen McDonald, 23, Picton, collided with a truck driven by Gordon Lavender, 21, of Wellington. Doris Lavender, 23, had a broken ankle and cuts. Mrs. J. Lavender suffered a shaking up and her son Gordon escaped injury. The collision was in the nature of a sideswipe as the McDonald car made a left-hand turn. The truck went into a ditch and struck a tree, damage of $250 resulting.

RULES FOR SAFETY ON ICE AND RESCUE

With the coming of winter and the freezing over of open water it is well to consider the question of ice safety or winter water safety. Small bodies of water such as small lakes and ponds and slowly moving streams are the safest ice for skating or other winter sports. On the other hand ice over swiftly moving water is dangerous and is unsafe for skating, however great the thickness may be. The Canadian Red Cross water safety director has issued the following advice:

Ice breaks occur most frequently at the beginning and end of our winter because "young ice" formed during the first freeze is dangerously deceptive. It looks safe enough but is not uniformly of sufficient thickness for safety.

The following rule is well worth practising:—One-inch ice—keep off; two-inch ice—on skates only; three-inch ice—for small groups!; four-inch ice—O.K.!

It must be remembered that young ice weakens rapidly under the mid-day sun or with any rise in temperature. "Safe ice" in the morning may be dangerous by noonday.

Those who live near a body of water where an "ice" accident might occur, should have readily available "a reaching assist," a long pole, rope or ladder, and so forth and know how to use it.

Persons who must cross ice of unknown thickness, should carry with them long poles which would straddle the hole created in the ice if they should break through.

Dangerous or weak spots in the ice should be clearly marked at all times.

One should not skate alone, especially at night on such ice.

One must know how to take care of one's self before one attempts to rescue someone who has fallen through the ice. For if one does not he will not only not help the person in the water but will likely drown himself. The best advice is to get help.

People are urged not to crowd towards the break in the ice.

The advice is given by the life savers, "Do not attempt to rescue a submerged victim unless you have a safety belt attached to your waist."

The person anxious to help another in water is advised to lie flat on the ice when making an ice rescue, to encourage the victim and help him avoid panic.

There should be blankets and warm clothing for the rescued person.

One should be prepared to treat ice-accident victims for shock with warm drinks, blankets. It is advised not to give alcohol. There should be every possible use of "reaching assists."

For those who happen to fall through the ice, there are some hits of advice;

Do not panic.

Extend both arms on to the ice to support your body, and call for help.

Then immediately attempt to climb back on to the ice surface. Get your bearings and make each movement count.

Thrash the feet vigorously behind you to prevent the body from jack-knifing under the ice, and to help ward off chill.

In this horizontal position, it is possible to gradually crawl forward until your hips are at the endge of the ice.

Swerving slightly, you may now roll on to the ice surface. Keep rolling until you are away from the insecure ice at the edge of the hole.

If the ice breaks ahead of you under your weight, continue until you reach either thicker ice or the shore.

Rescue of a person who has fallen through ice may be done by a single individual with proper equipment, or by a small group when equipment is not available.

If only one person is present, he must be equipped with skates or creepers to prevent being pulled in also and must have the use of a reaching assist such as a rope, long pole or branch, a plank, a ladder or a ring-buoy. The rescuer must be well-braced himself or he may be pulled in.

The divine insanity of noble minds, that never falters nor abates, but labors, endures and waits, till all that it foresees it finds, or what it cannot find creates. — Longfellow.

ABOUT BOYS

A healthy boy is prone to shout
And keep on racing in and out
And bang the door behind him, too
But if these things he doesn't do,
To worry parents should begin.
Time to call the doctor in.

A boy of twelve is one who can
Eat twice as much as any man.
He'll down the largest wedge of pie,
And ask a second by and by.
But, if he doesn't, that's the day
To call the doctor right away.

A boy of ten won't go to bed
Till by the hand or ear he's led.
"So soon?" He'll shout: "It's only eight.
It may be dark, but it's not late."
But, if in bed he's glad to crawl,
For him the doctor you should call.

A healthy boy does things like these:
His little sister he will tease,
He'll pinch her arm and pull her hair,
Bring in a dead mouse just to scare.
But, if he sits alone and still
The chances are he needs a pill.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

LOOKING BACKWARDS

20 YEARS AGO

Dec. 7th., 1929.

At a luncheon held at Hotel Quinte yesterday the members of the Belleville Ladies Underwriters Association elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, G. Harold Holton; Vice President, A. E. Monk; Secretary, H. H. Clow; executive committee, H. R. Tucker, Ray Aikin and J. Crowe. During the proceedings Mr. Stephen Burrows, the dean of the Life Underwriters of this city, was p... an honorary life member. ... Geo. A. Reid, mayor-elect, was a guest at the luncheon.

Miss Margaret Goyer is home from Toronto to spend a few days.

Miss Gladys Munnings is home from Queen's University on a short visit.

30 YEARS AGO

Dec. 7th., 1919.

One of the most successful amateur entertainments given this season was held in the Sunday School rooms at Holloway Street Church. It was under the auspices of the choir and every member was well given and afforded much enjoyment to the large audience. One item of special interest was the now famous Holloway Street Kitchen Orchestra under the able direction of George Dulmage. The orchestra is composed of twenty-three members; all the instruments for a well balanced orchestra being played. Particular mention might be made of the two able trombone artists G. Lloyd and R. Woodley who favored the very large audience with a most enlivening selection "Among the Gold."

It is understood that Mr. W. B. Riggs will be a candidate for the office of mayor at the coming elections.

40 YEARS AGO

Dec. 7th., 1909.

Geno Laroche, manager of the Belleville Intermediate hockey team, has been appointed a member of the O.H.A. executive. Congratulations—he should make a useful member of that body. Talking about the Intermediates; are we going to have a bunch which will make the rallibrds sit up and smile? Well rather! The management, while not going to make as much silver cups will come in this direction, do assure that they are a husky bunch and ready to play with any aggregation that drifts into this neck of the woods. And the team that takes their measure will surely know that they have been playing something different to dominoes.

50 YEARS AGO

Dec. 7th., 1899.

The police should stop the youngsters coasting down the hills; it is dangerous to life and limb.

That much abused ordinance, the snow by-law, is honored about as much in the breach as in observance in this city.

Mr. William Smith of Campbellford is spending a few days in town.

It is reported that there is a depth of 18 inches of snow in Prince Edward County.

Mr. Arthur Coe of Madoc was in town today.

Mr. S. Curry of Madoc was in town today.

Mrs. H. L. Lowring (nee Miss Bowslby of this city) now of Revelstoke, B.C., is visiting relatives here.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

TWO GREAT GENIUSES

Cervantes, believed by many to be the greatest writer that ever lived, was a contemporary of Shakespeare. Cervantes was a Spaniard and Shakespeare an Englishman. In Spain, Cervantes went about collecting money to equip the great Armada which Philip III sent out to destroy England. Young Shakespeare must have stood on the terrace of his home while the Armadas of Spain approached the English shores. One of the singular things about the lives of these two men is that they died on the same date. They did not die on the same day, for Cervantes in Spain lived under the Gregorian calendar, whereas Shakespeare in England lived under the Julian calendar and there was a difference in the calendars at each end of the year.

It is doubtful that either knew of the existence of the other, for Cervantes did not speak English and Shakespeare did not speak Spanish. Two of the greatest minds ranged of opposite sides of a world struggle. Here were two men who looked at religion from different points of view.

Behind the scenes the God of all power and wisdom arranges affairs as He would have them and sets down His geniuses in parts of the earth, which places the need for understanding is beyond human grasp, and His purposes never to be questioned.

Child Amputee Is 'Blueprint In Happiness'

Hull, Yorkshire, England, Dec. 7—(CP)—The Ministry of Pensions knows just what to do with a certain type of person whom it wants to encourage—it has him meet Ann Branton.

The Ministry's "blue print for happiness" has visitors by the hundreds sent at government expense from any part of the country.

All Ann's visitors are amputees, generally persons who've lost both legs, and they go to see her to be convinced that artificial limbs need be no handicap whatever.

Her example lifts them from their apathetic belief that life is spoiled for them.

Bobbing briskly about with her playfellows, Ann romps with the liveliest — for all her two artificial limbs, result of a train accident which severed her real ones just below the knees.

Her parents are Mary, the daughter of a fishworker and his former cotton-spinner wife—used to worry about her. "But I don't any more," said Mrs. Branton. "Look at her. She leads a perfectly normal life."

Whatever Ann sees her two mothers do, she does too. "We treat her exactly as we do the two boys."

Ann's legs will change, as other little girl's do, as she grows older—new ones every so often as her body grows. And that's going to be quite a bit, for Ann's just three years years old.

SCHOOL'S OUT

All of Amsterdam's schoolchildren were given a holiday to see the recent launching of the 18,600-ton passenger liner "Oslofjord," built for the Norway-American line.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

As the train click-clacked along, Josef Chemik kept looking at the old man who was dozing across the aisle, and when a sudden lurching of the wheels woke him, he went over and took the seat opposite.

"Pardon me," he said, "but haven't we met someplace?"

The old man looked. "I remembered you as soon as you came into the coach," he said. "The last time we met was the day you the exact date—was March 12, 1938, the day before we were to play in Prague for the chess championship."

"I remember you now," said Chemik, "but if you'll pardon my saying so, you've lost a good deal of weight. I hope you understood when I didn't show up for the match."

"I understood perfectly when I heard you had left the night before the Nazis took over. I was older, and so stayed and did what little I could."

"In England, I heard you had been murdered by the Germans."

"It was lucky, I suppose, that the old man died in 1937, until 1943 when I was arrested for listening to the radio. Meanwhile I had put to work on the Autobahn in terms of forty cent to one of the regular camps.

"I guess you didn't have much time for chess there," said Chemik.

"When I reached London, the first thing I did was to get myself a table set and I've carried it ever since."

He took a flat leather box from his pocket and snapped it open.

"Why did you come back to Prague?" asked the old man.

"The usual reason—a girl. But how about a game? It will help beat the time."

"I'm afraid I've forgotten a lot since 1939, but if you insist..."

"Pardon me, the championship of Czechoslovakia," smiled Chemik, "Although you shall have the white."

The opening moves were made rapidly, but as the players developed their strategies, they slowed down until, without their being aware of it, the sun set. There was only a small bulb hanging in the center of the coach, and a passenger, who had been watching produced a flashlight and played its beam upon the board.

For a long time, Chemik held the advantage. Then suddenly the old man brought out his queen so unexpectedly that it menaced the queen hidden in his pain. Next he moved a knight into position and Chemik's queen was trapped.

Chemik held out his hand. "Yours is the greatest game I have seen," he said.

"I am more surprised than you," said the old man. "I was afraid I couldn't remember it."

The train stopped and stopped and there was a sudden rapping of gunbutts against the sealed doors of the coach. Then the voices of the passengers saw the trucks waiting to take them to the Siberian labor camp.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

In another few days, a good many of those Canadians who have left Canada for the States will be coming home for a Christmas visit. And this is a good time to reflect upon them.

The criticism that from time to time is levelled at Canadian industry, Canadian governmental and Canadian institutions generally, is lacking in point and question. But there is a question Why do we lose so many?

What is it these wild geese among us seek when they cross the border? Greater opportunity and more money.

If that is all, we are possibly better off without them. They lack strength of character, initiative, portiant, of course, that our young men have the strong impulse to make the most of their talents and their opportunities. But if they do not feel that way, no amount of legislation to the country, the province, the city, the town that provided them with that impulse and those talents, and equipped them with large opportunities, for they lack the element that makes for success in the best interest of the child and you need not feel embarrassed about it.

I wasn't there. I didn't see the case and all I know about it is what you have chosen to tell me. But on the statements presented, I am strongly inclined to side along with the original doctor. As a matter of policy, I would prefer the direct responsibility to the private practitioner of medicine rather than the nebulous loyalty I might expect from Mr. Whitacre in an operating room. The question of competence is not involved in this statement. I simply express my personal preference for retail medicine over the wholesale variety. I do not subscribe to the idea that because it costs the government $50,000.00 a year more to maintain a bed into a government hospital that you are any better off than bed that you can get in one in a private hospital where $17,000.00 of the hospital's money provided the bed.

A hospital is nothing but four walls—it has no doctors. Marble halls and chromium banisters have no effect upon rheumatic fever. The village doctor—one flight up—hours from opening 'til closing, but sometimes the brisk and brawn of American Medicine, that the world has ever known, is no belong a doctor in the gilded temple of health that he is at the bedside of the child in a modest home.

I have no criticism of the doctor in government service. There is no reason whatever, why he should be expected to be less devoted to the matte, in hand than the private practitioner. There is no reason for thinking that he is less competent than he would be if he were in private practice. But for myself, I prefer the private doctor and I prefer him for you. I think you and I are better off when we transact the business of living direct and limit with the doctor. The only thing a third party to the deal can do is complicate the transaction and increase the cost. You have asked for my opinion and there it is. And thank you, Ma'am for asking me.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

In Other Words a Stinker

Regardless of your ideas about tooth decay, common sense would seem to indicate to anyone the need for mouth hygiene. I have a theory that washing the feet will help cure yours. My feet smell—does your mouth? (C. D. B.)

Answer — No, only my nose. Your logic, Doctor, is like your conclusions. Let me illumine you with a few facts. A great many people are a physician, clergyman, teacher, veterinarian.

Pernicious Anemia

I have pernicious anemia and would like to know if my colds would be harmful to this disease. (F. A.)

Answer—Only your physician can answer your question.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CALMNESS TO FORGET

I have never discovered the reason why so many people cling to unpleasant, or unhappy, memories. Why do we store in our minds things we would like to have discarded long ago? Why can't we have the calmness to forget?

There are those who have perhaps the right to carry about with them everywhere they go. With such a short life to live, we are liable to live and learn, why should we give even a moment to remembering unfortunate experiences, or to continue harboring hate in any form?

People carry about with them things that only keep adding poison to their entire mental outlook. We can be unutterably happy so happy so long as we hold ill-will toward no one. Some years ago Henry Drummond wrote a little book about "the greatest thing in the world" and he called that greatest thing—love. Love is that warmth, that warmth in a heart of hate.

Memory was given to us to relieve us of past things, and to file them away for inspiration and hope when times might get dark. We need such memory for calmness to forget all bitter things and to bring to the conscious mind and heart all that has made life worth while. When we think of our blessings and all the many kind acts of others, and their words of encouragement, there really is no room for resentment and ill feeling.

If the world would only stop hating—that is, many of the continents—there would be no wars. When Simon Bolivar was fighting, directed, and planned the great Liberator told an American officer that he thought that he would die happy if only his countrymen would stop hating their neighbors and start loving them.

That meeting of General Grant and General Lee, at Appomattox was one of the most inspiring events in history, for both were magnanimous, and they had the calmness to forget their differences and to bring about a peace that meant more than any elaborate signed treatment.

Man With Frozen Feet Improves

Sudbury, Dec. 7 — (CP) — Officials at St. Joseph's Hospital said that the condition of a 54-year-old Vancouver man brought to the hospital with frozen feet last Saturday is fairly good.

Thomas Edward Denson from his feet while attempting to return on a Canadian National Railways freight car from Montreal to Vancouver, according to C.N.R. police who brought the man to hospital in Sudbury.

Unemployed and with only four cents in his pocket, Denson, whose home address in Vancouver is 500 Alexander Street, jumped off the freight at Agate Station, near Fire River, between Foleyet and Hornepayne, when he realized his feet were starting to freeze. He had on only light socks in leather shoes.

Denson walked through the snow in 50-below-zero weather to Fire River, 18 miles from the spot where he was forced to leave the freight.

Railway police said a woman operator on Fire River also came to his aid on duty alone and afraid to let Denson into the station. Denson was then taken to another point where he was picked up by C.N.R. Constable Emil Vaillancourt of Armstrong.

Constable Vaillancourt says police he had been working on ships at Montreal, but was laid off. He was on his way home to Vancouver.

CRAFTY FIGHTER

The wolverine is a nocturnal meat-eating animal related to the weasel, about the same size as a bulldog, and noted for its power and cunning.

Personal Health Talks

WHEN SPECIALISTS DISAGREE, CONSULT THE VILLAGE DOCTOR

A "confused" mother kept her daughter in bed eight weeks for rheumatic fever. A specialist confirmed the diagnosis. Following this, the child was placed in government-operated hospital, where the government doctors stated that the diagnosis was all wrong, and that barring a slight heart murmur, there was nothing wrong with the child. At that point, it seems, the government bowed out. What to do next, she wants to know!

The mother does not state why she changed management of the child's fitness. Was it because she was dissatisfied with the care the child was receiving? Did she think that a change could practice better medicine on a government salary than he could in private practice? Or, was it because two and of eight weeks she could no longer afford private care?

Could it have been possible that the child was cured of her disease as a result of the private doctor's management, and that as a matter of course, she was no longer ill when Uncle Sam, M.D. stepped in?

At whose request was the specialist called in? At what period in the illness was he called? The mother states that the child has an afternoon temperature of 99.4. Who attends to the taking of temperatures? Is that the mother or the doctor? Could it be possible that the mother has been master-minding the doctor?

You want to know what to do? Well, I would suggest that you ask the original doctor to see the case again, and tell him frankly what you have been thinking and what you have done. After all, you have acted in what seemed to you to be in the best interest of the child and you need not feel embarrassed about it.

I wasn't there. I didn't see the case and all I know about it is what you have chosen to tell me. But on the statements presented, I am strongly inclined to side along with the original doctor. As a matter of policy, I would prefer the direct responsibility to the private practitioner of medicine rather than the nebulous loyalty I might expect from Mr. Whitacre in an operating room. The question of competence is not involved in this statement. I simply express my personal preference for retail medicine over the wholesale variety. I do not subscribe to the idea that because it costs the government $50,000.00 a year more to maintain a bed into a government hospital that you are any better off than bed that you can get in one in a private hospital where $17,000.00 of the hospital's money provided the bed.

A hospital is nothing but four walls—it has no doctors. Marble halls and chromium banisters have no effect upon rheumatic fever. The village doctor—one flight up—hours from opening 'til closing, but sometimes the brisk and brawn of American Medicine, that the world has ever known, is no belong a doctor in the gilded temple of health that he is at the bedside of the child in a modest home.

I have no criticism of the doctor in government service. There is no reason whatever, why he should be expected to be less devoted to the matte, in hand than the private practitioner. There is no reason for thinking that he is less competent than he would be if he were in private practice. But for myself, I prefer the private doctor and I prefer him for you. I think you and I are better off when we transact the business of living direct and limit with the doctor. The only thing a third party to the deal can do is complicate the transaction and increase the cost. You have asked for my opinion and there it is. And thank you, Ma'am for asking me.

Commencement Exercises Of St. Michael's High School Held in Collegiate Auditorium

Speaking at the annual Commencement exercises of St. Michael's Academy in the Collegiate Auditorium last night Professor Wilfred Jury of Western University told his listeners that the story of the old Huronian civilization was the story that would open Canada's back door to the rest of the world. Referring to the historical Jesuit sites namely Fort Ste. Marie, St. Joseph, St. Ignace and St. Louis, uncovered four years ago near Midland Ont. the archaeologist said there were no places in Canada more holy or more to be revered that the spots where the four Jesuit Fathers laid down their lives with the Hurons in their last disastrous struggle with the Iroquois.

Professor Jury called upon all young Canadians to select some trade or profession and follow it honestly and zealously to further the heritage of the great men who founded this new world.

The speaker was introduced by Ormonde Butler and tendered a vote of thanks by Frank Cushing.

The commencement exercise was dedicated to the memory of the Canadian Jesuit martyrs on the tercentennial or 300th anniversary of the martyrdom of the Jesuits who died for the faith and a better Canada.

Historical Sketch

A historical sketch depicting a Huron Indian Princess of 1649 comparing notes with a Royal Canadian Mounted Policeman of 1949 carried the audience back to the days when the Hurons settled on the shores of Georgian Bay. In a setting of evergreen trees and wearing timely costumes the players entertained enjoyably with their pleasing talents. Those taking part were: 1949 Mounties, Douglas Foley; 1949 Indian Princess Nancy Richards, Canadian girl, Sylvia Graham; Canadian boy, Tom Lynch; Indian girl, Marilyn Cruji; Indian boys, Joe Kennedy, Billy Dell.

Gary Schrieder delivered the address and announced the presentations.

Mrs. William Grant was at the piano.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Ladies' Auxiliary Canadian Legion Branch 99, called a special meeting of the executive committee last Monday to arrange for the Auxiliary Children's Christmas Tree party, the date of which had to be changed owing to so many other activities occurring on the same date.

It has been decided that the party will be held around the middle of the month for the children ranging in ages 6 to 8 years. This will be followed by a dance and buffet luncheon for the adults.

UNITED CHURCH W.M.S.

Shannonville — The Women's Missionary Society of the United Church held their first meeting of the year at the parsonage last Tuesday afternoon. A good attendance was present, with Mrs. President, Mrs. Frank Doxtator, presiding over the business session.

Slate of Officers

The nominating committee, Mrs. Stanley MacDonald, and Mrs. Winifred Eckardt, presented a slate of officers for the new year: President, Mrs. L. W. Scott, secretary, Mrs. Ross Thompson; treasurer, Mrs. Everett Stratton. The installation of officers will take place at the January meeting.

Mrs. Sam Elliott was the Group Leader in charge of the meeting. She was assisted in an impressive candle lighting service by Mrs. Damon Hinchey, Mrs. L. W. Scott and Mrs. Wm. Herbertson. The candles were placed in front of the worship centre, which depicted the Babe in the Manger. Mrs. Scott sang a pleasing solo, the group presently joining in the refrain.

Refreshments were served by the group leader and her assistants.

FALLS OFF LABRATORY TABLE

Morgantown, W. Va., Dec. 7 — (AP) — Mrs. Isabell Shaffer said she fell off a laboratory table and broke her leg while being carried for a broken arm. Her $25,000 damage suit file in court against the Morgantilla General Hospital contends the hospital was negligent and that the leg about $1,500 in wages she would ordinarily have earned as a waitress because of the accident.

Auxiliary to Engineers Holds Splendid Tea, Bazaar

Tuesday afternoon in the I.O.O.F. lodge rooms, Front Street, an attractive bazaar and lovely tea was held under the auspices of the Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, to which many wended their way to select that article for the home, or to interlude with old friends, and to be received by the president, Gladys Gray; and Grand Organizer Inspector, June Muirhead.

Just inside the door to the alluring booths with their tempting and timely merchandise, was the collectors of revenue, Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Crozier; and hard by, the fancy work with two red-coated, white-whiskered Santas, at either end of the hard fringed booth. Among the several lovely articles for sale were chair sets, daintily hand-embroidered in pastel floral motifs on wall plaques in blue with pictured shell vases in white, filled with yellow roses, pink carnations and blue forget-me-nots, done in little shells. These were to go to the holder of the lucky ticket, to be learned later.

There were also pillow slips embroidered in fancy stitches; dainty handkerchiefs with delicate crocheted lace edges, some in white linen, others with white blue lace edges; while yet others were done with varigated cottons. There were hot-water bottle covers in knitted white and green; table mats in colorful print, with bound edges of matching colors. The conversar of this booth was presided by Hall, with her co-conveners, Gladys Robb and their assistants, Minnie Fairbairn, Ella Bolton, Pat Hunter, Harriet Young, and Bessie Dow.

Fine Assortment

At the Doll Booth with its delicate green and white trimmings, one could find almost anything needed for the doll baby; a wooden crib complete with embroidered pillow and sheet, Dresden plaid quilt, and other bedding, and inside, all tucked up for sleep was little Goldie Locks, herself. Little coats, carriage covers, yellow bananas salt and pepper shakers, embroidered laundry bags; tams; jewellery; rings, ear-rings and necklaces. Over this fine assortment, Blanche Fisher as convener with co-convener Ida Batchelor, and assistants Ann Adams; Marge Collier, and Ann Taylor kept vigil.

Generous Grocery Baskets

The Grocery Basket booth, ornate in its bow of orange and black with fringed orange frill, housed several baskets filled to the brim with jelly powders, soups, dates, canned beets and corn, and many varieties of things that make a meal good to look at, as well as appetizing. These baskets would go eventually to the holders of the lucky tickets, and in charge of Marion Wensley; Elsie Spring and Mary Newman.

At usual the home cooking booth was a "Mecca" for the pastry lovers and displayed a bountiful supply of date loaves, lemon tarts, gems, tea biscuits, lemon pies, apple, and cherry, nut loaves, jams, jellies, pickles, relishes, fresh eggs, little individual pies of lemon, heaped with golden meringue frostings, coconut cakes and cakes with halved maraschino cherries on top, chocolate cakes with deep maple walnut toppings. Here, amid the gold and bronze trimmings, presided the convener, Pearl Kerr, and co-conveners, Etta Kerr and their assistants, Edna MacLean and Lucinda Hemley.

Good Fishing

The fish pond drew many of Isaak Walton's fans to its plant lined banks, where fishing was in good supply. Those who did not fish gazed at the decorative scheme displayed. Pink waterlilies enhanced the upright posts between which was draped in graceful folds a bright blue curtain with the mystic words in white "Fish Pond", and on the valance below, large, white fish were swimming placidly along. The two fish inspectors were Mary Fraser and Grace McIntyre.

Besides a small, delightfully decorated table draped with gold and blue valances, with golden bows at the four corners, at the guardian of a beautiful Ayres pure wool rose quilt, with satin-bound ends, Pearl Buck, Helena Villiers and Mrs. Middleton. The blanket would go to the lucky holder of the lucky ticket.

Next came the baby booth in pink and blue trim with a cloud of fluffy dotted Swiss for a variance. Across the blue horizontal bar which stretched from upright post to upright post, was a pink three master schooner upon a placid blue sea. Aboard ship were a host of tiny baby dolls, bound for some distant port to gladden some little hearts.

At one corner, was a pink-lined bassinette with an overdrape of white dotted Swiss, and sitting inside a sweet little doll, who looked quite pleased with herself, and the world in general. All manner of baby things were here: tiny pink striped apron; fine knitted, scarfs; little brown mitts with yellow cuffs, and yellow thumbs; white socks with pink diamond tops; booties, and a beautiful little pink knit bonnet. The convener of this was Anna McFee; and co-convener, Gwen Callaghan and their assistants, Annie Glaham, Phoebe Wood, Lettie Naylor, Ida Robinson, Ellen Gulliver and Mary Kelly.

A Server of Beauty

The apron booth was the last and was a bower of beauty with its many lovely aprons of different hues, and colors. There were lovely white organdy aprons with appliqued flowers making glazed pockets; others had embroidered fronts; nurses white aprons; polka dot aprons with frills of white, and childrens aprons of flowered prints. Convening these were Ann Hammatt, and co-convener Christie Symmonds and assistants, Mattie Leavitt; Fawn Fisher, Mary Elliott and Ethel Fisher.

Upstairs was the enchanted garden with its forest smelling evergreens, star-tipped; and inside the white open gates, backed by tall Christmas trees, in whose spex perched a tiny red Santa Claus, was the softly lighted tea room, at the rear of which another tall Christmas tree, surveyed the scene in front.

In the centre the long, lace covered table centred by a woodland scene with snow covered trees, while on either side, stood the tri-branched silver candelabra with candles of red and green and at the ends the silver services, presided over by Mrs. Bald, Mrs. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Barlow, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Orne, Mrs. Gymer, Mrs. Crozier and Mrs. Elliott.

Around the rectangle ran the little quartet tables, each with its white cloth, centred by a tiny red Santa in a little red cutter, drawn by a snow-white reindeer and along the top of the piano, ran a tiny white fence behind which was a tiny village with houses, and church, all lighted with glowing lamps. At one end of the village street was the scene of the Nativity, and at the other Santa was taking off in his sleigh filled with Christmas treats. In the street little children were playing, amid the snow, here and there under the evergreen trees. One could almost hear the lovely strains of "Silent Night, Holy Night" coming from the lighted church, so real it looked.

Splendid Bazaar

Those who replenished the plates and table were Studs Pigden, Bessie Clarke. Those who looked after the refreshments in the kitchen were Gladys Calhers, Mable Welsh and Ethel Muir, while the treasurers for the tea room included Mrs. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Gymer. Those who served were Mary Maxwell, Moore Petty, Victoria Baldwin, Grace Wade, Helen Dury, Dorothy Van Slone, Helen Rock and Mary Parsons. The tea room conveners were Mae Boyd, Annie Jerome and Hilda Sargent, and the conveners of the bazaar were Grace Brown and Jean Hart.

A splendid bazaar and charming tea, a credit to its conveners and assistants and to all, who in any way gave their time and talent to make it so.

Winners in the lucky draws were: blanket, Mrs. A. Dimmett; cushion, Mrs. Arnott; grocery baskets, Mrs. Buck, Mrs. McGee, Mrs. Mignolet, Mrs. Gardiner, Mrs. A. Graham, Mrs. Darval, Mrs. Batchelor and Mrs. Ketchenson. Doll, Mrs. J. Clark; tatted doilies, Mrs. D. Boyce; wall plaques in shell work, Miss C. Spring.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about Food ... What's Cooking?

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

The vision of an endless strand of spaghetti or macaroni is now possible.

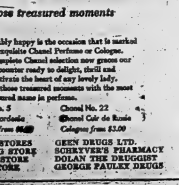
A new machine built for commercial macaroni manufacturers will produce the "pasta" 24 hours a day—a monotony too maddening to contemplate.

Strangely enough, a bland and starchy food, seldom becomes monotonous. Just because it is so flavorless, cooks are required to use their ingenuity, devising an endless number of sauces to go with it. Spaghetti and macaroni sauces are usually combinations or blends of meat, fish or seafood with tomatoes, garlic, herbs and cheese. They're not made to kill your appetite but to provoke it and challenge it.

Hot curried foods which are usually served with bland rice may be combined successfully with macaroni.

Curry of shrimps with buttered macaroni is an excellent casserole for Friday's dinner. The amount of curry powder to be used is a matter of individual taste. Remember that macaroni which has been just removed from boiling water is covered with starch. To remove the gumminess, it should be washed thoroughly 3 or 4 times in cold water or soaked in cold water 20-30 minutes.

Macaroni with Curried Shrimps
Serves 6



Cook 8 ounces of elbow macaroni in 3 quarts boiling water to which 1 tablespoon salt has been added. Cook 8-12 minutes or until tender but not mushy. Drain Soak in cold water. When ready to serve, reheat in a double boiler or in a moderate oven with 1 tablespoon butter or margarine.

Cook 1 pound fresh shrimps by plunging into 1-2 quarts of boiling water to which 1 teaspoon salt has been added. Simmer 8 minutes. Drain, remove shells and black vein running down back.

In a large saucepan melt 3 tablespoons fat and add 3 tablespoons flur. Remove from heat. Gradually add 1 pint hot milk. Return to a slow flame. Simmer, stirring frequently 10 minutes. Add 3 tablespoons grated onion, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon curry powder and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Add 1-4 cup canned pimientos cut into 1-2 inch square pieces. Add shrimps. Simmer 5 minutes.

Place hot macaroni on serving dishes. Add shrimps. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and paprika.

Do you want a particular recipe, or have you a cooking problem? Write Mario, care this paper, including a self-addressed stamped, envelope for his reply —Ed.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Let your husband run his own business affairs

It is always a hazardous thing for a woman to interfere in her husband's business under any pretext whatever. That is, of course, unless it happens that they are actually in business together. But when a wife is simply a home body and has little or no really informed interest in her husband's work, she should leave the way he runs it up to himself unless he sincerely seeks her advice. Otherwise, serious trouble can result, as will be seen in the story told in the following letter:

"I am 19, and have a year-old baby and love my husband very much," the letter begins, after an initial paragraph in which the writer says that she is "really depressed and at the end of her rope."

"My husband is a salesman for a firm where he has been working ever since he was discharged from the navy," the letter continues. "He took the position only with the agreement on certain terms as I didn't think it was the right type of work for him commission only.

"He was supposed to go out of the state a few times during the year, but he made me a promise that he wouldn't. Finally, the time came when the crew had to go and he said he had to go along. He went out of the state about four times inside four months. We have just moved to a new city, and I don't know anyone and can't seem to meet anyone, as that I stay at home constantly. In the month that we have lived here my husband has gone out of town twice. He has just been home a week now, and he tells me he has to travel again.

"When he's gone I'm crazy with fear and loneliness. I have begged and pleaded with him not to leave me, but all in vain. If I had some one to go to, I'd leave him but there's no one. His boss told him that other married women are left alone and that money is all that matters when you're hired.

"Do you think I am wrong in not wanting him to go? My home life is centred in him except that I love my baby very much of course. Maybe you could tell me some way to make him think of our marriage first instead of money."

The letter ends with the assertion that if she can't make her husband understand how she feels about it, there is no use where she is going to kill herself. She says she has tried to find a club to join where she might make friends but there is none where she lives, not even a YWCA.

Now, in the first place, if the writer of this letter had told me exactly where she lives I might have been able to suggest some place she could go to make friends. Unfortunately, her letter came without any clue as to her address, so that I am completely unable to make any suggestions along this line.

I am quite sure, however, that there are ways for her to make friends right where she is. It is inconceivable that there should be any town in the United States where it is completely impossible to get acquainted and gradually feel at home by taking part in the community life. I hope this girl will write me again and give me her address, so that I may be able to make some specific suggestions.

This, as I see it, is infinitely preferable either to killing herself or leaving her husband, who is probably doing the best he can to earn a good living for his wife and children. It is long odds that the work he is in takes him away so much, but I think it would be foolish for her to try and pin him down to promises that he will do the work only in his own way rather than in the way his firm wants him to do it. If she makes the best of things as they are now, instead of creating scenes all the time, as she is apparently doing, she will have a far better chance of winning her objective eventually. Doesn't she realize that to make scenes is one of the quickest ways to drive a husband away rather than keep him at home? Her job is to make their home such a place that her husband will redouble his efforts to find work that will make it possible for him to stay there all of the time.

Above all, I hope this young wife will stop trying to give her husband orders about how he is to do his work. I hope she will have the good sense to assure him that he has all her confidence as well as all her love, as she says he has, and that she is sure he is doing the best he can and always will.

To make a marriage successful, love is not enough. There must be faith too, and plenty of co-operation, most of all when the going is hard.

I think an exception might be made in this case. My husband and I have approximately 150 relatives and friends scattered all over this country; to a few of these we write regularly throughout the year. But to the great majority we correspond only at Christmas time, and I have always tempted, and usually managed, to slip in a newsy and personal letter with their Christmas card. They seem to appreciate this, and I like to do it, as it is our only contact with them from year to year.

Ordinarily it takes me at least two full weeks to get these letters written and the cards sent out on time. This year, however, and probably for several years to come, I have a full time job which will make it impossible to spare the time and energy to write all these letters. So, I am wondering if, rather than abandon the letter idea altogether, it wouldn't be better for me to mimeograph a form letter. I would make it informal and chatty, have it decorated with some little Christmas motifs (a friend of mine would make the stencils for these motifs), and then add, at the bottom, a line or two of personal greeting.

If I were to do this, should I include in the first part of the letter some explanation as to why I have had to abandon the written letters? If so, in the form of an apology, or just a statement?

The only alternative to this plan is to write those two or three lines on each Christmas card, not sending the letter. I am sure I would rather be sent the longer, newsier form letter with the added "hello" in my friend's handwriting . . . but would my friends prefer this, or feel that I was merely using poor taste? What do you think of my idea?

Reader

Your idea is inspired! It's planned with thoughtful grace and graceful thought. It makes fine sense in these busy days, particularly for busy people with a full-time job. . . . and I am sure your mimeographed letter would look very jaunty and joyous dressed in its Christmas decorations. I am sure too that everyone who receives such a treasury of personal news from friend-to-friend will be enchanted with your warm-hearted, high-hearted plan. . . . and I just couldn't imagine anyone so prissy as to raise a ridiculous eyebrow about the "taste" of this friendly gesture of yours.

I'm one who eagerly devours every word of personal greeting or news on a Christmas card (or greeting card of any kind) . . . and yearn for more news about far-away friends. With your Christmas Round-Robin letter, you will be able to tell all relatives and friends the news that keeps the fires of friendship brightly burning. Don't apologize for the form of your letter. . . . just a blithe, gay statement as a lilting prologue to your Christmas News-Letter.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Christmas-Time is a Good Time for Good Manners

It's a fine idea to make an extra contribution to the spirit of good will these days . . . for example, by saying "Thank you" at least twice as often as S. A. your habit to say it. Or three times or four times or five times as often. Open your eyes and your eyes . . . and your heart . . . and begin counting. This year, however, come gloriously aware of the thousand and one courtesies and kindnesses that should be pleasantly responded to. Then open your lips and give with your "Thanks you". Even in these busy days there's always time for courtesy, always time to say "Thank you".

To Send Mimeographed Christmas News-Letter

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am quite aware that it is ordinarily poor taste to send a form letter to friends, but I am wondering whether or not you might

PROOF! THAT BRUSHING TEETH RIGHT AFTER EATING WITH

COLGATE DENTAL CREAM HELPS PREVENT TOOTH DECAY!

Exclusive Research by Eminent Dental Authorities Proves How Using COLGATE DENTAL CREAM Helps Prevent Tooth Decay!

NOW dental science offers proof that always brushing teeth with Colgate right after eating helps prevent tooth decay. Proof—based on hundreds of case histories, two years of continuous research at leading universities—the most conclusive proof in all dentifrice research on tooth decay.

Under the direction of eminent dental authorities, one group of college men and women always brushed their teeth with Colgate Dental Cream right after eating—while another group followed their usual dental care. The average of the group using Colgate right after eating was a startling reduction in number of new cavities—far less tooth decay! The other group developed new cavities at a much higher rate.

Modern research shows tooth decay is caused by mouth acids which are at their worst after meals or snacks. When you brush your teeth with Colgate Dental Cream right after eating, you help remove acids before they can have time to cause harm. And Colgate's penetrating foam reaches crevices in teeth when food particles often lodge.

THE MOST CONCLUSIVE PROOF IN ALL DENTIFRICE RESEARCH ON TOOTH DECAY

The Colgate now at your dealer's is the same formula used in the tests. Colgate contains all the necessary ingredients, including an exclusive fluorine ingredient, for effective daily dental care. No risk of irritation to tissues and gums! And no change in flavor, or foam—and no change in cleansing action.

No claim is made that using Colgate can stop all tooth decay, or help cavities already started. But brushing teeth right after eating is the proved way to help prevent tooth decay with Colgate Dental Cream.

NO OTHER DENTIFRICE OFFERS PROOF OF THESE RESULTS

Red Triangle Club Holds Attractive Tea and Bazaar

Monday evening the Red Triangle Club held their Christmas bazaar and tea in the assembly room of the YMCA amid a setting of yuletide colors of red, and white and green. The numerous guests entered to see a vista of enticing booths, each in its decorative trapings of green tinkel bordered Christmas trees with loops of crepe paper over which star-rimmed valances.

On the apron booth were to be seen lovely aprons of many designs; some covered with red full sized strawberries, white frilled and white tied. Others had orange colored nasturtiums running over a blue background, the edges bound with orange colored bias binding; there were little half aprons, in yellow with tiny frilled yokes; while some had pink roses on a grey background. One lovely apron was made from a striped material with pink and blue stripes on a black polka dotted background. Others were of white organdy with panels of white and yellow checks, and some of red and green with red pockets and red ties. All were dainty, and greatly to be desired.

Fancy Work Booth

The fancy work booth display ed dainty, crocheted baskets in white, with colored ribbons run through the lacnet work, ending in bows where the handle joined the basket proper. Here too, were lovely mitts in soft green with cable stitch done in fuzzy angora wool; diamond socks in green and beige on a brown background; blue bootees, white bootees, and a little delph blue beret. There were table runners beautifully embroidered, some depicting the lovely pansy, while others had sweet wild roses running across the ends. There matching mats as well, and tiny, spiderweb doilies in finest crochet; handsome hand made caps, one in braided effect, and one in rose and blackbordered with rose centred corners, and plain rose colored centre.

An elephant dressed in a crocheted skirt of brown, was trumpeting a welcome to those passing by, while another elephant in plain gray, was patiently standing waiting for a purchaser. Two doll children, keepers of the elephants, one a boy in green and the other a dainty girl in crocheted yellow hood and dress who had grown tired, was sitting at ease, watching the ever-moving throng of Christmas-present-seekers.

Lovely Dolls

Next came a whole bevy of lovely dolls, some in bouffant skirts of orchid satin, others in gowns of peach color, and some in blue and gold. Amid this ballet set was the queen of the ballet upon a disc, dressed in a flowing gown of three-tiered white crepe de chine. Every doll a beauty in her own right, any one of which would make happy the little heart of some young girl this Christmastide.

On the handicraft table were to be found hand-painted jugs that once had been ordinary bottles for vinegar, and maple syrup; framed pictures of little puppy dogs all dressed up in hats and waistcoats; lovely purple violets, a little shamrock plant taking one back to "Killarney's lakes and bays;" tea cosies in red and white stripes, and some in checker-board design. A lovely wool, hooked rug was to be drawn by a lucky ticket. This rug was described as the rose coloured rug above.

The white elephant tables was in charge of Miss Doris Lloyd, and showed a variety of articles, among which were boxes of note paper; a white edged knitting bag in brown, having a little dog's face outlined in white, and a jig-saw puzzle.

Attractive Table

The tea table with its cloth of lace centred by a bowl of cream colored 'mums' and flanked by green candles, surrounded by baby 'mums with silver services at either end, 'presided over by Mrs. Al. Davis and Miss Muriel Jobson, was stationed not far from the home cooking tables with its bountiful supply of cakes, pies, cookies, tarts, buns, and jellies, and many other dainty and tempting samples of the culinary art. Mrs. Vincent Forster, was in charge here.

Those who replenished the tempting samples of the culinary cookies and cakes were: Miss Margaret Kellar, while in the kitchen providing the delicious cups of tea were Miss Mildred Hall, and Miss Molly Camp, and in charge of the bazaar, Miss Jean Vickers.

The proceeds from the bazaar and tea will be used to bring some Christmas cheer to needy families, through the auspices of the Social Service.

A charming and dainty tea, and bazaar, giving credit to the girls of the Red Triangle Club, who labored that others might be happy.

The hooked rug was won by Mrs. J. E. Aspley, 14 Moira Street West.

Ladies' Guild Of Christ Church Holds Luncheon

A fitting finale to the last meeting of the year of the Ladies' Guild of Christ Church, was the delightful luncheon held in the Parish Hall on Tuesday afternoon with 70 guests and members present.

Mrs. E. Hickey, president of the Guild, cordially welcomed each and all at the door, who, after depositing their dues with the treasurer, Mrs. M. B. Button, were received into the friendly atmosphere, where conversation was enjoyed until the signal bell which denoted that luncheon was served. When all had taken their places, they remained standing for grace, which was sung, after which they were served by Mrs. A. Simpson, Mrs. Orser, Mrs. Bateman, Miss F. Fitzgerald, and Mrs. E. R. Hinchey, with delicious salads, scalloped potatoes, savory boiled ham, jellies, muffins, rolls, apple, pumpkin and berry pies, and "the cup that cheers, but not inebriates".

After the luncheon, a charming and unexpected treat was provided the assembled guests in the delightful play adaptation of Dickens' immortal "Christmas Carol", with Mrs. J. Grant Sparling as the reader; Mrs. M. B. Button as Ebenezer Scrooge; Mrs. B. Backus as Bob Cratchit, and Mrs. C. Bishop as the ghost of Scrooge's late partner, Morley which was so splendidly rendered that the approaching festival lost its commercial trappings—which seemed to have been wrapping around it these past few years—and instead, filled the heart with joy that had come to Scrooge, when he learned that, "it is more blessed to give than to receive." The singing of "O Come All Ye Faithful" closed the meeting.

A vote of appreciative thanks was voiced by Mrs. Hickey to Mrs. G. G. Wright, convener of the luncheon, for the splendid repast, and to all who assisted her in making this last meeting of the year, such a memorable one, and to Mrs. Sparling, Mrs. Backus, Mrs. Button and Mrs. Bishop, for their splendid rendition of the story that never grows old.

A short business discussion took place following the luncheon period at which the officers would be nominated for office during 1950.

Club Activities

ENERGETIC CLUB

The regular meeting of the Energetic Club took place at Holloway Street Church on Friday evening.

The devotional period took the form of a lovely Christmas service those taking part were—Clara Hopkins, Eunice Stratton, Viola Greatrix, Mrs. Perkins, Alice Stickle, Ruth McMillan and Rev. Mr. Perkins with Maida Grills at the piano.

Mr. Perkins then introduced the Hev. H. C. Vaclavik, who gave an interesting and inspiring story of his life.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorland Houston gave an enjoyable piano and banjo duet. They collged with two lovely numbers, Mr. Doherty sang a lovely Christmas number, accompanied at the piano by Mr. Connor.

After a few games and contests refreshments were served by Clara and Larry Hopkins and their group.

"The Twitter" was read by the editor, Don Fraser, and the meeting closed in the usual manner.

CANADA'S SYSTEM

4. The House completed study of a bill to amend the Income-tax Act after Finance Minister Abbott bowed to a general appearance of clamor and said farmers and fishermen will be allowed to continue to use the present method of depreciating property if they wish. The bill contained a provision for a new principle of depreciation.

As far as the man in the street is concerned, the bill's main provision is the one that increased personal income-tax exemptions from $1,500 to $2,000 for married persons and from $750 to $1,000 for single persons.

Mr. Knight, in his attack against the system used in banning books, said it was both "foolish" and "astounding" that a maturing Canada allows books that come to her borders for admission to be handled in customs inspection as though they were liquor or any other commodity.

Takes Responsibility

The department took the view that it required no particular talent to decide what Canadians should or should not read. He had been urged for several weeks to break through the screen of censorship around the censorship branch to find out who ran it and what qualifications he, she or they had.

Dr. McCann said he himself is responsible for banning "indecent, immoral and seditious literature" at the borders. The general executive assistant of the department—the government phone book lists his, as W. B. Stuart—took the actual responsibility but no one person but the sole duty of censoring books, films or movie persons worked it at "depending on requirements."

There were some 900 to 400 books on the banned list which was revised from time to time. It was not necessary, the Minister said, for would-be hard "to read literary critic" to tell decency from filth.

As the fisheries program came up, Mr. Mayhew said price support legislation to be effect is only a stop-gap measure.

He depended on good marketing, better-quality products.

Three New Branches

Under the new program, three new branches would be set up within his department. One would provide for an inspection service in boats and plants and through the wholesale and retail trades.

A division on technical services would provide fishermen, small plants and the wholesale and retail trade with technical help in improving their functions.

A consumer services branch would try to educate the public and popularize fish for food by testing recipes, staff demonstrations and lectures on fish cooking, and generally seeking to encourage greater consumption across Canada.

If, the minister said, each person in North America ate one more pound of fish a year the industry would have to increase to meet demand.

The technical services would aim at over-all improvement in individual operations and raising the standard and quality of the product as a "preliminary to extensive campaigns of advertising."

In general terms, development lay in two fields, he said. One was expansion of markets; the other was development of backward areas.

No More Use

Mr. Stuart, a former fisherman himself, said the fish-canning industry has been hit harder than any other Canadian industry since the war. Britain had taken a lot of its produce, often free, during the war. But now it had no more use for Canadian fish.

At a time when warehouses were filled with British Columbia canned salmon, the British had bartered tinplate for Russian salmon. He had never heard an explanation of why the tinplate could not have been bartered for Canadian salmon.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner was right in saying that British officials are moving to exclude Canadian goods. "I do not believe Britain has treated this country as it should have been treated."

"We did everything we could to help Britain. We gave gifts and loans of over half a billion dollars. Yet today when we want to sell fish or anything that is produced in this country, we are turned down cold and no reason able explanation has been given."

HALLOWAY

Halloway—Mr. Budd Campbell and friend, of Port Hope, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Campbell.

Mrs. Dan Bleecker spent a day recently in Kingston visiting with her mother, Mrs. Cummings.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Denville and Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Reid spent Thursday in Kingston, calling on relatives in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reid and Dorothy, have moved in their new home this past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wright, of Belleville, called on Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moran, on Sunday afternoon.

DREW INVITES

Mr. Drew said:

"There is no mystery about this. The minister has admitted that screening has been going on since June. Even when any broadcasting by voice are being screened because they are in a position to communicate messages to areas that are not regarded as areas to which we would have certain messages to go."

Mr. Drew said the service could be a vehicle for the communication of messages which might be dangerous to the security of the state."

A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC board of governors, sat in the official gallery during the exchange, but said later that he had no comment to make.

Wants Committee

Mr. Fleming led off in the demand for a radio committee at the next session. He said the government "dog in the manger" attitude towards television should be aired.

The government had hesitated to go into the field itself and "powerful private interests are right to risk their money while Canada felt further behind in a vital field.

He was joined by Mr. Coldwell who said it was time for another house check on CBC activities.

The public, for instance, should be informed why so much soap and similar advertising has been allowed on the air, while there are so many spot announcements, and similar matters were getting out of their "monopoly" of wavelengths, why the CBC "departed" from the moderate wishes in granting a private station the right to have a power of 50,000 kilowatts.

Claim Crime Books Gave Holdup Ideas To Two Young Boys

Toronto, Dec. 7. (CP)—Police blamed crime comics with giving "holdup ideas" to two 11-year-old boys who robbed a newsboy and threatened him with death, if he talked.

"The boys were arrested Monday night, after the robbery which occurred Saturday night.

A senior police official said "there is no question of doubt that the reading of too many crime comics gave these kids holdup ideas. They have never been in trouble before."

They are charged with assault and robbery.

YOUNG WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN SNOWBOUND COTTAGE

Gravenhurst, Dec. 7 (CP)—The body of Eileen Membrey, 26, of Toronto, was found Monday in a snowbound summer cottage at nearby Pine Lake. The young woman was fully clothed except for shoes. In one hand she clutched a wallet and envelope. Dr. C. G. Johnstone, coroner, said a note was also found. Gravenhurst is about 25 miles north of Toronto.

Clamor Increases Chiang Resume Presidency

By SPENCER MOOSA

Chengtu, Dec. 7 — (AP) — Clamor for Chiang Kai-Shek to resume presidency of nationalist China became more vocal as reds pushed within 90 miles of Chengtu.

(From Hong Kong, Associated Press correspondent Wayne Richardson radioed that President Li Tsung-Jen ordered Nationalist officials in Chengtu to carry out under his orders. LL flying to the United States for treatment of a stomach ailment, said he would "telegraph" instructions and would return within a month.)

Meantime, the war situation was worsening. One red force, striking along the main highway from recently-deserted Chungking, approached Nelchiang, a point 90 miles southeast of Chengtu.

Another thrust along a more northerly highway towards Suining, 90 miles east of Chengtu.

Travellers and inhabitants of towns and villages in the path of the red drive were in a frenzy of excitement and fear. They elaborated.

Residents were moving in every direction for safety.

Some were fleeing into the country-side from towns.

Others were crowding into towns from the countryside.

In Chengtu, nearly all schools closed because students fled to their own homes.

Among institutions shut down was the famed West China Union University, operated mainly by American missionaries.

The student world was filled with unverifiable reports of a tragedy rumored to have befallen students at Chungking, the rumor.

A number of students carrying banners welcoming the communist and denouncing the Nationalists turned out to greet the reds last Wednesday. Through a mistake, they entered the Nationalist lines. Troops, angered by the banners, opened fire. Rumors of the number killed ranges from 20 to 200.

New Delhi, Dec. 7 (Reuters) —India has secured the services of the German aircraft designer Messerschmidt, Sriman Prasad Mookerjee, Minister for Industry and Supply, told parliament Tuesday.

Dr. Mookerjee said the world - renowned technician Messerschmidt" is expected to arrive in India next month. The government-owned Hindustan Aircraft Company in Bangalore in South India would produce a new type of fighter aircraft which would be ready for tests by mid-1950, he said.

Vets in Danger Of Losing Money Put in Houses

Toronto, Dec. 7 (CP) — A housing project for veterans in North York township on the Northern outskirts of Toronto was bogged down Tues., with 136 veterans in danger of losing the money they put into it.

Suppliers of labor and material have clamped down on them said to be worth $20,000, the township of North York seeks $4,000 in back taxes and there is a $21,000 blanket mortgage on the land.

Work stopped on the 48 houses in July and later the case entered Supreme Court.

Today the veterans will confer with the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation in an effort to secure additional money to finish the project.

Leader of the Veterans, Donald Dunk, said they put up altogether $200,000 and did not realize that the builder, Harris Gable, "was trying to do what was physically and financially impossible.

At present there are eight finished houses, three unfinished but occupied, 15 with roofs on, and 19 consisting of cellars only.

WOMAN INJURED BEING CARRIED OUT OF BURNING HOUSE

Toronto, Dec. 7 (CP)—A woman, almost nine months pregnant, was cut about the hands and arms Tuesday as she was carried out the shattered window of her new bungalow when fire swept the house, only 12 hours after she and her husband moved in, in suburban North York.

Damage was estimated at $2,000. Firemen blamed a faulty air conditioning system in the furnace.

$50 PLATE DINNER

Toronto, Dec. 7. (CP)—One of the most expensive dinners ever served in Toronto, $50 a plate, last night will honor S. Kronick, a leader in national Jewish circles, on his 70th birthday.

Seventeen Jewish organizations in Toronto, in connection with the National Jewish Fund Negev Dinner, will participate. Funds raised will be used to redeem 125 acres of desert, Israeli land in honor of Mr. Kronick.

RURAL DEAN OF PETERBOROUGH

Peterborough, Dec. 7, (CP)— Bishop A. R. Beverley of Toronto, has appointed the Rev. Walter Gilling, rector of St. Luke's Church here since November, 1946, Rural Dean of Peterborough. He replaces Rev. W. J. Lennox of Campbellford, who has been called to Toronto. Mr. Gilling is chaplain of the 30th R.A.A. Regiment (Prince of Wales Rangers), of Peterborough, and at the time of his discharge from the active army in 1945, after seven years overseas, was Senior Protestant Chaplain Overseas with the rank of lieutenant-colonel.

"If No Christmas" Subject of Message By Rev. A.L. Scott

Shannonville— Rev. Mr. Scott based his sermon on the thought "If we Hadn't a Christmas". He wondered if people are worthy of God's great gift to the world as so many are fault-finders, and consider the church is forever asking for something. The small efforts appear very little in the sight of God in comparing with His gift. People have money for other things but have none for Christ's work.

The event of Christmas, has existed through the centuries and the true import is often lost as it is often purely superficial, artificial and secular, stated the speaker.

"If there was no Christmas, parents, would lose their most effective argument with their children around this time of the year. They also would have no perfect vision of character to present to their family if Christ had not come.

The Results To Humanity—If No Christmas

"If there was no Christmas, business would suffer, civilization, industry, and commerce would be lacking in the highest ethics of doing the right thing, stated Mr. Scott. The principles of Jesus will be found the most wonderful code of morals ever given to man.

The speaker continued, "that something is needed to change more the attitude of people in relationship to each other, in order to make this a better land in which to live. The trend of the times is to laxity in a great many things. It is up to the Christian Church to urge all to stand fast in these trying years. We should interest others along the same line.

"If there was no Christmas, humanity would lose one of its happiest experiences in the exchange of gifts," stated Mr. Scott. "What picture could be more wonderful than that of the family on Christmas morning with the gifts to the ones they loved.

"Mankind would also lose the perfect formula of the exchange of happiness. We would not know the meaning of sharing with others," continued the pastor. "So many need happiness. Many poor children who need the nice things in life and at this time Christian people render a great service in bringing gladness into others lives. To have a better world, our hopes must show reflection, of that Christmas long ago," added Mr. Scott in closing.

Reject By-law To Permit Negroes In Town's Cafes

(By The Canadian Press)

Municipal voters of Dresden, burial place of the Negro who inspired Harriet Beecher Stowe's classic "Uncle Tom's Cabin", Monday rejected by a vote of 517 to 106 a proposed by-law which would have compelled the town's restaurants to serve Negroes.

It was one of many by-laws on which voters recorded a decision in municipal contests being held in Ontario cities, towns, townships and villages.

In Dresden, a town of 2,000 persons near Chatham where the population is 20 per cent Negro, electors voted or a by-law which proposed that restaurants must serve all patrons "regardless of race, creed or color."

The discrimination angle attracted wide attention but in Dresden itself, where it's an old issue, the campaign was quiet. Percy Carter, a Negro, had announced his candidature for council but he failed to qualify. At one of his meetings he said nobody can be blamed for racial discrimination in this town—it's been here for a long time."

In another plebiscite Perry Sound electors voted to give council power to apply to the Ontario government to change an 80-year-old writ, that of William Beatty, who once owned almost all the land in the Georgian Bay town. Beatty's will barred sale of liquor on his property until 21 years after the death of Queen Victoria's youngest grand-child.

London voters rejected three out of five proposed by-laws. They approved the raising of $600,000 by debentures for a municipal coliseum and ratified the publicly-owned transportation system proposal. But they rejected a two-year term for mayor and aldermen; an increase in number of aldermen from eight to 12, and election of aldermen by city-wide vote instead of by wards.

Approve Debentures

Sudbury by a narrow majority approved debentures of $700,000 for a community arena and by a larger majority agreed to issuing debentures of $200,000 for a new library building.

Blenheim electors approved by 33 votes a $100,000 by-law to build a new public school, a proposal that was defeated by 43 votes a year ago.

Among the mayoralty races that in London was one of the closest and heaviest. George Yenige, 75, who has held the office eight years, defeated the present mayor Ray Dennis by a margin of 1,678 votes. Mr. Wenige lost to Mr. Dennis by 8,000 votes a year ago.

Walter Dowhey won the three-way race for mayor in Brantford, almost 2,000 votes ahead of his nearest opponent, Milton Reeder. At Belleville, J. Allin was elected with a majority of more than 1,000 over J. Trudeau.

Mayor K. A. Lytle was returned in Hallerburg by the slim margin of eight votes over Councillor A. H. Cooke.

Other mayors elected 'included Harold Garnsey in Whitby, Amos Mason in Acton, William L. Houck in Niagara Falls, Fred Reynolds in Brockville and S. F. Lawton at Elmvale.

Reeve elected included Douglas McEnary in Point Edward, W. A. Taylor in Osgoode, George Dodge in Cardinal and Wilfred Bishop in Norwich North.

Warden McCarey Pays Tribute To Memories of Ex-Wardens, Members Who Died This Year

Tribute to the memories of ex-wardens and members of Hastings County Council who passed away this year, was paid by Warden S. A. McCarey at the opening session of the December sitting in Shire Hall yesterday.

"We sit in a sad atmosphere this afternoon," Warden McCarey said in his opening remarks, "Recently we lost a very capable councillor and ex-warden who took a keen interest in all the different phases of municipal work. I refer to the late Chas. Ruth, reeve of Hungerford township. Today he shall be sadly missed."

Warden McCarey also referred to the passing of the late ex-warden H. Harrytt who was a former reeve of Carlow township, also the late Arthur Jones former reeve of Huntingdon. The present session would go off in same courteous co-operative manner as previous sessions of the present.

He drew attention to the fact that the British Empire Cheese Show was open in the city, and that of the excellent work being done by officials of the show and exhibitors. Next year the county council attend the show and banquet in a body.

Table Commendation

Later in the session, council after some discussion tabled a communication from the Department of Welfare which stated that amendments to the Children's Protection Act were on call for a subsidy of 25 per cent of net expenditures of Children's Aid Society wards to municipalities within counties. Formerly the subsidy was paid to county councils on which, as at the present, the order for such expenditure, was made.

Reeve Wilfred Spencer, Rawdon, protested strongly against the measure stating that if the subsidy is made to local municipalities, they in turn must assess on a basis of equalized assessment. "It is a silly proposal," he said, "as we all know the costs of Children's Aid and the Homes for the Aged in aggregate are divided between the county and municipalities on equalized assessment."

"The county officials are capable of looking after this business so why should it not be done directly. In this new way, it only makes for confusion."

Stands to Gain

Deputy Reeve Seldon Homan, Thurlow Township pointed out that if the C.A.S., fire and police protection costs of a municipality exceeds the one mill subsidy the government pays the difference. As matters stand now, Thurlow's fire bill is quite high and it stands to gain by this arrangement.

Reeve Charles Buskard stated that the 1948 cost of Children's Aid on which the subsidy can be collected, amounted to $27,000 and as Thurlow's assessment is practically one-fifth of the county, it stood to gain in the vicinity of $1,000.

If the government cares to subsidize cost of police and fire protection, it can make it a municipal affair, said Reeve Wilfred Spencer, but "I am not in favor of changing the present system of subsidy of municipal Aid and Homes for the Aged."

"Under the present system, these costs are charged to the county according to equalized assessment and paid from there by municipalities on the same basis. Some municipalities have police and fire protection and others don't which makes it difficult."

A vote of strong protest against these municipal grants for Children's Aid Society and Homes for the Aged."

The communication was tabled for further discussion.

Should Have District

County also tabled a suggestion of the Hastings County Agricultural Committee which recommended that the townships of Marmora, Madoc and Elzevir be included in a fire protection district.

Opinion on this suggestion was divided among the northern reeves. Reeve Jim Spracklett, Tudor and Cashel, said that the suggestion had both good and bad points. He pointed out that if a fire started on deeded property and fire rangers were called to put it down, the owner was charged with the entire cost involved. In most cases the cost was much more than the damage.

The other side of the question, in his case, the Tudor reeve said, was that the Bancroft Fire Department had plenty of equipment including pumps.

Reeve Archie Harvey told the council that if a farmer owned a woodlot miles away which caught fire and it spread to a neighbor's property, he was assessed the amount of the fire fighting which in most cases he is unable to pay.

Another northern reeve stated that his township was a member of the Forestry Fire Protection area and subsidized to the extent of all fire costs.

Reeve Theodore Tryon felt that since the government has taken millions of feet of timber from the Hastings County Forest they owe 100 per cent of the fire costs.

Established municipalities are synonymous in north country, Reeve Tryon declared. "If they part a fire, the land owner is faced with the costs of resulting damage. We should have more protection than these lines from the government."

Farmers May Use Present System Of Depreciation

Ottawa, Dec. 7 (CP)—A general clamor of protest among members of opposition parties Monday night brought a government change today in a section of the tax amendments act affecting farmers and fishermen.

One of the features in a bill to amend the act, it would put into effect a new system of depreciation announced in the budget speech of last March. It was assailed strongly as being complex and as constituting a capital gains tax.

Finance Minister Abbott rose today to say he still thinks the new system will be of net benefit to farmers or fishermen than the old but that he will be best received no protests from organized farmers' group.

However, in view of the "apprehension" expressed by members he has decided to defer the change o n the farming or fishing communities. Consequently he had no alternative but to leave the present system of depreciation as it is.

Most Complex Section

He described the section as the most complex in the whole income tax act.

Depreciation allowances now are granted on the basis of wear and tear of assets. In order to income subject to tax, he said Monday night. The governing principle of the new formula would be the amortization of costs of depreciable assets.

"In the technical language of the accountant this means changing from the straight line method of depreciation to the diminishing balance principle."

A number of members objected to the fact that if it were found when an article was sold that its sale value was greater than its depreciated value the farmer would have to pay tax on the difference.

Salvages Injured Doe, Wins Overseer's Praise

London, Ont., Dec. 6 (CP)—Prompt and sensible action on the part of London truck driver saved a 200-pound doe which the driver struck with his truck yesterday, Middle-aged overseer Bert Smalley said.

"I was driving when the doe struck the animal when it leaped in front of his truck from roadside bushes. The large deer was struck on a haunch and body hurt. Mr. Elliott cut the deer's throat and properly bled it so it will be fit for consumption," Mr. Smalley said. He commended Mr Elliott's action.

The deer will be taken to a charitable institution.

Tourist Association Hopes For 170,000 Visitors From North America Next Year

London, Dec. 7—(AP) Leaders of the British Travel Association expect 170,000 visitors from North America to spend $75,000,000 in the United Kingdom next year.

They say the government should give them more hotels to stay in, more gasoline to buy, 48-hour laundry service — and a promise to spend every last dollar they bring over.

The association is the tourist division of the British Tourist and Holidays Board. Jack Hacking, its chairman, and John C. Bridges its director general, reviewed 1950 tourist prospects at a press conference.

Bridges forecast the whopping crowd of free-spending American visitors and looked forward to "the biggest tourist year we have ever experienced."

Just back from a 15,000-mile tour of the United States and Canada, he said one of the things Britain must do is work up a two-day laundry service.

"While Britons have a world-wide reputation for service," he explained, "Americans are equally famous for fastidiousness."

Best Travel Bargain

Bridges said Britain already is the world's best travel bargain—since the pound was devalued from $4.03 to $2.80 in U. S. funds in September — but he'd like to see: Higher prices for fine food where a visitor could tuck the money for $50-a-day.

Lord Hacking noted that a tourist now is restricted in the amount of goods he can buy free if Britain's 33⅓-to-100 per-cent purchase taxes — unless he sends the goods straight to his ship from the store.

"Wrong," immediately resent restrictions which prevent them from wearing what they buy while they are here," he said.

Lord Hacking concluded: Only 7½ is wrong for Americans to say to me, as they have, that they are taking dollars back in their pockets because they had not been allowed to spend them here."

Britain, like almost every other country in the world, needs all the dollars she can get.

Standard Quality of Milk, Properly Packaged Cheese Necessary to Boost Sales

The desirability of a standardized quality for all milk going into the various cooling plants for processing of properly packaged cheese to boost the sales of cheese on the domestic market, was the keynotes of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association convention which got underway here on Tuesday.

The convention sessions are held in conjunction with the British Empire Dairy Show which saw 73 cheese makers compete for approximately $1,700 in cash prizes. Two hundred and sixty cheese were exhibited in the show.

The convention sessions were presided over by the association president, Dr. Ross Heath, Bee. Ross Swayne of Picton gave invocation, while Mayor Lloyd H. Gay and Allin of Belleville extended an official welcome to cheese makers and visitors to the convention.

Hastings County Warden W. A. McCarey and Warden Ivan Wiseman of Prince Edward County also extended greetings.

Welfare Minister Heard

One of the principal speakers on the first day of the convention was Hon. W. Goodfellow, welfare administrator for the province of Ontario, who termed the cheese industry the "safety valve" of the dairy industry. He recalled the many improvements and new methods which have made it possible for farmers to produce a better quality milk and stated that a uniform standard of milk was necessary.

"The time is past," he said, "when you can sell just any old product. Quality production is needed today."

He noted that it would possibly be a big job to educate all milk producers that it was just as necessary for cheese milk to be of high standard as it was for fluid milk.

Mr. Goodfellow advised with the cheese market in the United Kingdom on the decline it would be necessary for Canada to develop her domestic cheese market. "There were few eating places which offered cheese on their menus and here was room for development."

Like to See Milk Pooled

He said he would like to see the various branches of the industry get closer together and suggested that pooling of milk would assist in solving the problem of surpluses.

Referring to oleomargine the speaker said that there were indications might have been a much better job of getting across to the public what it was trying to allow margarine to be sold in direct competition with butter.

"Farm organizations should sell their consumers the idea that every dollar's worth of cheese they receive for their products was a dollar less which the consumers would receive," he said. He went on to point out that the consumer and the farmer are dependent on each other. He referred to the fact that there was no provincial cheese subsidy this year but said the government would still wish to assist farmers. "Subsidies are not sound business," he said "what we want is the farmers to tell us what will be of lasting benefit to the dairy industry."

Introduced by Member

Mr. Goodfellow was introduced by Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A. for Hastings West.

W. A. Taylor, agricultural representative for Prince Edward County, felt that the cheese maker could do much valuable work acting in the way of an extension service for farmers. He said they could assist in dairy herd improvement projects and could also assist in keeping records for calfhood vaccination.

C. M. Beattie, associate chief of marketing services, cited cheese production figures for the year and touched off a spirited discussion on the part of cheese makers when he stated that faulty boxing of cheese had in some cases resulted in slightly lower cheese scores.

Some Laxity

He inferred there was some laxity on the part of makers in accepting cheese boxes from the manufacturer and said cheese makers should not be forced to accept defective boxes. "Many boxes were being made of veneer which was too thin and these would not stand rough handling," he said.

J. L. Irwin, retired dairy grader and honorary president of the cheese show, pointed out there were regulations covering the manufacture of cheese boxes and asked why the makers were not prosecuted when faulty boxes were produced. He was told that the boxes were checked at once.

Herb Atherton, Prince Edward county maker said that cheese makers were forced to accept the faulty boxes because he could not personally check all boxes received. It was suggested if boxes were unsatisfactory that makers should purchase from another manufacturer.

Price Too Low

Grant Anderson, Campbellford box manufacturer, claimed the present price of 80 cents was too low and said conditions would unlikely be remedied until boxes sold at 75 cents each.

Mr. Beattie said that next year export regulations would call for boxes to be one fifth of an inch thick, instead of the one sixth of an inch which had been permitted during the war years.

Donald Heath wanted to know why boxes were not of uniform size. He said he did not see why the standard was altered. No penalized for these damaged during handling and said the penalty should be passed along to the box manufacturer. However, many boxes were too tight for the cheese.

No Regulation

Mr. Beattie said there was no regulation to the size of boxes as this varied with the provinces.

Mr. Atherton also complained that boxes were too tight and the cheese would go in them. "Then fire them back at the manufacturer," said Mr. Beattie advised.

Dr. H. A. Derbie, Chief Dairy Products Marketing and Merchandising services, suggested that cheesemakers delay delivery slips for boxes with the reservation that they were not coming up to standard be sent back.

Jack Bain, chief dairy instructor for Central and Western Ontario, was in sympathy with the suggestion and said there should be legislation prohibiting the box manufacturers from making boxes at that did not meet with the standard.

Dr. A. L. Gibson, of Kemptville agricultural college, reviewed the history of that college as well as production records for the various branches of the dairy industry.

Consider Industry As Whole

He also urged that the dairy industry should be considered as a whole and there might be diversion of the total milk supply to the cheese trade and created and profitable manner. Milk production had been 17.64 million pounds for 1948 and 17.6 million for 1949 as per cent had been used in the form of fluid milk.

He disagreed that the new profitable fluid milk business could be developed independently of the other branches of the industry. He said that it was linked with the prosperity of all milk products and that for a greater expansion of concentrated milk products as in this way nutriments in milk could be supplied in a convenient form without waste.

The speaker regretted the decline in the cheese export to the United Kingdom in 1948, this despite the highest price in history of the industry had been paid. He said it would be a calamity if the cheese industry was permitted to further decline.

Butter Production Up

Turning to creamery butter production, Dr. Gibson said this had increased 8.66 times since 1900 to a total of more than 311 million pounds in 1948 when improved grading was the credit of the total milk production. He said a slump in butter production from 1900 to 1914 and a recovery more than a slump in any other branch of the industry and increased for butter in the future would be dependent entirely upon quality," he said.

C. E. Lackner, director of dairy, touched on the part of the United Kingdom cheese market and urged that attention be given to the development of the Canadian domestic market to utilize this.

He felt sure there was a market in Canada for properly packaged and properly cured cheddar cheese, but stressed that appearance was vitally important if the eye of the housewife was to be caught.

No Criminal Action In Noronic Fire

Toronto, Dec. 7. (CP) — The Ontario Attorney-Generals Department considers the Noronic fire disaster a closed case so far as criminal action is concerned.

Attorney-General Dana Porter said Monday night that review of the evidence at the inquiry by Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada showed no foundation for any criminal charges.

When Mr. Justice Kellock's report on the disaster, in which 118 persons lost their lives Sept. 17, was released recently at Ottawa the question of criminal action was left to the Attorney-General's Department. The Kellock Commission ordered suspension for a year of the certificate of the Noronic's Master, Captain William Taylor of Sarnia. Capt. Taylor said at Sarnia Monday that he plans no appeal.

Attorney-General Porter said that his officials could find no one connected with the Canada Steamships Lines, owners of the vessel, could be considered criminally negligent.

DISTRIBUTE MEDALS

Ottawa, Dec. 7.—(CP)—The task of distributing Second World War medals to more than 1,000,000 Canadian veterans is proceeding rapidly, army headquarters said Monday. A total of 815,912 decorations were distributed by mid-November and more are going out daily to applicants. About 3,000,000 medals and campaign stars still remain for distribution.

WILL CLOSE BROTHELS

Hamburg, Dec. 7 — (AP) — Legislation is being prepared to close down all houses of prostitution in the West German Republic, Professor Andreas Knack, president of the Hamburg Health Board, said the ban would be similar to a law of the old Weimar Republic which remained in force until the Nazis reopened brothels in 1934.

Story of U Shipment Called 'Somewhat Sensational'

Ottawa, Dec. 7.—(CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson today termed "somewhat sensational" the stories from Washington that a United States Congressional committee has been informed a shipment of Canadian uranium went to Russia in 1943.

Howard Green (PC—Vancouver-Quadro) had asked him if he was in a position to make a statement on the Washington stories.

Mr. Pearson said he had seen "the somewhat sensational stories from which equally sensational and, I am sure, unfounded implications have been drawn in certain quarters."

However, atomic matters came under Trade Minister Howe. He would consult Mr. Howe on his return from New York Wed., "and possibly a statement could be made at that time."

LONG HOLIDAY WEEKENDS

Ottawa, Dec. 7.—(CP)—Federal government employees will have three-day-long holiday weekends at both Christmas and the New Year it was announced Monday. All government offices will be closed Dec. 24 and will re-open Dec. 27. They also will be closed for the three days at New Years, Dec. 31-Jan. 2.

It Might Not Always Work

Montreal, Dec. 7 — (CP) — From the woman's angle it sometimes pays to pay hubby's parking fine.

Recorder Leonce Plante had a woman appear instead of her husband. She explained hubby was sick.

"How much did he give you to pay the fine?" asked the recorder.

"Five dollars."

"Two dollars for the court," said the recorder, "and three for you."

WOULD NOT CO-OPERATE

St. Georges, Ont., Dec. 7. (CP) —Thirty-seven students went on strike at noon Tuesday in the continuation school of this Brant county village because school trustees fired one of their teachers.

Ratepayers called a meeting for tonight to discuss the matter. The students said the strike would continue today.

The teacher, a 26-year-old Japanese-Canadian, Richard Yabmoto, could not be reached for comment. L. R. Hiett, chairman of the school board, said "this teacher would not co-operate and we asked for his resignation."

"Sagonaska"

(This is the original Mohawk name of the Moira river —Sagonaska, meaning "meeting-place of the waters—choppy waves," according to a recent Rotary Club address by the Canadian poet, Wallace Havelock Robb of Aylsey Dawn. "Ganiso" a former Indian name meaning "God's Bay," re-named "Big Bay" by the white man.)

Sagonaska, Sagonaska,
Flowing like a hymn of praise,
Slipping by the rocks and bays,
Sun or shadow of your ways
Makes a temple and a mosque, a
Liquid-tribute; serv-layer

Sagonaska, Sagonaska,
Rushing to the Kente shore,
Pouring, rolling, thundering roar!
Choppy waves and rocks to gore!
Limestone-knives to rip life's magpie, a Turbulent death with entrails tore!

Sagonaska, Sagonaska,
Drifting slowly in the Bay,
Scarcely moving as to pray;
Silent! Holy calm"... there lay Still waters ... "Ganiso ... the task, a
Man has yet to prove and may!

his trip to the International Dairy Congress at Stockholm, Sweden, and told of dairying conditions and production in Sweden, Denmark, Holland, The Netherlands and England. He said that nearly everything in Sweden was operated on a co-operative basis. He was impressed with their dairy plans which, he said, were a credit to the country. Farms were highly mechanized as cheese factories were up to date.

He said the manufacture of farm cheddar cheese was becoming a lost art in England and people of that country in the future would have to depend on imported supplies to a much greater extent. He spoke of visits to cheese handling stations in England and spoke of the condition in which Canadian cheese is received there.

Trouble With Boxes

He said there was considerable trouble with faulty boxes. Boxes in instances were broken with result that the box had to be discarded and the cheese forwarded without a box as there were no replacements. Cheese were too tight in other boxes resulting in mouldy condition through lack of ventilation.

Heavier veneer and double wiring next year was expected to remedy the broken box situation to a certain extent.

English handlers claimed Canadian cheese were too heavy with some weighing up to 112 pounds. They preferred cheese weighing not more than 90 pounds. American and New Zealand cheese weigh about 70 pounds, it was stated.

If Canada was expecting to maintain her English cheese market there would have to be assurance of continuity of supply.

Trophies Presented

With J. L. Irvin, honorary president of the cheese show acting as master of ceremonies, trophies and other awards were presented to the winning cheese makers. The awards included the G. G. Publow to the Ontario maker having the highest aggregate score and highest workmanship.

This trophy was won by Howard Andrews, R. R. 3 Lakefield, who had a season score of 93.739 with a workmanship score of 96.25. The trophy was presented by Jas. M. Bain, Chief Dairy Instructor.

Greetings were extended Cheese Maker Association members from eastern and western Ontario.

Proper Packaging of Cheese Great Help in Retail Trade

The requirements for the successful packaging of cheddar cheese that it may meet with the approval of the purchaser on the retail market were outlined at the Wednesday morning session of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association convention.

The speaker was W. H. Sproule, professor of dairying for the Ontario Department of Agriculture at Guelph, who told of the various attempts which had been made in the packaging of cheese in convenient units for the retail trade.

He described as "good merchandising" the successful packaging of processed cheese and listed the reasons for its popularity as being a conveniently sized package of a definite weight and uniform quality. The branded package went to maintain the confidence of the purchaser.

Sales Greatly Increase

He said that the sale of processed cheese had greatly increased in Canada until in 1948 it was estimated that 45 per cent of the cheese consumption in Canada was in the form of processed cheese.

The development of various transparent packaging films during and since the war offered possibilities for the packaging of cheddar cheese. Requirements for a suitable package were that it must protect and identify the product. Mr. Sproule continued by explaining the various methods of packaging cheddar cheese which had been tested at the agricultural school and noted comparative costs.

Charles N. Heath, secretary manager of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, Belleville, also emphasized the importance of packaging cheese in convenient form for the retail trade and stated much could be done toward the development of the domestic market.

Inspect Package

He passed around for inspection a small package of cheddar cheese weighing approximately two ounces which he said had sold freely at the Royal Winter Fair. He pointed out that the two ounce package represented the English cheese ration for one week and went on to state that if Canadian consumption of cheese was raised to even this level, the Canadian export of cheese to England would be considerably reduced.

Mr. Heath referred to the poor condition in which some Canadian cheese was reaching the English market and recommended that the export of cheese would be supervised by the Ontario cheese producers.

Prospects of a 35 cent per pound price for export cheese next year meant that farmers would receive approximately 18 per cent less for their product than was received this year.

Structure Tied Up

Mr. Heath claimed that while only slightly over three per cent of the Canadian milk production was exported in the form of cheese, yet the entire dairy industry price structure was tied up with that three per cent. If the cheese industry declines then other branches of the industry also show the effect, as then farmers will tend to divert their milk to other branches and possibly cause a surplus in those lines.

Comparative prices as received by the cheese milk producer and the cost of cheese as sold at retail was referred to by the speaker who said that the present 48 per cent mark-up posed a "terrific problem."

"Farmers for too long have been fed on fine words and sales talk," concluded Mr. Heath. "The time has come for practical demonstration as to how many things could be done."

Other speakers on the morning program included J. M. Bain, chief dairy instructor, and Roland Caminard, inspector of dairy products for Quebec.

Early Mailing For Christmas Again Stressed

Canada's post office is again geared to cope with what may be its busiest Christmas season.

Over 20,000 temporary helpers to postal staffs, the largest on record, will be employed to assist in the handling of the anticipated huge volume of Christmas mail. Preference for these positions is still being given War Veterans.

As Christmas Day falls on a Sunday this year, Monday, December 26th, is a statutory holiday. There will be no delivery on that date. It is pointed out that this fact emphasizes the need for "Early Mailing" more than ever. If the millions of letters, greeting cards and Christmas parcels are to be delivered before Christmas Day.

Christmas mails intended for the United States should be posted before December 9th and for local delivery not later than Dec. 17th, allowing extra times for out-of-town delivery in Canada.

The public is asked to be certain that all mail is correctly addressed and fully prepaid that all parcels are packed properly and securely wrapped and tied. The Post Office again requests that parcels be packed in strong corrugated containers, wrapped in several folds of thick wrapping paper and tied securely with several rounds of strong twine. The Post Office also urges that only such items as will not break, spoil or damage in transit, or damage the surrounding mails should be mailed.

16 CHARGES LAID

Toronto, Dec. 7 — (CP) — The list of charges of theft and forgery of government cheques facing Bernard Redditt, 33, rose to 16 Tuesday night as investigation continues into what police described as wholesale theft of baby allowance cheques and Income Tax rebates from apartment and house letter boxes.

Redditt was arrested last week on two charges of theft and forgery.

Police said they believe Redditt is wanted in other Ontario cities "for the same thing."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Thursday night the Belleville Rockets Juniors will trot out on the ice against the CNR Diesels under the supervision of a new coach.

Ken McNaught, former Oshawa Generals star, and more recently with the Belleville Combines under Coach O. H. A. referee who has handled the coaching chores for the past two years handed over the coaching reins to a successor after the game last night. The new coach who will work with Ken for some little time is none other than Dan Cowley, well-known hockey player of other days and an all-round sportsman.

The announcement was made by Manager Bill Cook of the Rockets, and member of the Belleville Hockey Association at the conclusion of the game between the two clubs at the conclusion of the game between the two clubs and the Shawbridge Tigers in Memorial Arena. McNaught, also a member of the Belleville Hockey Association will not sever his active connections with that organization. He will be around when time permits to give his best to the furtherance of minor hockey in the city. Pressure of business has cut in on his spare time activities to a considerable extent. As a matter of fact he wanted to relinquish the post a month ago, but the master-minds would have nothing to do with it.

* * *

However, McNaught's business activities have of late demanded more of his time especially at night, and it was decided that he was forced to give up the coaching because of this that he was considering his first divided job. It was at first suggested that the coaching be divided between Cowley and McNaught, but the latter felt that perhaps there was something in the old hereditary idea that too many cooks spoil the broth" (no pun intended) and that partly Dan should take over the job in its entirety.

* * *

McNaught, due to pressure of business, was not able to devote the time he thought necessary to coaching his proteges properly. Many nights he could spare only a few minutes, and he was of the opinion that this was not fair to the organization, the team or himself. Wielding a brace of Junior "B" hockey players into a smooth-working combination that will produce good results on the ice is no sinecure. It is a job that a coach must devote his entire time to, and more besides.

* * *

Last season, although his junior team was eliminated in the District Hockey League, he carried on and produced a winning team that went undefeated through the schedule, taking the world championship from the Tigers. Details of a tough championship campaign through a torch schedule has piloted a crew of youngsters through a torch schedule against senior "B" and intermediate "A" calibre squads and earned senior "B" and intermediate "A" calibre squads and earned senior "B" and intermediate "A" calibre squads and landed them in a playoff spot on the last night of his career as their coach.

* * *

True, there has been criticism of the playing qualities of the Rockets. But it must be remembered they are teen-age youngsters full of pep and vinegar and who were lined up against opponents who were considerably older and heavier, in the District Hockey League against squads of experienced veterans, some of whom are old enough to be their second veterans, some of whom are old enough to be their parents. The kids were only one game out of last place in the schedule at times, and all teams were inclined to run a bit wild with the bodies and sticks. But this is the flame of youth, with the bodies and sticks. But this is the flame of youth, used in sport where physical contact is necessary, this is liable to happen to any team.

And McNaught is turning his proteges over to a capable pilot, albeit his sartorial measurement is well beyond that goal, albeit his sartorial measurement is well beyond that goal, albeit his sartorial measurement is well beyond that goal, of the days when he was a centre ice star in his own right, of the days when he was a centre ice star in his own right, and Dan Cowley knows a lot of the hockey answers, and with his playing experience and knowledge of coaching, should his playing experience and knowledge of coaching, should his playing experience and knowledge of coaching, should help turn one of whom passed away recently; Johnny Lalonde, help turn one of whom passed away recently; Johnny Lalonde, Partridge, Locoopsie, and other stars of the Flyer squad, not forgetting Isle Squadron Leader Vic Vliet, and Group Captain Tommy Lawrence.

Dan, who is a brother of the former Boston Bruin's Comedy Centre, Bill Cowley, should fill the bill to a Comedy Centre, Bill Cowley, should fill the bill to a society. He is not the type of "easy-going coach" who into his proteges and away with various things. Cowley will not his proteges and away with various things. Cowley will not stand for any "fooling" and his word will be law when the stand for any "fooling" and his word will be law when the chips are down. The Belleville Hockey Aspects coaching chips are down. The Belleville Hockey Aspects coaching chips are down. The Belleville Hockey Aspects coaching

Oriole Hurler Best in Loop Statistics Show

New York, Dec. 7 — (AP) — The 1949 Baltimore Oriole pitching staff might well be summed up in three words—Albert Joseph Widmar.

Official International League statistics released today disclosed that the six-foot, four-inch righthander was the circuit's only standing hurler in addition to being practically the entire mound staff for the seventh-place Orioles.

The 26-year-old former member of St. Louis Browns won 22 games — the most in the league — and lost 13 for the Orioles, who finished 37 full games behind the champion Buffalo Bisons.

Working in 45 games, Widmar compiled an earned run average of 3.03, placing third behind Toronto's Emory (Buddy) Church and John (Jocko) Thompson.

Widmar, who had a 2-3 record for the Browns in '48, also led the loop in complete games, 36, and in innings pitched, 294. Figures are based on 45 or more innings pitched.

Church (15-6), a righthander, had the lowest E.R.A.—2.36. Thompson (14-5), a lefthander, finished second with a 2.73 mark.

Bob Hooper of Buffalo had the best percentage. The 27-year-old righthander from Lexington, Ont., won 19 games while losing only three for a .864 figure. Hooper also won 11 straight games for the season's longest winning streak.

Montreal's Dan Bankhead was the most deceptive and wildest hurler. The strong righthander struck out the most batters, 170, but also walked the most, 170. He also started the most games, 34.

Salt Lake City — Keith Nuttal, 136, Brigham City, Utah, outpointed Tutty Dedjardins, 134, Calgary (10).

Old Man Blake Forced to Take Part in Games

(By The Canadian Press)

Old Man Blake, whose dogs ain't what they used to be, brought his Valleyfield Braves to Shawinigan, Que., Tuesday and calculated as how he's having lots of luck — all bad.

It's no cinch for the 37-year-old coach to take his regular turn on the ice again. But injuries have played such havoc with his club he's been forced into action again.

It is just two seasons ago that Hector (Toe) Blake, the "Old Lamplighter," closed out a brilliant National Hockey League career — practically 12 full seasons with Montreal Canadiens.

A broken leg finally laid him low and broke up the Punch and Judy combo he had with Elmer Lach and Maurice Richard. Old Toe wanted to hang on a while longer and add to his total of 235 goals in the NHL, but that was as far short of the 322 set by Nels (Old Poison) Stewart of the Montreal Maroons as Fog was talked into a coaching job.

He went to Houston of the United States Hockey League and finished out the 1947-48 season. Last year he was coaching Buffalo in the American League until he had a disagreement over policy and left. Then he took over coaching Valleyfield of the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

The city of Toronto should press to have the 1950 Grey Cup football final played on the Shawinigan Falls Exhibition stadium, it was decided at Toronto Tuesday at the first meeting of the C.N.E. sports committee since the Civic Park and Exhibition committees.

It has been estimated that 40,000 could be accommodated for the East-West fall classic at the C.N.E. Stadium. The last Grey Cup city stadium drew about 21,000.

Two teams from the greater Winnipeg Girls' Hockey League will play a two-game series in Chicago during the last week of December, it was announced at Winnipeg Tuesday.

Johnny Gosselig, former manager of the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, completed the arrangements with Allan Rouse, president of the league. The teams—Western Wolverines and Canterbury Ruffles — will leave Winnipeg Dec. 23 and return Dec. 28.

Tom Lockhart, president of the Eastern Amateur Hockey League, announced at New York Tuesday that Grand Rapids Rockets are the pace makers in the revised loop.

The league, which began the season as an eight-team, two-division loop, was forced to consolidate into a one-division, six-team outfit following the withdrawal of Cleveland and Baltimore last week.

It was decided at a meeting among the surviving heads last Sunday that all games and individual scoring and goal-keeping records involving Cleveland and Baltimore would be stricken from the records.

New York Yankees Tuesday cleared the decks for trading by winding up their annual meeting. Keller, an old stadium standby.

The faded veteran, plagued by a chronic back ailment, was forced to call it a career at the age of 38 when he accepted his unconditional release after a conference with general manager George Weiss.

Once a member of baseball's greatest all-round outfields with Joe Dimaggio and Tommy Henrich, Keller bows out if the Yankees picture after 10 years of service. The Maryland strong boy with a lifetime record of 184 home runs, was a member of five Yankee pennant clubs and appeared in three all-star games.

Carl Dettman of Montreal isn't sure, but he thinks a Winnipeg claim to the fastest forward passing record with 63 yards "in the air" is away out of line.

Vince Leah, Winnipeg Tribune sports writer, claims that Russ Babcock chucked a record pass to Lynn Patrick in Winnipeg in 1936.

The pass was from defence to receiver—65 yards " in the air."

But Dettman figures he was "at least" 20 yards behind the line of scrimmage when he connected with a record pass for Assumption College, Windsor, Ont., in 1924. That pass went down in the records as a 54-yard one—but that was from the line of scrimmage to the receiver, from passer to receiver would be at least 74 yard unless more than Babcock tossed.

The senior's boxoplel, first major event of the Hamilton curling season, got under way Tuesday at the Hamilton Thistle curling club.

By evening, six games had been played in the second round for the seniors' trophy and five games were played in the first round of the consolation event for the Intermediate trophy.

Three Hamilton Thistles rinks still are in the running in the main event with victories in the second round. R. M. Cassels came from behind to score an 11-7 win over A. Menery of Grand Valley, W. A. Kennedy shaded Hamilton Victoria's R. Fletcher 10-9 and A. D. Somerville ousted F. G. Light's Galt foursome 10-8.

CROW TROPHY WINNER

Bill Farrant, Vancouver's 22-year-old long distance runner, has been named Canada's outstanding athlete in 1949 as determined by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. With the award goes the H. Crow Trophy and the A.A.U. recommendation that Farrell, holder of the native Canadian mile record, receive the Lou E. Marsh Trophy. — (CP Photo.)

Today the organized fight for Sunday sports in Toronto, a group calling itself the Sunday Afternoon Sports Committee which maintains it's fight is against extension of sports activity during normal church hours, the Churches Against Idea.

Even so, Toronto's proposed Sunday baseball full-scale battle against any proposal that Toronto drop her heritage.

The issue has found Protestant churches in agreement with the Roman Catholics. James Cardinal McGuigan, who last week declared against Sunday sport, Tuesday received the blessing of Toronto East Presbytery of the United Church for his stand.

An unusual note was interjected in the debate by officials of the Seventh Day Adventist church, who believe the proper Holy Day is Saturday and will be called on to vote in favor of Sunday sports.

Ministers of the United and Presbyterian Churches Tuesday charged that big financial interests are behind Controller Allan Lamport, outspoken advocate of Sunday pastimes.

The controller denied the charge outright.

He retorted:

"Ridiculous and demagogic! It is amazing to hear of such statements coming from a responsible body."

Sunday Sports Will be Live Election Issue

Toronto, Dec. 7 — (CP) — Strull - laced Toronto may drop another stitch of her lacings Jan. 2nd.

That's the day citizens vote in a new years' poll also indulged in a plebiscite whether they want Sunday Sports.

The plebiscite — an issue that city council dodged in 1947—has Toronto many churches in a dither. They fear an affirmative answer will be the thin edge of the wedge for a wide-open Sunday.

Their opponents — who claim an artillery shell fired down Yonge Street, Toronto's main thoroughfare, on Sunday would hit hit anything but a church — number include vocal members of council, sportsmen and ordinary citizens.

Already the air is thick with charges and opinions from interested parties. Typical of those who claim Sunday is their only day for recreation.

These fans are better off than 10 years ago. At that time they couldn't play baseball or basketball game in a city playground on Sunday, or attend any organized sports. Council grudgingly gave in under their urgings and some sports are permitted such activity.

Assisted for Years

The subject has agitated Toronto for years. The main question, which the Canadian cities have settled with less uproar, is whether Toronto should have a real Lord's Day Act as strictly enforced as Ottawa's.

Voters, however, are simply asked whether they want Sunday sports.

In 1947 council defeated by a vote of 13 to 8 a motion stating that council request the provincial government to pass legislation authorizing Sunday sports with paid admissions in Toronto.

Today the organized fight for Sunday sports is by the Sunday Afternoon Sports Committee which maintains it's fight is against extension of sports activity during normal church hours.

Toronto Marlies Take Hamilton By 3 to 2 Count

By The Canadian Press

The top met the bottom in one of Ontario hockey association game Tuesday night and the result was as expected. Hamilton Tigers dominated play in the first and their Senior "A" encounter with the league-leading Toronto Marlboros but a last period tally by the Toronto lads beat them 3-2.

In other games Tuesday night Owen Sound Mercurys sank to third place in Senior standings and Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen took over sole possession of the runner-up slot by beating the Mercurys 3-2. On the home side, Barrie Flyers climbed into a third place tie with St. Michael's and St. Catharines by virtue of a 3-1 triumph over Guelph Biltmores. Galt Black Hawks were resting in fifth place, knocked St. Michael's down, 5-4.

Always the class of the league, the Dukes that beat Hamilton Tigers. The mountain city crew took an early lead in the first period on goas by veteran Clare Shillingford and Bill Ezard. Hamilton roared back to knot the count in the middle frame, Johnny McCormack potting the first marker and Al Buchanan notching his 15th and two to tie the game.

Buchanan was Johnny-on-the-spot in the last period, rippling in the winning goal with four minutes remaining.

Scare Leafs

At Owen Sound, the Mercurys outscored the Dutchmen Kitchener 3-2 in the opening session. Neither team could find the middle stanza and the twin-city crew roared back in the third with three goals to pick up the two points.

Syl McKeavy opened the scoring for Owen Sound near the halfway mark of the first. Gordie Bell and Art Hurst smacked in two quick tallies to take the lead for the Dutchmen but Owen Sound came right back with two record-breaking goals by sticks of Harry Kazarian and George McLagan. They battled through a scoreless middle session before Doug Verity, Don Bauer and Mickey Reid put the contest on ice for the Dutchmen in the final frame.

Barrie Flyers clicked in every period downing the Guelph Biltmores. Stan Chemerin, star of the game, rapped in the only tally of the first stanza and Red Barber did the same in the middle session to make it 2-0. Guelph got into the act early in the last period as Bob Palmer blasted in their only score. John Bobonis made sure of the win with a little over two minutes to go in the game.

At Galt, the home club singles in the first and did the same in the second. But Galt spurted in three to St. Michael's two in the final frame to take the decision.

Bronco Horvath tallied the Black Hawks goal in the initial session and Fred Sanford doing the honors for the collegians. It was Horvath for the host club again in the second while Rod Roy kept the Irish even.

Galt opened the third with two tallies in the first five minutes of the session by Jack Gibson and Ford. St. Michael's answered with a pair of markers before Galt scored their last off the stick of Jack Green. With one minute and 15 seconds to go, the Irish fell one goal short as Rod Roy potted the Toronto boy's final goal.

Frank Boucher Says Improve Or go to Minors to Rangers

(By The Canadian Press)

The perk-up or get-out permander now is being wielded in New York Rangers' hockey camp. It is does not work when the Rangers meet Chicago Black Hawks Thursday night a few boys may be travelling Rangers.

The familiar weird was issued by manager Frank Boucher Tuesday. In effect it's this: Unless there's some consistency in the future play of the last-place New Yorkers, a few members are moving downwards from the National Hockey League.

The warning signalled the end of Boucher's patience with leand-out performances by veterans and rookies alike. This is in the wake of the Rangers' 4-0 victory over Chicago Black Hawks Sunday night, too.

In the only other game tonight Boston Bruins' latest two-victory drive will get a tough going over when they take on the leaguelead Detroit Red Wings.

In the New York camp Boucher said Tuesday night:

"I didn't mention this before, but I got the whole team together before Sunday's game and told them a few facts. I told them that every time we had a chance to do something about moving up in the race they folded, and that if they were the three they played the worst — were going to the minors in the morning."

Well the Rangers won and nobody went. But, says Boucher, there'll be no such luck that's tonight.

It'll be a tough chore for the fifth-place Bruins tonight. They have won only seven games in 23 starts — two of them coming last weekend. The Wings, on the other hand, were Saturday night defeat in 23 starts last Sunday when Toronto Maple Leafs defeated them 3-2.

The other two clubs — Montreal Canadiens and the Leafs — are idle tonight. But there's still plenty of action in their training camps.

Montreal officials are worried over their scoring punch of late dents. Manager Frank Selke said he wasn't pleased with the Montreal club when they lost 4-3 in Boston Sunday.

At Morecambe, Lancashire, Jack Davis, Canada's unofficial world champion of snooker, led Canada's George Chenier by seven frames to five at the end of the second day's play in their three-day, 25-frame tournament.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, Dec. 7 (AP) — Jim Coleman, the Toronto sports scribe, recently typed this comment: "When a coach is losing, the only people who have any love for him are his family. . . ." Dick Irvin, the Montreal Canadiens' coach, was reading that line when the postman brought him a note from his son in Regina. It said: "I just read Jimmy Coleman's column and don't be too sure of that part about only the coach's family loving him. Mother is quite peeved at you since the club has been losing a few."

Ike Williams called in newspaper men to tell them about that "fix" phone call, but he and manager Blinky Palermo didn't think enough of it to report it to the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission. . . . wonder why they remembered what happened to Rocky Graziano?

SPORTSMANSHIP IN "CANADA UNLIMITED"
Boxing's best!
When champion and challenger met for the century's most skillfull exhibition!
Toronto's old Adelaide Street rink blazed with light. Fresh sawdust littered the smooth floor. A crowd of sports mingled round the ring while the Lieutenant-Governor and his party watched from their box. It was a February night in 1885 . . . and the sport was boxing and in Canadian boxing. The world-famous Champion of England, Charlie Mitchell, was to meet John F. Scholes, the local challenger.
In the opening rounds, Scholes smashed Mitchell with a terrific barrage of punches. Wery, Mitchell backed off. The haze of cigar smoke thickened as the rounds went on. Suddenly Mitchell came off the ropes with a hard blow. Scholes went down, only for a moment . . . but the fight had changed. Mitchell won the bout . . . 35-26.
Good sportsmanship has won many world friends for Canada . . . just as the spirit of working together has made us one of the world's great nations. These two—sportsmanship and enterprise—keep your opportunities for work and play in Canada—unlimited.
The Canadian Amateur Boxing Championships were held this year in Port Arthur, Ont., to determine the boxers who would represent Canada at the British Empire Games in New Zealand next February.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

The Kibitzer

Defending bidders have their problems. What problems? Such as whether they have enough high card backing. Unless, of course, one or the other in their pair makes a strength-showing bid.

If a defender makes a simple overcall instead of a double he does not promise much high card strength. If his partner does not jump in response, not much high card strength is promised.

The opening bidder in any deal has shown some strength. Usually enough to prevent defenders from making a slam. More often than not it is enough to prevent defenders from making a game.

To make game in a minor needs 11 tricks. Game in a major salt takes ten. So, defenders avoid a minor when they find a major suit good enough to make their final trump.

Look again at this deal:

NORTH
♥ 10 9 7 3
♦ 6 5
♣ K 10 8 7 4 2

WEST
♠ A 10 4 3
♥ None
♦ A K 9 8 4 2
♣ J 8 3

EAST
♠ Q J 8 7 6
♥ 8 6 4 2
♦ 10
♣ A 5

SOUTH
♠ K 5 2
♥ A K Q 7 5
♦ J 9 7
♣ Q 9 6

The bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
1 H	2 D	Pass	2 S
Pass	3 S	4 H	4 S

The pass by north denied some value necessary for a true first responding bid. What is this lack? A high card. An immediate responding bid to an opener promises at least two high cards.

His four heart bid was a back-in. He has already warned of his high card lack. Therefore, his later bid does not misinform partner. It shows his support with intent to sacrifice, if necessary.

Why did west sidestep his chance to rebid diamonds? His good spade support offered a better chance for game. East could go to four spades. Neither knew they could make a slam.

The opening lead from south was the heart king. Now the second guesser will tell you they can make 13 tricks. They would.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 7 — (AP) — Meet the self-proclaimed-and-proud-of-it new Lana Turner.

"I'm strictly the home girl now," she says. "You wouldn't know me."

The same goes for husband Bob Topping. "We're very folksy," she told me in her studio dressing room. Surprised? So are we.

And so will be the Hollywood. Time was, even on a dull night, the hot spot photographers could almost always count on Lana to put in an appearance. Now, she says, they haven't been to a night club since they dropped into a Sunset Strip spot after a premiere a couple of months ago. So what do they do?

Stay-at-Homes

"We just stay home. Bob plays tennis and we both watch television. Every Saturday night I get the urge to go to a movie. But Bob says, 'You know the theatres are crowded on Saturday night. I'll take you any other night of the week.'"

But all the other nights, I'm too busy watching television. So we just stay home."

Television is the Toppings' passion. They have five screens in their new home and a forest of aerials on their roof.

The Homebody

Lana the homebody has amazed many people in her new role, including her studio publicity chief, Rita Allen. She shook her hand one day and said, "Lana, I want you to know how proud I am of the fine way you and Bob have been conducting yourselves. I know it's hard for you!"

She said she preferred to stay in pictures, at least for a while. "But that doesn't mean I'm going to do them until I'm 99 years old."

Jury Recommends Five-year Term

Belvidere, Ill., Dec. 7 (AP)—A 34-year-old father accused of intimacies with a 13-year-old bobby soxer after a wild beer party was convicted Tuesday night of statutory rape. The jury recommended a five-year sentence.

He is George Frost, the first of 10 men to stand trial on morals involving nine Belvidere-area girls ranging from 13 to 15 years of age.

The men are accused of meeting the girls in an ice cream parlor, buying them sodas and sundaes, then taking them to neighboring fields and haymows.

The bobby soxer was Clara Mae Grelle, a slim brunette, who hesitantly told the jury she was intimate with Frost.

London Letter:

Workmen Excavate Under Church For Tomb of Dick Whittington

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Dec. 7 (CP)—Under the blitzed church of St. Michael's, workmen are excavating for the tomb of Dick Whittington, famed for his cat and for his association with London in the 13th century.

A short distance away his decendent, tall, grey-haired Charles Richard Whittington, presides over an old-established firm of London stockbrokers.

Dick Whittington was four times Lord Mayor of London, an alderman for the Broad Street ward and a member of the Mercers' Company. His descendant is on the Common Council for the same ward and also belongs to the Mercers' Company.

According to smaller things, Charles Whittington, too, has a cat, but it's a female and not likely to become famous in fact or legend.

At his office Whittington talked over the family history.

"We know that back in the 12th century there was a Sir William Whittington, Lord of the manor at Pountley in Gloucester and the third son, Richard, came to London and was apprehended to Sir Mercer named Fitz-Warren. Made a Fortune.

"Some say the cat might refer to a ship at that time, but I think that as domestic cats were rare in those days, if Dick had one of which he was fond and took it about with him, everyone would connect him with the animal.

"Dick married his master's daughter, Alice; made a fortune, built almshouses, a church and many other things. But he had no children and the family tree comes down through his brother Robert.

"The sons have not always been called Richard. In fact, they missed it right out in one generation when there were a number of sons because they thought any boy called Dick would get ragged about it."

Whittington frequently walks round the St. Michael's to watch the excavations for his ancestor's tomb.

"The church in which Dick was buried was destroyed in the great fire of London, but we are hoping to find some remains of his tomb under the ruins of the church that Hitler destroyed."

Brighteners

London — The popularity of "The Green Man" as a name for pubs in London—there are at least 20 of them — gave Scotland Yard a problem today.

Last Monday night, Chelsea police reported that a youth had made a statement suggesting that a girl, name unknown, might be lying dead near "The Green Man" in London.

Through the night detectives consulted reference books and maps context with brewery companies to draw up a comprehensive list of public houses with that name so that an intensive search could start at dawn.

Brodhead, Wis. — There will be 43 snowstorms in southern Wisconsin this winter.

That's the prediction of Police Chief F. M. Ties.

How does he know?

Here's the formula:

"Add together the date of the first snowfall and the number of days the moon is old and you will have the number of snows that will fall."

Last year and in 1947 Ties' forecast missed by one. In 1946 it was right on the button.

Ties learned the secret from the Indians.

Bridgeville, Pa. — When Mrs. Elizabeth Osborn saw a resounding crash that rocks the house, she knows exactly what it is.

"It's another truck," she observes placidly and goes to see what part of her house went this time.

Four times in the last two years trucks failed to negotiate the curve at the foot of the hill and landed in various parts of the Kirby home.

First the kitchen went: $750 damage.

The next truck hit the living room.

"Only $250 damage," said Mrs. Kirby who is getting philosophical about it.

Then the dining room went: $400 damage. Yesterday a truck rammed into the house and sheared off a corner of the living room and the front porch.

Artist, Cartoonist Dies at Age of 83

Toronto, Dec. 7. (CP)—Owen Staples, 83, artist and former newspaper cartoonist, died today. He spent more than 60 years on the staff of The Telegram and retired two years ago.

While working for The Telegram, he helped produce the John Ross Robertson collection of painting and sketches of early Toronto landmarks, a project organized and named for the paper's founder. Some of the paintings still hang in the city hall, many others in the public reference library here.

His paintings were exhibited at the Chicago World's Fair, the St. Louis Exposition and in galleries in London, Liverpool and many cities in Canada and the United States.

When illness paralyzed his right side three years ago, he was taught himself to paint with his left hand. He continued painting until two weeks ago.

POPULAR PROVINCE

During the first nine months of 1949 almost 55 per cent of all United States cars entering Canada came into Ontario.

Shorty Judge and Skinny Martin had a mad argument and Shorty called Skinny a long string bean, and Skinny said, Hay, it's a lucky thing for you you're nowhere near my size, or you'd wake up in the hospitle without even remembering how you got there. I dont hit kids smaller than my unless they call me a liar. I got a rite to hit anybody that calls me a liar, no matter what size they are, so you better not call me one, he said.

Why should I? Shorty said, and Skinny said. Because for the simple reason I'm telling you you're half Chinee and half pigdin toed, so do you think that makes me a liar?

Maybe I do and maybe I dont, thats my business, Shorty said, and Skinny said, And what's more you had long cerls down your back till you were 9 years old, and you still sleep in a cerl's nightgown with lace and pink ribbins on it.

Oh, I do, huh? Shorty said, and Skinny said, Yes, you do. What's you doing, calling me a liar by saying it? he said.

Maybe you think so, Shorty said, and Skinny said, And besides that, one time you tried to martch in a parade of midgits, but they wouldn't let you in it because they claimed you were too short. So what about that? am I a liar or aint I? he said.

If you dont know, how do you expect anybody else to know? Shorty said. All I know is, you're still a long string bean, he said.

And he walked away looking independent, proving if you resist temptation long enough it will go away.

French Battler Hopes to Beat Jake Lamotta

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)— Robert Villemain, the game little Parisian battler, has his big heart set on returning the middleweight championship to France.

The stocky, tireless French-man hopes to take a major step in that direction Friday night when he meets off again with champion Jake Lamotta in a non-title 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

It will be a double mission for the 25-year-old Villemain. Robert wants revenge, too. A plunger with a whirlwind attack and not much punching power, the five-foot, 6 1-2 inch Villemain gave Lamotta a licking but lost the decision when they met for the first time in the Garden last March.

Nineteen of 30 boxing writers said Villemain won. Two of the will prove it Friday that a French-

Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, promptly suspended two officials.

Three months later Lamotta went on to win the title from France's Marcel Cerdan. Cerdan died in a plane crash last October.

In talking about his bout with Lamotta, Villemain said: "I will always feel that I beat him. I will prove it Friday that a French-man is good condition will always beat Lamotta.

"When I will demand he fight me for the title which belongs in France. When Cerdan lost his title and his life, I swear I will win it back."

Winnipeg Must Secure Stadium To Hold 15,000

By AL VICKERY
(Canadian Press, Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, Dec. 7 — (CP) — Dear Sagis, please bring us a stadium.

Winnipeggers haven't quite gone that far, but many believe something drastic will have to be done if the city hopes to continue on an even footing with other cities in the Western Interprovincial Football Union — Calgary, Edmonton and Regina.

Maurice (Winnipeg Free Press) Smith writes that the chances of Winnipeg's Blue Bombers winning another Western title in the next few years are practically nil "as long as Winnipeg does not boast a stadium capable of holding at least 15,000 fans."

The men who are running the gridiron sport here are not complete fools. They know fully well, as any business man does, that you can't spend $100-000 on a football team if you can't get $100,000 back in gate receipts.

Mixed Reception

Jack Wilgar (Winnipeg Tribune) Allan views the football plans of coach Les Lear and assistant Tom Casey of the Calgary Stampeders football club with mixed feelings.

(On his return trip to Calgary after the East-West final, Lear advocated a complete break by leagues from the Canadian Rugby Union.)

Allan says: "It is also fairly obvious that Brook and Lear are driving at. They want the Grey Cup operated on an out-and-out professional basis.

A Pro Set-up

"What Brook and Lear would like to see, and we can't go along with them, is a professional setup, with a four-team league in the West and a six-team league in the East, operated entirely out of the C.R.U.

"We can't go along with them that far because we don't believe the Grey Cup final would have the same appeal by crowds in the same nation-wide interest. Undoubtedly, it would run more efficiently, but the cost would be too great even if the time was ripe for pro football in Canada. Can you imagine Winnipeg supporting a pro football team?"

Allan says we don't expect Calgary to get anywhere with its protests but if Hoots and Lear merely succeed in jarring the C.R.U. out of its smug complacency, they will have accomplished something of inestimable value."

Praises Cardinal For Statement On Sunday Sports

Toronto, Dec. 7 — (CP) — James Cardinal McGuigan, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Toronto, received a blessing yesterday from the United Church of Canada Presbytery — for his forthright statement last week against legalizing commercial sports here.

The men who are running the gridiron sport here are not complete fools. They know fully well, as any business man does, that you can't spend $100-000 on a football team if you can't get $100,000 back in gate receipts.

"It is not every prelate who would have the courage to do it," said Rev. J. F. H. Macdonald. "When a man stands up and speaks as he did in the Grey Cup counter influences that are at work, the least we can do is to say 'God bless him'."

Cardinal McGuigan last week said he was opposed to a movement in Toronto to legalize commercialized sports.

Indian Freezes To Death After Heart Attack

Peterborough, Dec. 7 — (CP)— A 60-year-old Mississauga Indian hunter died Monday night on the snow-covered ice of nearby Buckhorn Lake while on his way home from an expedition to gather hickory nuts which to make axe handles, John Knott's body was found Tuesday beside a hand-sled load of hickory and investigators decided he was frozen to death after suffering a heart attack.

The temperature was 18 degrees below zero when two of Knott's sons, Norman and Alex, followed the man's tracks across the lake and found the body 200 yards from the east shore of the lake, half a mile from his home.

Chief George Coppews of the Curve Lake Indian Reserve said he passed within 200 yards of the fallen man Monday night while on a moonlight fox hunt. He saw a dark object on the ice but did not recognize it as a man.

CONTINUE HOT PACE

Toronto, Dec. 7 — (CP) — Toronto Marlboros continue their hot pace in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior League both in team standings and scoring statistics. Four of their men are the league's top scorers.

Johnny McCormack last week took a one-point lead over Scotty Muir with nine goals and 18 assists for 27 points.

In the Junior O.H.A., the junior Marlboros are also the top team but two Windsor boys are top scorers. Earl Reibel with 48 points, made up of 17 goals and 31 assists is eight points ahead of Erwin Grosse, also of Windsor, who has 40 points.

Pat Boehmer of Marlboros has the best senior average—2.38 — in 19 games. Don Lockhart in the Junior O.H.A. has a 2.15 average for 20 games.

• BULGARIA LEAVES W.H.O.

Geneva, Dec. 7 — (Reuters) — Bulgaria has withdrawn from the United Nations World Health Organization, it was announced today here. This follows the withdrawal last February of the Soviet Union, the Ukraine and Byelorussia—the first time any country has left a United Nations agency.

China's big island of Formosa, which has been equipped by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek for the Nationalists' last-ditch stand against the Communists, is becoming another international hot potato.

Senator H. Alexander Smith (Rep. N.J.) said recently that Gen. Douglas MacArthur recently told him Formosa is essential to the security of United States Pacific defences. The Senator said he believes MacArthur would favor sending U. S. troops to the island to head off any Communist invasion. The Chinese Reds, by the way, are said to plan occupation of Formosa by next summer.

Formosa and U. S. Defence

And why should Formosa be essential to U. S. defences? Well, the military experts say this island in Pacific hands would give the U.S. defensive arc in that vital area. Its southern tip is only 250 miles from the northern shore of Luzon, chief Philippine island containing Manila and the U. S. base at Cavite. Formosa also is about 600 miles from Japan proper, and some 400 miles from Britain's big colony of Hong Kong.

Formosa's population is some 8,000,000. The island is oblong in shape — 245 miles long and 88 miles across at its greatest width. It has a good harbor and modern transport, though it has a mountainous backbone upon which, incidentally, live savage headhunters. It is rich in natural resources.

Some military experts insist that American control of Formosa is imperative. Others incline to the view that it would be a good thing for the United States to control the island but that it isn't essential since we have control of the sea and the air.

Politically, American control of Formosa is widely regarded as undesirable. Exponents of the hands-off policy hold that occupation by the United States would raise the cry of imperialism. The effect on the Asiatic world would be bad.

Leader of Theft Ring Given Twelve Months

Woodstock, Ont., Dec. 7 (CP) —John Stevens, described by police as the 39-year-old leader of a widespread theft ring, was sentenced Tuesday to 12 months definite and six months indeterminate.

He was convicted of 13 charges of breaking and entering, theft and housebreaking. Police said 20 persons were involved in the gang. Twelve of those charged have pleaded guilty to more than 30 charges.

Stevens, formerly of Toronto, is married and the father of three children.

Four others in the alleged ring were sentenced Tuesday.

John Bernard Sullivan, 20, received six months definite and six months indefinite on 15 charges of break-in and theft. Embry Grant Morton, 22, three months on five charges of theft; Douglas Taylor, 19, was fined $25 and costs on each of three convictions for theft; Douglas McCallum, 19, two years suspended sentence on conviction on a charge of receiving.

Franco to Present Pope Pius With Golden Hammer

Vatican City, Dec. 7 — (Reuters) — Generalissimo Franco, Spanish chief of state, will present Pope Pius with the Golden Hammer with which he will strike the "Holy Door" at the solemn opening of the Holy year on Christmas eve, it was announced Tuesday. Franco will be following the ancient tradition by which the kings of Spain have provided the hammer for the Holy Year opening ceremony.

Martin's Summer

By Vicki Baum

"Why do you straightaway imagine the worst?" asked Old Owl in an equivocal tone. "We have not to cut away a little—to get to the bottom of it. We shall only cut as far as is necessary. But so much we must cut away—down to it is were the arm. But don't worry, it won't be as bad as that. We'll soon put you right."

Martin lay back on the pillows a moment and shut his eyes. He was tired, utterly tired out. He had the letter now. He had work now, and money and happiness, and May was waiting for him in Walikki. And now they came along and took off his arm, this sick and miserable arm that lay beside him in the bed as if it did not belong to him.

"Pity," he said in a low and resigned voice. He gave way to a moment's rage against the deaf-and-dumb girl to whom he owed that dive into the water and that ill-fated scratch of the rusty nail; and he cursed his whole career as a swimmer, which had ended in his being discualified and had finally brought him to his present pass. A pass he'd been in and unbuttoned his night shirt as if he were a child. Her fingers trembled. Someone else applied a hypodermic syringe to his thigh. He was then lifted where the bed and laid somewhere where it felt cold and where rays of white light moved over the dark walls. There was a smell of ether and chloride and iodine. He felt at home with this chemical smell and found it almost pleasant.

"I'd give a lot to see you, Old doctor," Martin said, now in full possession of his senses, "I am a rich man, and I'd give you ten thousand marks, I can't do without the arm. I'm a one-hundred meter record for Austria as an amateur swimmer. Besides, I want to get married and I can't if you amputate my arm. I beg you most particularly—"

"Yes, yes—tell me all about it—" he heard somebody say encouragingly, and at the same moment his mouth was stopped with chloroform. The last he heard was Old Owl saying in his school-masterish voice: "The arrangements in this hospital date from the seventeenth century, I should say, what?"

Then Martin went off in a deep sleep for several minutes, as it seemed to him, before he became half awake again. He slept and waked while he journeyed on as before, slept and waked, always with a mist hanging before his eyes in dense veil. He was suffocated with the drugs as if with pillows. But by degrees the oppression lightened and became easier to bear. And at last he slept in earnest. He fell into a light and dreamless sleep, and when he waked it was a real awakening to a yellow sunlight that filled the ward.

The sun shone in at an open window. Trailers of wild vine hung in front of it, softly trans-fused with a beautiful reddish glow. Through them something glittered this way. It was the lake and something white and blue rose above the woods. This was the Iron Tooth. There was even a piece of the sky, vast and distant, to be seen through the hospital window. Martin felt well, very well indeed, quite unusually well. Cautiously he turned his head a little farther; and the next thing he saw was a dog lying asleep on the floor at his bedside. "Tiger," Martin whispered. The sight of Tiger touched him. Everything was still with the calm of utter peace. And now the church clock struck. The noise was almost too much for his frayed and tattered nerves. He could have burst into tears. Tiger heard it in his sleep and gently swished his tail. Someone moved on a chair and wriggled quickly to her feet in an apron much too large for her.

"Puck!" Martin said in tender delight and surprise.

"Well—do you feel better?" asked Puck, as she laid her hand on his temples and then in the hollow of his neck like an anxious mother. "You have no fever now. You've come through."

Martin thought. He was conscious of having something good behind and also in front of him, and he was conscious of something bad; but what it was he could not make out. He felt a sharp but healthy and almost pleasant pain in his shoulder.

"To the north, by the pine," Martin said, relieving his head of the stretch of straight road. I was here before you came round."

"God—you're a doctor—" Martin murmured, as he put his hands out to her. He put out both hands to her, and sound. One of them, it was true, was bandaged to the fingers and the movement made a pain shoot through his whole body. But the hand was there, it lived. It was there. It belonged to his arm, and the arm was joined to his body and belonged to him. Martin stared at this pumbed and bandaged limb that hurt him so, and then he stared at May, who was laughing. Cautiously he played a scale with his finger tips on the coverlet. It was all there and it responded properly. A terrible dread fell away from him like a dry and ghastly husk.

"So you came—you came at once? And if I had been a cripple would you still have had me?" he asked, crazy with bliss. He laughed from the heart.

"Yes, I suppose so. But I like you better as you are," May said dryly.

"Can I kiss you?" she asked, and then did so, carefully but without end.

"We are going to Walikki for our honeymoon," Martin murmured, whirling life a merry-go-round from sheer happiness.

"To the north, by the pine," May whispered between one breath and the next. "It won't cost so much—"

"But I'm a rich man now..." Martin said after a moment, continuing the often interrupted talk.

May's answer was little to the point. "What darling hands you have," she said, playing with his sound one—as if it were a prisoner's paw. "No one else in the world has such enormous hands —regular shovels—and your finger-tips are creased as a new-born baby's. And rowing callises, four on each hand. And a little tuft of white hairs on each finger. What a funny creature you are. And what funny darling hands. I've been thinking about them all the time —all the time—" She suppressed a sentimental remark and collected her thoughts. "So you're rich! Have you had news, then, of your most ungrowning Herr Meyer?" she asked gaily, as she followed with her fingers the white creases on Martin's forehead, which had now lost something of its brown tint.

"Yes, by Jove. He's written," Martin answered grandly.

May sat without speaking for a few moments. "It's almost all few moments. "It is almost a pity she said then. "You're such a dear boy, Martin. Such a dear boy. And when you have money and a factory you'll get like all the rest of them. Will you, do you think?"

RON

Martin was silent and dubious. All the joy and the excitement and the kisses had left him weak. And in this state of weakness he saw himself going out first through a revolving door and then through a factory door. A moment he was stooping beside Puck in the garden hungrily eating unripe currants, and immediately after he was sitting, stout and prosperous, in an armchair heavily upholstered in green plush.

"Tulip Land has gone forever" he said to this stout Martin in his armchair. "But one must not put on fat. I shall keep fit. The main thing is—we're through. The last spurt was frightful."

"Are you joking! What is Tulip Land?" asked May cautiously. Martin shook his head as he looked round the room for something. He missed something. But he had no idea he was looking for Puck. He swallowed twice.

"What are you looking for? Do you want something?" asked May. Martin looked at May, and his look was blissful. He swallowed once again and said nothing. He felt an odd sensation, a good familiar sensation that now he suddenly recognized, he was hungry. I'm hungry, he thought, and he thought pleased him strangely and incomprehensively. But he said nothing of it to May. People don't speak of hunger when they know what it is to be hungry. And he had still to learn what it was to be well fed...

Meanwhile a boat was crossing the lake. Puck was at the helm and worked it with a practiced hand, singing the while as Negroes sing or children or the crews of Chinese junks. The Iron Tooth and its shadows were behind her, watching over her like a big brother. The lake was her dear friend, and in Tulip Land on the other side eight birch trees ber sisters, waited for her in the clover meadows. That was the theme of Puck's song; she was quietly busy and not too sad. Her song was lightly poised and it soared a dozen spheres of rounded notes to hang patiently between sky and water like a little shimmering ball. Nobody heard it except a young chat that rose to the surface with protruding eyes to catch the last golden flies of summer...

Greater Diversion Of Niagara Water Subject of Talks

Explore Possibilities of Drafting New Agreement

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—Representatives from Canada and the United States today started preliminary talks on increased diversion of water, possibly to triple the existing generation of Hydro-Electric Power at world famed Niagara Falls.

Specifically they will explore the possibilities of drafting a new treaty to govern diversion of water from the Niagara River. Present withdrawals are regulated by the 1909 boundary waters treaty.

State Secretary Dean Acheson in announcing the opening of the talks, said one purpose of the proposed treat would be to provide more efficient use of the water for power development.

Involved in the problem is getting more power from water presently diverted, as well as division of additional water.

The U.S. Power Commission, which will be represented at the discussions, had said that American generation of power at the Falls could be increased from its present 2,700,000 kilowatt hours to 11,600,000,000 kilowatt hours.

A report, issued about two months ago the commission said: "Power facilities at the Niagara Falls (in the United States) do not develop fully the existing diversions of water and, as a result, there is a continuing waste of a great and magnificent natural resource."

The proposed increased generation, the commission report said, would not harm the scenic aspects of the falls—a chief attract—a prime tourist attraction.

SUNDAY SPORTS APPROVED BY WINDSOR VOTERS

Will Apply for Local Option in Enforcement of Lord's Day Act

Windsor, Dec. 8 — (CP) — Electors of this industrial city have taken their first step towards getting Sunday sports and entertainment.

A majority gave approval in Wednesday's municipal elections to the plebiscite question, asking the city of Windsor to apply to the Ontario Government to adopt a policy of local option in enforcement of the Lord's Day Act, so that specified forms of sport or entertainment might be permitted locally where the municipal council so requests.

Voters also approved Daylight Saving Time next summer in another question, while sitting various seats on the board of control, public utilities commission and city council.

Dr. Roy Perry elected to council from Ward Three, is the first Negro to sit on the city council. The dentist had a majority of about 3,000.

There was no vote for the mayoralty, Mayor Arthur J. Reaume having been elected a year ago for a two-year term.

Returns early today from 167 to 173 polls on the Sunday sport question gave a favourable vote of 12,842 and 10,367 against. On daylight time, 160 polls gave 13,337 in the affirmative, 10,458 against.

The issue was less than 50 percent of the eligible number of voters, compared with 51 per cent a year ago.

Including Dr. Perry, five new councillors were elected, along with two members of the board of control, and two public utility commissioners.

Besides Dr. Perry, the new councillors are Michael Patrick in Ward One; Albert Long in Ward Two; Miss Catherine M. Beneteau in Ward Four, and O. M. Paterson in Ward Five.

L. A. Deziel and Gordon B. Ellis were elected to the board of control, and W. Cousins and H. H. Fuller won seats on the public utilities commission. Former controller, C. J. Dendfield, lost.

The Sunday sport question aroused considerable interest in the campaign and clergy of all denominations were active in opposition to the move to loosen restrictions.

Tries to go to Jail Every Christmas For Bath, Overhaul

Glamorgan, Wales, Dec 8 — (Reuters) — Magistrates here sent an unemployed man named no home to prison for two months after he asked them to "put me inside for Christmas."

A police inspector told the court the man tried to go to prison for every year to get a bath and an overhaul.

This was his 132rd appearance in court, and the court had condemned himself getting drunk and disorderly. This time he smashed a plate glass window.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Synopsis: Temperatures this morning are reported in the east 15 to 20 degrees above zero and in western Ontario, while to the east and north, thermometers are registering frigid 6 below to five above temperatures. Variable cloud amounts with a few snow flurries occasional very light snow but no consecutive amount of snowfall is expected. The cold snap will continue today and tonight, but a trend towards milder temperatures is expected to begin Friday. Clearing will occur tonight in all regions and sunny skies will be general over Ontario tomorrow.

DREW CHALLENGES CABINET MINISTER TO RESIGN OFFICE

National Film Board Debated in House

Ottawa, Dec. 8 (CP)—George Drew challenged Reconstruction Minister Winters Wednesday night to either accept full responsibility for the National Film Board or resign as chairman.

The Progressive Conservative leader criticized Mr. Winters for dissociating himself from the recommendations made to the Massey Commission on arts and sciences by the officials of the Film Board.

"Without discussing the nature of the recommendations that were made by that Board to the Massey Commission, may I say that the statement made by the minister that he does not identify himself with the recommendations of that Board expresses lack of ministerial responsibility.

"The minister should either accept full responsibility as chairman for the craftsmanship of that Board or he should cease to be chairman of the Board."

The challenge was issued as the committee began study of the whole question of Film-board activities during a 4½-hour debate.

Mr. Winters' terse reply was that he would not rise to the logic in Mr. Drew's remarks.

Earlier he had explained that the Film Board was "a name" the Film Board brief to meet his views on the recommendations and "despite the fact that I was not in agreement with many of its recommendations."

Miners Take First Day off Under New Plan

Washington, Dec. 8. — (AP)— With more than 7,340,000 tons of coal a year under control John L. Lewis' miners took their first days off under the three-day-week.

The United Mine Workers' leader is trying to use the short work period as a lever against the government which failed to get his contract demands.

The small coal companies in the anthracite-west and southern United States which have accepted the terms signed by Lewis returned to a full five-day week.

But major coal operators who produce all but the 550,000,000 tons mined in the U.S. in a year, both bituminous and coal, would have to crack their solid front before he could claim any important victory gain in the six-month-old dispute.

The mines now are operating only on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. During the rest of the week Lewis is allowing only the "irreducible minimum" of maintenance workers to enter the pits.

The agreements Lewis signed Tuesday and Wednesday with companies in Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and Ohio call for a 15-cent increase in the hourly royalty, boosting it to 35 cents on every ton of coal produced, and a 50-cent-a-day wage increase which gives the miner a basic daily wage of $15.

The welfare fund finances pensions, disability payments and the like for UMW members. Lewis's demand for a boost in the royalty which operators pay into the fund has been one of the main stumbling blocks any agreement with owners of big mines.

Gallows Set up In Market Place As Warning

Belgrade, Dec. 8 (AP)— Albanian Premier Enver Hoxha has installed a gallows in his capital's main market place as a warning to political opponents, the Yugoslav newspaper Politika reported today. The newspaper said a man was left hanging from the gallows all day in the Tirana market place.

Second Radioactive Pile Or Reactor at Chalk River Recommended by Committee

Ottawa, Dec. 8 (CP)— Construction of a second radioactive pile or reactor at the Chalk River, Ont., atomic project was recommended today by the Commons committee on atomic energy, its final report was tabled in the Commons.

The projects present reactor is based on the heavy water principle and is unique in the atomic world.

The report, tabled by George McIlraith, parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe, recommended the "expansion and development of the (Chalk River) project as required from time to time and further recommends that the government authorize the expansion of the present facilities by the construction of an additional reactor and such additional equipment as may be required."

It also recommended:

1. The atomic control board be encouraged in the policy of dissolving aid and assistance to universities and students in the study of wh- nuclear physics and the beneficial uses of radioactive material.

2. Further encouragement for the important research being done in the fields of medicine and agriculture.

3. Free distribution of certain radioisotopes — radioactive sources which are to approve industrial concerns for another year. There should be further conferences with industry on use of isotopes.

4. The closest liaison should be mainted between scientists in Canada "and all other friendly nations."

5. A similar committee—this one as set off and on for six weeks —should be established at the next session.

The committee, 14 strong, reported the Chalk River project "is and efficiently run" —they visited it for two days— "and that the Canadian activity is in the forefront of atomic research."

But for Canada to continue in the forefront, "it will be necessary to press forward the work with vigor."

P.M. Proposes General Dominion-Provincial Parley in September

Ottawa, Dec. 8—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent has proposed that the general Dominion-provincial conference be held next September or October, to discuss general questions of common concern.

The conference would be in line with the undertaking given to several provinces by the federal government that taxation-agreements between the federal and provincial governments will be reviewed at least a year before they expire March 31 1952.

Mr. St. Laurent disclosed the proposal in a letter to premiers of the 10 provinces respecting the Dominion-provincial conference opening Jan. 16 which will consider itself considering ways of amending the constitution.

Mr. St. Laurent said he felt the question of the terms for the constitutional conference could be discussed more effectively by delegations.

He then turned to a matter which he said the cabinet had discussed recently.

"There are many questions of concern to both the provincial and federal governments in connection with which some discussion would be useful," he said.

"Several questions have been proposed for discussion at various times and there may be others which it would be helpful to consider jointly.

"If it would meet with the ap- proval of the governments of the provinces, I would propose that a general conference should be held early in the autumn of 1950, possibly by September or October, to discuss general questions of common concern to the provincial and federal governments.

"The conference would, among other things, carry out the undertaking which has been given to several provinces that the agreements which entered into tax agreements with the federal government to hold a general conference at least a year prior to the expiration of the agreements March 31, 1952.

"The suggestion for a conference meets with your approval, I shall be glad, after the provincial Premiers, views might be exchanged in the next few months as to the date which it should be placed on the agenda, and problems could then be studied further."

The last Dominion-provincial conference in 1946 broke up in a stalemate over the question of setting general taxation agreements with all provinces.

As a result the federal government negotiated individual agreements with provinces accepting the agreements providing for annual per capita grants in exchange for certain fields of taxation, which went to the federal government. Ontario and Quebec did not sign the agreements.

Bush Pilot Will Fly 400 Miles In Arctic to Rescue 11 Scientists

BY DOUGLAS LIVERSIDGE

Deception Island, Antarctic, Dec. 8 — (Reuters) — A veteran Canadian bush pilot yesterday helped assemble the Norseman amphibian which he will fly 400 miles south into the Antarctic ice wastes on a bid to rescue 11 marooned British scientists from Stonington Island.

He is Captain Vivian Fuchs Sil Louis, on 18 months' leave from the R.C.A.F. He brings to this job a wealth of experience flying for over ginery Canadian wastes and mountains. Fuchs is the leader of the expedition which has been ordered to evacuate the base because of the approaching winter.

The sight of the plane — minus wings — being towed towards the beach by tractors, with the help of the crew, it was the culmination of days of hard work directed by Mr. Blicoe's crew, unpacking the crates containing the Auster and Norseman planes from the ship's forward deck.

Then came the tedious task of assembling the parts fitting fuselage to floats.

At last the Norseman and Auster are expected in the first week in January. St. Louis says good weather for the rescue flights is essential.

"I cannot fly with instruments because of the few navirational aids on the ground," he said.

equipment. His course usually was over wild, barren lands to the northeast of Lake Athabaska, in bitter winter cold. Knowledge gained in those cold hours will be applied to this rescue — "Operation Jack-Screw."

Monday Mr. Louis saw his Norseman aircraft lowered from the ice relief ship Bluebird in sunset tinged the waters of Whaleback Bay.

SOVIET TRADITION OF CONFESSIONS GIVEN BAD UPSET

Kostov's Denial Takes Prosecutors off Guard

(By The Associated Press)

The Soviet tradition of adjust treason trial confessions has suffered a major upset with the repudiation by a former top Bulgarian Communist of earlier admissions that he intrigued with Yugoslavia's Premier Tito.

In Sofia, Bulgaria's former Communist deputy premier, Traicho Kostov, told a special seven-man court Wednesday that he rejected his earlier confession that he spied for British intelligence, worked for Tito and betrayed the Bulgarian Communist party to his country's pro-Fascist government in 1942.

His denial as he and 10 others went on trial on charges of treason, spying and economic sabotage, stunned Eric Gedye, Hearst-chett, correspondent of the London Daily Express, and Tass, the official Russian news agency.

First Repudiation in Spy History

Burdick's Kostov is the first repudiation in the history of spy trials in the Soviet satellites. He pleaded guilty to 27 counts of criminals "caught judges and prosecutors flat-footed.

Tass in a Sofia dispatch broadcast from Bulgaria said Kostov had "insolently denied the evidence written in his own hand" about dealings with Tito.

The Daily Express report said Kostov's denial "came as a serious political errors by intriguing against the late Bulgarian Premier Georgi Dimitrov, by taking an anti-Soviet line and by allowing enemy agents to infiltrate into Bulgaria's Communist party and government.

The prosecutor began denying some of the major parts of his "confession," the Daily Express reported, the court read in full the original 30-page statement, made during preliminary investigations and written in Kostov's own hand.

After the reading of the Kostov confession, the court received the first guilty plea from a defendant, former Finance Minister Ivan Stefanov, who pleaded all the charges against him. The other nine defendants are former government ministers and key economic officials.

Two 14-Year-Old Boys Face 12 Charges

Toronto, Dec. 8. (CP)— Two 14-year-old boys, who police said went on a crime spree Wednesday following their appearance in juvenile court, were arrested today on 12 charges.

The pair were located by a police constable as they lay shivering in a blanket in an east end lot.

One of the boys comes from London, Ont., the other from Fort William.

Police said the boys still had some of the loot from their breakins when arrested.

TWO ARE SENTENCED TO PENITENTIARY

Toronto, Dec. 8 (CP)—Two men were sentenced to penitentiary terms today in connection with a $541 robbery of Bassel's restaurant here.

William Prouk, 34, was sentenced to three years for robbery and Joseph Cacciavillani was sentenced to six months for receiving, $150. A charge of robbery against Quanneville was withdrawn.

Crown Att. Frank Cradduck testified Quenneville had nothing to do with the robbery. He had met Prouk later and was given $150 which he spent in Montreal.

ROBBED RELIGIOUS BOOK STORE

Halifax, Dec. 8 — (CP) Three juveniles arrested by police admitted that they robbed a religious book store on a midtown street of $61 while one of them pretended to be interested in purchasing a bible. The three were released in custody of their parents after admitting to another theft at the same store last week which netted them $44.75. They will appear later in juvenile court.

Formosa Becomes New Capital Of Nationalists

Islands Chiang's Stronghold; Guerrilla War on Mainland

BY SPENCER MOOSA

Chengtu, Dec. 8 (AP) — The Nationalists today shifted their capital to Formosa and virtually abandoned most of the mother country to the Reds.

The sweeping move was decreed by the cabinet. It could mean the end of large-scale warfare in China after 22 hectic years.

Guerilla forces were left behind to keep peeking at the Reds. But the main Chinese force was in or headed for Sichang, behind Sikang's great mountains, Hainan Island, 300 miles southwest of Hong Kong.

Formosa is Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's stronghold which has been armed and equipped for a last ditch stand against victorious Chinese Communists.

Sichang Headquarters

The emergency cabinet session also decided to make Sichang, in Sikang Province west of Chengtu headquarters for operations on the mainland.

The cabinet accepted the resignation of Premier Chen Cheng from the post of director of southwest China headquarters. Gen. Ku Chu Tung was given this job in addition to his present job as head of the army.

The guerrilla forces to operate under southwest headquarters are scattered.

This would indicate Nationalist operations on the mainland will be resolved into organized guerrilla warfare. Such a step virtually is a confession that admirals they have lost the China mainland. It does not, however, mean they have lost completely the war against the Reds which has been going on since 1927.

The Nationalists evidentially hope they will be able to consolidate their remaining forces and conquer the Communists in the same way as the Reds defeated them.

Premier Yen Hsi-Shan flew immediately to Taipeh, which thus becomes China's fifth capital this year.

Chiang Flies to Hainan Island

(At Taipeh, dispatch received in the San Francisco office of The Associated Press said Yen had arrived there from Chengtu.

(Chiang Kai-Shek was reported by Taipeh radio to have flown to Hong Kong to be flying to Hainan Island, 300 miles southwest of here.

MONEY CARRIER HELD UP AND $2,428 TAKEN

Two Men, One Armed With Revolver, Escape in Stolen Car

Toronto, Dec. 8 — (CP) — Two men, one said to be armed with a revolver, robbed a money messenger of the west-end warehouse of Thomas Lyall Limited today and escaped in a stolen car with $2,428.

Jack Williams, the messenger, told police the two men stepped out of a green car and demanded the money, pointing a revolver at him.

The car was found abandoned and with the engine still running a few blocks away. It was a stolen car.

Police said Williams had just left the firm and was walking east on Dundas when a green car drove up beside him. Police said the men had apparently waited outside the building for the messenger.

The money was being taken to a bank, company officials said.

STROKE OF PEN WILL BAN CRIME COMICS IN CANADA

Signature of Governor-General Only Needed to Make Bill Law

Ottawa, Dec. 8 — (CP) — By the stroke of a pen, Viscount Alexander, Governor , General, this week will do the last thing needed to ban crime comics in Canada.

Royal assent is the only step that remains before the comics are cleared off the newsstands under penalties imposed in a new measure sponsored jointly by parliament's government and opposition.

The last parliamentary hurdle was cleared Wednesday when the bill got through the Senate after a stiff fight following unanimous approval by the Commons.

Sponsored originally by K. D. Pulton (PC-Kenloops), it won unanimous support in the Commons and on the floor of the Chamber. The Senate debated it four hours before passage.

Seven Believed Killed, Plane Crashes in Calif.

Oakland, Calif., Dec. 8 — (AP) —Wreckage of a missing commercial airliner with seven aboard was sighted today from the air near Pacheco, south of Martinez, in Contra County, authorities announced.

It was not immediately determined whether there were any survivors.

Ground rescue crews were rushing to the area.

The plane from Burbank, disappeared Wednesday in a heavy rainstorm shortly after it took off from Oakland for Sacramento.

The chartered plane operated by the California Arrow Airlines, carried a crew of three and four passengers.

The air-sea rescue unit at Hamilton Air Force base in San Rafael said ranchers in Franklin Canyon reported seeing flares and a low flying plane. The ranchers also heard a crash, the rescue unit said.

HARRY COULTER HUNGERFORD REEVE

Filling the vacancy caused by the death of the late ex-reeve Charles Rush, Hungerford Township, Deputy-Reeve Harry Coulter, took over the Hungerford reeve's chair in county council yesterday.

John McGrath, a veteran township councillor, was named deputy reeve and as such took his seat in Shire Hall yesterday.

He was formally welcomed by Warden S. A. McCarvey, and was given a four-fold reception by his county council colleagues.

KILTIES BAND MADE WORLD TOUR 40 YEARS AGO

Just forty years ago, the Belleville Kilties Band, a fine concert organization of forty-five players, recruited from the best of our Canadian musicians at that time, toured the world for about twenty-one countries. This carried the name of Belleville to the far corners of the earth and has never been equalled in placing the name of Belleville, Canada, before the peoples of the different countries visited.

OPTIMISTS CLOSING DRAW ON TV SET

During the past few weeks the Optimist Club has been conducting a draw for a Television set and this will become the property of some lucky winner on Saturday night at the McLaren Theatre. The set is being displayed in the rotunda of the theatre and tickets may be obtained up until nine o'clock, when the draw will be made. The money derived from this project will be used to finance the hockey team in the midget league and welfare work undertaken by the Optimists.

COLUMBIAN SQUIRES HOSTS AT DANCE

The Columbian Squires held a most successful dance at St. Michael's Academy on Thursday night. A large number were in attendance. The spot dances were won by Jean Fralelgh, Mary Kelly and Tom Reilley. Music was supplied through records.

DAMAGE FROM BLAZE SMALL SAY FIREMEN

An oil burner which failed to operate exactly as the manufacturer intended, caused Tremen a brief run to 49 Wallbridge Road this morning. Firemen stationed in Belleville, Central, said the was small, but that a small hole was burned in the kitchen wall.

Retail Merchants To be Represented By Every Section

In an effort to effect greater representation of all merchants in the Retail Merchant Section of the Chamber of Commerce, directors of the latter body at their last meeting passed a recommendation that a representative from each type of business be included on the executive.

The recommendation was unanimously approved by the board of directors and was brought "in the interest of better representation and co-operation from all merchants," it is suggested that a representative be elected from each type of business in Belleville to act as the representative from that group on the Retail Merchants Executive for 1950."

Previously the executive of the retail merchants had been chosen by popular vote but this method of selection did not always make for complete representation from all types of businesses.

All local retail merchant organizations are invited to appoint a delegate to be their representative on the Retail Merchants Executive of the Chamber of Commerce for 1950.

The above selection of executives for the retail merchants division is not associated with the selection of directors of the Chamber of Commerce which is now underway.

Pioneer Fathers of County Look Down on Deliberations Of Present County Council

In the quiet dignity of Shire Hall, meeting for the first time in a century of the government of Hastings County, full-bearded pioneer fathers of the county look down from massive gold-tinted frames.

Such famous county legislators as Billa Flint, Samuel Wilmot, Nathaniel Appleby, George Benjamin, Thomas Wells and others garbed in the severe black-and-white apparel of their day, have their successors carry on the municipal traditions which they handed down.

Directed Idea

Around the turn of the century, it appears the councils divorced the idea of photographs of the warden and included in their official records, the councils as a whole.

Included is a photograph of the council of 1901, on which is inscribed "Taken by flashlight". It pictures the council of that year at work at their desks in Shire Hall.

The beginning of the beardless but heavy-moustached era is photographically recorded in a picture of the 1913 council when T. H. Thompson was the warden.

Seven years later, flowing moustaches were still in vogue as pictured in the council of 1920 with J. G. Sills in the warden's chair.

Group Pictures Added

Intermittently, since 1920, group pictures of councils have been added, and in the present time the walls of austere Shire Hall are now a periodic photographic record of the county legislative bodies and wardens.

And last but not least, honoring the 100th birthday of county council sitting in Hastings, is the collective photograph of the 1949 council which was hung a few days previous to the current December session.

Warden S. A. McCarvey and his council, received miniatures of the group photograph.

Purchasing the pictorial record of Hastings County legislature, are the pictures of wardens in the county which are hung in the ante-room of Shire Hall.

The idea was brought about last year by County Clerk Eric Denyes. It met with the approval of council, and now there is a photographic record of wardens of the county which is added to every year.

Bit of Humor Injected Into Council Business

A bit of humor was injected into the proceedings of the Hastings County Council yesterday when that body was faced with a resolution forwarded by the Perth County Council to the effect that "beer and whisky bottles along with other junk" should not be expelled from motor cars and trucks travelling the highways and byways of the province.

The Perth body felt that the highway construction being under way, wide shoulders of roads, and the fact that modern construction equipment like automobiles are equipped with rubber tires, that refuse such as above-named is destructive.

Hastings County Council resented such a resolution. In fact a motion was laid down to the effect that the Highway Traffic Act provides for the prevention of such things and as such it was tabled.

But not before a northern reeve was in protest.

"There is something to this resolution," he said, "for since this body came into on it, I would like to know if the bottles, mentioned, are empties or fulls".

Other Business

Council was unanimous in its concurrence of a Simcoe County Council resolution requesting the Ontario government to assume 50 per cent of all costs of Children's Aid Society hospitalization and all other social services.

A resolution of Oxford County Council requesting the government to extend rural mail service to every farmer in the province was tabled by council. It was felt that in cases some people live miles from the nearest neighbor and it would not be considered with good practice to deliver mail to out-of- way individuals.

Police Chief Fined For Over-Parking While at Meeting

Kirkland Lake, Dec. 8. (CP)—Deputy Reeve Jim the hand that feeds them. But a prominent Kirkland president was bitten by that hand, in a sense feeds him.

Chief of Police Reg Pinegar was fined $1 for over-parking on government road.

The hand of the law put the bite on the chief when he left his car parked for an hour and 10 minutes while he attended a meeting.

Chief Pinegar says he deposited his five cents in the parking meter before going to the meeting, but was unable to get out to re-rent his parking space.

"Very efficient police force we have here," was the chief's only comment.

Obituary

LATE WILLIAM A. McCOLL (Wooler)

Frankford, Dec. 8. (Special)—The funeral of William Allister McColl was held on Tuesday afternoon from his late residence at Wooler to the Wooler United Church where service was conducted by the Rev. William Fletcher.

Interment took place at the McPhail Cemetery. The bearers were Noble Creaky, Meredith Haggerty ,Roy Putman, Harry Ewing, Alymer Dorland and Neil Nelson.

The funeral was under the auspices of Frank Lodge No. 127 A.F. & A.M. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

LATE MRS. MARY ANN MOON (Frankford District)

Frankford, Dec. 8 (Special)—The funeral of Mrs. Mary Ann Moon was held Tuesday afternoon from the residence of her son, Mr. Frank Moon, near Frankford, to Scott's United Church where service was conducted by the Rev. C. W. Neelands and the Rev. S. Hill.

Interment took place at Frankford Cemetery. The bearers were Morley Cole, Clarence Moore, Bob Coulter, Fred Palmer, Alton Hall and Harold Foot.

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful.

JAMES R. JENKINS

Picton—Prominent resident of the town, James Richard Jenkins died suddenly while shovelling snow on the sidewalk in front of his home, Main Street West. He was in his 72nd year, and a year ago he had suffered a heart attack but had recovered and had been active. He was survived by his son-in-law, Russell Gardiner, in the operation of Neighborhood Grocery. In earlier life he engaged in the canning business and for several years operated Cressy Canning Co. Later, he managed the plant for Gilbert Bros. Ltd. He was a member of the United Church and of the Oddfellows' Lodge.

Survivors are his wife, formerly Eva Vandervoort, two sons, Morris of Bloomfield, Wilbur of Kingston, three daughters, Mrs. Charles Jeffrey of Cobourg, Mrs. R. Gardiner, Picton, and Lela of New Liskeard.

The funeral is being held at Cherry Valley United Church, Friday afternoon with interment in Cherry Valley Cemetery.

JOHN W. DEVOLIN (Madoc.)

Madoc. (Special.)—John N. Devolin, resident of Madoc for many years, died at his home early on Thursday evening. The funeral announcement and details will be given in Friday's edition.

PICTON

Inquest Ordered Into Death of Wellington Man

Picton — An inquest has been ordered into the death of Wilfred (Pat) Smith of Wellington, whose lifeless body was discovered yesterday lying on the floor of his garage. The motor of the car was still running and he had been dead several hours, Belief, is expressed by neighbors that he suffered a heart attack after returning from Belleville where he had taken his daughter, a nurses' aid, to the County Hospital.

Acting Crown Attorney Lance Nethery, K.C., and coroner Dr. R. A. Thompson have not yet set the date of the inquest.

Mr. Smith was born 51 years ago at Wellington. He was employed at the former air station at Mountain View. He is survived by his wife, a family of ten children, and by his mother, Mrs. Lot Smith.

'Miss Canada' Guest Artist At Cheese Makers Banquet Held at Tobe's Gardens

Indicating beyond all shadow of doubt the reason why she was awarded first spot on the talent division of the Miss America contest at Atlantic City last summer, Miss Margaret Lynn Munn, Miss Canada of 1949, thrilled approximately 375 persons at the Tobe County Gardens, Wednesday evening.

As guest artist at the annual Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association banquet, Miss Munn sang numbers ranging from "Kiss Me Again" to "Danny Boy" and appropriately with the season "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas".

The lovely "Miss Canada" was the target of all eyes as she gracefully walked onto the stage to fulfill her vocal engagement. Dressed in a floor length green evening gown, Miss Munn proved she was just as much at home in the role of the accomplished artist as in a bathing suit. And with her charm and beauty qualities as she sang her various numbers indicated she will go far in her chosen career of vocalist.

Climax of Convention

The banquet itself was the climax of the two day cheese convention held in the Quinte Empire Dairy Show which had been held in the city this week. Attending the function were cheese makers and their wives, members, and officials guests and members of county council and others.

Chairman for the evening was none other than Wallace Havelock Robb, the famous farmer-poet from Abbey Dawn east of Kingston. Mr. Robb delighted his audience with reminiscences of early life in Belleville and kept the proceedings alive at a rapid pace. The cheese makers' old friend, Duncan Cowan, Toronto, was also on hand in his accordion to lead in community singing and get the proceedings underway.

Speaks on Conservation

Guest speaker of the evening was Fletcher Thomas, M.L.A. for Lincoln, who spoke briefly on the house committee on conservation. Mr. Thomas was introduced by Dr. J. Russell Scott of this city.

Mr. Thomas spoke of the tour which his committee made through the province last summer when 30 representatives from various districts proved that the people of the province were aware of the need of conservation in this province and therefore were conscious," he said, "that the future depended on what action was taken from them."

What is known as Old Ontario has been built over the years and on much marginal lands, if we were to go forward or maintain our present population there must be leadership to mould public opinion and favor the policy of conservation. Due to climatic conditions this province did not suffer from extreme erosion and the speaker said Ontario still has time to go at a program of conservation underway.

Operative Policy Needed

Although a program of establishing land uses, of building dams, and reforesting might appear to be a large program, Mr. Thomas pointed out that it may not be so costly. "There were an estimated 8,000 square miles in Old Ontario unsuitable for agriculture," he said. What was needed was a practical, inexpensive and readily operative policy which would include determination of what areas would be in grass and which areas would be left in forest.

In illustration as to what could be done in the way of conservation, Mr. Thomas referred to the Muskegon area in Michigan and also to parts of the Ohio Valley where practical conservation had been brought into effect with successful results.

Preparing Report

Mr. Thomas said that his committee would have a report and recommendations ready for the next session of the legislature. He then hoped to see his committee's recommendations implemented.

"If we are to enjoy what we have enjoyed in the past if our children are to enjoy what we enjoy today then conservation must be some serious consideration," Mr. Thomas stressed.

He urged more sound thinking on the part of the everyday citizen in the considering of the government with problems. "If the people continue to cast more problems to government and solve less themselves then the people will lose initiative," he said, "I or stain individuality people must take an interest in public and political affairs."

Roland Camirand, general inspector of dairy products for the province of Quebec, spoke briefly to the banquet party, complimenting the winners of the dairy show and expressing the compliments of the season.

The inimitable Joe Murphy, the impersonator deluxe, acted as master of ceremonies for the program of entertainment. In addition to his rapid fire jokes, the diminutive Joe imitated practically every well known person in Hollywood and on the radio and this ended up by doing requests. Voice imitations of the late president Roosevelt, Ronald Coleman, Winston Churchill, Amos and Andy and others rolled from his lips with all the naturalness of the real thing.

Splendid Artist

Another artist on the fast moving program was harmonica player Bernie Parker of Toronto, who demonstrated just what can be done in the way of production music with the common mouth organ. Bernie played a diminutive harmonica measuring only one inch in length, another but three inches long and as a finale played a mouth organ with bagpipe effect, a large inflated toy balloon being added both for appearance and musical effects. Glen Tamblyn, young Belleville pianist, acted as accompanist for the three Toronto artists.

Winners of the Ontario cheese, drawn for by Chairman Wallace Havelock Robb was W. M. Moffatt, 272 William Street, Belleville.

REMANDED TO PAY FINE

Brantford, Dec. 8 (CP)—Herbert Hill of the Six Nations reservation, two police said, had a specially built box which would hold 12 to 13 cases of beer under the hay in the barn, Wednesday was remanded until the end of December to pay a fine of $75 and costs. His counsel in Hill's absence pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing intoxicants contrary to the Indian Act. Hill was working in Ingersoll, his counsel said, and was unable to appear for the trial.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Dec. 8. (CP)— Industrials recovered early declines to resume Wednesday's slow advance on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Activity was considerably slower than previous sessions this week as all groups except industrials weakened.

Volume for the first three hours was 633,000 shares.

C.P.R. was strong, gaining 1-4 at 17 1-4 and International Paper climbed 1-4 to a new high at 74 3-4 in papers, Hiram Walker's and Distillers Seagram were at new highs in liquors.

Base metals slipped from Wednesday's strong advances. Steep Rock iron mines moved under pressure of profit taking in early dealings and began to resume its climb in mid-session. International Nickel, Quemont and Consolidated Smelters were down fractions.

Junior gold producers showed losses ranging up to five cents. Queenston and Roybar continued brisk for slight declines, Dome Mines was strong in seniors, adding 1-4 at 17 3-4.

HOGS

Toronto, Dec. 8—(CP)—Straight hog prices were unchanged this morning at $29 at trucks.

The three were released in custody of their parents after admitting to another theft at the same store last week which netted them $44.78. They will appear later in juvenile court.

Gordon Davies New President Of Skating Club

Mr. Gordon Davies, for many years a club member and well-known locally as a figure skater, has been named president of the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club for 1950.

To inaugurate winter skating season a new board of directors has been named for the club with Wilbur Fox having taken over the treasury, assisted by Dr. Alf Wilkes in the secretarial chair.

The board is composed of Bob Miles in charge of building and grounds; T. Black, tennis; Clare Ridley, figure skating; S. Robb, finance; Jack Dickens, publicity and membership; Miss L. Sprackett, O. Hales, Mr. Bresch, George Wishart, Les Digby, Court Miller and Miss Betty McNally as other board members.

The Quinte Skating and Tennis Club is strong on community effort and is doing considerable in providing clean recreation for residents of the city. The club is striving to further the art of figure skating in winter along with the building of better recreational facilities in the summer through the medium of tennis.

All members are looking forward to a banner season of figure skating this winter.

Oil Reserves May be Greatly Increased by '50

Toronto, Dec. 8 — (CP) — Canada's oil reserves will probably have increased to 2,000,000,000 barrels by the spring of 1951, Dr. O. B. Hopkins, vice-president of Imperial Oil, Ltd., said today in an address to the Empire Club.

When definite plans were made early this year for a pipeline from Edmonton to the head of the Great Lakes, Alberta reserves were estimated at 1,000,000,000 barrels, an amount sufficient to supply the line at its initial rate for about 23 years.

Since that time, other discoveries have been made, and reserves will likely have doubled by the time the pipeline is completed.

To assist in the movement of the crude from the lakehead at Superior, Wis., to the refinery at Sarnia, Ont., two lake tankers—almost twice the size of the largest now plying the Great Lakes—will be built at a total cost of about $8,000,000. Each will be able to carry more than 4,000,000 gallons of oil on each voyage and more than 5,000,000 barrels during a seven-months navigation season.

WOMAN KILLED BY TRUCK

Toronto, Dec. 8 (CP)—An unidentified woman was killed today when hit by a truck at the intersection of Bloor Street and Dufferin Avenue.

Police and doctors struggled for more than 15 minutes to remove the woman's badly-broken body from beneath the truck.

I wish to express my thanks to my supporters and especially to those who so faithfully worked for me during the civic election for Alderman.

Empire Dairy Show May be Taken From City

Possibility of the British Empire Dairy Show being taken to some other centre where more suitable accommodation is available for showing of the cheese was expressed here this week by J. L. Irwin, honorary-president of the cheese makers association.

The suggestion that some other people be sought for the show was expressed at the concluding session of the association convention which was held in the city on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Many speakers heard during the various sessions of the convention referred to the apparent lack of public interest in the cheese show with only members directly associated with the exhibition attending the show.

One speaker went as far as to say that something should be attempted to bolster attendance at the show and in this way show the public what fine cheese are being made in Canada. He suggested that attendance prizes or some other publicity stunt be used to attract people to the show.

The cheese show this year was held at the Orange Hall on upper Church Street, this being the only available place for the show. A more central location was desirable.

Mr. Irwin stated it was a shame that there was apparently no suitable place in the city where the annual cheese show could be held and hinted the possibility there would be no cheese show in Belleville next year unless suitable accommodation was secured.

FOUND DEAD IN CARRIAGE

Wallaceburg, Dec. 8 — (CP)— Harvey Richard, 3½-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ciron, was found dead today in his baby carriage. The baby had been suffering from a cold. Unable to obtain a doctor, the Cirons called the fire department. This lifesaving truck was taken out by Fire Chief Frank Hearn but the baby was beyond aid.

Three Questions Discussed by Farm Forum

The Foxboro Farm Forum met on Monday evening at the home of Mr. Ronald Longwell with 21 members present. Mr. Bernard Mitts was discussion leader. Three groups were formed to discuss the topic, "As Others See Us". The questions were "How could your particular farm community be made a better place to live", and "What can your Forum do to bring about these changes".

Many thought that a telephone system would be a help to the community and that we could as a group send in a petition to the Department of Municipal Affairs.

More home conveniences such as bathrooms and running water was a suggestion to which all the ladies of the group agreed. A credit union would be formed where people could borrow money for home improvements at a low rate of interest.

More regular church attendance was another suggestion and all thought they could help by going themselves and by taking others with them.

A community recreation centre also a library run in conjunction with it would be a big improvement and that the forum could be one of the groups backing it. Mr. Gordon Priest was present with information on the subject and a lengthy discussion was held. It was decided to have a joint meeting on December 16, of the committees appointed by all the district organizations interested as well as two members of the township Council. Mr. Ronald Longwell moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Priest for gathering this information and presenting it to us.

The lesson assisted by Mrs. F. Campbell and Mrs. V. Harry served refreshments.

The next meeting on December 12, will be held at the home of Mr. R. Goslin.

TWO ARE SENTENCED TO PENITENTIARY

Toronto, Dec. 8 (CP)—Two men were sentenced to penitentiary today for their parts in the $541 robbery of Ssaak's restaurant six days ago.

William Prook, 34, was sentenced to three years for robbery and Joseph Quenneville was sentenced to six months for receiving, $150. A charge of robbery against Quenneville was withdrawn.

Det.-Sgt. Frank Craddock testified Quenneville had nothing to do with the robbery. He had met Prouk later and was given $150 which he spent in Montreal.

THANK YOU, MR. VOTER . . .

For your marked interest in the recent Civic Election, with the result that you have elected a council, seven capable men worthy of your support. LET US CONTINUE THAT SUPPORT.

Sincerely, DENIS L. SWAN.

MANY THANKS . . .

To all those who voted for me and to those who sponsored and seconded me. I will return to try again.

There oughta be a law!

When you pick up a copy of a newspaper you restate your belief in fair play. You express your willingness to let the other fellow get a hearing for his opinion. For opinion is as much a part of the newspaper as fact. Not just the editor's opinion but the opinions of business men and labor leaders, farmers and housewives, public officials and candidates for office—| everyone whose opinions make news.

Some men and women think you should not have this freedom. They believe you should read only one set of opinions—theirs. They think there should be a law limiting what a newspaper can print.

Those whose freedom these self-constituted leaders are aiming to limit are not so much the editors and publishers of newspapers as the readers. They claim that newspapers have too much freedom but what they mean is that you are too free. They don't talk about thought control but that is what they have in mind. They don't trust you with the knowledge of what is going on in the world —even what is happening in your own government.

They know that if they can control what you read, they can control what you know. And when they control what you know, they can control your mind. Under the claim of knowing what is good for you, they want to take over your thinking. Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin used the same technique.

Of course, the newspaper isn't your only source of information. But if the attack on the newspaper is successful, you can be sure that the magazines and books and the radio won't be overlooked. The newspaper happens to be the first target because it is the main source of your information regarding the events and trends about which these men and women want to keep you in ignorance. Once the newspaper is muzzled, the others will be easy.

If you think your right to know isn't in danger, take the time to read the proposals that are being offered. Apply these recommended press regulations to this newspaper and to the other publications you read including the ones published by your lodge or union or church.

You may agree that you should get less information than you now get and that some super-commission should decide what you should read. But if you don't agree—if you want to protect your right and that of the members of your lodge and union and church to read freely—you will not be taken in by the high sounding resolutions and other adroit devices now being used as the first step towards control. You will refuse to give them your support. You will speak out against them and against those who ask you to help put public knowledge and public opinion in chains.

Your right to know is the key to all your liberties

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

YULETIDE'S APPEAL

Yuletide is approaching at a rate which accelerates as the days pass. The season is one with many attractions and many duties to perform and services to render so that the rapidity with which time passes in December can easily be understood.

Already the signs are to be seen which impress especially adults with the fact that Christmastide is very close and that into the next weeks must be packed an unusual amount of preparations for the great festival.

The stress which the postal authorities are laying on the early purchase and posting of letters, cards and parcels, is doing a good work which if heeded the many duties of the season over several weeks. When people find that they must mail their cards and letters and parcels early they cannot easily forget that there are other preparations for Christmas which really must be spread over the intervening days between now and the great mid-winter festival to the greatest satisfaction.

The best preparation is to approach the coming season of Yuletide by easy stages and not with a rush which makes it become a burden.

Yet with all the planning there is the certainty of much work to be done and much that will be accomplished only in the late stages of the pre-holiday season, for there is always more to be done than can possibly be done in less time than between now and the annual festivities.

VIRTUE OF SAVING POWER

Shortage of water in New York City must be harrassing to the people and the authorities to know what to do under the circumstances. Water is one of the most plentiful assets of a country and yet conditions may arise as in New York where there is real shortage. The city has had to make an appeal to restaurants and hotels not to serve water with meals unless it is requested by the person being served.

Speaking of the situation the New York Times notes that with these facts "the full import of the emergency should be brought home to Mr. and Mrs. New York. It is difficult to estimate how much water actually will be saved in this way, but it is reasonable to suppose that hotel customers will leave their tables fully realizing that the conservation of every drop of water in New York is not 'every man's job'."

This step is hoped to reduce the domestic water consumption per capita from a normal 75 gallons daily to fifty gallons daily. Hotels have been asking co-operation of their guests to save water and the West Side Hotel Association states that through this effort there has been saved 25 per cent in the consumption of water.

The times points out that "we still have plenty for all our needs. And such saving may avoid restrictions and even hardship."

People enjoying modern services are inclined to overlook how much is wasted. Familiarity with water and the ease with which it can be drawn from a tap or pan tend to make modern man careless. There can be great waste in just this carelessness in any community that serves its people with this service. Familiarity with the electric light and the ease with which it can be turned on or off makes it so easy to waste.

AVOID OVER-EXERTION

Snowstorms bring burdens and the latest fall of snow has brought to the public a warning of caution in the matter of snow shovelling. Two of the five deaths attributed to the storm which swept over Southern Ontario on Wednesday were laid to heart failure from unusual effort or over-exertion bringing on a thrombosis. And there's hanger in people rushing out in the growing elderly to avoid undue exertion with the shovel or in trudging through banks of snow. Both are exhausting and lay a heavy burden upon the heart and blood vessels. The zone of exercise is very exhausting to a person not accustomed to heavy exercise and may have serious results.

Humility is the first lesson we learn from reflection, and self-distrust the first proof we give of having obtained a knowledge of ourselves. — Zimmermann.

JUST FOLKS

FLOOR SHOW

You may have your floor
shining
Where the lights are shining brightly
And the ceremony master says:
"Let's give the gal a cheer!"
But the floor show I am choosing
Far more wholesome and amazing,
Is the one the children offer
When to watch it I appear.

"Want a show?" they cry in chorus.
"Mother's made the costumes for us."
Soon a cowboy foils the robbers
Who are after hidden gold,

And a little lady dancer
Let me all the way she pretances
And does flip-flops on the carpet
Is most thrilling to behold,

That's a floor show that is greater Than the ones where some spectator,
With a loud voice and bad manners,
Plays the nuisance to the close.

For the home place is servicer
And the songs and acts are cleaner,
Which is why I'm sure the children
Give the merriest of shows.

OFF THE RECORD

"Football season is over, Mr. Zubrosky!"

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEAR!

LOOKING BACKWARDS

20 YEARS AGO

Dec. 8th., 1929

A new directory of this city is being prepared; a canvass of the city is now in progress.

The appointment of a new chief of the fire department has not yet been announced, the matter has been discussed in committee, but not in council.

Mr. Arthur McGie, who has been in the tailoring business here for 37 years has retired to private life.

Open skating rinks for the children will be arranged for in various parts of the city this winter and will be under the supervision of the chairman of public works and the city engineer.

Belleville Market Prices: Dairy Butter 53 cents to 60 cts for a two pound roll; eggs 65 cents per dozen; geese $2.50 to $3.00 each; ducks $1.35 to $1.50 and chickens $1.50 to $2.00 per pair; potatoes $1.00 per bag.

30 YEARS AGO

Dec. 8th., 1919

The original partnership existing between G. D. Grattan and C. J. Lewis of the Quinte Battery service station has been dissolved and a new partnership has been formed which is composed of C. N. Hilton, G. L. Green, G. D. Gratton and C. J. Lewis, all of Belleville.

The meeting of the Musicians' Local No. 271 the following officers were elected: President, W. Aselstine; Vice President, W. H. Hart; Recording Secretary, Charles Hanna; Financial Secretary, H. Deshane; Marshal, C. Hanley; Sergt.-at-Arms, G. Dobbs; Executive Committee—B. Bialnd, F. Sills, M. Young, W. Hart, E. R. Hinsley, W. Aselstine and Charles Hanna; Auditors, L. Walmsley, A. Weaver and D. Sword.

40 YEARS AGO

Dec. 8th., 1909

At the regular meeting of Oxford Lodge Sons of England the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Thomas Weymark; President, R. G. H. Barlow; Vice President, T. W. Bainbidge; Secretary, John Fenn; Treasurer John W. Longdon; Chaplain, A. Lennox; Committeemen, F. D. Ford, J. S. May, E. J. Follwell and F. A. Langfield; Inside Guard, David Cobb; Outside Guard, James Biggs; Surgeon, Dr. E. O. Platt; Assistant Secretary, Fred Slater; Grand Lodge Delegate, James Biggs, P.P.

It is whispered that there are a couple of "dark horses" in line for the Belleville Intermediate hockey team this season. It is a sure thing that one of them will be Jim Indian from Deseronto, who is said to be a regular Longboat on skates. Then we will have the dashing Charlie Bedboro, who cut such a wide swath on the Picton team last season. When Charlie loosens up for a run he hits always for something ringing. In goal will be Spangenberg from Trenton who is said to cover the town clock. Pepper of course, will be at point, and Burke or Irving standing guard on edge this season. The Belleville Intermediates will be hard to keep up with and harder to stop this season.

50 YEARS AGO

The members of the Hastings County Council are now erecting millia illi— morning and were much interested in what they saw.

The Berean Bible Study Club in connection with the local Y.M.C.A. was re-organized at a meeting of sixteen young men last evening and the following officers were elected: President, W. W. Chown; Vice President, A. I. Foster; Secretary, M. Gordon; Treasurer, George Hall; Convener of Visiting Committee, J. R. Craig; Musical Director, W. Garnett.

Mr. W. A. Carson of Picton, was in town today.

Mr. William Cross, barrister, Madoc, was in town today.

Mackenzie's Column:

Despite Progress Dark Practices, Beliefs Persist

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

We pride ourselves mightily on our 20th century civilization, until along comes some development to remind us that, while humanity has indeed made fair progress, literally hundreds of millions still are living in the dark ages.

What set me off on this unhappy line of thought was a dispatch from Johannesburg, South Africa, saying that ritual murderers in Basutoland are preserving the British authorities with a difficult problem in African administration.

In Basutoland the bodies of 293 victims of ritual murder have been found by police in the last seven years. And there is no reason to believe that twice as many cases have gone undiscovered. The Gold Coast is another area where this horror still persists.

Cruelty of Sacrifices

These present-day ritual murders in Africa frequently consist of cutting the victim to pieces while he still is alive. The sacrifice is made to ward off evils or bring good fortune, and in that sense are religious.

And of course such practices aren't confined to Africa Voodooism, involving human sacrifice, is found in some isolated parts of the West Indies, and other rites involving the taking of human life are reported still in primitive parts of the Far East.

Much more common than horrors of ritual murder are practices involving the supernatural. For instance, a lot of native witch doctors in the Hindu Sadhus, or spirit doctors, who are found not only in the orient but in the West Indies.

These Sadhus treat disease with incantations. They drive out evil spirits which are plaguing folk, and they invoke the aid against your enemy—for a cash consideration of course. I was told by educated folk that the things are usually work, though you can't prove it by me.

The entire district where I found the Sadhus was reeking with the supernatural. Not only the doctors but every native I talked with was wrapped up in it. Ghosts, evil spirits and good spirits all over the place.

SUCCUMBS TO BURNS SUFFERED IN NORONIO FIRE

Toronto, Dec 8 — (CP) — An 81-day fight for life ended today with the death of Anita Mazar, 49, of Cleveland, who succumbed to burns suffered in the Noronic steamship fire here Sept. 17.

Her death raised to 119 the disaster's casualty total, 116 indentified dead and three persons still unaccounted for.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

In the train the other day, I was looking at one of those color magazines the club cars provide; and there were some reproductions of the paintings of Degas.

Degas died in 1918 and can hardly be called a modern, in the absolute sense. But as an intellectual to another, I must confess to you that these ballet dancers of Degas leave me as coldly uninterested as the conventional prisms that stand for modern art, labelled "Drunk Descending a Staircase" or "Strawberries" in our best art galleries.

As I sat sternly staring at the Degas pictures, waiting for my poor old brain to wake up and respond to them, the winter sunlight flashed in the window; and I promptly shut my eyes.

I was still squinting when the train's movement cut off the bright glare. And by golly, the Degas pictures suddenly sprang to life.

I kept right on squinting. The more I squinted the better the Degas' looked. They were interesting, if not beautiful. They had meaning, even if they were a little ugly. The figures that had appeared amidst gaudiness real, the backgrounds that had no meaning to the wide-open eye began to have beauty, form. One ballet dancer actually appeared to float in the air, when I squinted almost completely.

Maybe the trouble those of us with good eye-sight have with modern art is that we look too clearly. Maybe we stand too close. Possibly Degas was short-sighted and properly to appreciate his art, we've got to squint. Doubtless by looking other-eyed at the really modern paintings, we will be able to see in them twice as much as we saw before. At all events, art appears to be growing farther and farther away from ordinary, everyday people. You have to become, as it were, a member of a party to understand it. It now has the party "line".

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

TRY IT FOR A CHANGE

Many people go through life never saying "No" to themselves or any occasion. They want that they want to eat. They drink when they want to drink. They do not be careful about when, where, or how much. If they feel tired, they quit between meals, they eat the sweetest, most delicious thing they can find at all. They go to bed in the morning and be late to their business, with no conscience disturbed in the least if there is ever a choice between their comfort and the comfort of others, you-know-who comes first in their lives. They have developed the delusion that fit is painful and unpleasant to say "No" to themself. Actually, the opposite is true. For hundreds of years men and women have been living in monastic communities, denying themselves every day and liking it—in fact liking it so much that they have practically lost interest everything to live such a life in the world. Fasting is an extreme example. But in every family it is apparent that the enjoyment of the best the family is the one who sacrifices most for others. Sometimes in the process of weight reduction people after a few weeks of agonizing denial, suddenly find themselves happier, healthier, and in a better frame of mind than they have been before.

Try saying "No" to yourself for a week. You may like it. Millions do like it.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HUMAN ADJUSTMENTS

Hardly a day of our lives runs smoothly or perfectly throughout its length. Some days it is all we can do to keep up with the demands of life. Then there are days when we have nothing to do. They last what we call a long time. Then there is a displaced person is now adjusting himself to her herself, to new conditions, and creeping up on happiness thereby.

Victims as well have to adjust themselves to conditions. We note the victims of the flood. Soon after these two tragic wars. They are not finding it easy to do. Secure homes to be made, and a new life to be lived. Not much is made of this lease on courage taken out. This is the story of human progress.

How many times an unhappy situation is turned into a "blessing in disguise!" There are com-

Lloyd Jackson Hamilton Mayor

Hamilton, Dec. 8, (CP)— Lloyd D. Jackson, 61-year-old head of a large heavy industry in Hamilton's mayor in succession to Mayor Sam Lawrence, who did not seek re-election in Wednesday's voting after holding the chief magistracy for six years.

Returns early today from 202 of 204 polls showed an over-all majority for Mr. Jackson against his three opponents, all veterans of the board of control. They gave Mr. Jackson 7,211 for a total of H. Frame; 4,506 for H. M McIntyre and 3,661 for W. W. Chadwick.

City clerk James F. Berry predicted that the vote would become close to the record of 63 per cent. More than 113,000 eligible voters were registered.

The new mayor has served on the board of education for five years and was also on the board of health this year.

ROBIN LINGERS AROUND

Markham, Dec. 8 — (CP) — A hardy robin of this district seems determined to stay around long enough to be the first one to be seen next year. It has been spotted several times lately by C. Irish of Oshawa and W. Byer of Markham.

WHAT IS EASY TO DIGEST?

One of the tricks of the trade used with conspicuous success by a Penn Yan doctor when I was starving there—a doctor famous for his bedside manner — was simple enough yet I never had the courage to try it. When the doctor responded to a call and examin.-l and prescribed for the patient and assured the anxious relatives with a no less and no more that three gentle taps on the knee or shoulder that "well have her out of this"—implying, of course, that everybody complied with the doctor's orders—she would terminate the visit with these words: "Keep well under the covers, and I'll see you this evening—or in the morning. Now, that was a fine, positive technique. I wonder if it worked and whether the man for it—indeed I called him in consultation—whenever I could and I'll never forget how happily he rescued me from a most embarrassing predicament—but that's another story.

In contrast with the good doctor's masterly handling of the situation I bumbled badly once by inexperience, as I was painfully aware, kept me heavily in debt to the grocer and the butcher for years along all right through my examination of the patient and giving instructions to the relatives, but when it came to taking my hat and leaving the house I should have been fatal to go without a hat) I weakened. I should certainly make my exit with the suggestion "Let me know in the morning (or evening) how you get on." Of course the relatives eagerly accepted—and rightly—the invitation. Not hearing from them next morning or evening I was led to wonder whether the patient had made a prompt recovery and the family thought it a waste of time and money to call me. Or perhaps the patient was so better that another doctor had been called or soon would be. Having stayed away from the house I felt I must just call on the patient again without being expected, could it be? I should be well. I think I have the explanation—this will kill your confidence—who regard this service as a racket to defraud you of coins and stamps? This is how honest, that's all. I tried to treat patients precisely as I'd want to be treated if only the patient. The trouble with that principle was that the limited an intelligent or at least an honest laity. I was just too darned honest.

The association may not be obvious, but I am reminded of all this whenever any one writes or speaks of food or diet that is "easily digestible." If only the dumb layman used this expression or believed the lies that some foods are difficult to digest and other foods are easy to di-

1950 Will Find Hastings Co. Accredited Area for Cattle

Tests of cattle for tuberculosis in Hastings County will be completed within a few days and a general re-test started, Dr. T. Younghusand, senior veterinary, Dominion Department of Agriculture, told Hastings County Council on Thursday.

"This means," he said, "that shortly after the new year, Hastings County will be an accredited area for a period of from three to six years.

Few Reactors

"The percentage of reactors in county cattle was small," Dr. Younghusand said, "of the 3,912 herds comprising 61,878 cattle in the county, only 978 had been found reactive. 183 premises had been visited. Compensation to breeders for reactors amounted to $29,417."

A bill was now in front of parliament, Dr. Younghusand said, which calls for reimbursement to farmers for "tanker" cattle, or those discarded by abattoirs and destroyed. The bill, he said, will be retroactive to 1947.

Test Started In 1947

The test of cattle in Hastings County had been started in August, 1947 and completed this week.

Asked by councillors when the re-test would be completed, Dr. Youngshand said that at the present time, only two men were available for this work, but he hoped to get more during the winter. The test will be completed as soon as possible, he said.

Reeve Tracy Adams, Dungannon, said there was an urgent need for a veterinary surgeon in the north county. He was advised to seek the office of local members of parliament, since it was a provincial matter.

Suggests Postage Rates be Cut To Three Cents

Ottawa, Dec. 8—(CP) — Postmaster General Rinfret made no comment in the Commons today when an opposition member suggested that letter postage rates be reduced from four, to three cents.

The suggestion was made by F. D. Shaw (SC—Red Deer) during study of post office department estimates. He noted that the department was showing a profit again this year and said Mr. Rinfret could "endear" himself to the people of Canada if he would urge Finance Minister Abbott to return postage rates to their pre-war price.

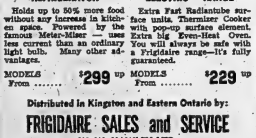
R. R. Knight (CCF—Saskatoon suggested a change in the method of computing rates for food parcels sent from Canada overseas.

Mr. Rinfret said the charge now is 50 cents for food parcels of up to five pounds and $1 for parcels of up to 10 pounds. This was 50 cents cheaper than the rate for ordinary parcels.

Mr. Knight said the charge should be on a pound basis rather than on a five-pound basis. He recently sent a food parcel overseas and because it was a few ounces over five pounds he had to pay the rate for a 10-pound parcel.

Mr. Rinfret said the rates were fixed in accordance with an agreement with the United Kingdom.

FINED ON TWO COUNTS



Toronto, Dec. 8 — (CP) — Herbert William Johnson, 20-year-old sailor of St. Catharines, was fined $23 and costs for careless driving and $10 and costs for failure to obtain a driver's permit.

Johnson said he arrived here Wednesday from Buffalo and invested his savings in a 1938 model car although he had driven only a few times in his life. Two hours later the car was totally wrecked in a collision with a truck.

Pressure Cooker Monarch of Today's Kitchen

One of the most willing servants of the modern homemaker has in her kitchen is the pressure saucepan. It is also a rather demanding monarch, for the cook must recognize all its demands and peculiarities.

Cooking under pressure speeds up cooking time and often allows for cooking several foods at the same time.

It is absolutely necessary to read carefully, all directions given by the manufacturer. Each make of saucepan is different and requires slightly different handling.

The home economist of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, has a few added words of advice to those using a pressure saucepan.

Keep an eye on indicator and see that the pressure is not too high. Some foods are better when the cooker is cooled slowly, others may continue to cook as the cooker cools, thus saving heat.

This is the precision method of cooking—timed to the second. Over-cooking may take but a minute. Never overload the cooker, it should never be more than two-thirds full.

Another word of warning is "never lift the weight or indicator (if the cooker has one) or try to open the saucepan until the pressure is down to zero."

Christmas puddings cook under pressure, in a fraction of the steaming time speeding up preparation time when there are so many things to do.

Tougher meat may be made into delicious stew and pot roasts in less than half the usual time.

Old Fashioned Boiled Dinner
3 lbs. corned beef brisket, rump or blade
1-1-2 cups water
1 bay leaf
2 celery leaves
1-2 medium turnip, diced
6 large carrots, halved lengthwise
2 medium onions, halved
3 medium potatoes, quartered
1 small cabbage, cut into sections
1-2 teaspoon pepper

Cover meat with cold water, bring to boiling point and simmer 3-4 minutes, then discard water. Place meat on rack in pressure saucepan, add 1 1-2 cups water, bay leaf and celery leaves. Place cover on cooker and, cook at 15 lb. pressure for 50 minutes. Cool cooker quickly. Add vegetables and pepper. Close cooker, bring to 15 lb. pressure and cook for 5 minutes. Serve meat on a platter, surrounded by vegetables. Thicken gravy and serve separately. Yield: six servings.

Steamed Whole Wheat Pudding
1-4 cup shortening
1-4 cup granulated sugar
1 egg
1-4 cup light molasses
1-2 cup milk
1 1-2 cups whole wheat flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1-4 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoon cinnamon
1-4 teaspoon cloves
1-4 teaspoon nutmeg
1-2 cup seedless raisins

Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, then the well-beaten egg. Combine molasses and milk. Mix flour, baking powder, soda, salt and spices and dredge raisins with a small portion of this mixture. Add dry ingredients to the first mixture alternately with the liquid. Lastly add the raisins. Pour into a greased mould filling it about 2-3 full. Place rack in large saucepan, pour in 4 cups water. Place pudding mould on rack. Cover cooker and steam 20 minutes, before putting weight or indicator in place. Cook at 15 pounds pressure for 15 minutes. Yield: six to eight servings.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about Food ... What's Cooking?

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

Scalding is one of the most useful skills in any kitchen.

In England they once made a nobleman of the man who scalded the king's pigs.

To scald a food means to dip it in a hot water bath for a few seconds or minutes, depending on the size of the food treated.

If you have pieces of meat cut for stewing and you cannot use them for several days, scald them in hot water for several minutes and they will not spoil. If you have a large piece of meat which has become sticky on the surface, scalding will remove the unpleasant flavor and aroma.

If you want to peel the skins off tomatoes or almonds, you merely dip them in scalding water and the job becomes simple. Vegetables prepared for home freezers are usually scalded before they are packed.

Leafy vegetables like cabbage can be made pliable enough to handle by first scalding them. When you make stuffed cabbage, leaves must be soft enough to be wrapped around the meat and hold their shape.

Chopped beef with veal or beef with veal and pork give this Magyar dish its savory appeal.

Stuffed Cabbage. Serves 6.

Bring water to a rapid boil in a large kettle. Cut out the core of a medium-size head of cabbage. Separate the largest leaves, and scald by dropping into the boiling water until cabbage is tender enough to handle.

In a saucepan melt 2 tablespoons fat. Add 1-4 cup chopped onion, 1-4 cup chopped green pepper and 1 clove of garlic chopped very fine. Sauté slowly until onions turn yellow. Add to pan 1-2 pound of chopped beef, 1-2 pound chopped veal and 1-4 pound chopped pork. Cook slowly until meat has lost its red color, stirring constantly.

Season meat with 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon chopped oregano, and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Add 1 cup cooked rice and 1-3 cup bread crumbs. Mix thoroughly. Remove from fire.

Place meat into 8 parts. Wrap cabbage leaves around meat in an oblong shape. Use several toothpicks to fasten each piece of stuffed cabbage.

Place in a greased saucepan or Dutch oven. Combine two 8-ounce cans of tomato sauce with 1-2 teaspoon chopped basil and 1-4 cup grated cheese. Pour over cabbage. Bake in a moderate oven 375 degrees for 40 minutes. Remove lid and bake 20-25 minutes more or until slightly brown on top.

Do you want a particular recipe, or have you a cooking problem? Write Mario, care this paper, enclosing a self-addressed stamped, envelope for his reply —Ed.

Tips on Complexion Care

If you have trouble getting your face really clean try using a cleansing meal twice a week. Or there's a new deep-down cleansing cream that does a thorough job, too.

By HELEN FOLLETT

Old as the hills is the practice of using oils on the skin to keep it soft and smooth and to protect it from the elements. As it was found that oil was not convenient to handle, solids in wax-like forms were added to compound a substance that would offer resistance to the fingers. There are, of course, fragrant oils that are used for quick clean-ups but they are not as effective for general toning and beautifying of the complexion as emollients or creams.

Semi-liquid emulsions are the favorite of some women to be used when they want to make a new face for dinner. They can be combined with cosmetic meals in form packs or masks; some beauticians use the combination when treating blackheads.

Thin Cream

A good rule is this; a thin cream for cleansing and for treating sunburn, a heavy one for massaging during that half hour before bed when one attends to one's nightly beauty tasks. The light cosmetic can be used for removing make up. Then the face is washed with warm water and a bland soap, rinsed, dried gently and the massage cream is applied to remain on over night.

The longer a cream remains on, the better and more far-reaching are its results. The flesh seems to love it, lays it up, looks fresh and colorful in the morning.

There are skins that rebel against soap and oily cosmetics as well. One must, under those circumstances, clean the face with a cosmetic meal sprinkled on a moist wash cloth. Or there's a new deep down cleansing cream that might solve the problem.

Certainly, it is wise to "feed one's face." Women who started early in life to use beauty aids are the ones who keep looking youthful.

Fatted calves? Walk tippy-toe

Those poor dears who have a terrific crush on the bathroom scales that seem never to give a favorable report are usually in a state of despair about their bulky legs. They can lash their tortured limbs into foundation garments that subdue curves to a certain extent. They can select frocks that help disguise the over-curves. But, unless skirts come to the ankles, the fatted calves are right there, for everybody to see.

The fatted calves are right there for everyone to see.

Heavyweight yearn to be tall and slender, like the lily. They envy the skinnies. They believe that their sorrows are sent upon them by the hand of fate. They refuse to face the fact that adipose tissue is caused by an overabundance of groceries, or the wrong diets. They can reduce, if they will. But, instead of a will, they seem to have a won't. They won't stop dipping into the bonbon box or nobbing the refrigerator for a snack before going to bed. It is no hardship to delete a pound a week, and that is reducing fast enough. One has but to cut down on fats, sweets and starches.

It sometimes happens that fat is localized. It may be settled above the waistline or below it. The torso may be of normal measurements, legs and thighs over-developed. When that is the case, correction will be found in exercise. A brisk walk every day is what the doctor orders.

Give the fatted calves a fifteen minute workout every day, rain or shine, willy-nilly, never skipping, and they will gradually take on normal lines. It is well worth the effort. Rouse muscles to action and fat cells will go off and die. Make it a habit to walk tippy-toe, especially when going up stairs.

During the exercise period, the candidate for prettier legs must take the correct posture, chest high, tummy held in, head on the level, hands on the hips.

Up on the toes half a dozen times. Go forward, taking short steps, lift on the toes as high as ever you can. There will be a hard muscle pull on the back of the lower portion of the leg. Don't be casual. Make your muscles work.

When fatigued, come down on the heels, let the arms hang at the sides of your body, take half a dozen deep breaths. Now you are to run standing still, kicking up your heels until they touch the buttocks.

It is a good idea to follow along with a cold bath. Stand in the tub, rub the calves of the legs with moistened salt. Rinse it away, clasp the flesh firmly and massage with a rolling and pinching movement, continuing where body remodeling goes on, this form of massage is found effective for causing fat cells to go into a state of dissolution.

Religion-Labor Foundation is Formed in City

A motion by Neville Hepblin and seconded by A. C. Cole founded the Belleville branch of the Religion-Labor Foundation at a meeting at Kiwanis centre here last night.

The aims of the new organization are to promote closer relationship and co-operation between the church and the working class of people.

The foundation with a large following in the United States was only recently introduced in Canada and the Belleville unit has been under consideration only since last spring. The Rev. Frank Harback of Tabernacle United Church and A. C. Cole fathered the movement in this locality since its inception.

While Mr. Harbeck pointed out that the new order was purely in the experimental stage it was his belief that the movement would create greater understanding among the different social sections. His contention was supported by the various labor representatives.

The new movement agreed to have no red and fried policies, that it would be non partisan, non denominational, non sectaries and non political.

Kinnon For Foundation

"One of the reasons the new foundation was instituted" said Mr. Cole "was due to the conviction that organized labor had come to the point where it was so strong and had so much power that it was seeking spiritual guidance in order that it would not misuse that power against the capitalist and industrial who in the past had created so much oppression and difficulty for labor." Mr. Cole hoped that there would be an ultimate brotherhood affiliating labor with religion.

The Rev. C. A. Perkins, president of the Belleville Ministerial Association, felt that organized labor and religion had arrived at the point where they could work together.

First plans of the new foundation are to organize a district get-together of the Religion-Labor Foundation at Belleville in the new year.

A board of officers was elected as executive for the foundation here are: President and chairman Rev. Frank Harbeck; vice-president Ed. Schliverti; secretary Mrs. W. F. McMenemy; treasurer, R. Williams; finance, A. D. Archibald; publicity, A. C. Cole.

Dream Kitchen Established in Fisheries Dept.

Ottawa, Dec. 7 — (CP) — A dream kitchen, done in the "marine motif," with pastel walls and sea-green floor, is the new headquarters of Hazel Freeman of the fisheries department, and she says she is most "glad" to get it.

During her 12 years with the department, Miss Halifax-born cooking-expert has travelled the country, lecturing to women's clubs, service clubs, and demonstrating ways of preparing fish.

But when it came to testing recipes of her own, that had to be done in her Ottawa apartment, or if "on the road", usually after hours in the domestic-science room of the nearest high school.

Now as chief home economist for the department, Miss Freeman has a model kitchen in the west block of the parliament buildings, complete with everything from an egg-beater to a garbage-disposal unit.

The establishment will be part of the new consumers service branch which Fisheries Minister Mayhew announced Tuesday in the house of commons. Object of the branch will be to give demonstrations and lectures on fish cooking, and generally seek to enlarge the use of seafood among all classes of consumers.

Miss Freeman, who is a graduate of Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S., said the kitchen actually will be used more for testing recipes than for demonstration purposes. New and better ways of cooking fish will be devised and fish recipes will be developed for institutional feeding.

Miss Freeman will have other food experts under her direction. The department shortly will advertise for three more home economists, who will be trained by Miss Freeman in the ways of fish, before going into the field to make more housewives seafood conscious.

INTERCOLLEGIATE QUEEN

Club Activities

C.G.I.T.

The regular meeting of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church C.G.I.T. group was held in the Church parlors last Monday evening at 7 o'clock, and opened with the roll call, followed by the reading of the minutes of the last meeting.

The Worship service was under the direction of Irlene MacDonald and Lois Wilson, after which the C.G.I.T. purpose was said by the girls. Business was brought to order by the President, Mary Welp, who reminded the girls again regarding the Vesper service which would be held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church early in the month.

Those who had their material with them worker on their projects, while the others watched.

"Taps" was sung, and the meeting dismissed. Those were present 11 girls and two leaders.

Women's Activities

WEST HUNTINGDON W.M.S.

Mrs. Clayton Wright opened her home for the December meeting of the West Huntingdon United Church W.M.S. and the W.A. The meeting opened in the usual manner. The Scripture reading was given by Mrs. P. Carr with Mrs. A. Wright leading in prayer who also gave "Thoughts for Meditation". The minutes of last meeting were read and approved and business was dealt with. Mrs. C. Wright thanked the W.A. for the card sent to Eleanor and to Mrs. Floyd Shofield, Mrs. G. Ashley and Mrs. C. Wright were appointed to prepare programs for hostess and refreshments for the New Year. The roll call "What Christmas Means to Me" was answered by a goodly number and a few visitors.

Mrs. P. Carr offered her home for the January meeting with Mrs. McCurdy as program convener. The W.A. reported and program items were discussed.

A Christmas poem "The Lament of the Bethlehem Innkeeper", was given by Mrs. T. Emmerson. Mr. Clarke gave the Christmas Story, "The Littlest Angel".

A reading "Christmas Night" by Mrs. McCurdy. Mrs. Grant favored with a solo, "In the Bleak Mid-Winter". Mrs. W. Fitchett gave a story of a Christmas Carol", during which Mr. Clarke played softly "Silent Night" on the piano.

Mrs. Wright thanked all those who helped on the program based on Christmas and also Mrs. C. Wright for opening her home.

Mrs. Fitchett and her helpers served dainty refreshments and the usual half hour was spent in a social get-together.

JUBILEE EVENING AUX.

There was a large attendance at Bridge Street United Church on Tuesday evening for the Christmas meeting of the Jubilee Evening Auxiliary. As well as regular members, many friends and members of C.G.I.T. and Mission Circle were welcome guests, with a bountiful supper being served to all by Mrs. Wilson's group.

Mrs. R. D. Arnott took the chair and conducted the business of the meeting.

A letter from past president, Mrs. Walker Jones, was read. Miss Grace Tucker presented the report of the nominating committee, giving the slate of officers for 1950.

The Christmas program was in charge of Miss Gertrude Lazier's group. It combined a candlelighting service with pageant and carol singing and was much enjoyed.

After reading the Christmas story from Luke 2, an invisible soloist sang very beautifully The Magnificat. Four black gowned members lit their candles at the altar and presented our faith— (1) In Jesus Christ, the Incarnate Son of God; (2) In Jesus Christ, the Revealer of God's love; (3) In Jesus Christ the Saviour; (4) In Jesus Christ, the Risen Lord.

Four short pageants were shown —the Shepherds, the Magi, the Holy Family and the Adoration of the Shepherds and the Wise Men.

While these were being shown favorite carols were sung.

The whole program was carefully planned and well presented.

Women's Institute

Mt. View—On Friday evening, the annual community banquet sponsored by Mt. View Women's Institute, was held in the S.S. rooms of the United Church. The tables were beautifully decorated with bouquets of baby 'mums donated by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Barber.

At eight p.m., over 100 members, families and guests sat down to tables which were laden with all kinds of delectable food. After everyone had partaken of this delicious meal, the Institute president, Mrs. E. Hall, called the gathering to order with a toast proposed to The King and singing of the National Anthem.

A short musical program was then enjoyed. Those participating were—Marilyn Barber, Jean Barber, Sylvia Bagley of Trenton, Island and Janice Joyce, Ila and Elsie Luffman, Yvonne Poste, accompanied by Miss Mary Huff.

Congratulations were extended to Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Hamilton, who were guests and were celebrating their 46th wedding anniversary.

Presentations Made

Mrs. Hall then called upon Mrs. Wilfrid Motley, leader of Girls' Work, who invited the girls who had completed projects in Girls' Club, to the platform, where Miss Irwin, department representative presented the girls with a silver spoon donated by the Institute for each project completed.

The girls receiving these were —Marilyn Barber, Betty Barber, Lois Conklin, Marion Conklin, Berna Anderson and Sylvia Motley. Marion Conklin and Sylvia Motley were also presented with silver baskets for obtaining the most points in the garden club.

Miss Conklin thanked the Institute for their gifts.

Mrs. D. George and Mrs. W. Motley were presented with gifts for their splendid work as leaders of the Girls' Club during the past year.

Mrs. Hall then introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mr. W. J. Musgrove, vocational and guidance leader, of Belleville Collegiate, who gave an interesting talk. During his address Mr. Musgrove said that parents should strive to know their children better, which would help to eliminate a great deal of unhappiness.

Mrs. Ben Anderson moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Musgrove and all those taking part in the program which brought a pleasant community gathering to a close for another year.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

He Was Married Before—Should She be his Second Wife?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a young woman of 23, and have been going with a young man of 28 for four years. We have been engaged for years, but he never talks about marriage and I don't either, of course. He was married before, when he was only 20, and he has two children. His ex-wife is married again. I don't know her or the children, but sometimes when we are talking about his kids I get a funny feeling that he doesn't see them. He supports them, though.

About two months after we started going together, he told me everything about himself, and that he said his first wife never did get along from the time they were first married. We get along wonderfully. He is of a different religious faith than I am, but I don't mind that, for I want to get along with his church.

Do you think I will be happy with him? I want your judgment on it; because I have no family to talk to about this matter.

A. J. M.

Dear A. J. M.:

It would be difficult, if not impossible, for me to make any attempt to predict whether or not you would be happy with this man if you were his wife. However, since you say you have been going with him for four years, and have been engaged to him for two, and that you get along wonderfully, it seems to me you must have had plenty of time to find out whether or not you are congenial and feel that you and he could be happy together.

In any such marriage, where a man has obligations to a former family, it does of course sometimes complicate things for the second wife, particularly in financial matters. But if you realize this and that you will have to share with this other family even though they mean nothing to you, and are prepared to be sensible about it, it should not prove too great a problem.

There are matters, too, that should be taken into consideration when two people of different faiths marry, but here again, if you have decided to accept your husband's church, and are fully satisfied about your decision it may work out all right.

As for the children this man already has, I think you would do well to feel as you evidently do, that he should not be a stranger to them, and I hope you will encourage him to do so. After all, he is their father, no matter what difficulties there were between him and their mother.

I think it is a little strange that your association, and particularly your engagement, has been of such long standing without there being any discussion of marriage, and I wonder why this should be. I think it would be a good idea for you to bring up the subject yourself, as it is hardly fair to you to be kept waiting and wondering.

What Kind of Book do You Want?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Could you tell me where I could get a copy of a matrimonial book. Can you get them in drug stores? If not, please give me the address.

P. A. B.

Dear P. A. B.:

I am sorry but I haven't the faintest idea what you mean by a matrimonial book. Do you mean a book on etiquette that will tell you how to plan a wedding or do you mean a book that discusses the intimate phases of the marital relationship?

I am afraid that unless you give me more information about what you are looking for, I will not be able to help you. Suppose you send me another letter enclosing a stamped, addressed envelope and tell me exactly what it is you have in mind.

Fashion Flashes

DRAMATIC has lend interest when worn by the right wearer, and topping a perfect costume. Very dramatic and full fashioned is a wide, shallow tricorne in long-napped black felt treated to resemble hatter's plush. A close veil in royal blue is drawn over the face.

A NICE FILL-IN for a deep-necked dress or suit is a delicate cobweb necklace of fine metal strands intricately worked and twisted, and mixed with pearls in different sizes coming to a V point.

SLATED for increased popularity is the new envelope bag that looks as new after so many seasons of big pouch and frame bags. Very much-lookled is an afternoon bag, a satin-lined suede envelope that opens flat. The inside purse is attached to an extra pocket and held by a gold chain handle that slips through the side of the bag. A mirror hangs by ribbons from the purse.

DOING THINGS with a well-handled coat of first rate woollen in black or navy is easy. For afternoon wear it becomes beautifully dressed up with a little choker or band of ermine and white glace gloves. Similar touches in brown or in red velvet offer interest too.

A BOON to the theatregoer is the growing acceptance of the beaded light little cap, usually without cut and dried trimming. A close cap of white ostrich swirls into a long side sweep of the feathers that end in brown tips.

NO MATTER the time of year or day, white is always lovely. A charming afternoon dress is of white wool crepe done on soft shirred lines with black velvet insets on the collar and for the cuffs. Dress has stud buttons and links of jet.

GOOD MANNERS

Give Special Thought to Cards For Special Occasions

Be sure, be very sure, to consider most thoughtfully the greeting or message on the Christmas cards you are to send to those friends who are bereaved and in mourning. . . to those who are ill. . . to very old people. . . or to those whose hearts are heavy with a hasty anxiety. If the greeting on your own specially-designed cards is not suitable to these special circumstances, select individual cards that have a message of gentle understanding or write your own warm-hearted message on the blank page of an appropriately-conservative card.

Handwritten Name vs Imprinted Name

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The $64 question of the moment among my friends seems to be . . . Shall we handwrite our signature on our Christmas cards or shall we have our name imprinted on the cards? You have written, I remember, about Christmas cards that we would like to know which way you think most friends prefer, names signed on cards or names imprinted on cards.

Dorothy and Ted

My answer to this question would have to be personal . . . and personally I prefer, vastly prefer, to receive a card signed with the sender's handwriting. I like Christmas cards. . . and the more personal they are, and the friendlier they are, the better I like them. I like simple, warm-hearted Christmas-y Christmas cards better than I like cards that are obviously impressed with their elegance and costliness. Cards with an impersonal greeting and an imprinted name. I like handwritings, and "my heart leaps up when I behold" the sincerely-familiar handwriting of a friend! Immediately the handwritten signature makes the card and the greeting highly and deeply and warmly personal . . . I like a welcome handshake across the years and the miles. Happily, too, I've noticed that when friends sign their names to cards, they seem to be bored . . . with pen already in hand . . . into adding a sentence or two of greeting or message . . . and this "special added attraction" is particularly welcome. Nothing perfunctory or impersonal about such Christmas greeting-cards . . . they are encouraging, heartwarming!

However, for busy people who send out many cards at the so-busy Christmas-time, there are, obviously, pleasant advantages in the "name-printed cards." But one still longs for a word or two of personal greeting hand-written above or under the name . . . even if only the sparkling "Hil Christmas!"

Weddiar Gyoods a Woman's Gloves, a Man's Coat

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) When a woman is a guest at an afternoon church wedding, should she wear white gloves, or dark gloves . . . and while necessarily, but perhaps soft suede gloves of a light-grey or light-beige. (2) It is usually most convenient for all concerned . . . the man himself and the guests in the pew where he will be seated . . . if he removes his top coat in the vestibule or just inside the church.

MARMORA

Marmora. —Mr. and Mrs. Basil Murphy and Mr. Frank Murphy, of Peterborough, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Hegadoren.

Mr. Almond Boyd who has been ill at Madoc, has recovered sufficiently to return to the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Boyd.

Mr. Percy Cooper, who has been employed at Calabogie for some months, is spending a few days at his home here, before moving to Tory Hill.

While visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Chrysler, in Hastings, on Monday evening, Warden G. Chrysler of this village, fell on a slippery surface in the grounds of their home, breaking his left leg above the ankle. He will be confined to his home for some days. Dr. W. J. Donovan is in attendance.

Stores in Marmora will remain open on Wednesdays, December 14 and 21 and each evening from December 15 to Christmas Eve.

SEEK DRIVER IN FATAL ACCIDENT

Cornwall, Dec. 7 — (CP) — Victim of a hit-and-run driver, Marcel Morin, 6, died in hospital here today.

The boy was struck near his home Tuesday night by a car which police said did not stop. Police are seeking the driver of a late model car who they say may be unaware he hit the boy.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Charm and personality

Whatever your beauty assets, whatever your beauty liabilities, be a Woman Alive. Heading the list of total washouts is the woman with the dead-pan face. She has a touch-me-not look. Nobody wants to put their arms around her. Nobody will ever call her a good egg.

Is the word "I" used to a minimum in your conversation?

Sometimes this type is blessed with good looks, has a flair for wearing clothes with elegance and distinction. Maybe that is why she is haughty, gives the impression that she is a bit better than other people. She may have an exquisite complexion, flawless figure, beautifully arranged hair, but she causes no excitement. To smile and be amiable is too great an effort for her. There is a cold glint in her eye. She makes no more stir than a dummy in a shop window.

One doesn't have to be very smart to realize that the kind of beauty that is worth striving for is that which makes for affection and friendliness, that appeals to those who love us and that makes us, in their sight, pleasing to the eye.

There's a trite old saying that beauty comes from within. We know it is true, that perfect features and graceful figures are not the whole story. One must be gracious, have nice manners, be thoughtful and tactful. One should keep to that standard for the peace of one's soul. The nicer you are to others, the better company you are for yourself.

You aren't filled with remorse because you have given vent to unkind words, have hurt somebody's feelings.

Ask yourself a few questions. Have you as many real friends as you should have? Can all your friends be certain that you will not say something to their face that you wouldn't say to their faces?

Are you natural and genuine and not guilty of posing? Do you listen politely when others are speaking, or do you interrupt? That habit is a social error. Do you possess real or approved unconsciousness of self?

Have you a well modulated speaking voice or, if not, are you making efforts to improve it? An attractive voice is a wonderful asset. It appeals strongly to men who, in the last one, hate to hear a woman shrill or shout or cackle.

Have you a pleasing laugh, or do you hoot? This social mistake is confined usually to the teen-agers who seem, these days to fancy that good manners are not particularly important.

Do you eliminate the word "I" from your conversation as much as possible, refraining from talking about your family and your projects, keeping to general subjects? If so you are a good girl, you use your head, and you don't step right to the head of the pulchritude class.

LEAVES HOTEL WITH DOG FAMILY

Windsor, Dec. 7 — (CP)—A Sarnia man booked into a hotel here last week and smuggled his dog into the room. During his stay the dog gave birth to pups. After complaints by other guests a police gave the Sarnia man the alternative of leaving with the dogs or putting them out. He left with his "family."

"WALK UPSTAIRS AND SAVE"

LIBERALS BOYCOTT VOTE IN COLOMBIA

They fake their elections seriously in Colombia. Bullets are frequently mingled with ballots. The campaign leading to the recent national election was one of the roughest. Scores were killed in pre-election violence. But the election itself was comparatively quiet, largely because there was only one party, the other (Liberal party) having decided to boycott the election. Here marines are frisking Columbians in Bogota during one of the upsurges of violence. The voting resulted in the election of Laureano Gomez, candidate of the Conservatives. — Central Press Canadian.

Penitentiaries Place Emphasis On Rehabilitation

Better Treatment Given, Crime Itself Combatted

Ottawa, Dec. 8 (CP)—Canada's penitentiaries are gradually being streamlined with new emphasis placed on rehabilitation of the prisoner, Justice Minister Garson said Wednesday night in the Commons.

Replying to John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre), Mr. Garson said many of the recommendations made in the Archambault report of 1930 have been incorporated in the philosophy of federal penitentiary and prisoner control.

As a result, the prisoner was obtaining better treatment, the penitentiaries were getting a higher class of prison guard and crime itself was being combatted.

Mr. Diefenbaker, speaking during consideration of justice department estimates, said he had received a resolution by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, appealing for greater caution in the release of sex criminals.

Psychopathic Treatment

A copy of this resolution had been forwarded by the I.O.D.E. to Mr. Garson some time ago, Mr. Diefenbaker said.

There had been a suggestion in the Commons during the last few years that skilled psychopathic treatment be given this type of prisoner, so that when he is released there would be less danger that he would commit the crime again.

Mr. Garson said a higher calibre of officer, urged by the Archambault report, now had been increased to $1,980 and $2,460.

Courses in social science and other instruction were being given these officers in a training course established at the R.C.M.P. barracks, at nearby Rockcliffe.

Prisoners were being given the chance to learn a trade while undergoing sentence. However, in these cases it has been found that the degree of skill attained by a prisoner is not as great as those attained by civilians, attending industrial schools.

But the training still has been of great help. About 60 per cent of those taking the course were able to obtain jobs on release. About 1,200 prisoners now were taking these courses.

More reading material was being provided prisoners. About 30,000 volumes of books were available in prison libraries. Records showed a "circulation" circulation of 482,000 books during the last year.

Given Cap Badge Of Father Killed In Dieppe Raid

Toronto, Dec. 8 (CP)—Albert Huston told his brother just before the Dieppe raid: "If you don't see me again Ed, will you be sure my youngster gets this on his first parade?" The Royal Regiment of Canada stood at attention at a parade here and Pte. Albert Huston, Jr., presented with his father's cap badge. His father was killed in the raid.

Markets Available For Only Half of Large Apple Crop

Kentville, N.S., Dec. 8 (CP)—Markets are available for only about half of the Annapolis Valley's apple crop this season, R. J. Leslie, general manager of the Canadian Horticultural Council, told a meeting of the Kentville Rotary Club.

Mr. Leslie said that the Council's estimate of the crop was 4,000,000 barrels, but that only 2,000,000 barrels could be sold.

Nova Scotia apple marketing board said here Wednesday. Speaking at the 36th convention of the N.S. Fruit Growers' Association Mr. Leslie said loss of British markets and increased production in other parts of Canada had reduced market outlets for Annapolis Valley apples to an estimated maximum of 500,000 barrels.

"Shorthorn" Steno Says Sidney Reeve

Reeve Ben Bleecker, Sidney township, is a cattle-breeder as well as the municipal head of his township.

Mixing cattle and county government can prove embarrassing at times, as Reeve Bleecker discovered.

Reading a report in County Council session yesterday, the Sidney reeve was doing well until he came to an item pertaining to a "shorthand reporter".

Shire Hall echoed with laughter as the Sidney reeve quickly thinking of his pet bull said "shorthorn" instead of "shorthand."

TRADE MINISTER ADMITS SHIPMENT MADE TO RUSSIA

Uranium Oxide, Nitrate Sent in May 1943

Ottawa, Dec. 8—(CP) — Trade Minister Howe said today in the Commons that a shipment of Canadian uranium oxide and uranium nitrate went to Russia in May, 1943.

He said in a statement that the value of the shipment was $2,443 and that it was made through normal commercial channels by Eldorado Gold Mines Ltd., a private firm which sold its uranium-producing property to the government in 1944.

He said it was "treated as a normal transaction. Very few people knew then that the tests leading to the atomic bomb were under way and it was considered wise not to call attention to the project by refusing orders for metals.

Again, the policy in 1943 was to give all possible aid to wearing Russia.

He said the Russians asked in the normal way for 500 pounds of black uranium oxide and 500 pounds of uranium nitrate to be used in the prosecution of the war. The cable would be used in production of armaments, the nitrate for medical purposes.

Expropriated In 1944

He said that after Eldorado was expropriated in 1944 the firm of Clarkson, Gordon, Dilworth and Nash was hired to examine the operations of the company. It found no irregularities and assured that no shipments to the United States were being re-exported to Russia.

Mr. Howe said a search of the files of the wartime munitions department and of the Eldorado firm disclosed that on May 6, 1943, the then-private Eldorado firm received a request from an agency in New York for a shipment. The request was passed through another U.S. agency.

The Canadian firm was told the destination was Russia and that it would be used for the prosecution of the war.

Shipment appeared to the government to be an export permit to export and shipment to the U.S. who was advised May 11. At least Eldorado had mentioned that the U.S. government would grant a license for shipment to Russia. The shipments were to be released officially at the Great Falls, Mont., air force base May 25. The payment for Eldorado was deposited in a New York bank.

Mr. Howe said all the documents in the matter were found in order and it was treated as a normal transaction.

Ends Speculation

Mr. Howe's statement climaxed a period of speculation provoked by statements to a United States Congression Committee that three shipments of uranium products went to Russia in 1943, one of them Canadian.

He said in New York Tuesday night he knew of no such Canadian shipment off hand but would check the records. His staff dug up the files.

The Washington statement on the shipments was made by L. J. Russell, an official of the committee. Mr. Russell also said the chief officer of the Canadian company involved was investigated by the committee. He said the committee issued a subpoena for records used in a civil action by the Canadian government against certain persons because of transactions while Eldorado was a private firm.

The U. S. State Department, Russell said, asked that the investigation of the company official be put off insofar as production of the records was concerned "in the interests of the national security of Canada."

The investigation had been put off because of that request and because the individual was in Prince but, Russell said, the probe will be reactivated because "the subject has returned" to the U.S.

Both Mr. Howe and External Affairs Minister Pearson said here they know of no request made by the Canadian government to have a congressional committee not press an inquiry.

SUSPECT FOUL PLAY

Niagara Falls, Ont., Dec. 8 — (CP) — Police said today they suspect foul play or suicide in the death of a man whose torso was found on the bottom of a turbine in the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission plant Wednesday.

Police said the torso was in such an advanced stage of decomposition, indentification will be possible only from the man's clothing.

Number of Licensed Hotels In Britain Closed on Christmas

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Dec. 8—(CP)—It's going to be a lean Christmas for the British landlord.

A number of licensed hotels in Britain, last year gay with yuletide celebrations, will be closed this season.

Proprietors blame the government's Catering Wages Act. This contains the wage regulations and restrictions known in the hotel and tourist trade as the "Factory Whistle" Act.

In intricate detail, the legislation controls the hours of work, leisure, basic pay and overtime rates of employees in what used to be one of Britain's least regulated businesses.

Because of these restrictions, hotel officials say, only hotels near large centres of population will be able to remain open during the Christmas period.

Private hotels and boarding houses will carry on as usual at Christmas, but their future is uncertain. Wage regulations similar to those in effect for licensed hotels are expected soon.

Hotel managers aren't the only ones complaining about restrictions.

Lord Hacking, chairman of the British Travel Association, said in a London Press conference that restrictions on tourists are too strict.

"The government must ease up," he said. "Tourists must be allowed to see the country as they would like to see it, to go as they wish, and to buy goods when they want them."

Lord Hacking complained that government departments and officials are treating overseas visitors to Britain as though they were "crooks".

"Women particularly resent restrictions which prevent them from wearing what they buy while they are here. And if they have to pay purchase tax they can buy cheaper at home."

British purchase taxes range from 33 1-3 to 100 per cent on a wide range of consumer goods.

THOMASBURG

CHRIST CHURCH W.A.

Thomasburg—The annual meeting of Christ Church Woman's Auxiliary was held on Friday evening at the home of the president, Miss Emma Porter, with an average attendance.

Rev. Mr. Wright gave the scripture reading, with correspondence and monthly reports being given by the secretary and treasurer.

The president at this time gave an interesting talk on articles of interest from the November "Living Message". Mr. Wright also gave a short talk emphasizing the importance of Sunday School work.

Interesting and encouraging annual reports were given by the president, secretary and treasurer

Mr. Wright took charge of the election of officers with the following ladies being elected for the coming year.

Honorary president, Mrs. C. Wright; president, Miss Emma Porter; vice president, Mrs. William Morfoo; treasurer, Mrs. Harry Coulter; secretary, Mrs. Clarence Mouck, Dorcas secretary, Mrs. William Sherry.

During the business period, plans were made for the Christmas meeting to be held on Dec 16th.

After Mr. Wright closed the meeting, Mrs. Clarence Mouck served a delicious cup of tea and cookies and a social time was enjoyed.

It was with much sorrow that relatives and friends in this community heard of the sudden death of little Norinne Jones, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jones of Tweed, early Tuesday morning at the Belleville General Hospital where she had been admitted a few hours previously. Mr. and Mrs. Allan Jones of the village are her grandparents and she, along with her parents, were frequent visitors here. Mrs. T. Jones is a great grandmother. Deepest sympathy goes out to the sorrowing parents and relatives.
